Years ago, some scholars hastily gave a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) similar to that issued by the author of this treatise arguing that Jeddah is a valid Miqat, and immediately the Council of Senior Scholars issued a legal opinion to the effect that this claim is worthless and refuted. The opinion came in the following words:

After reviewing the legal proofs and views maintained by experts with regard to the Miqats and discussing all aspects of the topic, the Council has unanimously reached the following conclusion:

1. The fatwa issued concerning the permissibility of considering Jeddah a valid Miqat for pilgrims coming by land, sea or air is worthless, for it has no legal evidence to support it from the Book of Allah, the Sunnah of His Messenger (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him), or the Ijma` (consensus of scholars) of the Salaf (righteous predecessors) of the Muslim Ummah. Furthermore, no remarkable Muslim scholar ever issued a legal opinion that corresponds to the view of the concerning author.

2. It is not permissible for anyone who passes by one of the Miqats or comes parallel to any of them by land, sea or air, to go past it without assuming the state of Ihram as proved by legal evidences and as stated by the scholars - may Allah have mercy upon them - when he intends to perform Hajj or `Umrah.

Fatwa no. 21771

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has examined the fatwa request submitted to His Eminence Grand Mufti by Du`ah (plural of Da`y: caller to Islam) in the pilgrims' building in Jeddah Airport, representative of whom is the office manager/ `Aly ibn Yahya Al-Hakamy. The request was referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars as no. 6962 on 11/11/1421 A.H. Following is a statement of the question:

Workers who work for the pilgrims' luggage transportation office come from the Levant (the region covering Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, and Palestine) to work in the airport and perform Hajj as well. Actually, had not it been for Hajj, they would not have come. However, their work authority allows them to assume Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and go to Makkah only on the 7th of Dhul-Hijjah, bearing in mind that they come at the beginning of Dhul-Qa`dah. Is it obligatory for them to go back to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) to assume Ihram, or does the ruling of the residents of Jeddah apply to them? Please, be informed that some of them intend Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and thus remaining in the state of Ihram for such a long period causes them a lot of hardship.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 99)

Having examined the fatwa request, the Committee gave the following answer: If the workers mentioned above came to Jeddah intending only to work and later it occurred to them to perform Hajj while in Jeddah, they should assume the state of Ihram from the place where they intended Hajj, i.e. Jeddah. However, if they came from their countries with the intention of both work and Hajj, they have to go back to the Miqat which they passed to assume Ihram from. This is based on the Prophet's (peace be upon him) Hadith on Miqats that states: \(And these Mawaqit are for those living at those very places, and also for those who come through those places with the intention of performing Hajj and `Umrah.\)

The first question of Fatwa no. 21783

Q 1: My home is Makkah, but I am now on travel for work. I will be back during the days of Hajj (to perform it), but I want to enter Makkah without being in the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) to be able to have sexual intercourse with my wife (residing there) before Ihram for Hajj. After that, I want to enter into the state of Ihram (for Hajj) directly from my house or after performing Ihram at At-Tan`im for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) then Tahalul (removal of the ritual state for `Umrah) [to enter into the state of Ihram for Hajj]. Is it valid for me to enter Makkah without Ihram by performing Ihram for Hajj from my house, but after having sexual intercourse with my wife first?

A 1: Generally speaking, a person who is coming to Makkah to perform Hajj or `Umrah and will be passing by a Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) should perform Ihram from the Miqat whether from among the residents of Makkah or not.

This is according to the general Hadith of the Prophet (peace be upon him) on Miqats, in which he says: \(And these Miqats are for those living at those very places, and also for those who come through those places with the intention of performing Hajj and `Umrah.\) Therefore, when you want to perform Hajj or `Umrah, you should not pass the Miqat without entering into the state of Ihram. However, you can enter into an `Umrah-Ihram from the Miqat, and after performing `Umrah in Makkah make Tahallul from it, and have sexual intercourse with your wife, then enter into Ihram for Hajj.

The second question of Fatwa no. 15347

Q 2: A man resolved the intention to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) passing by the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of Yalamlam. After he had reached Makkah, he performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). Then he went to Madinah to visit (the grave of the Prophet Muhammad) while he was in the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). On his return from Madinah to complete the rituals of Hajj, he passed by the Miqat of Madinah, washed himself, put on the clothes of Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) which he wore before and travelled to Makkah. This was before the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah). He then made Tawaf and Sa'y once again. What is the Shar`y (Islamically lawful) ruling on this, bearing in mind that he has completed all the rituals?

A 2: Whoever enters into the state of Ihram for Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) passing by a Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), has to perform only one Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). His repetition of Sa'y once upon his arrival in Makkah and then after his visit to Madinah is Islamically unrequested, and there is no sin on him for having done so.

Q: What is the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for entering into the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for the pilgrims and those who perform 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) from Nigeria?

A: Whoever wants to perform Hajj or 'Umrah, should wear Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) at the Miqat by which he actually passes or comes from its direction when travelling by land, by sea or by air, from the five Mawaqit which the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) has specified as follows: Dhu Al-Hulayfah for people coming from Madinah and those who use the same route; Al-Juhfah for people coming from Al-Sham (the Levant) and Egypt and Morocco and those who take the same route; Yalamlam for people coming from Yemen, and those who followed the same route; Qarn-al-Manazil for people coming from Najd and those who used the same route; and Dhat `Irq for people coming from Iraq and those who use the same route. Concerning these specified these Mawaqit the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: \(And these Mawaqit are for those living at those very places, and others who come through those places with the intention of performing Hajj or 'Umrah.\)

Q: What is the ruling on a person who comes to Makkah during the Hajj season and finds a chance to perform Hajj but has not made the intention to perform it from the country he set out from? Is it permissible for this person to perform Hajj in this circumstance?

A: A person who comes to Makkah for work, visiting or similar purposes and then makes the intention to perform Hajj after his arrival in Makkah, is permitted to enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for Hajj from the place where he resolves the intention of performing Hajj, even if his intention is formed while being in Makkah itself. If he makes the intention to perform Hajj when he sets out from his country and then enters Makkah during the months of Hajj, but without starting Ihram for Hajj, he should return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) by which he has passed to enter Ihram for Hajj from that place. If he enters Ihram beyond the Miqat, his Hajj is valid, yet he has to offer Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement) to make up for the missed part of the ritual. The sacrificial animal should be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat should be distributed among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings of Allah be upon the Seal of the Prophets, Muhammad.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the correspondence sent to His Eminence the Chairman of the Committee from His Excellency Minister of Hajj and Endowments with an attached letter from Shaykh `Abdul-Latif Mukhtar President of the Islamic Union Association in Bandung, Indonesia, in which he requests a Fatwa to specify the destination of the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for a group of pilgrims coming from Indonesia. The letter was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 6003 and dated 16/11/1412 A.H. The question reads:

Firstly: In relation to the inquiries coming to us from some Muslim brothers from Indonesia who ask about the destination of the Miqat for a group of pilgrims coming from Indonesia .

Secondly: This subject is still an issue of controversy among Muslims in Indonesia and no final agreement concerning it has been reached yet. It is known that the majority of pilgrims from Indonesia follow the Shafi'i Madhhab. They agreed among themselves that Jeddah or Madinah can be a valid Miqat for them on the grounds that the place of the Miqat by which they pass is not clearly identifiable. However, the Islamic Union Association and its scholars are of the opinion that the place of the Miqat for pilgrims coming from Indonesia by airplane is Qarn al-Manazil. For the pilgrims coming with a ship, the Miqat is Yalamlam. This was indicated as such in the Hadith of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and reinforced by the decisions and recommendations of the Islamic Fiqh Academy of the Conference of the Islamic World in Jeddah .

After studying the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that the Miqat for pilgrims coming from Indonesia is the first Miqat by which they pass or travel parallel to it by land, by sea or by air. This is evidenced by the narration recorded by Al-Bukhari and others on the authority of Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) who said: (The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) specified the place of the Miqat for people coming from Madinah to be Dhul-Hulayfah , for the people of Al-Sham (the Levant) to be Al-Juhfah , for the people of Najd to be Qarn Al-Manazil and for the people of Yemen to be Yalamlam These Mawaqit are for the residents of those very locations and others who come through them with the intention of performing Hajj or `Umrah. For others, who do not pass through these (Mawaqit), their Miqat will be from the place where they set out for the journey. Even the people of Makkah, their Miqat is Makkah itself) .

The third question of Fatwa no. 21294

Q 3: A man who intended to perform Hajj passed the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) in the evening of Dhul-Hijjah 7th and joined us at our group camp in the morning of Dhul-Hijjah 8th, the Day of Tarwiyah, having neither entered nor intended Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). On the Day of Tarwiyah after sunset, he went to Wadi Al-Sayl, the Miqat designated for the people of Al-Ta'if, which is his Miqat, entered Ihram and took off his Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs). Afterward, he came to Mina while in the state of Ihram and attended Fajr (Dawn) Prayer with us. What is the ruling on this? Please give us a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar). May Allah reward you.

A: Anyone who passes the Miqat while intending to perform Hajj without entering Ihram has committed a mistake. Yet nothing is required from the pilgrim in question for having gone back there and entered Ihram, as he did not have the intention to begin the ritual when he passed the Miqat and later he corrected his mistake.

Q: I am a government employee. I am deputized by my work administration in Riyadh to do some work in Jeddah over a period of two-to-four months. On leaving Riyadh to Jeddah I make the intention to perform make `Umrah (the lesser Hajj), without specifying the time to do so, due to my work circumstances...etc.

Our Eminence Shaykh! My question is: Should I enter into the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) before setting out from Jeddah or should I go to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and enter into the state of Ihram there. I noticed that many of my work colleagues enter into the state of Ihram while in Jeddah at the place where we live, and then go to Makkah to perform `Umrah. Therefore, I want Your Eminence to answer this question. May Allah add this to the record of your good deeds!

A : Whoever comes to Jeddah with the intention of performing `Umrah, it is obligatory on him to enter into the state of Ihram at the Miqat by which he passes on his way. It is not permissible for the person to go beyond it without entering into the state of Ihram. No one should enter into the state of Ihram in Jeddah except its residents or the one who pass by it while intending to perform `Umrah or Hajj. If one passed the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) on his way to Jeddah without entering into the state of Ihram due to some work or impediments, he should, if he wanted to enter into the state of Ihram for `Umrah, go back to the Miqat by which he has passed while intending to perform `Umrah and enter into the state of Ihram thereat.

Fatwa no. 14120

Q: During the Ramadan vacation of the year 1410 A.H, my husband and I intended to move from Khamis Mishit to Jeddah to enjoy ourselves and perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). Our plan was to go to Jeddah for a walk and then perform `Umrah. This was our set intention when we left home. In view of this, we headed on Thursday to Jeddah where we stayed for two days, then we entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from Jeddah and then went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah to perform `Umrah. Praise be to Allah who blessed us to perform it, then we returned to Jeddah. I must add that I menstruated while on the way to Jeddah. Then I was purified after staying in Jeddah. We had our walk and then we performed `Umrah.

The question is: Is our `Umrah valid? If it is not valid, how should we consider it and what is required to make it up? If, for example, a Fidyah (ransom) is required but we failed to offer it because of our need to depart, is this permissible? This issue is not clear to us; moreover, we find divergent opinions on what to do and we hope that Your Eminence would give us a beneficial answer. May Allah safeguard you!

A: The `Umrah you performed is valid; yet each of you is required to slaughter a sacrificial animal meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah to be distributed among the poor and the needy there. This is because you passed the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) without entering Ihram, while having intended to perform `Umrah when you were in your home country.

Q: I accompanied one my relatives from Riyadh to the city of Jeddah to re-visit his doctor, and before I left the city of Riyadh, I intended to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) after finishing with the re-examination. While I was staying at one of my relatives in Jeddah I asked him about the way of Al-Sayl to enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from there. My relative who lives in the city of Jeddah advised me to enter Ihram from his home, for he said that it is permissible to enter it from his home in Jeddah. Accordingly, my friend and I entered Ihram from Jeddah. Is the `Umrah that my friend and I performed valid? Please answer us. May Allah benefit you!

A: If the case is as mentioned, you should have entered Ihram from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), which, in your case, is Al-Sayl. You mentioned that you entered Ihram from Jeddah; consequently, you have left out a rite, namely Ihram from the Miqat. Therefore, you have to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah), which is a sacrificial animal meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims)

Q: I traveled from Najd after Ramadan 1373 A.H. to perform Hajj. I was ignorant of the rituals of Hajj, so when I arrived at Mahd ad-Dahab, near Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah, I took a car to Jeddah through `Asfan but I did not enter the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and I did not pass by Makkah. When I arrived at Jeddah, I entered the state of Ihram and performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). Later, I returned to Jeddah till the time of Hajj. I entered Ihram at Jeddah for Hajj. After arriving at Makkah Al-Mukarramah on 7/12/1373 A.H., I passed over Makkah and Mina. I offered Zhuhr (Noon) Prayer on the eighth day of Dhul-Hijjah in Masjid Namirah in `Arafah and I spent the night there. I witnessed the whole Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah) in `Arafah and went along with the people.

Do I have to make Kaffarah (expiation) for passing the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and staying the eighth and the ninth days of Dhul-Hijjah in `Arafah? Please guide me. May Allah reward you with the best!

in Makkah and distributing its meat to the poor in the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah). If you cannot afford to do this, you have to fast ten days. You do not have to offer anything for the additional night you spent in `Arafah in Mina.

The first question of Fatwa no. 14638

Q1: On Monday 27/11/1411 A.H., I went to Jeddah to meet my parents who were coming from Egypt to perform Hajj. I also intended to perform Hajj on behalf of my deceased father-in-law as I have performed obligatory Hajj for myself. Furthermore, I intended to perform Tamattu' Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) because of my long stay at Makkah. I took a bus to Jeddah intending to enter the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) called Yalamlam, the Miqat for the people of Yemen and those coming from the south. I was overcome by sleep and the driver did not stop at the Miqat and I woke up after we had passed it. So, I entered Jeddah without Ihram. I met my parents and accompanied them to Makkah and I stayed for about one week without entering the state of Ihram or performing any of the Hajj rituals. I asked a shaykh in Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) and he said that if I did not enter Ihram until the time of my question, I would have to go back to the Miqat to enter Ihram and no Fidyah (ransom) was due upon me. However, if I had already entered Ihram, I would have to pay Fidyah for not entering Ihram from the appointed Miqat.

Moreover, I asked another shaykh who told me that the religion is easy and not difficult and that I have to leave the outskirts of Makkah and spend the night there, then enter Ihram from any given Miqat, such as Al-Tan'im. I have read in books that Al-Tan'im is only for 'Umrah. Some people told me that I have to do as the people of Makkah do because I stayed in Makkah for more than a week. So I can enter Ihram from my house in Makkah. Accordingly, I entered Ihram on the seventh day of Dhul-Hijjah to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only). Hence, I completed all the rituals required. Do I have to pay Kaffarah (expiation)? Please guide me as some shaykhs said that I must offer Fidyah. May Allah benefit you!

A: You must offer Fidyah for passing the Miqat without Ihram. This is done by slaughtering a sheep and distributing its meat in Makkah to the poor in Al-Haram. If you cannot afford to do this, you have to fast ten days.

Q: I staying in Abha. My wife and I intended to perform Tamattu` Hajj ( `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). Boarding the airplane, we assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) intending `Umrah while over the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). We then arrived in Jeddah to meet my father who was coming from Cairo and he was also in the state of Ihram for `Umrah having intended to perform Tamattu` Hajj. We left our three children with our relatives in Jeddah on Monday, Dhul-Hijjah 4th, and headed for Makkah. After performing `Umrah, we ended the state of Ihram for it and went to Madinah to greet the Prophet (peace be upon him) and then went back to Jeddah on Tuesday Dhul-Hijjah 5th at noon. My father, my wife and I spent Friday Dhul-Hijjah 8th in Jeddah with my children. After Jumu`ah (Friday) Prayer, we assumed Ihram for Hajj from Jeddah and left our children again in Jeddah. We then performed Hajj rituals in succession and each of us slaughtered the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) that was due because of Tamattu`. Does my, my wife's and my father's assuming Ihram from Jeddah for Hajj involve any infringement? Are we liable for anything else? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: Each of you is liable for a Hady for not assuming Ihram from the Miqat of Madinah when returning from there as you intended to perform Hajj while coming back. The Hady is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among its poor inhabitants.

Moreover, it is permissible for someone who is traveling to Madinah to have the intention of visiting Al-Masjid Al-Nabawy (the Prophet's Mosque in Madinah) and offering Salah (Prayer) therein. Greeting the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his two Companions (Abu Bakr and `Umar - may Allah be pleased with them both) should be done concomitantly. In this regard, it is impermissible to intend - by visiting Madinah - to greet the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his two Companions, because the Prophet (peace be upon him) is authentically reported to have said: People are not to travel except to three Masjids \(mosques\): Al-Masjid Al-Haram \(the Sacred Mosque in Makkah\),

(Part No. 10; Page No. 112)

my Masjid \(in Madinah\) and Al-Masjid Al-Aqsa \(the Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem\). ﴿

Fatwa no. 17454

Q: I intended to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) from my residence in Al-Bahah, and I took the bus heading to Makkah. We were about twenty people heading to Makkah with the intention of performing `Umrah, and the rest of the passengers were also about twenty people heading to Jeddah in the same bus. When we arrived at the Masjid located in the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) we asked the driver to stop at the Miqat for making Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), but he continued driving without stopping at the Miqat. Some passengers supported him in his act claiming that they have their families with them and they are heading to Jeddah. We protested and complained that we wanted to perform Ihram and we know that we are not allowed to pass by the Miqat without making Ihram thereat. However, the driver, who was a Pakistani, said: "I have no knowledge about it". Some passengers encouraged him to carry on his journey. We asked the driver to stop at the police station, and this was to place a complaint against him, but he continued driving in the direction of Makkah. It was morning and we passed the Miqat by a long distance. He went on driving until he reached Makkah and took us to Al-Haram (The Sacred mosque in Makkah) where he announced: This is the stop for those who will get off in Makkah and after that the coach will head directly to Jeddah. We called the police and we all, the twenty people heading for `Umrah, got off the bus. While we were discussing the issue with the police, who was also busy in organizing the traffic beside Al-Haram, the driver drove off with the other passengers heading to Jeddah and he got quickly far away from us. thirteen people among us gathered together and hired a bus and went back to the Miqat located at Muharram Valley. We all made Ihram and came back to Makkah to perform `Umrah. Is what we did right? Is our `Umrah complete in this case, or do we have to do anything?

Another question is regarding a colleague who performed Hajj (pilgrimage) last year and a female pilgrim authorized him to slaughter Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) on her behalf, giving him a sum of money for this purpose. However, due to the constraint of his time during pilgrimage he left Makkah and went back to his work without slaughtering the Hady. Some friends advised him that he should slaughter the Hady during his pilgrimage this year; that he would discharge himself from this duty at the very time and place of pilgrimage. My question is: Does he have to do that, or can he slaughter the Hady in the nearest possible time and place in order to fulfill the obligation entrusted to him by this female pilgrim? Please provide us with a correct opinion regarding this issue, may Allah benefit you.

A: It was incumbent upon you to make Ihram upon passing by the Miqat while you were in the bus. It was not necessary to get off the bus to make Ihram, and so your passing by the Miqat without making Ihram was a mistake. But since you went back to the Miqat and made Ihram thereat, then the obligation has been fulfilled and there is no sin on you.

As for the person who was deputized to slaughter the Hady and did not slaughter it, he made a mistake by his negligence, and he should hasten to slaughter the Hady in Makkah and distribute its meat there in order to make up for the missed slaughtering. If he can not go to Makkah then he should deputize someone to slaughter it in Makkah. Otherwise, he should return the money to the pilgrim who deputized him and tell her that he did not slaughter it so that she may deputize another person to slaughter it there.

We ask Allah for success. May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

First question of Fatwa no. 16353

Q 1: I am from the residents of Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah When I wish to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) I make the intention for `Umrah from my house, then I put on the Ihram clothes and I go to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of " Abar `Ali". I perform two Rak'ahs (unit of Salah) and then I go to Makkah. However, some people said to me: If you put on the Ihram clothes while in your house, it will suffice you and you need not to go to the Miqat, because you are from the residents of Al-Madinah. What is the legal opinion regarding this?

A: Ihram should be made from the Miqat which was specified by the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). The Miqat for the people of Madinah is Dhu Al-Hulayfah known as " Abar `Ali". Ihram means: the intention of starting the rituals. But the act of bathing oneself and putting on the Ihram clothes devoid of the intention is not Ihram; rather, it is sign of getting ready for Ihram. Therefore, you are allowed to bathe yourself before you set out from Madinah and put on the Ihram clothes. When you arrive at the Miqat, you make the intention for Ihram and make Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah). It should be noted that praying two Rak'ahs before Ihram is optional according to the view of some scholars, and it is not an obligation. Thus, if you offer them you get the reward, and if you do not there is no sin on you and your Ihram will be valid, Allah Willing.

We ask Allah for success. May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

Q 1: A woman says that the monthly period came to her during the Blessed Month of Ramadan and lasted for four days, though her regular monthly period usually lasts for seven days. On the sixth day she performed the after-menstruation Ghusl (full ritual bath) after the blood had ceased on the fifth day. Having performed the after-menstruation Ghusl on the sixth day, she made Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with the intention to perform `Umrah and offered the Zhuhr (Noon) prayer in her house located in the district of Al-Bahah. From there she headed along with her family towards Makkah Al-Mukarramah to commence the rituals of `Umrah. Upon their arrival at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of "Muharram Valley" at 5 o'clock p.m, she noticed the existence of traces of the monthly period in the form of dark brown blood. As such, she was not quite sure of her ritual purity, and therefore she made the intention to perform `Umrah from the Miqat when she is sure of her purity; that is, she delayed the start of `Umrah until she sees she is ritually pure. Two days after their arrival at Makkah, she was certain about her ritual purity and accordingly she made Ihram for performing `Umrah from the apartment in Al-Haram and performed `Umrah.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 116)

Is her `Umrah valid in this case? What should she do if her `Umrah is invalid? Kindly provide us with the legal opinion on this question. May Allah benefit you.

A: If the menstruating woman intended to perform `Umrah and made Ihram for it from the specified Miqat, but she delayed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) until she becomes ritually pure from her menstruation, then her `Umrah is valid and there is no violation in this act. But, if she delayed the intention of making Ihram for `Umrah until she has become ritually pure in the apartment in Makkah and then intended Ihram from the apartment, then her `Umrah is also valid, but she has to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) on account of her negligence of making the intention for Ihram at the Miqat. Dam is to offer a sheep which suffices for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It should be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat be distributed among the poor therein.

We ask Allah for success. May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

First question of Fatwa no. 18637

Q 1: A person went to perform Tamattu` Hajj ( `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). After completing the rituals of `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), he wanted to go to Madinah for a visit the Prophet's grave. What should he do when he comes back? Should he enter Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) again wearing his regular clothes and then make Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for Hajj along with the people when its time starts, or should he enter while in the state of Ihram and base his Tamattu` Hajj on the new `Umrah?

A: Whoever travels to Madinah after performing `Umrah to visit Al-Masjid Al-Nabawy Al-Sharif (the Prophet's Mosque in Madinah) and wants to go back to Makkah to perform pilgrimage as a Mutamatti` should, upon passing by the Miqat of Al-Madinah, make Ihram again for a new 'Umrah or for performing Hajj from that Miqat. Having done so, he should remain in the state of Ihram until he completes his pilgrimage. In all cases, one should not pass by the Miqat without making Ihram, as long as he is intending to perform pilgrimage. This is safer against falling into any violation of the rituals.

Q 2: Some people come to perform Hajj (pilgrimage) and after completing the `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) of Tamattu` (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) they wish to perform another `Umrah on behalf of one of their parents. What should they do in this case ?

A: Whoever performs Ihram for `Umrah as a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) awaiting the time of Hajj, then it is better for them after completing `Umrah to stay in Makkah until the time of Hajj starts at which time they should make Ihram for Hajj and should not commence any further `Umrah before Hajj. Upon completing Hajj, there is no harm to perform another `Umrah, where they make Ihram from Al-Tan`im or from any other Miqat. If one performs another `Umrah on behalf of one of his dead parents or on behalf of those incapable of performing `Umrah due to old age or due to a chronic disease or due to other similar excuses, then there is no harm in performing it. This is based on the general application of Prophet Muhammad's (peace be upon him) saying: «\(The performance of\) `Umrah after `Umrah is an expiation for the sins committed between them. And the reward of Hajj Mabrur \(Hajj accepted by Allah when performed sincerely and free of sin\) is nothing save Paradise.»

Q: My wife and I performed Hajj (pilgrimage) in 1411 A.H. We departed from Khamis Mishit heading to Bayt Allah Al-Haram (the Sacred House of Allah in Makkah). We made Ihram from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of "Yalamlam" and then we went to Jeddah, where my maternal aunt lives in order to leave my nursing son, who was not yet six months old, with her. Afterwards, we performed Hajj. Having made the major Tahallul (final removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah, after performing the final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah for Hajj) we left Makkah heading to Jeddah in order to nurse the child and to make sure that everything is fine with him. On the same day before sunset we went back to Mina and completed rest of the rituals of Hajj: We threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) and performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). My question is: is our Hajj valid in this way, or do we have to offer a Fidyah (ransom)?

A: If the situation is as you have mentioned in your question, then you are not obligated to offer any Fidyah (ransom), because you did not commit any of the violations the Hajj rituals and you did not neglect an obligation.

Fatwa no. 14109

Q: I present to your Eminence this question about my two female widowed cousins (Thalibah) and (Halibah) who passed away before they could perform the obligatory Hajj (pilgrimage). This year, 1410 A.H., I hired two good people to perform Hajj on their behalf, and I have no doubt about these two hired people's faith. The one who performed Hajj on behalf of the first one, "Thalibah", is "Hussein" who took a paper with the name of the person on whose behalf he performed Hajj. As for the second one "Halibah",

the one who performed Hajj on her behalf is called "Yahya" who did not take a paper with the name of "Halibah" relying on his knowledge of her name, since he belongs to the same family and the same tribe. The two pilgrimages occurred this year 1410 A.H. As I said earlier, the two people mentioned above are from the same tribe of these two women on whose behalf they performed Hajj and their faith is sound. By Allah's blessing, both headed to Hajj, however, each one of them traveled on his own in a car to perform the rituals and they did not meet each other until after `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) when each one of them took a paper to write the name of the one on whose behalf he has performed Hajj. Now each one of them said: I performed Hajj on behalf of "Thalibah": I made the intention of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), standing at `Arafah and throwing the pebbles at the Jamrat as performing Hajj on behalf of "Thalibah". As such, "Halibah" was deprived from the reward of Hajj, and the two people performed Hajj on behalf of the same person, i.e. "Thalibah". As for "Hussein", he took a paper with the name of "Thalibah" before going to Hajj and he had it with him during the rituals. But the second man made joint intention for Hajj and `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) making Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), but he forgot completely about the name of "Halibah", and therefore, he made the intention stating the name of "Thalibah" instead. He was confused and thought that he was to perform Hajj on her behalf, because they are two sisters and he did not know that "Hussein" took the name of "Thalibah" in the beginning...etc.

Our Eminent Shaykh. Please give us the Fatwa regarding the unperformed Hajj of "Halibah"? How should the pilgrim make the intention for Hajj, and what should he do in relation to this woman in the future or in the present time?

A: If the situation is as you have mentioned, then performing Hajj on behalf of "Thalibah" and on behalf of "Halibah" is valid, and the forgetfulness of the one who performed Hajj on behalf of "Halibah" when erroneously making the intention to perform Hajj in the name of "Thalibah" does not jeopardize his performance of Hajj on behalf of "Halibah". The crucial factor is the intention of the one who paid the money when commissioning the person to perform Hajj on behalf of "Halibah",

Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) said: «Actions are judged by the intentions, and every person will be reward according to what he has intended.» .

First and second questions of Fatwa no. 15220

Q1: I am a Saudi woman who performed obligatory Hajj (pilgrimage) some years ago. During my Hajj, standing at 'Arafah coincided with Friday. After one or two years it was said to me: Next year, Hajj will coincide with Monday, and according to a Hadith attributed to the Messenger (peace be upon him): Whoever performs Hajj twice and his standing at 'Arafah coincides with Friday and Monday, the reward of his Hajj will be equal to the reward of a hundred times of Hajj wherein standing at 'Arafah occurs on a day other than these two days. Therefore, I desired to obtain this great reward, and I set out to perform Hajj. On the way to Hajj it was said to us: Hajj will not coincide with Monday this as we were expecting. Then I asked: Is it allowed for me to change my intention of Hajj and make it on behalf of my late father who was killed before he could perform Hajj? I was informed that there is no prohibition to do that, and therefore, I made the intention of Hajj to be on behalf of my father in the place of his obligatory Hajj. However, I am in doubt regarding the legality of this shift in the intention. I also authorized one of my Mahrams (spouses or unmarriageable relative) to throw the pebbles at the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-'Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) after I had thrown them the first time. My questions are as follows:

1- What is your Eminence's opinion regarding modifying the intention of Hajj to be on behalf of my late father?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 121)

2- If you have any comments, please guide me to what I should do.

3- What is your Eminence's view regarding authorizing one of my Mahrams to throw the pebbles at the Jamrat after my initial throwing of them in the first time ?

4- Please provide me with a correct opinion concerning what I should do, keeping in mind that I performed Hajj twice some years ago.

A: First: We have not come across any authentic Hadith from the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) regarding a special virtue of the Hajj which coincides with Friday and Monday, except that Friday is a weekly feast for Muslims. If Hajj falls on it, then it will conform to the Hajj of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). Thus, whoever performs Hajj on this day will obtain the virtue of Friday, the virtue of the Day of 'Arafah and the virtue of conforming to the Hajj of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Second: It is allowed to modify the intention when performing Hajj, from being on yourself to performing it on behalf of your father, as long as this modification of intention takes place before making Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) of Hajj for yourself. But, if the change of intention happened after making Ihram of Hajj for yourself, then this Hajj will not be counted as being on behalf of your father; rather, it will count as Hajj on your behalf. We pray to Allah to accept it from you.

Third: It is allowed for you to authorize your Mahram to throw the pebbles at the Jamrat on your behalf, if it is very hard on you to throw them.

Q2: I am a Saudi citizen serving in the civil police force, Division of Public Security. One night, I was patrolling an area with a group of some associates and we found some Qat (Khat: leaves and buds that are habituating stimulants when chewed or used as a tea) smugglers who had some donkeys, may Allah honor you, laden with Qat. We confiscated the donkeys from them along with their loads and handed them over to the specialized authorities responsible for such cases. The authorities in turn burned the Qat and returned the donkeys to us and gave us permission to sell them in the market. We sold these animals and divided their price among us. My father passed away before he could perform the obligatory Hajj (pilgrimage). I desired to finance Hajj on behalf of my father from my own money, but I was short of 600 hundred Riyals. Therefore, I covered the shortage of the cost of this Hajj from the money of the donkeys which we sold. My question is:

1- What is your Eminence's opinion regarding the validity of this Hajj?

2- If you have some observations, what is your advice to us? May Allah reward you well.

A: If the authorities gave you the donkeys as an incentive, then there is no harm if you have spent this money on Hajj on behalf on your late father. This is because confiscation of the donkeys from their owners is a disciplinary punishment for them.

We ask Allah for success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

Fatwa no. 15402

Q: Some people say: If someone wants to perform Hajj (pilgrimage) for the first time, this Hajj has to be preceded by 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) or one should perform Hajj as Mutamatti' (pilgrim performing 'Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). If he does not do that and, instead, performs Hajj as Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only), then his Hajj will be invalid. Please explain the true ruling regarding that.

A: There is no doubt that 'Umrah is an obligation. However, its obligatory status does not require it be performed before the obligatory Hajj. Thus, there is no prohibition to perform Hajj in one year and 'Umrah in another, and one is not required to perform his Hajj as Mutamatti'. Hence, if one performs the obligation of Hajj as Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between), Mufrid or Mutamatti', it will suffice him. Nevertheless, Tamattu' Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) is the best type of Hajj for the one who has not brought the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) with him.

We ask Allah for success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

Q: My father intended to perform Hajj (pilgrimage) in 1402 A.H., but a dispute arose between me and one of my relatives, and as a result, my father cancelled his plan to perform Hajj during that year and he died without performing it. However, the Hajj which he intended to perform was not the obligatory Hajj for him, since he had already performed Hajj in the past. What should be done regarding this situation? Please provide me with a legal opinion on what I may do on behalf of my father.

A: If one intends to perform voluntary Hajj and then changes his mind before making Ihram, there is no blame on him. Accordingly, there is no blame on your father with regard to what you have mentioned.

Q: Last year, I went to perform the obligatory Hajj and I made the intention to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only). However, I took off Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and shortened some of my hair before staying for some time in `Arafah. Please enlighten me as to what I should do, may Allah benefit you.

A: If your shortening of your hair and taking off your Ihram happened after you had performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), this is considered as Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) following `Umrah. Accordingly, you are considered as Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), and you should offer a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), due to the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He): \(Then if you are in safety and whosoever performs the `Umrah in the months of Hajj, before \(performing\) the Hajj, \(i.e. Hajj-at-Tamattu' and Al-Qir`an\), he must slaughter a Hady such as he can afford\) which you should slaughter now in Makkah to make up for missing it during the Hajj time. However, if you cannot afford to offer a Hady, you should observe Sawm (fast) for ten days. On the other hand, if you did not perform Tawaf and Sa`y before shortening your hair, this is considered a violation of a prohibition, which you are excused from because of your ignorance of the ruling, and it will not affect the validity of your Ifrad Hajj. Also, you are not required to offer Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal) according to the correct scholarly opinion.

The first, second and third questions of Fatwa no. 17730

Q 1: I went to perform the obligatory Hajj; upon my arrival at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), I made the intention to perform Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). I was unaware that Qiran means the combination of both Hajj and `Umrah. I just said Qiran. Is my Hajj valid? Please keep into consideration that I read about Hajj, but I did not pay attention to this point.

A: The `Umrah which a Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) performs is included in their Hajj, and thus, it is sufficient to perform one Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and one Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) for both Hajj and `Umrah along with offering the Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal). Accordingly, if you did that, your Qiran would be valid. It must be clarified that Qiran does not mean that `Umrah is independent from Hajj as understood from your question. However, if you did not make the intention of performing `Umrah along with Hajj, and you intended only to perform Hajj, then you need to perform `Umrah whenever Allah makes it possible for you, provided you have not performed `Umrah before.

Q2: A young married women performed Hajj (pilgrimage) with us. She was Mutabarrijah (a woman who makes a public display of her charms or adornment) and she was very beautiful. I had some temptatious desires due to my looking at her, but I did not do anything to her and never touched her with lust. I just kept thinking of her because of her beauty beautiful. But I only remember that I placed my hand on her shoulder, as I used to think of her, to protect her from the crowdedness. Am I sinful for this act of mine? Please provide me with a legal opinion. May Allah benefit you.

A: It is an obligation upon one in the state of Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah), and should everyone else, to lower their gaze from what Allah has prohibited. This obligation is more emphasized in the case of the Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah), because he has engaged in this honored state of Ihram. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(So whosoever intends to perform Hajj therein \(by assuming Ihrâm\), then he should not have sexual relations \(with his wife\), nor commit sin, nor dispute unjustly during the Hajj.\) Therefore, you must ask Allah for forgiveness for what you have done. After they finished I went with one of them to complete my Tawaf when I felt better. However, I missed one round of the Tawaf-ul-Wada', and I did not realize it until I returned to my country. Am I obligated to offer Fidyah (expiation) or anything else?

A: If you are sure that you missed one round of Tawaf-ul-Wada', then you need to offer Fidyah; namely, slaughtering a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distributing its meat among the poor of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). But if you cannot offer the Fidyah, then observe fasting for ten days.

All praise be to Allah Alone. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon Muhammad, the Last of the Prophets. To Proceed: The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed what was presented to his Excellence, the Grand Mufti, from Shaykh Saleh Al-Atram, the Fatwa which was referred to the Permanent Committee through the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, numbered "5473", dated: 27/12/1414. His Eminence asked about the one who made Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) of Hajj (pilgrimage), then changed it to 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and then returned to his country without performing Hajj.

After studying the Fatwa, the Committee answered saying that whoever makes Ihram for Hajj as Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only) or as Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between), and then changes the intention of Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) or that of Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between) to make Tamattu' Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), then it is not allowed for him to leave Hajj. He has to perform Hajj during that year, because by making Ihram for Ifrad Hajj or for Qiran Hajj one has obligated himself to complete the performance of Hajj. Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) says: ﴿And perform properly \(i.e. all the ceremonies according to the ways of Prophet Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم\), the Hajj and 'Umrah \(i.e. the pilgrimage to Makkah\) for Allâh.﴾ .

It is noted that permitting him to change his mind from Hajj to 'Umrah does not absolve him from the obligation to perform Hajj, but it is just for the sake of facilitation and easiness and to perform the complete rituals of 'Umrah and Hajj. If one did not manage to perform Hajj during that year, then one has to perform it the following year and repent to Allah, if the delay of its performance was not due to a legal excuse.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 128)

It was reported from Shaykh-ul-Islam Ibn Taymiyyah (may Allah be merciful with him) in his book titled "Majmu'ul-Fatawa, part 26, page 58" that he said: "If he, namely, the one who has made Ihram for Hajj as Mufrid wants to change Hajj into 'Umrah only, then this is, unquestionably, not allowed because changing to 'Umrah is only allowed for the one whose intention is to perform Hajj after 'Umrah" End of quote.

We ask Allah for success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

Q: What is the ruling on a woman who menstruates during the Hajj period? Can she perform all the Hajj rituals? Is she obligated to perform Ghusl (full ritual bath) to perform these rituals? Or are there certain rituals which she cannot perform, and how can she make up for them? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: If a woman menstruates while intending to perform Hajj, she should enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), remain in the state of Ihram and do what the pilgrims do of staying for some time in `Arafah, spending the night in Muzdalifah and Mina and throwing the pebbles at the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing areas). However, she should not make Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) until she becomes pure and performs the after-menstruation Ghusl.

Q: I would like to inform you, our Eminent Shaykh, that I went to perform the obligatory Hajj (pilgrimage) in 1415 A.H., intending to perform Hajj as Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only) and I did not perform 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the Sacred Months. However, I performed several 'Umrah during the normal days outside the sacred months. But some people told me that I should perform 'Umrah during the Sacred Months. Please provide me with the legal opinion concerning this matter. May Allah guard you and reward you for all your goodness.

A: The claim that you have to perform 'Umrah during the Sacred Months does not have an origin in the pure legislation of Islamic Law; but it is merely talk without knowledge.

We ask Allah for success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

First question of Fatwa no. 18368

Q1: I live in Jeddah and I desire to go with my family to perform Tamattu' Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). Is it possible to perform 'Umrah during the month of Shawwal or Dhul-Qi'dah and then go back to Jeddah to resume my job, as my work requires continuous traveling, and then go to Mina on the eighth of Dhul-Hijjah? Also, if I return to Jeddah and my boss does not permit me to go to

Hajj, while I have already performed 'Umrah with the intention of performing Hajj after it, what should I do?

A: If you have entered into the state of Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) for performing 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the Sacred Months intending to follow it with Hajj, and then you travelled to your home town with the intention of returning to perform Hajj during the month of Dhul-Hijjah, and before you enter into the state of Ihram for Hajj your boss did not consent you to go to Hajj, then there is no sin on you. This is because one is bound to perform Hajj once he has entered into the state of Ihram for it and not by one's mere intention to perform Hajj during this year or another..

We ask Allah for success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, upon his family and his Companions.

First Question of Fatwa no. 18344

Q1: In the beginning of the blessed Month of Ramadan, I went to perform 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), and upon my arrival at the Miqat (site for entering the ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) I bathed, put on the Ihram clothing (garment worn while in the ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah), performed two Rak'ahs (units of Salah) and then headed for Makkah Al-Mukarramah. On my way, I remembered that I did not pronounce the intention for Hajj or the Talbiyah (Here I am O Allah to perform 'Umrah) at the Miqat, thus I started reciting Talbiyah as soon as I remembered. Is my 'Umrah valid, or is it lacking anything in this case? Please provide us with a complete answer, may Allah be merciful to you.

A: Entering into the state of Ihram is fulfilled by the intention to begin the rites, and pronouncing the intention or Talbiyah upon putting on the Ihram garment is not obligatory, though it is recommended to do so. Therefore, if the situation is as you have mentioned, then - Allah Willing - your 'Umrah is valid.

Fatwa no. 18843

Q: I came to the Kingdom (of Saudi Arabia) by plane and I made the intention for 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) at the Miqat (site for entering the ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) while flying over it. Upon our arrival to Jeddah Airport, I found my husband waiting for me and he then took me to a hotel in Jeddah for rest. Due to being tired from the journey, as he had arrived in Jeddah after traveling all night, he told me that he was unable to go to Makkah and - Allah Willing - after two or three weeks we would go to Makkah to perform 'Umrah, and I obeyed him. After three weeks, we entered into Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from the Miqat and I performed 'Umrah perfectly, all praise be to Allah, and then returned to my country.

My question is: Am I obligated to do anything (in expiation) with respect to my Ihram for the first 'Umrah, which I had not performed, and how can I offer this expiation while I am in my country? May Allah reward you with all that is good for what you have done for us.

A: If no sexual intercourse took place during the period in which you remained in Jeddah, then 'Umrah is valid and your first Ihram counts, while the second Ihram is of no value. However, if you had sexual intercourse during this period, then the 'Umrah which you performed is invalid, and you must go back to make it up by entering into Ihram from the Miqat from which you performed Ihram for the first 'Umrah. Moreover, you must slaughter a sheep, meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of Al-Haram (the sacred precincts of Makkah) and you should not eat anything from it. If your husband was in a state of Ihram for 'Umrah when he received you and you had sexual intercourse with him, then he must do the same thing which we have already mentioned to make up for his 'Umrah and the obligation of offering Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ceremonial state for Hajj and 'Umrah). The mistake of having worn regular tailored clothing and other Ihram prohibitions are forgiven due to ignorance of the ruling.

First and second questions of Fatwa no. 18671

Q1: I performed Hajj (pilgrimage) this year, 1416 A.H. and I made the intention after entering into the state of Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ceremonial state of Hajj and 'Umrah) as Mufridah (pilgrim performing Hajj only), and I said: "Here I am O Allah, Here I am to perform Hajj". Then, I forgot (that I was performing Hajj only) and said: "Here I am O Allah, Here I am to perform Hajj and 'Umrah". I asked some Shaykhs in Makkah Al-Mukarramah and they told that there is no blame on me. All praise be to Allah, I have completed my Hajj. Please provide me with an answer regarding what I have to do, may Allah reward you the best.

A: If what happened was just a slip of the tongue which you did not mean , then there is no blame on you, due to Allah's (Exalted be He) statement: ﴿Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error﴾ and the Prophet's (peace be upon him) statement: ﴿The reward of deeds depends upon the intentions and every person will get the reward according to what they have intended.﴾ .

Q2: My mother died, and I want to perform Hajj on her behalf, keeping in mind that I have already performed Hajj on her behalf before. Please note that I do not know how to read or write. Please provide me with an answer, may Allah reward you the best.

A: There is no prohibition to perform Hajj on behalf of your deceased mother more than once, because this is out of kindness to her, as long as you have performed the obligatory Hajj for yourself. Not knowing how to read or write does not invalidate Hajj, if you perform its rites in the prescribed manner.

Third question of Fatwa no. 19182

Q3: I entered into Ihram (ceremonial state for Hajj or 'Umrah) for 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) from Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah. I bathed and put on Ihram (garment worn while in the ceremonial state for Hajj and 'Umrah), but I did not cut any hair or nails while in Ihram, until after Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah) and Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and 'Umrah); after which I clipped my nails and shaved my head. Am I required to offer expiation or not?

A: Trimming the moustache and the nails and removing pubic hair upon entering the state Ihram is not an obligation, but it is among the recommended acts of Ihram. So, whoever abandons it is not required to offer any expiation.

Fatwa no. 9 18500)

Q: There is a person who performed 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) in the month of Dhul-Qa'dah during this year 1416 A.H., and then he and his family returned to their home in Al-Madinah Al-Munawarah after completing their 'Umrah. On 7/12/1416 A.H. he went to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) and performed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from the Miqat of the people of Madinah intending to perform Hajj only. Upon his arrival to Makkah, one of his companions said to him: You are still Mutamatti' (pilgrim performing 'Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) by your previous 'Umrah and you need to take the Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah) off and then wear it on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) as a Mutamatti'. He removed his Ihram, cut his nails and did not make Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah) and Sa'y (going in between Safa and Marwa during Hajj and 'Umrah) relying on the Fatwa given to him by that person that he was still Mutamatti'. On the Day of Tarwiyah he put on the Ihram, made Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and 'Umrah) for Hajj, got the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), performed the Tawaf and Sa'y on the day of 'Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) for Hajj and then completed the rest of the rituals.

The question is: Is the Fatwa given to the mentioned above person correct? If it is not, then what should this pilgrim and the one who gave him the Fatwa do in this situation, keeping in mind that the 'Umrah performed by the mentioned above person was performed during the months of Hajj and he did not make the intention to make Tamattu' by this 'Umrah until Hajj, but he made the intention for 'Umrah only and then returned to his family and his house after he performed its rituals, and by the same token, he did not make the intention for Hajj except as Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only)? I ask your Eminence to give me the answer to this question. May Allah safeguard and protect you!

A: This pilgrim is not considered as Mutamatti', because after performing 'Umrah, he traveled back to his town and then came back to Hajj from his town. Therefore, he is considered as Mufrid, and his Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah) before the Day of Tarwiyah was a mistake and the Fatwa given to him by that person was not correct; however, no expiation is required from him because of putting on the sewn clothes, covering the head and cutting the nails due to his ignorance of the ruling.

The fifth question of Fatwa no. 20173

Q 5: Is it permissible to enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for both Hajj and `Umrah?

A: Yes, it is permissible for a Muslim to enter Ihram for Hajj and `Umrah both at the same time, during the Hajj months. One must make the intention for both Hajj and `Umrah when entering Ihram from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), then perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) for both, since the Prophet (peace be upon him) did so during his Hajj as indicated by the Sahih Hadiths (authentic Hadiths). By intending to do both, a pilgrim will be considered a Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). It is Sunnah to make Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) after finishing `Umrah if the pilgrim has not brought a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), as the Prophet (peace be upon him) commanded his Sahabah (Companions) to do so during the Farewell Hajj.

It is permissible for a pilgrim who enters Ihram from the Miqat for `Umrah only to include Hajj with it, but before starting the Tawaf for `Umrah, unless the pilgrim has brought a Hady, who, in this case, is allowed to make the intention for Hajj along with `Umrah, even after performing Tawaf for `Umrah, until Tahallul is made after finishing both. The Messenger (peace be upon him) commanded the pilgrims who brought a Hady with them to do so.

A pilgrim who intends to make Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) should enter Ihram for `Umrah during the months of Hajj, finish it, make Tahallul and then enter Ihram for Hajj in the same year. If one enters Ihram for Hajj before starting the Tawaf for `Umrah, one is considered a Qarin. As for the Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only), they should enter Ihram from the Miqat for Hajj only. Once they enter Ihram from the Miqat for Hajj only, it is not permitted for them to perform `Umrah along with it and they will not become a Qarin by doing so. There is no origin or evidence for such an act. However, they are allowed to change their intention (from Hajj to `Umrah) by removing their Ihram for Hajj and starting `Umrah, and thus make Tawaf, Sa`y, shorten their hair and make Tahallul if they do not have the Hady with them, and then enter Ihram for Hajj on the eighth day of Dhul-Hijjah, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) commanded his Sahabah to do. Pilgrims who have the Hady with them should remain in the state of Ihram until they make Tahallul on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals).

The second and third questions of Fatwa no. 21139

Q 2: Is it obligatory for a person who intends to perform Hajj or `Umrah to remove any unwanted hair and cut their nails before entering Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah)?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 137)

Does leaving the hair and the nails as they are decrease the reward of Hajj or `Umrah?

A: Removing unwanted hair and cutting the nails before entering Ihram is is Mustahab (desirable), but it is not Wajib (obligatory). Therefore, if the Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) leaves them, there is no sin and their rituals are valid.

Q 3: Is it permissible for the Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) to use scented soap, such as to bathe with? What is the ruling on the pilgrim who uses it in ignorance? Is it permissible for a woman in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) to wear clothes washed with scented soap?

A: It is not permissible for the Muhrim, man or woman, to use perfume, and this includes scented soap. Anyone who intentionally applies perfume during Ihram should offer Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal). However, in the case of one who is ignorant of this ruling or forgets it and applies perfume, nothing is due on them, by the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He): ﴿Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error﴾ The Prophet (peace be upon him) also said: ﴿My Ummah \(nation based on one creed\) has been pardoned for what they do by mistake, forgetfully, or under duress.﴾

First question of Fatwa no. (21559)

Q 1: I was among a group during Hajj this year, and on the way I was teaching them the rituals of Hajj and 'Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and what every pilgrim should say whether he is Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only), Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between) or Mutamatti' (pilgrim performing 'Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). After putting on Izar (garment worn below the waist) and Rida' (garment worn around the upper part of the body) I was teaching them what every pilgrim should say, and I was saying to them: The Mutamatti' should say such and such, the Mufrid should say such and such and the Qarin should say such and such. Since I was at my home I had the intention to perform Hajj as Mufrid and I was teaching the people what they should say in the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah), and because I was busy with issues concerning the bus, I forgot to pronounce the intention and I did not remember until after we were a long way past the Miqat.

My question is: Was my teaching them the rituals sufficient for me, since it happened at the Miqat, or was my teaching them the intention to start the rituals not sufficient to be an intention for me? May Allah safeguard you!

A 1: If you had already made the intention for Hajj and you started the rituals at the Miqat, then your Hajj is valid, and you are not harmed because you failed to pronounce the intention to perform the rituals which you want to perform. This is because the pronunciation of one's intention is recommended but it is not an obligation.

But, if you forgot to start the rituals and you did not make the intention until you had passed the Miqat, then you are required to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah), which is one seventh of a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the Sacred precincts of Makkah) or a sheep, meeting the same conditions for Ud-Hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), which should be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). This is necessary because you abandoned an obligation; namely, the intention of starting the rituals at the Miqat.

Q1: I performed Hajj this year 1420 A.H. with a group in which there were some seekers of knowledge. Upon performing Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) I made the intention of Tamattu' Hajj (performing 'Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), and when I came to Makkah, my wife was with me and I performed Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwa during Hajj and 'Umrah) before Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah) and thereafter, I made Tawaf. When I found it was very crowded during Tawaf, I changed my intention to make it Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between) after performing Sa'y and Tawaf, and therefore, I included Hajj within 'Umrah. I asked one of the seekers of knowledge about that and he said: The Sa'y was invalid because it was performed before the Tawaf for the 'Umrah, and the Tawaf which you performed will be considered as Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka'bah on arrival in Makkah). He also said: The two Madh-habs (School of Jurisprudence) of Malik and Abu Hanifah allow what you have done of combining Hajj and 'Umrah and they considered the one who does this as Qarin. However, the other one said to me: You and your wife have to repeat Tawaf and Sa'y, then shave or shorten your hair. That was during the night of the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) and my wife and I were very exhausted to the point that we could not go to Makkah to repeat Sa'y and to make Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah), and thus, we remained in the state of Qiran. What is the ruling on this? Please provide us with a Fatwa regarding this. May Allah reward and compensate you!

A1: If the reality is as you mentioned, then you would be considered as Qarin, because you had included Hajj within the 'Umrah before completing the rituals of the 'Umrah. So, you should offer the Fidyah (ransom) of Qiran, and then you need to perform Tawaf and Sa'y for both Hajj and 'Umrah on the day of 'Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) or after it.

Q: I performed Hajj (pilgrimage) and made Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah), and my intention was to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only). Then I went to Makkah with my husband and after that we went to Madinah on the fourth day of Dhul-Hijjah wearing the same clothes. We stayed in Madinah until the seventh of Dhul-Hijjah, and while we were passing by the Miqat of Dhu Al-Hulayfah, we made Tahallul (removal of the ritual state of Hajj or 'Umrah) and we made Ihram again with the same intention of Ifrad. In Makkah we made Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah) and Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwa during Hajj or 'Umrah) again. Are we required to do anything because of that, or is our Hajj valid? Yet, kindly be informed that the Miqat from which we made Ihram in the beginning was Yalamlam.

A: If no sexual intercourse happened between you and your husband during your Tahallul, then you are not required to do anything, and what you have done when you repeated the Ihram was a mistake regarding which you are excused due to your ignorance of the ruling. But if you had sexual intercourse with your husband, then your Hajj is invalid, and you need to make it up next year. Moreover, you have to offer Fidyah (ransom), which is slaughtering a camel in Makkah and to distribute its meat to the poor of Makkah. By the same token, if your husband made the intention for Ifrad Hajj like you, then he needs to do exactly what you are supposed to do: making up for Hajj and offering Fidyah.

I hope you will have a look at it and inform me if there is any objection to using it under with Shari`ah (Islamic law) as I intend to produce a large quantity of it to be distributed (for sale).

A: After studying the question and the attached sample, the Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) of the Committee is that it is impermissible to use this garment for Ihram, as it are considered of Makhit Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) like the Qamis (a garment similar to the Jalabeya) and Sarawil (garment similar to pants) which are impermissible to wear while in the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah).

the sun by tying it to the head. The manufacturing company wants to know if it is permissible to use this product during Hajj so it can give them out as gifts or for sale. For this reason, I hope Your Eminence would tell me your opinion so I can complete the necessary procedures.

Q 1: A woman performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) but did not uncover her face while performing the rituals. Is this permissible or does she have to offer a Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal)?

A: A woman should not uncover her face in the presence of non-Mahrams (not a spouse or unmarriageable relatives) whether during `Umrah or otherwise. A Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) woman may uncover her face if there are no men present, and cover it in their presence because her face is part of her `Awrah (parts of the body that must be covered in public). `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) said: [\(We were in the company of the Prophet \(peace be upon him\) while we were in Ihram \(ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah\). Q: A man suffers from urinary incontinence and wishes to perform Hajj and Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). Is it permissible for him to wear short underpants under his Izar (garment worn below the waist) to prevent urine from leaking to other parts of his body as well as to keep his Izar pure since it is difficult to wash it frequently especially during Hajj?

A: If a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) who suffers from urinary incontinence needs to wear short underpants to prevent urine from leaking onto his body and clothes, there is no objection to this. However, he is to offer a Fidyah (ransom) either by choosing to feed six Miskins (needy) with half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) of food, observe Sawm (Fast) for three days or slaughter a sheep and distribute its meat among the poor in Qiyas (analogy) to shaving one's hair if a person needs to do this while in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah). Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿And do not shave your heads until the Hady reaches the place of sacrifice. And whosoever of you is ill or has an ailment in his scalp (necessitating shaving), he must pay a Fidyah (ransom) of either observing Saum (fasts) (three days) or giving Sadaqah (charity - feeding six poor persons) or offering sacrifice (one sheep).﴾

Q: I entered Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or Umrah) for Ifrad Hajj (Hajj only) from my place of residence in Jeddah on the eighth of Dhul-Hijjah. I made Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) before the dawn of the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah). I then proceeded to make Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and Umrah) after offering Fajr (Dawn) Prayer of the Day of Tarwiyah. Is this chronological sequence for the above-mentioned rites correct? Before the minor Tahallul (partial ending of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah through shaving or shortening the hair and throwing pebbles at Jamarat-ul-`Aqabah before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah), I unintentionally plucked one or two hairs from my beard. Is there anything I must do because of this and what must I do if it was necessary for me to wear or incorporate Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) in the clothes of Ihram because of a Shar`y (Islamically lawful) necessity such as an illness? On the second day of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) the Adhan (call to prayer) was called at 12:25 p.m. before which time I had thrown the Al-Jamrah Al-Sughra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area) at 12:22 p.m. Does this fulfill the obligation? May Allah give you the best and may Allah's Peace, Mercy and Blessings be upon you.

A: First: Your Ihram for Ifrad Hajj on the eve of the eighth of Dhul-Hijjah and then your Sa`y for Hajj after Tawaf-ul-Qudum are valid.

Second: There is nothing due on you if you accidentally removed a hair or two from your beard while you were in the state of Ihram.

Third: A Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) is allowed to wear Makhit because of illness and so on and they have to make Kaffarah (expiation) by either observing Sawm (Fast) for three days, feeding six Miskins (needy) or slaughtering a sheep that fulfills the requirements of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿And do not shave your heads until the Hady reaches the place of sacrifice. And whosoever of you is ill or has an ailment in his scalp \(necessitating shaving\), he must pay a Fidyah \(ransom\) of either observing Saum \(fasts\) \(three days\) or giving Sadaqah \(charity - feeding six poor persons\) or offering sacrifice \(one sheep\).﴾

Fourth: Throwing the pebble on the second Day of Tashriq does not fulfill the obligation and you are to make a Fidyah (ransom) for the rites you neglected by slaughtering a sheep which fulfills the requirements of an Ud-hiyah. The animal must be slaughtered in Makkah and the meat is to be distributed among the poor of the Haram. If you are unable to do this, then you are to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

The first question of Fatwa no. 20054

Q 1: I performed `Umrah in the company of a group. After completing the rituals of `Umrah, one of them proceeded to shave for the others and then one among the group shaved for him, thus making Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). However, we later learnt that shaving for others is unlawful to do during Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). What is the ruling on this?

A: There is nothing wrong if a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) shaves the hair of another Muhrim who wants to make Tahallul, because it is a permitted shaving.

The first question of fatwa no. (16389)

Q1: I performed Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) on behalf of someone else. However, when we threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) we returned to our tent and put on our clothes before shaving. Some people told us that we had done something that is unlawful in Hajj and that we must wear the clothes of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) and then shave our hair and offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). What is the ruling on this?

A: What you did by wearing your clothes after throwing Jamrat-ul-Aqabah and before shaving or shortening your hair was wrong except if you had made Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) because it is necessary to make Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) from two of the three things: throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), shaving or shortening the hair and Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. Performing Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and Umrah) is for those who still have to perform it. However, because you were ignorant of the ruling, you do not have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) and your Hajj is valid In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

Q1: I reside in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and own a car in which I transported some pilgrims to Makkah. I entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah). However, when I arrived at one of the entrances to Makkah, I was forced to remove the clothes of Ihram and wear Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) since I did not have a Hajj permit. After I left the check point, I removed the Makhit and wore the clothes of Ihram again. What is the ruling on this and what must I do?

A1: You must make a Fidyah (ransom) for intentionally wearing Makhit while in the state of Ihram by choosing either to slaughter a sheep in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor, feed six Miskins (needy) in Makkah, with half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) for each person or observe Sawm (Fast) for three days.

Q: Last year, I performed Tamattu` Hajj (Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). It was my first Hajj and I wore socks when I was in the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah). I read that this is invalid since wearing socks is only for women. Therefore, I hope that you will inform me about what I must do to correct this mistake with a clarification of the easiest of opinions. If it is necessary to make a Kaffarah (expiation), please tell me what kind I should make: whether I must observe Sawm (Fast) and if so, for how long, or if I must offer a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), what is its equivalent in cash, and the authority to which I must send it and the period during which I can send it. May Allah's Peace, Mercy and Blessings be upon you.

A: If the case is as mentioned, there is nothing due on you for wearing socks since you did not know about the ruling.

The fourth question of Fatwa no. 19604

Q 4: During my Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and before entering the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah), I went to the rest-room and absentmindedly put my Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) on my head. Afterwards, I remembered and took them off my head. Is there any atonement due on me for doing this?

A: If a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) forgetfully does any of the things which are unlawful to do during Ihram, it is obligatory to desist from doing that thing as soon as they remember. There is no sin on you and you do not have to make a Kaffarah (expiation), for the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He): ﴿Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error﴾ Allah (Exalted be He) granted that and said: ﴿I did (pardon you).﴾ It is authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿My Ummah (nation based on creed) has been pardoned for what they do by mistake, forgetfully, or under duress.﴾

Q 1: I entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from the city of Al-Ta'if. I was wearing trousers but forgot to remove them. I did not remember until I was inside Makkah after which I instantly took them off.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 150)

A: There is no atonement due on the pilgrim who forgetfully continues to wear Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs), such as trousers, after entering Ihram for Hajj or `Umrah and then removes them after he remembers. In this case, the pilgrim is not blameworthy. Accordingly, your Hajj or `Umrah is valid, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills), since you are excused for forgetting, by the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He): ﴿Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error﴾ It is authentically reported on the authority of the Prophet (peace be upon him) that Allah (Exalted be He) responded: ﴿I did \(pardon you\).﴾ The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿My Ummah \(nation based on creed\) has been pardoned for what they do by mistake, forgetfully, or under duress.﴾

Q2: I passed by the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) but I did not utter the intention for making Umrah. Please take into account that my intention to perform Umrah had already been made beforehand, but I forgot to utter it as I was passing the Miqat. Please tell me what I must do.

A2: It is Wajib (obligatory) upon the one who heads to Makkah intending to perform Hajj or Umrah and is outside the Miqats in Makkah to assume Ihram from their designated locational Miqat if they pass by them or was in their vicinity if they are not on their route or if they were on a plane. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(These \(Miqats\) are meant for people living at these \(places\) as well as for others who pass by them on their way to perform Hajj or 'Umrah. Whoever is living within these boundaries can enter Ihram from his home.\) Based on this, it is Wajib to make a Fidyah (ransom) because you neglected to do a Wajib act of Hajj out of forgetfulness and you did not go back to make your intention at the proper site when you remembered. Therefore, you must slaughter a sheep or offer one seventh of a cow or a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) to be slaughtered in Makkah and you should distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

It does not suffice to make the intention for Umrah beforehand from the time you set out and during the journey. You must make the intention to perform the rites at the time of passing the designated Miqat or if you are passing over it on a plane or if your route lacks a Miqat site. You cannot assume Ihram for Hajj or Umrah except by doing this.

Q: My father assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) for Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) during the Hajj of last year from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah), put on Ihram clothing and made Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and Umrah). When he reached al-Hada he deliberately wore Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) while knowing that he was a Muhrim (pilgrim in a ritual state for Hajj and Umrah). He remained in these clothes for a whole day after which he removed them along with a head covering. He stood at Arafat and performed all the rites. Is it necessary for my father to do anything or is his Hajj complete? If his Hajj is complete but he must slaughter, then where must he do this and how? Does it fulfill the obligation if he slaughters in his home country? Please answer me in detail so I could convince my father about what he must do since he has heard many different opinions.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 152)

A: Your father must make a Fidyah (ransom) because he wore Makhit intentionally, knowing that he was in a state of Ihram. Even if he wore the Makhit due to an illness, such as cold, he must still make a Fidyah which consists of slaughtering a sheep which fulfills the requirements of the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor of Makkah, feeding six Miskins (needy) each with half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) of dates, wheat or any other type of the staple food of the country. This is to be given to the poor and Miskins of Makkah. Alternatively, he may observe Sawm (Fast) for three days in Makkah or any other place. He is to make another similar Fidyah (ransom) for deliberately covering his head while assuming Ihram (ritual state for hajj and Umrah). Your father must make sincere Tawbah (repentance to Allah) for having deliberately worn Makhit and for covering his head while assuming Ihram because he did something which the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited.

Q1: I suffer from varicocele. Is it permissible for me to wear what is known as scrotal support during Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) as doctors advised me to? May Allah reward you with the best.

A1: It is permissible for you to wear what is known as scrotal support during Ihram upon a doctor's recommendation due to your need for it. However, you have to make a Fidyah (ransom): to observe Sawm (Fast) for three days, feed six Miskins (needy) each with half Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) of wheat, dates, or barley and its equivalent in weight is 1.5 kg for each Miskin, or slaughtering a sheep as attested to by the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) which he said to Ka`b ibn `Ujrah (may Allah be pleased with him): \("Do these vermin trouble your head?" He said: "Yes." Thereupon he \(the Prophet \(peace be upon him\)\) said: "Shave your head, then observe Sawm \(Fast\) for three days, feed six Miskins or sacrifice a goat."\)

It consists of an orthopedic shoe supported by aluminum shanks which go all the way up to the upper hip. A: It is permissible for you to wear the above-mentioned shoes, their necessary accessories and whatever you need to wear to keep them in place. However, you must make a Fidyah (ransom) by choosing from among slaughtering a sheep that fulfils the specifications of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor, feeding six Miskins (needy persons) with half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) which is approximately the equivalent of 1.5 kg for each one or observing Sawm (Fast) for three days.

Q: I performed Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) in the blessed month of Ramadan. After finishing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during hajj and Umrah), I wanted to trim my hair but could not find a pair of scissors at the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah). Therefore, I went to my car at the parking lot to trim my hair there but when I arrived I forgot to trim it and merely changed my face veil. I had been in Ihram while wearing another Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) face veil, the Burqu`. Before I left the car, I remembered that I had cut my hair while wearing the Burqu` and remained wearing it until I reached my place of residence in Riyadh. I hope that Your Eminence could clarify the ruling on this and whether there is anything due on me. May Allah protect you.

A: There is nothing due on a Muhrimah (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) if she absentmindedly wears the Burqu`. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error﴾ The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿My Ummah has been pardoned for what they do by mistake or forgetfully, or under duress.﴾ However, you should have removed the Burqu` as soon as you remembered. As you did not do that, then you must make a Fidyah (ransom) by choosing from among slaughtering a sheep that fulfils the specifications of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah), feeding six Miskins (needy persons) with half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 2.172 kg) which is approximately the equivalent of 1.5 kg for each one or observing Sawm (Fast) for three days.

Q: My wife and I went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) intending to perform Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). However, she was wearing Niqab (face veil) on her face while knowing that the Burqu` (face veil) is prohibited during Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) but she did not know whether or not the Niqab is prohibited. Please inform me of the ruling on this. May Allah reward you with the best.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 156)

A: If the case is indeed as mentioned in the question and your wife knows that it is impermissible for her to wear the Burqu` (face veil) during her Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and Umrah), then she must make a Fidyah (ransom): slaughtering a sheep, feeding six Miskins (needy persons) or observing Sawm (Fast) for three days. At the same time, she is to make Tawbah (repentance to Allah) for doing something that the Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade a woman from doing while in Ihram. He (peace be upon him) said: «A woman \(in the state of Ihram\) should not wear Niqab or gloves.» (Related by Al-Bukhari, in his Sahih (Authentic Hadith Book), and Imam Ahmad in his Musnad (Hadith compilation of) Imam Ahmad, vol. 6, p. 119). Therefore, it is prohibited for a woman to wear Burqu` or Niqab during Ihram for Umrah or Hajj before the minor Tahallul (partial ending of the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah through shaving or shortening the hair and throwing pebbles at Jamarat-ul-Aqabah before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah).

Q1: My wife, my sister and I set out to perform Umrah during the month of Ramadan. I commanded my wife and my sister to wear gloves during the Umrah, as I was ignorant of the ruling on this. What are we to do in this case?

A1: If a Muhrim woman (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) wears gloves while being ignorant of the ruling on this, there is no sin on her. Q: During Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), many people use anti-inflammatory creams to reduce irritation and inflammation between their thighs. Since using perfume is among the prohibitions of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), does the cream brand called "Daktacort" have the same ruling when used in such circumstances?

Attached is a sample tube of the cream.

A: There is no objection to using the "Daktacort" cream or any other similar creams while a pilgrim is in Ihram for performing Hajj or `Umrah. There is nothing prohibited about using it because it is a kind of treatment, and not perfume. Therefore, it does not have the same ruling as perfume.

Q: My wife and I got married 23 years ago. She informed me that she performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with her parents three years before our marriage. When she arrived in Makkah while she was Muhrimah (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and upon entering Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah), she got her menstrual period. So, she refrained from going inside Haram and did not perform any of the rites. She then returned with her family to Abha without performing `Umrah. Is the marriage contract held while she was in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) valid?

A: Your wife must avoid doing the things which are prohibited during Ihram because she is still in a state of Ihram and must therefore return to Makkah and complete the rites of her `Umrah which include Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah), Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and shortening her hair. Afterwards, she is to return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from which she entered Ihram for her previous `Umrah which she did not complete, and enter the state of Ihram for another complete `Umrah to make up for her previous one. This is because that `Umrah was nullified by intercourse and she must slaughter a sheep that meets the specifications of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among its poor due to engaging in sexual intercourse before Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) on her second `Umrah. When she makes Tahallul from her second `Umrah, you may conduct a second marriage contract since the first is invalid because it was conducted during your wife's Ihram for `Umrah.

Q: One sister in Islam asked me to write to you and ask about the ruling on the following: More than ten years ago, before her marriage, she went with her parents to Makkah Al-Mukarramah for performing 'Umrah, heading from Al-Ta'if. At that time she was in the fifth day of her menstruation. As she was still young at that time and did not know the rulings of Taharah (ritual purification), she took a ceremonial bath and performed 'Umrah. On her return to Al-Ta'if, she found that her menstruating blood was still flowing, but she did not inform anyone. After a few years, she got married and the same thing happened. She now requests a fatwa on this to know whether she must make a Kaffarah (expiation) or Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a wilful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah)? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: If the matter is indeed as mentioned, then her 'Umrah is invalid and this woman is still in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah). Therefore, she must return to Makkah and perform the 'Umrah for which she entered into the state of Ihram. Accordingly, her marriage contract is invalid and therefore it must be conducted once again. If she had engaged in sexual intercourse, her 'Umrah is void and she must complete it. Afterwards, she must return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) from which she assumed Ihram and enter into Ihram for another Umrah to make up for the void Umrah she previously performed. She must slaughter a sheep in Makkah that meets the specifications of the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor of Al-Haram.

Q: I married a woman who had set out to perform her obligatory Hajj, but she made Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah) while she was menstruating. However, she was ignorant of the ruling for this matter. She performed Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only), and we got married right after this Hajj. Now, it is five years since we got married and we have two sons. Is our marriage valid? Do we have to renew the marriage contract, and is it a condition to pay a new Mahr (mandatory gift for the bride from her groom)? Is it permissible for me now to have sexual intercourse with her, touch her and look at her with desire? Is it permissible for me to accompany her for performing 'Umrah or Hajj if she does not have a Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative), a father, a brother or an uncle, except for me? Please give me a fatwa on this. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: The marriage contract which was conducted between you and the woman mentioned in the question after the minor Tahallul (partial ending of the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah through shaving or shortening the hair and throwing pebbles at Jamarat-ul-'Aqabah before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah) and before Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) is valid according to the preponderant judgement among two opinions maintained by scholars. However, this woman must return to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah because the Tawaf she made while menstruating was invalid. She must also offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a wilful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah) by slaughtering an animal that meets the specifications of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor because she had sexual intercourse before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. You must not be intimate with her until she performs Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and Umrah) if she still has to make Sa`y in case she was performing Tammatu` Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). The same applies if she was performing Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (Hajj only) and did not make Sa`y or Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah).

Q 1: Is it permissible for parents to propose to a girl for their son while he is on Hajj?

A: It is permissible for a person to commission another, a father or anyone else, to ask for a girl's hand in marriage on his behalf, whether the man on whose behalf the proposal is made is on Hajj or not. There is no clear evidence that doing so is among the prohibitions during Hajj or `Umrah. Only the Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) himself is forbidden to ask for a woman's hand in marriage and not his Wakil (legally accountable person who acts on behalf of another for a specific permissible matter).

Q 2: When I was in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), I repeatedly ejaculated semen due to touching and looking with desire while I was perfectly capable of preventing this. Please take into account that this occurred on the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah). Please give me a Fatwa. May Allah reward you.

A: It is prohibited for a pilgrim who has entered Ihram for Hajj or `Umrah to engage in sexual intercourse or anything related to it, such as kissing or foreplay, during Ihram. Since you repeatedly looked at your wife and enjoyed intimacy with her by touching her with desire until you ejaculated semen, you are sinful because you committed one of the acts you are prohibited from during Ihram. However, this does not invalidate your Hajj, but you must slaughter a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q: It is prohibited in Islam for a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for hajj or 'Umrah) to hunt land game animals while on Hajj or 'Umrah. It is likewise prohibited for him to eat the meat of game if it is hunted for him. Otherwise, there is no harm in this as was mentioned in hadiths.

My question is as follows: If a person hunts land game while he is not a Muhrim, is it lawful for him to eat its meat. But, if he saves some of this meat, by drying or freezing it or in any other method, and assumes Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah), is it lawful for him to eat from this meat, considering it as just meat and not hunted game. Or, it is prohibited to consume it due its being stored meat of a game that was hunted for him before Ihram, then he assumed Ihram and saved the leftover of the meat? May Allah grant you success.

A: A Muhrim for Hajj or 'Umrah who eats from land game animals which are lawful for consumption is of four kinds, as pertains to the question. The ruling on each one of them is as follows:

The first: There is a scholarly consensus on the ruling implied in an Ayah (Qur'anic verse) in Surat Al-Ma'idah: \(O you who believe! Kill not game while you are in a state of Ihram for Hajj or 'Umrah \(pilgrimage\).\) From this Ayah, it is deduced that a Muhrim is not to hunt land game while he is wearing the clothes of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and 'Umrah) or in anything related to it.

Second: According to the more correct of the two opinions maintained by scholars, it is prohibited for a Muhrim to eat land game even if a non-Muhrim hunted it for him. It is reported on the authority of Jabir (may Allah be pleased with him) that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: \(Land game is lawful for you while you are in Ihram \(ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah\) as long as you do not hunt it or have it hunted on your behalf.\) Recorded by Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy and Al-Nasa'y.

Third: It is permissible for a Muhrim to eat land game if it was hunted by a person who was not in a state of Ihram and if it was not hunted specifically for the Muhrim. The hadiths on this issue were interpreted as maintaining the permissibility of a Muhrim eating from land game.

Fourth: If a Muslim hunts land game before entering into the state of Ihram and then stores some of the meat of the game and afterwards enters into Ihram, there is no sin in eating the meat. This is because hunting before entering into Ihram is lawful based upon the basic permissibility of the act.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions,

Fatwa no. 21908

Q: I am one of those people who have the hobby of hunting migrating hawks. I capture them by laying traps, nets and food as a lure. I sell the captured birds but sometimes use some of them for hunting. All of this occurs within the boundaries of Al-Haram Al-Makky (areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Is it permissible to hunt in this manner within the boundaries of Al-Haram? And is it permissible to sell them within the boundaries of Al-Haram whether or not they were captured within the area of Al-Haram? Please give us a fatwa on this. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: There is no sin in hunting hawks in Al-Haram or any other place since it is only prohibited to eat their meat and not hunt them. There is no harm in taking possession of them if they do not belong to anyone and sell them for the purpose of hunting. This is because Allah (Most Exalted be He) says: ﴿And those beasts and birds of prey which you have trained as hounds, training and teaching them \(to catch\) in the manner as directed to you by Allah; so eat of what they catch for you.﴾

Q: My mother says that she had performed Hajj nearly thirty years ago. On the occasion of her Hajj she did some things which are unlawful to do during Hajj, due to her ignorance, such as cutting down some shrubs which were inside her tent. One of those present with her forbade her from doing this, saying that doing so invalidates her Hajj. What is the ruling on this? Afterwards, when she ascended Mount `Arafat and saw Al-Rahmah Mountain and the pole erected on it, she assumed it represented Satan, so she cursed it more than once.

And due to the crowding, when she was throwing pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) she threw them all at once and was not sure whether the pebbles fell inside the specified area of throwing.

She did all of the above out of ignorance. For this reason, she performed Hajj once again in 1426 A.H. fearing that her previous Hajj was invalid. I hope your Eminence answers the above questions.

A: Your mother's first Hajj is valid In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) and there is nothing due on her concerning cutting down the shrubs in Al-Haram out of ignorance. As for the pebbles she threw all at once, this does not fulfill the obligation and therefore, she must slaughter a sheep in Makkah that meets the specifications of an Udhiyyah and distribute its meat among the poor of Al-Haram. Alternatively, she may commission someone to slaughter on her behalf. If she is not financially able to do this, then she is to fast ten days.

Fatwa no. 20248

Q: I saw some pilgrims on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) in the south side of Mount Mina cutting pieces of siwak (tooth-cleansing sticks) from the nearby Arak tree branches for the purpose of cleaning their teeth. They also proceeded to distribute some of these pieces among the pilgrims. On the eleventh day of Dhul-Hijjah i.e. the first day of Tashreeq (i.e. 11th 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), I saw a man cutting down some Arak tree branches to use them as siwak. I saw another person doing the same thing at Mina. What is the ruling for cutting down trees in Mina? And what is the ruling on accepting siwaks cut from the trees of Al-Haram as a present?

A: It is impermissible to cut down any of the trees of Al-Haram whether it is done by a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) or a non-Muhrim. This is based on the words of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) who said: \(Its thorns are not to be cut, and its trees are not to be chopped.\) Recorded by Imam Muslim.

If anyone does any of this, he is to make Tawbah (repentance to Allah) and desist from doing it again. It is impermissible to accept sticks of Siwaks as a present, if they were cut from the trees of Al-Haram. This is because doing so would mean that the person accepting the gift consents and indirectly participates in this sin committed by the Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah).

Fatwa no. 21116

Q: There are tents that are used for royal ceremonies at Muzdalifah to house the guests of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques after their departure from `Arafat. When these tents are cleaned in preparation for the next Hajj season, we find weeds and shrubs such as those that stick to clothes when a person brushes against them. We also find another kind of plant that extends over the ground in a circle the diameter of which may reach up to three meters. These plants obstruct the cleaning process as well as cover the pathways leading to the tents. Since they are dry due to the lack of rain during the year, they are unsightly and harbor harmful insects.

We hope that Your Eminence could inform us whether it is permissible to remove them when cleaning these areas? We appreciate your efforts, may Allah protect you!

A: The Ijma` (consensus of scholars) is that it is impermissible to cut down the trees of Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) that grow of themselves due to the authentic Hadiths from the Prophet (peace be upon him) which include the Hadith related by Al-Bukhari and Muslim that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: «Allah

(Part No. 10; Page No. 168)

prevented the elephant from entering Makkah. » And: «At this very hour it has again been made inviolable. Its thorns are not to be cut and its trees are not to be chopped.» There is a scholarly consensus on the hadith.

The third question of Fatwa no. 20530

Q 3: Zamzam water (a well near the Ka`bah) has been described as having many virtues. Is there any Sahih Hadith (authentic Hadith) confirming this?

A: Zamzam water is the most blessed water on the earth. The most Sahih Hadith reported on the virtue of Zamzam water is found in Sahih (Authentic Hadith Book) of Muslim which states that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said about Zamzam: \(It is blessed; it is a food that nourishes.\)

Abu Dawud added through an authentic Isnad (chain of narrators): \(And a cure of illness.\) It is reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) also said: \(Zamzam water is for whatever \(purpose\) it is drunk for.\) (Related by Imam Ahmad, Ibn Majah and others)

The first question of Fatwa no. 16061

Q1: We performed Umrah: we made Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah), Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and after we have finished we removed the clothes of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah). Later, we wanted to make voluntary Tawaf. Is there a Salah (Prayer) that must be performed after the completion of each Tawaf, even if it is performed after Asr (afternoon) Prayer?

A1: It is permissible to make voluntary Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and pray two Rak`ahs (unit of Prayer) after Tawaf at any time. This is because Tawaf is a great act of worship and incurs great reward. It is permissible to perform Salah (Prayer) after it at any time, based on the words of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) who said: «Do not prevent anyone from circumambulating Al-Bayt \(the House: another name for the Ka`bah\) and praying there at any time they wish, by night or by day.» Recorded by Imam Ahmad, and by the Four Compilers of Hadith (Imams Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy, Al-Nasa'y and Ibn Majah). It was classified as authentic hadith by Al-Tirmidhy and Ibn Hibban.

Q 1: A man goes from At-Ta'if or Jeddah to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) for Salah (Prayer). Does he have to make Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) if he is not on Umrah (lesser pilgrimage)?

A 1: The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for the one who travels to Makkah is to start with Tawaf even if they are not in Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) for either Hajj or Umrah. If they do not make Tawaf or if it was at a time when it is not possible for them to perform it and they pray two Rak`ahs (units of Prayer), then there is nothing upon them. However, it is preferable not to do so since the Tawaf is the Tahiyat (greeting) of the Ka`bah while Tahiyat-ul-Masjid (two-unit-Prayer to greet the mosque) is a greeting for the Masjid (Mosque). The two Sunnah Rak`ahs performed after Tawaf fulfill this obligation. However, if this is at a time when they fear that the time for a certain prescribed Salah will end, that they will miss congregational Salah) or will miss Witr (Prayer with an odd number of units), then they are to start performing the Salahs mentioned above. The same applies to the residents who enter Al-Masjid Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah). It is recommended for them to start by making Tawaf if this is possible. Otherwise, they are to perform Tahiyat-ul-Masjid before sitting down as in any other Masjid.

Q 1: I reside in Madinah and entered Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) from Abyar `Aly for Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and then proceeded to Makkah along with other pilgrims travelling with me from Madinah on the evening of the seventh day of Dhul-Hijjah. I then continued to transport pilgrims from Makkah to Mina and the way back throughout the day and the evening of the eighth day. Therefore, I did not perform Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). I spent the night at Mina and stayed there until the morning of the ninth on which I went to `Arafat and then returned to Mina. Afterwards I went to `Arafat three more times and before noon I stopped my car near the Masjid (mosque) of `Arafah in the Wadi of `Uranah and stayed there. After Salah (Prayer), I went to the highest part of the Masjid, that is, in `Arafah until the sun set and then went to the car in the Wadi of `Uranah and carried passengers with me to Al-Mash`ar-ul-Haram (Sacred Monument). I then performed Maghrib (sunset) and `sha' (Night) Prayers at Muzdalifah.

I went to Makkah to refuel and arrived there before the Adhan (call to Prayer) of `sha'. When I heard the Adhan, I entered a Masjid in Al-Azizia and performed the congregational Salah before going to the petrol station.

I went from Makkah to `Arafat, transported pilgrims to Muzdalifah and arrived at 10:40 p.m., that is, before midnight. I spent the night at Muzdalifah until the Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. After well into the day, I went to Mina.

When we arrived at Mina it became possible for us to park at a place next to the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamarat-ul-Aqabah being the closest to Makkah). At Al-Jamrah Al-Kubrah (largest pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-Aqabah), I threw only seven pebbles and then went to the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) and dropped the pilgrims off next to it. and took others to Mina. I continued travelling from Makkah to Mina and the way around until the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah. I then threw the three Jamarat, intending to be Muta`jil (pilgrim who hastens to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah), at 12:55 p.m.

I went to Makkah and performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah) intending to travel to Madinah or to Jeddah according to the circumstances. When I arrived where I parked my car at Al-Ghaza next to the Haram

I found some passengers who asked me to take them to Al-Azizia and so I did. Once there, and still with my intention to be a Muta`jil, I found other passengers heading for Mina and so I took them there. I repeated this many times but I started to doubt my actions and asked one of the brothers there about my being a Muta`jil and about my Tawaf and whether it sufficed for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). He said that my being Muta`jil was valid but I must perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` some time before leaving. I spent the night in Makkah until the morning of the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah and then went to the Haram where I performed Jumu`ah (Friday) Prayer after which I immediately performed Tawaf-ul-Wada`.

I then immediately travelled to Madinah and took with me, from the Haram, some passengers. We arrived in Madinah after sunset. I performed Maghrib Prayer alone and ? sha' Prayer in congregation, praise be to Allah, the Lord of the Worlds, at Al-Masjid Al-Nabawy (the Prophet's Mosque in Madinah). Did I do anything wrong during my Hajj?

A 1: The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) is that when you arrive in Makkah from Madinah to perform Tawaf-ul-Qudum and you did not do this according to what you mentioned in your question and so you missed its reward. Your standing at `Arafah is valid and the same is true for spending the night at Muzdalifah and throwing the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). If you had spent the nights of the 11th and 12th of Dhul-Hijjah at Mina and threw the three pebbles on the 11th in the afternoon of the Jamrah Al-Sughra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area) and then Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and then Al-Jamrah Al-Kubrah (largest pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-Aqabah) each one with seven pebbles and the same for the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah and then you went to Makkah intending to be a Muta`jil and made Tawaf and Sa`y with the intention to travel and then made Tawaf-ul-Wada` on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah after Jumu`ah Prayer, then there is nothing upon you at all.

Fatwa no. 20871

Q: I performed Hajj twice and at that time there were not enough guides. Therefore, we used to follow the example of our companions who had previously performed Hajj. Now that, Praise be to Allah, there are plenty of guides, I learned that we had made the following mistakes out of ignorance:

First: We did not know that there were three kinds of Hajj. We performed Hajj with the intention of performing Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) but we entered Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for both Hajj and `Umrah from the Masjid (mosque) of at-Tan`im immediately after departing from Mina.

Second: On the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah), we stayed at the two mountains that stand opposite to each other at the extremities of Makkah until the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah).

Third: We stood at `Arafah until we performed Zhuhr (Noon) and Asr (Afternoon) Prayers and then returned to Al-`Alamayn Al-Qadimayn until sunset.

Fourth: We cut off Siwak (tooth-cleansing stick) from the trees in Mina as well as twigs and branches to make a fire.

Fifth: On the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), we threw pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) before Zawal (midday).

Sixth: On the day of departure, one of us threw pebbles on behalf of another without taking his permission and he did not repeat throwing the pebbles. Give us a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) about what we must do regarding these things, may Allah reward you! Please take into account that some of us performed Hajj again after this time, Praise be to Allah!

A 1: First: There is no harm in what you did by performing Ifrad Hajj and performing `Umrah afterwards from at-Tan`im after completing the rituals of Hajj, even though it was a preferable and better to enter Ihram for Tamattu`Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) and slaughter a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) for whoever had the means or observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days, three days of which should have been during Hajj and seven upon your return.

Second: It is preferable for the pilgrims to spend the night of the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) and the eve of the ninth of Dhul-Hijjah at Mina though it is permissible to spend the night elsewhere.

Third: If you had not left `Arafah before sunset for good, then standing at any place on the plain of `Arafah is valid due to the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: `Arafah is all a standing place and except the Wadi of `Urunah. If you had departed from `Arafah before sunset and did not return, then you must pay a Fidyah (ransom) consisting of slaughtering a sheep in Makkah that fulfills the conditions of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal slaughtered by non-pilgrims) and distributing its meat among the poor of the Haram.

Fourth: As for cutting from the trees of Mina out of ignorance, there is nothing on you concerning that.

Fifth: Throwing the pebbles on Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) before Zawal does not suffice. Therefore, each one of you is to pay a Fidyah by slaughtering an animal that fulfills the conditions of the Ud-hiyah and distribute its meat among the poor of Haram.

Sixth: It does not suffice to throw the pebbles on behalf of another except if one was commissioned to do so by that person and on the condition that he is unable to do the throwing himself. Therefore, what happened, throwing on behalf of another without being commissioned does not suffice and that person on whose behalf the other threw the pebbles is to pay a Fidyah by slaughtering an animal in Makkah that fulfills the condition of an Ud-hiyah and distribute its meat among the poor.

The second question of fatwa no. 14615

Q 2: I performed Hajj through a local company and we stayed outside Mina. I spent the night there on the eve of the 9th of Dhul-Hijjah but spent the nights of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) at Mina. Is spending the eve of the 9th of Dhul-Hijjah Wajib (obligatory) or a Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet)? If it is Wajib, what must I do? May Allah reward you with the best!

A 2: Staying the night at Mina on the eve of the ninth of Dhul-Hijjah is a Sunnah and not Wajib. Therefore, there is nothing on you for neglecting to spend that night at Mina. However, you missed the reward for the Sunnah of spending the night there.

The third question of fatwa no. 20167

Q 3: Many pilgrims do not spend the night at Mina on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) but stay at `Arafat. Please take into account that there are tents for pilgrims at Mina and likewise at `Arafat. Therefore, instead of spending extra money, the pilgrims spend the night at Mina following the Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet), go to the Masjid (mosque) of Namirah to perform Salah (Prayer) and then stand at `Arafat Mountain, avoiding the Salah which is a Bid'ah (innovation in religion) and maybe even Bid`ah Shirkiyyah (innovation in religion tantamount to associating others with Allah in His Divinity or worship). Some of the pilgrims offer Nafilah (supererogatory) Salah towards the direction of the Ka`bah while others offer Nafilah Salah towards the direction of Al-Rahmah Mountain as they claim.

A 3: Spending the night at Mina on the Day of Tarwiyah on the night before the ninth of Dhul-Hijjah is a Sunnah and not Wajib (obligatory). Therefore, there is nothing on the pilgrims who may have neglected this whether they spent the night at `Arafat or any other place. The direction for Salah is the noble Ka`bah and it is impermissible to face `Arafah Mountain or any other place during the Salah.

The fourth question of Fatwa no. 20794

Q 4: If the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah) falls on a Friday, would this be called the Greatest Hajj? Is there a special Thawab (reward from Allah) mentioned in the Sunnah about its merit?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 179)

A: The day of the Greatest Hajj is the Day of Nahr (10th of Dhul-Hijjah) because on this day the rituals of Hajj, such as throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing areas during Hajj), slaughtering the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), shaving and shortening the hair and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), are performed.

The second question of fatwa no. 19711

Q 2: About fifteen years ago, I performed Hajj along with my wife and one of my children. We entered Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) on the morning of the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) and then proceeded to Makkah and made Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah). After that, we headed for Mina in the afternoon where we spent the night. After Fajr (Dawn) Prayer, we headed for `Arafah and stood at `Arafah until after Zawal (midday) and then offered `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer and headed for Muzdalifah where we spent the night. In the morning, we headed for Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah), threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), shaved our heads and went to Makkah where we made Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), returned to Mina, threw the pebbles and spent the night there. After throwing the pebbles on the twelfth of Dhul-Hijjah, we went to Makkah and performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah upon leaving Makkah) and then returned to our area to the south of at-Ta'if.

After all this period, I started thinking about the Hajj that we performed and our intentions for the rituals and whether we had intended to make Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) or Qiran hajj (combining Hajj and Umrah without a break in between) but could not remember. However, I have slight suspicions that we intended to perform Ifrad Hajj because we slaughtered an animal on behalf of myself and my family but did not offer a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims). Based on the above, must we now slaughter a Hady and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) so as to avoid any doubts following the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: \(Leave what causes you doubt and turn to what does not cause you doubt.\) Or what must we do? Please tell us may Allah reward you with the best! Please take into account that at the time of our Hajj I was not ignorant of the three forms of Hajj but after all this time I have forgotten and I am in doubt about the form of Hajj we intended to perform.

A 2: If the case is indeed as mentioned in the question, that you departed from `Arafat after `Asr Prayer and headed to Muzdalifah, then you must slaughter a sheep that fulfills the specifications of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) for each one of you and you should slaughter in Makkah and distribute the meat among its poor because you neglected a Wajib (obligatory) act of Hajj which is standing at `Arafah until sunset.

As for your doubts on the form of Hajj you had intended to perform, and whether it was Ifrad Hajj or Qiran Hajj, then what is apparent is that you intended to perform Ifrad Hajj and there is nothing on you in that regard. However, each one of you is to perform the obligatory Umrah if you had not already done so and if you did not perform one afterwards. The reason for this is that a Muslim must perform Hajj and Umrah whenever he is capable of performing them and anything other than that is voluntary.

Q: What is the ruling on departing from `Arafah one minute before the time specified for Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer, according to the local time, taking into account that the passengers in the car said that the sun had already set?

A: The basic ruling is that pilgrims must remain in `Arafah on the ninth day of Dhul-Hijjah and not to leave until they ascertain that the sun has already set. It is not permissible for them to leave before that time. The important deciding factor is the setting of the sun. A pilgrim who leaves after ascertaining that the sun has set has fulfilled the obligation and there is nothing on them; but if they leave before sunset without having ascertained the time and do not return and remain there until sunset, or do not return even for a brief moment during the night, they must offer Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement), which is to slaughter a sheep to compensate for neglecting an obligatory act of Hajj.

Q 2: What must a woman do who commissions her husband to throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on her behalf because she has two children aged four years; her husband made Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj and Umrah) on their behalf for Hajj and he likewise threw the pebbles on behalf of the children while they were at Mina at that time as they were present at Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) during the day. As for the night, they were at Mina? May Allah reward you with the best!

A 2: There is no objection to a woman commissioning her husband to throw pebbles on her behalf if it is hard for her to do so herself. There is no objection to throwing the pebbles on behalf of the children because Hajj is not Wajib (obligatory) for them at this age as attested to by the Hadith related by Ibn

Q: My husband and I headed to Makkah and the Holy Places to perform the obligatory Hajj and left my son and daughter with an Egyptian family. I stayed with my full brother in Makkah who was performing Hajj along with a group which consisted of more than 80 people from Egypt. In charge of this group was a young man and two assistants. This man has been leading groups during Hajj for eight years, sharing everything with them such as residence, transport, and the like. We performed the rites of Hajj and everything went well. However, I have some very important questions. I would like to know the ruling for the following in relation to my wife and myself:

1- We left `Arafah on Friday at around 9:00 p.m and passed by Al-Muzdalifah. There we gathered most of the pebbles but did not have the opportunity to combine Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer and 'Isha' (Night) Prayer at the time of the latter because the bus driver said that no one should leave the bus since there was no place to park it and the head of the group agreed with him. We offered Maghrib and 'Isha' Prayer at Mina at around 2:50 a.m because that was when we arrived at Mina and did not offer Maghrib and 'Isha' Prayer at Muzdalifah except for some of us who did so hastily. What must my wife and I do concerning this?

2- I asked the head of the group to throw the pebbles on behalf of my wife and myself on Sunday and Monday and he replied that we should throw the pebbles ourselves on Sunday and commission someone else to throw on our behalf on Monday. The reason we wanted to commission someone to throw the pebbles on our behalf was that I was extremely worried about my children since I had a Ru'ya (true dream) that made me worry about them. When I went to take them from the family I left them with, I found that my son was injured on his chin and had to have three stitches.

3- If my wife and I must slaughter, should this be in my country Egypt or do I have to slaughter in Mina or Makkah?

4- Does the head of the group who gave us a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) on commissioning another to throw the pebbles on our behalf and who led us in performing Maghrib and 'Isha' Prayers at Mina share my sin or does he bear the sin alone?

May Allah grant you success and may Allah reward you with the best!

A: First: It is Wajib (obligatory) on pilgrims to spend the night at Muzdalifah on the night before the day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) and the weak from among them, such as women, can leave after midnight. The optimal thing to do is to leave after Fajr (Dawn) Prayer for whoever is capable and if you had left before midnight then you must offer a Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for neglecting the rituals. You are to slaughter in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Your wife must do the same.

Second: Commissioning a man to throw the pebbles on your behalf as well as on behalf of your wife on Monday due to your travelling to your country does not suffice for obligation and each one of you must offer Dam that fulfills the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram. Each one of you must pay a Fidyah (ransom) for abandoning Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and if you had performed it, it does not suffice since you performed it before its time.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Fatwa no. 14875

Q: In the month of Dhul-Hijjah of the year 1400 A.H., I performed the obligatory Hajj for the first time in my life with a physician colleague of mine who had performed Hajj before. I knew nothing about the rituals of Hajj and this colleague came along with me to teach me about these rituals. With us, came my colleague's elderly and invalid mother, his brother, another elderly lady and 4-5 other pilgrims. We reached Muzdalifah a little after the Adhan (call for Prayer) of 'Isha' (Night) Prayer and offered Maghrib (Sunset) and 'Isha' Prayers at Muzdalifah. When we tried to spend a portion of the night in Muzdalifah the Saudi car driver refused and insisted on taking us immediately to Mina. We complied and he took us to Mina during the second quarter of the night; we were the first to enter Mina.

I knew nothing of the rituals of Hajj and did not know whether or not I have to spend the night in Muzdalifah. My colleague and his brother were the ones to direct us concerning the rituals of Hajj.

The question is: Was the above procedure permissible for the inquirer who knew nothing about the rituals of Hajj? If an error has been made, what is the Kaffarah (expiation) for it? Also, what is the ruling regarding his physician colleague, his brother and the rest? Please advise. May Allah reward you.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 186)

A: You must offer a Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal) for abandoning spending the night in Muzdalifah which is to slaughter a sacrificial animal in Makkah; either a Jadh'ah (a six-month-old sheep), a Thaniyyah (a one-year-old goat) or a one-seventh share of a Badanah, meeting the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), and distribute the meat among the poor in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If you cannot, then you have to observe Sawm for ten days. The same applies to those who were with you and did the same.

Fatwa no. 16490

Q: We performed Hajj during the year 1413 A.H. Upon our arrival at Muzdalifah along with the women and the elderly who were with us, we combined Maghrib (Sunset) and 'Isha' (Night) Prayers and walked to Mina; we did not spend the night at Muzdalifah because we all shared the same car for transport. In the afternoon of the 10th of December, I went to throw the pebbles and found the people throwing at Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) so I threw the pebbles along with them out of ignorance and then trimmed my hair. After I returned to my tent, the others told me that what I did was wrong, so I returned at once and before sunset I threw seven pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) and shaved my hair. I then returned and threw the pebbles on the 11th and remained the eve of the 12th day until midnight at Mina. I commissioned my colleague to throw the pebbles on the 12th on my behalf and went to Makkah and performed one round of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and then travelled to Jeddah and then on Thursday left due to work circumstances and my health condition. I was performing Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between).

What must I do, taking into account that I slaughtered two sacrificial animals at my place of work out of fear of having committed any mistake?

A: Spending the night in Muzdalifah at least until midnight is among the acts which are obligatory in Hajj and whoever neglects performing it without a Shar`y (Islamically lawful) excuse must offer a Fidyah (ransom), which is to sacrifice a sheep or one seventh of a Badanah (a camel or cow or ox). What you did on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals), that is repeating throwing the pebbles at Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah) when you learned about your erroneous throwing, is correct and fulfills the obligation in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). As for commissioning another person to throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on your behalf on the second day, it is impermissible except if you had an excuse for not performing this act yourself. If you had a Shar`y (Islamically lawful) excuse then you did nothing wrong; otherwise you must slaughter another sacrificial animal as Fidyah (ransom).

As for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), it does not fulfill the obligation except after having finished the rituals of Hajj. If you made your Tawaf after the person you commissioned had actually thrown the pebbles on your behalf in the afternoon, it is correct. Otherwise, you must slaughter instead as a third Fidyah. The animal you slaughtered at your place of work is invalid, because the slaughter must be performed inside Makkah and the meat must be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram.

Fatwa no. 15881

Q: During Hajj, on the Day of `Arafah, we rented a car

and on the same day of `Arafah the driver left us there. Sunset fell when we were supposed to go from `Arafah to Al-Muzdalifah. However, we waited for the driver and, until 2:00 a.m., he still had not returned. So we rented another car so that we could spend the night at Muzdalifah even if for a single hour. However, due to the number of cars and slow traffic, Allah did not destine for us to spend the night in Muzdalifah, which we reached at approximately 8:00 a.m. i.e. it took us nearly six hours to cover this short distance. We had many small children with us and so we could not walk or carry them. What is the ruling on this? And if we have to offer a Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal), must it be performed in Makkah or can we pay for it through Al-Rajhi Company at our city of Najran? Please give us a Fatwa on this, may Allah benefit you!

A: Whoever finds it difficult to reach Muzdalifah to spend the night there due to delay in transportation and cannot walk because of weakness or because he has his family with him, he must remain with his family. Anyone under these circumstances has the excuse of abandoning spending the night there and no Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) is required of him, due to the Words of Allah: \(Allâh burdens not a person beyond his scope.\) And: \(So keep your duty to Allâh and fear Him as much as you can\) And Allah knows best.

Q 3: The huge crowding during Hajj last year did not allow some pilgrims to spend the night in Muzdalifah; it was difficult to reach it and some of them even lost their way. What should they do?

A: The obligation to spend the night in Muzdalifah is waived for whoever is unable to fulfill it due to crowding. As for those who lost their way and spent the night in another place, they must offer Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement) because it was possible for them to ask for directions to go there. They acted negligently by not asking for directions.

Q 4: Is it permissible to make up for throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing areas during Hajj) in the morning before Zawal (midday) of the second day or should the pilgrim do it along with the pebbles to be thrown on the following day?

A: It is invalid to throw the pebbles on the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th, and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) except after Zawal. It is neither permissible nor fulfills the obligation to do it in the morning because the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not throw the pebbles except after Zawal and said: \(Take your \(Hajj\) rituals from me.\) Anyone who misses throwing the pebbles on a certain day must throw them on the following day after Zawal - throwing all the pebbles of the missed past day before the present day of throwing, and then return after completing throwing at the last Jamrah (stone pillar marking the pebble-throwing area) to throw the pebbles at the three for the present day.

Also, are they allowed to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) before dawn if they have sufficient time for that?

Q 3: If a woman begins menstruating while performing the rituals of Hajj, is it permissible for her to enter Al-Masjid Al-Haram, or any other mosque in Al-Masha`ir (Sacred sites where the rites of Hajj are performed: Mina, `Arafah and Muzdalifah), especially if she cannot rent a tent or a dwelling for herself and her Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) and they only rely on the mosque and nearby streets for taking rest?

A: It is impermissible for a menstruating woman to sit in the mosque or enter Al-Masjid Al-Haram, until she is purified: i.e. the menstruation blood has stopped and she has taken a ritual bath after that. Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) forbade menstruating women from entering mosques, as reported in the hadith narrated on the authority of `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) who said: "The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) came while

Q: I performed the obligatory Hajj the last year 1416 A.H. We proceeded from `Arafah after sunset of the ninth day, but we did not reach Muzdalifah or spend the night there due to the heavy traffic on the roads leading to Muzdalifah. We continued driving to Muzdalifah with the intention of spending the night there, but we fell asleep at about 1:00 a.m before we reached it. We only arrived after sunrise on the Day of Nahr (Day of Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) and we did not stop over, but continued moving to Mina.

I hope you will elaborate on the legal ruling of what we did. Are we obligated to take any further act? May Allah reward you with the best reward and keep you safe!

A: You are obligated to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a wilful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ceremonial state for Hajj and `Umrah) because you neglected an obligatory rite of Hajj by sleeping and failing to pass the night in Muzdalifah. It was obligatory on you to keep on moving to Muzdalifah to pass the night of the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) there in accordance with the direction of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him): \(Whoever offers this Salah \(Prayer\) with us and stands with us until we move on, and had stood before that in `Arafah by night or by day, has successfully completed their Hajj.\) Recorded by Imam Ahmad and by the four compilers of Sunan (Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes). Fatwa no. 17825

Q: Some inquirers from among the people of `Ar`ar asked us about a number of mistakes they committed while performing the obligatory Hajj this year. It happened that they moved from `Arafat after Maghrib (sunset) and did not pass by Muzdalifah or stop over by it. They directly headed to stone Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pillar to Makkah). Then, they went to the the Sacred House of Allah (Al-Ka`bah) and performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and made Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) before midnight. However, some of them noticed that Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) was empty of people. So, a woman and her son inquired from an Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) of a mosque near Al-Haram about this matter and he gave her a fatwa that she had to return and spend the night in Muzdalifah and throw the pebbles of Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pillar; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah) at its due time and after that she would perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. The woman and her son informed those with them, but they did not respond. So, she decided to return to Muzdalifah and passed the night there and completed her Hajj as she was advised.

We hope you will give us a fatwa regarding those who neglected passing the night in Muzdalifah, throwing the pebbles of Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah and performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y before midnight.

A: Those who did not spend the night in Muzdalifah without a legal excuse and threw the pebbles of Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pillar to Makkah) before midnight are required to offer two Fidyahs (ransoms): one for not spending the night in Muzdalifah without a legal excuse, and another one for throwing the pebbles before midnight.

As for performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) before midnight, it should be repeated; those pilgrims should return to Makkah at anytime and perform it, but it is better to hasten to do so as soon as possible. Moreover, whoever among them had sexual intercourse before repeating the Tawaf must offer Fidyah (ransom) which is a sacrifice meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat be distributed among the poor. They should also repent to Almighty Allah for the sin they had committed. As for those who returned and passed the night in Muzdalifah, threw the pebbles of the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) and performed the Tawaf after midnight, they are not obligate to take any further action.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

The first question of Fatwa no. (19018)

Q 1: Someone performed Hajj to the Sacred House of Allah (Al-Ka`bah) and says that he left Muzdalifah in the first third of night, at approximately 10 p.m., because he had women with him. What is incumbent upon all of them, may Allah reward you?

A 1: Whoever leaves Muzdalifah before midnight without a legal excuse, such as illness, has not fulfilled the obligation of spending the night there and must slaughter a sheep in Makkah meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It should be distributed among the poor within the Sacred Precincts. This is because the least time required to fulfill the obligation of spending the night in Muzdalifah is until midnight, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not permit the weak persons to leave Muzdalifah until after midnight.

Q: Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) helped me perform Hajj to His Sacred House (Al-Ka`bah) this year, but something happened during this Hajj that disturbed me greatly. When we left `Arafah on the ninth day and moved to Muzdalifah, we arrived in it at 10:30 p.m. We shortened and combined Maghrib (Sunset) and `Isha' (Night) Prayers.

I wanted to spend the night in Muzdalifah till dawn, but my husband and some others who had women with them insisted on moving from Muzdalifah at midnight because they had women with them who are weak, and therefore excused. We arrived in Mina at 1:00 a.m. and threw pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) at 1:15 a.m. I was concerned with our having left Muzdalifah, thinking whether it was right or not. I asked several shaykhs about this, and my husband did as well, but they told us that our action is correct and valid.

Then, a shaykh named Salih Al-Ghazaly told us that we had to assume Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) anew by putting on Ihram clothing and repeat throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). That was on the first day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice). It is known that women need not wear a specific garment in Hajj, so my husband put on his Ihram garment again and we both made intentions to enter the state of Ihram. Then, we went on that day, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, and threw pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah and performed Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) according to what the shaykh told us. Also, he said that each of us should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

We postponed offering the Dam until we ask and be sure whether it is obligatory on us or not. Is our departure from Muzdalifah at midnight correct? Is our throwing pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah at 1:15 a.m. correct? Is our concern with asking and knowing the answer, and my husband being keen to inform me of the answer regarded as exaggeration, dispute, or sin during Hajj? Is our second act of repeating Ihram, throwing pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah, and Tahallul regarded as a sin? Should we offer Kaffarah (expiation)? Is our Hajj invalid and must we repeat it?

A: Spending the night in Muzdalifah is one of the obligations of Hajj. It is fulfilled by remaining there most of the night. Therefore, since you left Muzdalifah at 12:00, as you mentioned, you did nothing wrong because it is the middle of the night and there is no harm in moving from Muzdalifah after midnight for the weak of women and others.

Moreover, your throwing pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah at the time that you mentioned is right and valid. It is permissible for the weak of women, old-aged, and those with them to throw pebbles in the last half of the night on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) to avoid the crowds and any difficulties. As for wearing the Ihram clothing again after the first Tahallul and repeating the throwing of pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah, all of this is overlooked and there is neither sin nor Kaffarah required of you. This is because the first Tahallul is fulfilled by throwing the pebbles at

Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah, shaving or shortening the hair. Also, asking about matters of your faith in order to know a legal ruling is not considered exaggeration, dispute, or sin in Hajj. This is permissible so that Muslims can be aware of their Islamic duties and carry out Allah's Commands as they should be. However, you should only consult trustworthy and knowledgeable people regarding matters of faith and life. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿So ask the people of the Reminder, if you do not know.﴾

Fatwa no. 20978

Q: A man, three of his neighbors, and their mothers went to perform Hajj. On the ninth day of Dhul-Hijjah, they were in Mina searching for a place to camp in. They had their tents and supplies, and they kept searching but they did not find a place to pitch their tent. There were women with them who needed restrooms close to the tent, and they were prevented from camping at some places. So, they remained in their car until the next day. Then, they went to `Arafah and remained there the whole day until sunset, but they could not proceed with the first groups due to the crowd. They waited until the crowd decreased because they had elderly people with them so that they left the bounds of `Arafah shortly before midnight. They passed by Muzdalifah and did not spend the night there because they had elderly people with them. They continued moving and arrived in Mina while the Adhan (call to Prayer) of Fajr (Dawn) Prayer was being announced. They threw the pebbles at the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing areas, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) and moved to Makkah. After returning from Makkah, they did not find a place to stay in. They kept searching, but they were exhausted and fell asleep outside the sign marking the border of Makkah. Their place was not contiguous with other tents; it was about 3 km away. They remained in that place and completed the rites of Hajj; however, these pilgrims were unaware that they had to spend most of the night in Mina though they did not find a place there and there were sick men and women with them.

What should they do to compensate for not spending the night in Muzdalifah? Also, what is obligatory on them to do for not spending the night in Mina during Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), considering what was mentioned? Is there harm in their having offered Maghrib (Sunset) and `Isha' (Night) Prayers while they were at the border of `Arafah shortly before midnight?

A: If the case is as mentioned, there is nothing wrong with what these pilgrims did. Their Hajj is valid, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). They are exempted from spending the night in Muzdalifah because they were not able to reach it until after midnight, and they left it as it is allowable for the weak and those with them to leave Muzdalifah after midnight. Also, there is nothing wrong in their having camped outside of Mina during the Days of Tashriq because they did not find a place even after searching.

Q 1: I performed the obligatory Hajj with my family the last year, 1418 A.H. but some things happened and I do not know whether they are right or not.

We left `Arafah after standing there at 10 p.m. and entered Muzdalifah at 12 midnight. However, we left it at 12.30 by order of my father and returned to a house we rented in Makkah because my mother had a migraine attack; however, the rest of the family were fine. Are we charged with something due to our leaving Muzdalifah before Fajr (Dawn) Prayer?

A 1: It is permissible to proceed from Muzdalifah after midnight for the excused, such as the sick, the old and the young and those with them to avoid the hardship. As for the healthy, it is better for them to stay in Muzdalifah until after Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. However, there is nothing wrong with your having gone

Q 2: After we returned home from Muzdalifah at 3 a.m. in the morning, my father and brothers went to throw the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). My mother and I authorized them to throw the pebbles on our behalf. They finished throwing the pebbles shortly before or along with the Adhan (call to Prayer) for Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. Is their throwing the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah before sunrise valid or not?

A: It is permissible to throw the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah after midnight of the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals). Also, it is permissible for the incapable persons to authorize someone to throw on their behalf. However, it is better for the capable persons to throw on the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) after sunrise following the example of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Q 3: In the first of the nights of Mina, my father and brothers slept after performing 'Isha' (Night) Prayer in our home in Makkah. I tried to wake them up, but it took some time. After they woke up we had dinner and went to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) at 11 p.m. that night. We completed the Tawaf at 1 a.m. in the morning and left the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Our brother stayed behind under the pretext of bringing Zamzam water, but actually he went to smoke. We along with his wife waited for him in the courtyard of the Haram till 2 a.m. in the morning. We searched for him and found him at our doorstep at 2.30 a.m. We all then went to Mina but the road was overcrowded with cars, consequently, we could not enter Mina until 4.20 a.m. that morning. We remained there and did not sleep until 4.50.

Our father then ordered us to return to our home in Makkah. Is this counted as an overnight stay in Mina? Must we expiate by offering Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement) because we were late entering Mina?

A: Spending the night in Mina during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) is among the obligations of Hajj. It is not permissible to neglect it except for pilgrims with valid excuses. The least time for discharging the obligation is to remain until midnight. A pilgrim who leaves without an excuse will be charged with a sacrifice. If a pilgrim arrives there at midnight and remains there till dawn, it counts as sufficient.

Q 4: During Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), my father and I were counting the rounds of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah). After we finished, my father said that we had performed seven rounds, but I said that they were only six. He was adamant that it was seven, then we left the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) because my father insisted. Is this Tawaf valid or not?

A: Anyone who doubts the number of the rounds of Tawaf should build on certainty, which is the least number and complete what is doubted to be missing. Accordingly, you should repeat the Tawaf which you did not complete.

Q: Please, explain the right way of shaving in Hajj and `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). Should it be done by razor or an electric shaver; which is better? Are they the same? Please, advise us!

A: The point is to shave or shorten the hair regardless of the type of instrument used. It should be noted that shaving is better, i.e. to remove the hair with a razor and the like. It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) supplicated three times for forgiveness and mercy of those who shave their hair and only once for those who merely shorten their hair.

Q 2: I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) this year but I am uncertain of the matter of shortening the hair. I heard some people saying that it is impermissible to shorten hair from one side only or for example from the right and the left side only. I left the Masjid (mosque) because of this debate. I took off Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and put on my usual clothes before I shortened my hair. What is the ruling on this case?

A: If the case is as you mentioned that you shortened your hair according to the manner that is Mashru` (Islamically prescribed) and then assumed Tahallul. The Wajib (obligatory) is to shorten all the hair. On the other hand, there is nothing wrong with wearing your usual clothes before shortening your hair out of ignorance.

Q 1: If someone living in Jeddah performs `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and does not shave their head except in Jeddah. What is the ruling on that?

A 1: There is no harm on performing the rite of shaving the head during Hajj or `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) anyplace outside Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) or inside it. During `Umrah, however, a pilgrim does not disengage from Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) unless he shaves off or shortens his hair. During Hajj, if a pilgrim stones the Jamrah (stone pillar marking the pebble-throwing area) and performs Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), he should not have sexual intercourse with his wife until he shaves off or shortens his hair.

Q 2: A man from Al-Ta'if performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and then returned to Al-Ta'if ; however, he did not shave off his hair until he returned to Al-Ta'if. This happened 5 years ago, and when he asked one of the seekers of knowledge he was told that he is committed to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for each `Umrah because Al-Ta'if is not a place for discontinuing the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah; rather, the place for this is Makkah.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 204)

A 2: Shaving or shortening the hair during Hajj or `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) is permissible anywhere. The mentioned above Fatwa that shaving off or shortening the hair must be within Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) is incorrect.

The first question of Fatwa no. 17783

Q 1: What is the ruling on forgetting to shave one's head after completing the rituals of Hajj and remembering it only after a long time?

A: Shaving or shortening the hair is one of the obligatory rituals of Hajj and `Umrah. A pilgrim who forgets to shave or shorten the hair has to do so if it is remembered afterward. If the pilgrim engages in sexual intercourse before shaving or shortening the hair, it is required to offer a Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal), which is to slaughter a sheep in Makkah and distribute its meat to the poor in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). This is because without it, major Tahallul (final removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah, after performing the final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah for Hajj) cannot be complete in Hajj; while engaging in sexual intercourse before it necessitates offering a Fidyah. The same applies to `Umrah; without it Tahallul after finishing `Umrah cannot be fulfilled.

The first and third question of Fatwa no. (17832)

Q 1: In the past, whenever one of us offered Hajj, we would ignorantly cut a little hair from the front and the back part of our head and on the first day stone Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) to disengage from Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) . In fact, I did so before my marriage. Then, two years later I got married, praise be to Allah, but I was told that I was still Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and that my marriage contract was null and void. So, according to them, I must repeat the contract of marriage because shaving off or shortening the hair is a must for discontinuing the state of Ihram of Hajj or `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). Is this correct?

A 1: It is obligatory to shorten all of the hair of the head from all sides. As for what you previously did out of ignorance, there is nothing wrong with you and the marriage is valid.

Q 2: A young man performed the obligatory Hajj with us. He stoned Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) on the first day and did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). He remained in Mina the rest of the days of Hajj and did not stone the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) himself but he authorized someone to stone on his behalf. His excuse was that he had a psychological illness which affected him from time to time. I should mention that he performed Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and he was offering Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and stood in `Arafah. We tried to convince him to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, even if he had to be carried on a stretcher because it is a pillar of Hajj, as known; but he refused to enter Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) due to his illness. He then returned home which is outside the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), and his feelings of fear vanished away.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 206)

The next week he returned, assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. He did not commit any of the prohibitions of Ihram, until he performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and the major Tahallul (final removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah, after performing the final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah for Hajj). Is his Hajj valid, especially because what occurred was involuntary due to his severe illness which we knew about?

A 2: If the reality is as mentioned, then nothing is required from this young man as long as he performed the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) with Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) or Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) because he did what was obligatory on him.

The third question of Fatwa no. (20088)

Q 3: A man came to Jeddah and on the next day he went to perform the first `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) in his life. He went with a relative and performed the `Umrah. After we finished the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) I said to him, "Will we shave off or shorten the hair? He said, "We will shave it off at home. When we returned home, we forgot to have our hair cut and took off the Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). What is required from us? May Allah reward you with the best!

A 3: If a pilgrim forgets to shave or shorten his hair and performs the Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) but wears his regular clothing before shaving or shortening the hair, it is obligatory on him to take off his clothes when he remembers and put on the garment of Ihram. Then, he should shave his head or shorten his hair and wear his clothes and nothing is required from him. There is nothing wrong with him because he is excused due to forgetfulness.

Q 2: My father performed Hajj three times, but he never shaved off or shortened his hair completely. He would cut some hairs from the sides of his head with scissors. Is his Hajj valid? Is he committed to something? May Allah reward you with the best and protect you!

A 2: It is obligatory on a pilgrim who wishes to remove the ritual state of `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) or Hajj to shorten all the hair of his head. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿\(some\) having your heads shaved, and \(some\) having your head hair cut short﴾ We are ordered to follow the example of the Prophet (peace be upon him). It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said in Farewell Hajj: ﴿Take your \(Hajj\) rites from me.﴾ He ordered shaving off or shortening the hair. As for what your father did, it is forgiven, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) due to the well-known dispute among the people of knowledge in this regard. However, in the future, he should shorten his hair completely whether in Hajj or `Umrah; but shaving is best according to what was authentically reported in the Two Sahih(authentic) Books of Hadith (i.e. Al-Bukhari and Muslim) that the Prophet (peace be upon him) supplicated for those who shave off their hair three times and said after that: ﴿And those who shorten.﴾ May Allah grant us success! She returned home, bathed and wore perfume. Two weeks later, she remembered that she did not shorten her hair, so she shortened it. What is the ruling on this act?

A 5: A: What this woman did is valid and she is excused due to forgetfulness in all she did before shortening her hair. This includes all the prohibitions of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) except sexual intercourse, which if she had relations before shortening her hair, she will have to slaughter a sheep in Makkah and distribute it among the poor people of Al-Haram (the Sacred Precincts of Makkah).

Then, we went to Jeddah that same night but my wife did not remember that she had not shortened her hair until `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer on the next day when she shortened it. However, we most likely had sexual intercourse before she shortened her hair. Is there any compensation due from her? Please reply, may Allah reward you with the best!

A 1: This woman fulfilled what is obligatory on her as she shortened her hair when she remembered, but it remains that she must slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute it among poor people. This is because it most likely that sexual intercourse took place before she disengaged from Ihram by shortening the hair. However, the `Umrah is valid.

Q: I performed the rites of `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the last ten days of the blessed month of Ramadan in 1214 A.H.; however, I was not fully aware of these rites! I did not start the Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) from Al-Hajar Al-Aswad (the Black Stone in a corner of the Ka`bah), but from the Yemeni Corner (southern corner of the Ka`bah facing Yemen). I was ignorant of the conditions and the obligations, but I completed all the rites correctly, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). Then, few days later, I read that it is incumbent to begin the Tawaf from Al-Hajar Al-Aswad. Please, explain what the consequences are for doing this? Is my `Umrah incomplete, because I was ignorant of where to begin Tawaf? Please reply, may Allah safeguard you!

A: What the questioner did of starting with the Yemeni Corner (southern corner of the Ka`bah facing Yemen) is wrong because the beginning of Tawaf should be from Al-Hajar Al-Aswad (the Black Stone in a corner of the Ka`bah). However, this mistake does not affect the validity of Tawaf because it includes some increase in the first round, and it is valid if he completed the seventh round to Al-Hajar Al-Aswad.

Does kissing Al-Hajar Al-Aswad (the Black Stone in a corner of the Ka`bah) suffice for saying: "Bismillah (In the Name of Allah)" and "Allahu Akbar (Allah is the Greatest)"? A pilgrim forgot to say them and only kissed Al-Hajar Al-Aswad, then he remembered after passing it and said them while going to Maqam Ibrahim (the Station of Ibrahim). What is required of him?

A: Idtiba` is a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) putting the middle of his garment under his right armpit and both ends of the garment on his left shoulder while keeping his right shoulder and upper arm uncovered. It is an act of Sunnah in the first Tawaf when the pilgrim first arrives in Makkah. It constitutes the Tawaf of `Umrah for a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), and Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) for a Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or a Mufrid (pilgrim performing Hajj only). If a pilgrim forgets it, there is nothing required of him and the same applies if he forgets Takbir (saying: "Allahu Akbar [Allah is the Greatest]") or Tasmiyah (saying, "Bismillah [In the Name of Allah]") at the beginning of Tawaf, because Takbir, Dhikr (Remembrance of Allah) and Du`a (supplication) during Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) are acts of Sunnah that are not obligatory. However, it is obligatory to perform Tawaf or Sa`y while the intention of doing it is resolved from the beginning of the ritual.

Q 2: I slaughtered a sacrificial animal as Fidyah (ransom) following a Fatwa that reached me. I slaughtered it in one of the slaughterhouses of Makkah , specifically in Al-Masfalah, and I distributed the meat among the poor there. Is this considered distributing the meat among the poor people of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah)? Are the poor of Al-Haram considered the poor of Makkah? I did not take anything from it, but I gave to some relatives living in Makkah . I visited them and they prepared food from it and I ate with them. Am I committed to something for eating this meat with them? Moreover, if a pilgrim offers Fidyah (ransom), is his Hajj incomplete? Is there a Hajj required from him after that?

A 2: A sacrificial animal which is slaughtered for having committed a prohibited act or omitting an obligation should be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) They are the poor within the boundaries of Makkah whether inside or outside Makkah ;whether they are residents in Makkah or visitors. Whoever offers this ransom should not eat from the meat of the sacrificial animal because it is an expiation.

As for the ransom of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or voluntary sacrifices, there is no harm in eating from them. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Then, when they are down on their sides \(after slaughter\), eat thereof, and feed the needy who does not ask \(men\), and the beggar who asks \(men\).﴾

The first question of Fatwa no. 21169

Q 1: Should a pilgrim after Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulating the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) or any supererogatory Tawaf offer Salat-ul-Tawaf (two-unit-Prayer performed after circumambulating the Ka`bah)? Is saying Takbir (saying: "Allahu Akbar [Allah is the Greatest]") when coming in line with Al-Hajar Al-Aswad (the Black Stone in a corner of the Ka`bah) after the seventh round of Tawaf an act of Sunnah? Is Du`a' (supplication) after the seventh round of Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) an act of Sunnah?

A: Yes, a pilgrim should offer Salat-ul-Tawaf after Tawaf-ul-Wada` or a supererogatory Tawaf. A worshipper may recite Surah Al-Kafirun in the first Rak`ah (unit of Prayer), and Surah Al-Ikhlās in the second Rak`ah, after reciting Al-Fatihah (Opening Chapter of the Qur'an). Malik ibn Anas (may Allah be pleased with him) said: I heard that when the Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\) finished his Tawaf, he would pray two Rak`ahs, and when he \(peace be upon him\) wanted to go to Safa and Marwah, he would touch Al-Hajar Al-Aswad before he left. As for the last part of the question, it was not authentically reported that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) stood after finishing the seventh round of Sa`y and supplicated.

Fatwa no. 13940

Q: What is the ruling if a woman menstruates before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), in spite of her taking menstruation-prevention pills? It should be added that after she returned home her husband had sexual intercourse with her. She offered Hajj before in 1409 A.H. and she works in Najran in the Kingdom. Can she perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah next year or at any time? Is she required to perform only Tawaf or perform Tawaf along with offering Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement)? Does offering Dam suffice? Or is there nothing required of her? Answer me, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: It is obligatory for her to return to Makkah to make up for Tawaf-ul-Ifadah because it is a Rukn (integral pillar) of Hajj that cannot be waived under any circumstance. In addition, she is obliged to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor for having intercourse before Tawaf-ul-Ifadah.

Fatwa no. 15843

Q: Someone offered Hajj and did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj).

A: If a Muslim offers Hajj but does not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), their Hajj, though valid, is incomplete. They must perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y (going between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah). If the questioner did not perform that Tawaf, he would have to return to Makkah and offer Tawaf and perform the Sa`y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah at anytime that he can go to Makkah. If he had sexual intercourse with his wife during that time, he would be committed to slaughtering a Fidyah (ransom) in Makkah meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) or one seventh of a camel or a cow and distribute it among the poor people of Al-Haram. If he cannot do that, he should fast ten days. However, he is now not in a state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) because he disengaged from it by throwing the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) and shortening the hair of his head. Moreover, he is required to avoid sleeping with his wife until he performs Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) with the intention of the previous Hajj and with his normal clothes because he has done the first Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) by throwing the Jamarat on the day of `Eid (the festival day) or shortening the hair. He is only prohibited to approach women until he does Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and performs the Sa`y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah for seven rounds.

The fifth question of fatwa no. 16407

Q 5: One of my friends told me that there is a Hadith that indicates that if a pilgrim observes the first Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) but the sun sets before they perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), it is obligatory on them to wear the Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and return to the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) as they were. We hope that you will illustrate this.

A: The Hadith that you have mentioned is narrated by Um Salamah. However, Al-Nawawwy mentioned that scholars agreed that it is inapplicable because it's Isnad (chain of narrators) is weak.

Fatwa no. 15428

Q: I performed Hajj in 1410 A.H. Since I am illiterate, I performed the rituals of Hajj as people told me. I assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), and performed Tawaf (circumambulation the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah).

(Part No. 10; Page No. 216)

I also spent the night at Mina where I offered Fajr (Dawn) Prayer on the 9th of Dhul-Hijjah then I went to `Arafah and stayed there until I proceeded with the pilgrims from `Arafah to Muzdalifah after sunset. We headed to Muzdalifah where we spent the night of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and collected the pebbles. We went to throw the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) after Fajr Prayer. I threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), shaved my head, and removed Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) but did not go to Makkah. On the next day, I threw the pebbles and stayed at Mina and did not go to Makkah.

On the third day, I threw the pebbles and asked a shaykh at Mina whether I should slaughter a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) or not since I performed Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only). He replied in the negative. I also asked him about Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and he told me to perform it and leave Makkah. Therefore, I performed it and went to my residence.

Two days later, I asked a fellow brother about how he performed Hajj. He told me that there is Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation the Ka`bah in Hajj). He asked a shaykh about my case and he told him that my Hajj is incomplete and that offering a Fidyah (ransom), Sawm (Fast), or Sadaqah (voluntary charity) is insufficient and I have to repeat Hajj because I did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. I look forward to receiving your reply.

A: Your Hajj is valid but you have to return to Makkah as soon as possible to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and then Tawaf-ul-Wada`.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 217)

If you engaged in sexual intercourse with your wife during this period, a sheep should be slaughtered and its meat should be distributed to the poor in Makkah. If you cannot afford to do this, you have to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days. However, if you did not have sexual intercourse, you have only to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Tawaf-ul-Wada`.

The ninth question of fatwa no. 16402

Q 9: Is it obligatory on a Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) if they performed Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah)?

A: Tawaf-ul-Qudum is not a substitute of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah for a Qarin pilgrim or Mufrid Hajj (performing Hajj only) because it is done at a different time. Moreover, it is a Rukn (integral pillar) and Hajj is incomplete without it. Its time is after standing at `Arafah and moving from Muzdalifah. As for Tawaf-ul-Qudum, it is an act of Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet): it is the choice of the pilgrim to do it or not.

and `Umrah as Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) in 1413 A.H. We made Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and went to Mina where we spent the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah). Then, we went to `Arafah on the day of `Arafah (the ninth day of Dhul-Hijjah), returned to Mina on the Day of Sacrifice (10th of Dhul-Hijjah) and threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). After that we slaughtered the Fidyah (ransom) and made Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). However, my mother fell ill around the time of `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer of that day and kept getting worse. I threw the three Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) on her behalf on first and second Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). She got worse and I was worried about her and took her from Mina directly to Jeddah on the second day of Tashriq in the evening after throwing the Jamarat. Therefore, she could not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Now, she is having medical checkups in Jeddah. We live in the suburbs of Al-Baha and she is getting well.

What should be done regarding the Tawaf? We are waiting for your answer in order to complete the rituals of our Hajj. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: It is Wajib (obligatory) on your mother to return to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah which shall suffice for Tawaf-ul-Wada` if you leave immediately after performing it. May Allah heal her from every ailment!

Fatwa no. 19634

Q: Allah Almighty helped me offer Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) with my father and some of my relatives. We all performed all Hajj rituals except Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) thinking that Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) would suffice. I suspected the authenticity of that, so I hope that you will direct me regarding that. I should mention that this happened three years ago. Answer us, may Allah reward you and forgive you! We implore Allah to grant you a blessed end and preserve you for Islam and Muslims!

A: If you delayed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and performed it before leaving Makkah, it would suffice for Tawaf-ul-Wada`. However, if you only performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` and did not have the intention of performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, then your Hajj would not be complete unless you do Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. Therefore, you are obliged to return to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) if you were performing Tamattu` Hajj. The same applies to the case of offering Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) if you did not offer Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). Furthermore, if any of you had sexual intercourse during this period, it is Wajib (obligatory) on the one who did that to slaughter a Fidyah (ransom) in Makkah which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q: I was 18 years old when I performed my first Hajj and, at that time, I was studying in Makkah Al-Mukarramah. At the beginning of Dhul-Hajjah, I worked with pilgrims' guide to be in the service of pilgrims. I assumed my Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) on the morning of the eighth day in Makkah and did not perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) or Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). On the ninth day, I remained at `Arafah but I did not spend the night in Muzdalifah owing to my work with the guide. On the tenth day, I threw the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah), shortened my hair and made Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). Also, I threw the Jamarat on the eleventh and twelfth day but I did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) or Sa`y due to ignorance. I left my work with the guide and went to Al-Taif without performing Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). A few days later, I returned to Makkah because of my study. Then, after two years I concluded my marriage contract and consummated the marriage. I suspected the validity of my Hajj, so I decided to perform Hajj a second time without the intention of repeating the first Hajj. I performed all the pillars and obligatory acts of the second Hajj perfectly. Three years later, I performed Hajj for the third time with my wife. Dear respected Shaykh, what is required of me for the first Hajj? I should mention that I went to Al-Taif at that time to visit my family and returned to Makkah at the end of Dhul-Qa`dah. I passed the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and did not make Ihram for this Hajj. Is my marriage contract valid?

A: If the case is as mentioned, it is obligatory on you to come to

Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) for the first Hajj.

If you had sexual intercourse with your wife, it is incumbent on you to observe the ransom which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered and distributed among the poor people of Al-Haram. If you are unable to do that, you should fast 10 days. There is no harm on you for not spending the night in Muzdalifah because you were committed to your work with the pilgrims guide, as you mentioned. However, the contract of your marriage is valid according to the more correct of the two scholarly opinions because it was concluded after the first Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

Fatwa no. 18220

Q: I offered Hajj last year and observed all its obligatory acts including Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and other acts. I delayed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) to perform it with Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) because we live in Makkah Al-Mukarramah. On the twelfth day of Dhul-Hajjah, I fell extremely ill and could not perform the Tawaf. I went home and after I got well I bled for 15 days. Then, after I was pure of my period, I had sexual intercourse with my husband and a few days later I remembered that I did not complete my Hajj. I asked about the ruling on my case and I was told that I have to offer `Umrah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah after that. I did what they said but am I charged with anything else?

A: If the reality is what you mentioned, you are required to observe the ransom which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered and distributed among the poor people of Makkah in expiation of having sexual intercourse before offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). In Sha' Allah (if Allah wills), your Hajj is valid and you are not asked for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) for you are from the people of Makkah.

The third question of fatwa no. 18973

Q 3: A man performed Hajj with his paralyzed mother who cannot move without a wheelchair. They were among a group with a guide. However, they postponed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) to be performed with Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). When they went to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`, they found that pilgrims who are carried and those who move by wheelchairs were prevented from entering Al-Haram. The group was time-bound and they feared missing their group. The man asked a scholar in Al-Haram about that and he told them that there is nothing wrong with them traveling to their country at the time but it is obligatory to return to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) thereafter. He said that they will remain in a state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and they are prevented from sexual intercourse until they perform the Tawaf. The woman returned a week later and offered Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and this was her first Hajj. Is this permissible? What about her son's Hajj? It should be mentioned that he offered the obligatory Hajj a year ago and he could not offer Tawaf-ul-Ifadah because of the conditions of his mother. He traveled to his country and could not return to Makkah. He is married and has children. Answer us, may Allah reward you with the best! May Allah keep you for Islam and Muslims and guide your steps!

A: If the woman who left before offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) returned to Makkah and performed it, then she has done what is required of her, praise be to Allah. If she stayed in Makkah after offering this Tawaf, she would have to offer Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and if she didn't do it, she would be committed to a Fidyah (ransom). Yet, if she traveled immediately after offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, there would be nothing upon her. The same applies to her associate who left before offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. Also, it is not permissible for him to copulate with his wife until he performs this Tawaf and if he did that, he would be committed to a ransom which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) or one seventh of a camel or a cow to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor.

Q: Five years ago, I performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). On the festival day, I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) on the festival day, slaughtered a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and made the first Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). Then, I returned to Al-Ta'if without offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) or the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). My question is: Is my Hajj valid? What should I do to make up for what is missed?

A: If the case is as you mentioned, you are required to go to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) after it because both of them are pillars and Hajj cannot stand without them. If you had sexual intercourse during this period, you are charged with a ransom which is slaughtering a sheep in Makkah meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute it among the needy people in Al-Haram. The same is true for your companions who did the same as you. If you leave after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, it will be sufficient for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and if you stay, you will have to do Tawaf-ul-Wada`.

So, what about the missed round which he unconsciously left when he depended on the times of Takbir not on the number of rounds? We hope that you answer this question in order to send it to the questioner, may Allah reward you!

A: Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) is one of the pillars of Hajj and without it Hajj is incomplete. Among the conditions of the validity of this Tawaf is to complete seven rounds of Tawaf and if one round or less is missed, the Tawaf is invalid. Thus, he is obliged to return to Makkah and perform it in full and offer Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah if he is Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). Also, he is required to do Sa`y if he is offering Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and did not perform the Sa`y with Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). If he had sexual intercourse before repeating this Tawaf, he is committed to a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor people of Al-Haram.

Q: Ten years ago, a woman hired me to perform voluntary Hajj on behalf of her mother, whose children had performed Hajj on her behalf previously. She gave me 3000 Riyals. I intended to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) but after I offered Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and shortened my hair, I changed my intention to `Umrah. I performed all the rituals of Hajj as being a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). I went with three of my friends to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) but we got separated during Tawaf.

My friends said that they finished the seven rounds, but I still had two rounds to make. However, I did not complete them and went with my friends to perform Sa`y which was also not completed. We did all that in ignorance. I hope that you will consider my case and give me Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar). Is it obligatory for me to make up for this Hajj or is it valid? May Allah guide you to all that is good.

A: It is obligatory for you to return to Makkah to make up for Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y, because Tawaf is a Rukn (integral pillar) of Hajj, which cannot be waived under any circumstance. If you had sexual intercourse with your spouse during this period, you must offer Kaffarah (expiation), which is a sheep meeting the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Or you may participate with a one-seventh share of a Badanah. If you are unable to do that, you should observe Sawm (fast) for ten days. May Allah grant us success.

Q: I went to perform Hajj one year and on the 10th day of Dhul-Hajjah I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). Then, I went to Al-Haram to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) but there was a great crowd. So, I performed the Tawaf on the roof of Al-Haram but at the end of the fourth round of Tawaf I had internal abrasions and I could not complete the seven rounds of Tawaf. Some pilgrims suggested that I postpone the Tawaf to Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and it will be sufficient. I returned to Mina and on the 12th day I threw the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) at 12 p.m. owing to the great crowd and after that I went to Al-Haram to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`. I did not perform seven rounds but I performed only three rounds completing the former four rounds. What is your opinion on this? Is my Hajj valid or not? Answer me.

A: If the case is as mentioned, the Tawaf is invalid. You have to return to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) if you were Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). Also, you should perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) if you do not leave immediately after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. However, if you were offering Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and made the Sa`y after Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah), you would not have to offer the Sa`y. Otherwise, you should perform it after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and make Tawaf-ul-Wada` if you stayed after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and the Sa`y. If you had sexual intercourse during the time between Hajj and making Tawaf and Sa`y, while you still had to offer it; you are required to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute it in Makkah among the poor people of Al-Haram. This is because you did not perform the second Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

Q: A man performed only four rounds of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and did not ask anyone about that. During the next year, he performed Hajj on behalf of his dead father and offered all the pillars and obligatory acts perfectly. However, he did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah for himself, thinking that its time had elapsed. The question is: Is his Hajj on behalf of his father valid?

A: His Hajj is valid but he has to return to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) of his first Hajj and do the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). If he is married and copulated with his wife, it is obligatory on him to offer a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor. He should not eat from it. Moreover, it is obligatory on him to stay away from having sexual intercourse with his wife until he performs Tawaf and Sa`y.

The fourth question of fatwa no. 14768

Q: A woman started her postpartum period after making Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). She remained confined for 40 days and got out of the confinement period in the month of Muharram. She performed all the acts of Hajj except Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). She had to return to her homeland, Egypt, owing to her husband's work, who was her Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative). When the confinement period ended, some Shaykhs gave her a fatwa that she should renew the Ihram because she went beyond the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). She did so and went to Makkah and observed Tawaf and Sa`y for Hajj and `Umrah and did Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). This happened during the month of Muharram. Is her Hajj valid? Does she have to do anything?

Another woman with the same condition did the same but she was leaving to Jizan where she lives. She got out of confinement during the month of Dhul-Hajjah and she performed the Tawaf, Sa`y and Tawaf-ul-Ifadah in Dhul-Hajjah. Is her Hajj valid and is she committed to anything?

A 4: If she performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) after being pure of her post partum period and her husband did not have sex with her during that period, then her Tawaf is valid and nothing is due on her. If sexual intercourse took place before the Tawaf, she is charged with a ransom, which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor people of Al-Haram.

Q: I performed Hajj 3 years ago, praise be to Allah. It was Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and I assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) in Muharram Valley. I performed two Rak`ahs (units of Prayer) and said Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah) for Hajj. Then, I went to Makkah and made Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and performed two Rak`ahs. I do not remember whether I performed the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) or not. On the eighth day I went to Mina and remained there until Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. Then, I moved with the pilgrims to `Arafah where I stayed until sunset. Then, I moved to Muzdalifah and stayed in it until Fajr Prayer. I went to throw Jamarat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj) and threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) and shaved my head. I do not remember whether I performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y or not. I stayed the last three days in Mina to throw the Jamarat and after that I went to Makkah and performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Explain to me, may Allah reward you with the best, if I have to complete what I missed of Hajj to rid myself of the doubts? Is it obligatory on me to slaughter a sheep? Should I pay it to one poor person or to more? I want to repeat the Hajj, is this permissible? Which is better; to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only), Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah simultaneously) or Tamattu` Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah with a break in between), in place of my first Hajj? Answer me, may Allah reward you with the best on me and Muslims!

A: You have to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). In addition, if you had sexual intercourse with your wife during this period, you are committed to Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

Moreover, you should not approach your wife until you perform Tawaf and Sa`y. If you remain in Makkah after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y, it is obligatory to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) because the Tawaf you performed previously was misplaced. It was done before Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and the Sa`y. Also, you should repent to Allah for delaying seeking the fatwa throughout this long period. By doing so, your Hajj will be valid. If you want to perform Hajj another time, it is better for you to perform Tamattu` Hajj by performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj. Then, after finishing it, you assume Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for Hajj on the eighth day with pilgrims. However, there is nothing wrong with performing Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). However, if you perform Tamattu` Hajj or Qiran Hajj, you will be charged with a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) to be slaughtered in the festival day or during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) in Makkah. Allah Almighty knows best!

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

I thought that my Tawaf lacked one round. However, I completed all the rituals of Hajj, praise be to Allah Almighty. What is obligatory on me?

A: If you had this doubt while performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation around the Ka`bah in Hajj), it would be obligatory on you to repeat it. If you raised this doubt after the Tawaf or when you returned to your country, you should cast it down and your Tawaf is valid, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

Q: I performed Hajj this year and on the morning of the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) I went to throw the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). Then I went to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). I found a great crowd around the Ka`bah and I saw people make Tawaf on the roof of the Masjid and on the first floor. I went up to the first floor and performed the seven rounds of Tawaf. I told an Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) about what I did but he said that performing Tawaf on the roof of the Masjid is not permissible. He said that my Tawaf is invalid and my Hajj too. Dear respected Shaykh, guide us. May Allah be merciful to you.

A: Your Tawaf and Hajj are valid, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). It is permissible to offer Tawaf on the roof of the Masjid and all its floors, all thanks and praise be to Allah, especially when there is a great crowd.

Q: I performed Hajj one year but I found out after a long time that I performed the Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah) within Hijr Isma`il (short semi-circular wall adjacent to the Ka`bah and considered part of it), and not around it. I do not remember whether it was during an obligatory or non-obligatory Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah). Then, two years later, I went to perform `Umrah (lesser Pilgrimage) and performed Tawaf instead of the Tawaf which I performed in Hajj. What is your opinion? What should I do? May Allah protect you!

A: What you did is sufficient, praise be to Allah. But, if you had sexual intercourse with your wife between the Hajj in which you performed Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah) within Hijr Isma`il (short semi-circular wall adjacent to the Ka`bah and considered part of it) and the Tawaf you performed instead of it, you are charged with Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor. The Dam (i.e. a sheep) should meet the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). This is because it is probable that the Tawaf which you performed inside Hijr Isma`il is Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) which is a pillar of Hajj and it is not permissible to approach your wife until it is done. Also, it is an obligatory act and leaving it requires blood even if it was repeated after traveling.

Q: I performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) in 1415 A.H. and I do not remember if I did Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) or not, but I probably did not. However, I performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Is the Tawaf-ul-Wada` sufficient in place of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah in spite of my intention? Moreover, I performed Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) this year, 1417 A.H. on behalf of my father and observed all the rituals of Hajj perfectly, praise be to Allah. Is my first Hajj in 1415 A.H. valid? If not, how can I validate it? Is the Hajj I performed on behalf of my father, may Allah have mercy upon him, valid?

A: If it is more probable that you did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and did not intend it during Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), you have to return to Makkah and perform this Tawaf because it is a pillar and Hajj is incomplete without it. You are committed to Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) if you had sexual intercourse before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among its poor people. Also, you are required to avoid copulating with your wife until you go to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) for your first Hajj. You should repent to Allah for this negligence and for not hastening to ask about what is obligatory on you. As for the Hajj you performed on behalf of your dead father, it is valid and sufficient, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

I performed the rituals of `Umrah (lesser Pilgrimage) during the blessed month of Ramadan but I made three rounds of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) between Hijr Isma`il (short semi-circular wall adjacent to the Ka`bah and considered part of it) and the Ka`bah. I was ignorant of the Hijr being from the Ka`bah and that it is not permissible to make the Tawaf between it and the Ka`bah. Then, I made Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from `Umrah. I hope that you will illustrate for me what is obligatory on me.

A: You have to wear the garment of Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) again and return to Makkah to perform `Umrah anew by doing the Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and shortening your hair. If you had sexual intercourse during this period, your `Umrah is spoiled. That is to say that you have to do what we mentioned and to return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from which you assumed the Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) after completing your invalid `Umrah to start another `Umrah in place of the invalid one. After performing it, you should slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) for the sexual intercourse that you had. You should slaughter it in Makkah and distribute it among its poor people.

Q: We go often to the Sacred House of Allah to perform `Umrah. During Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), I carry my one-and-a-half-year-old little girl who wears a diaper. I heard that Tawaf in this case is not permissible because the diaper most likely contains urine, but she is still so little to be left unattended. Sometimes a mother has to carry her baby during Salah (Prayer), while the baby is wearing a diaper that may contain urine. We want you to inform us of the ruling on this issue. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: It is permissible for a pilgrim to carry a child wearing a diaper during Tawaf, provided that the Najasah (impurity) does not affect their body or clothes. The same ruling also applies to Salah.

Does doing so spoil the Tawaf?

A: If you do not wipe over the Yemeni Corner and remember that after going past Al-Hajar Al-Aswad you should not return to wipe over it because this act is Sunnah.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 238)

However, returning does not invalidate the Tawaf.

At times of heavy crowding, the rows may return again to the Yemeni Corner (southern corner of the Ka`bah facing Yemen). Does this interrupt my Tawaf? May Allah grant us all success.

A: Kissing Al-Hajar Al-Aswad during Tawaf is Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet) not Wajib (obligatory). You should start with Al-Hajar Al-Aswad, touch and kiss it, or touch it with your hand and kiss your hands. Q: Usually, I need to do wudu' (ablution) when Prayer is due because I cannot remain in the state of Wudu' as I continuously break winds. I hope that you will illustrate for me what I have to observe regarding Hajj. What are the pillars of Hajj which require wudu' and purification? If I perform wudu' to offer a pillar and then I break wind while performing that pillar, do I have to renew the wudu' or can I complete it with my first wudu'?

A: The pillar of Hajj for which wudu' (ablution) is obligatory is Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah). Hence, whoever continuously breaks wudu' by enuresis, incontinence of wind or the like, should start Tawaf while in a state of wudu'. Then, if they break the wudu', they should complete the Tawaf. The first question of Fatwa no. 17713

Q 1: I went to perform Hajj. We reached Makkah on the second of Dhul-Hijjah to first offer `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) at 2 AM. Since that the journey from home was by coach, we were exhausted when we arrived. I entered Al-Haram Al-Makky while in the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). But I remembered that I had not performed wudu' (ablution) before my entering, and I did not know where the bathroom was.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 241)

So, I found some water vessels in Al-Haram and I was wearing the Niqab (face veil), so I wiped over my arms instead of washing them because there were many men around and I did not want to uncover my `Awrah (private parts of the body that must be covered in public). Then, I went to perform `Umrah and when I completed it I made Tahalul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) by shortening some hair beside my ears. Is my `Umrah valid in this case? What should I do if it is invalid, taking into consideration that I was going to perform Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between).

A 1: Your `Umrah (lesser Pilgrimage) is invalid because you made Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) while you were ritually impure. However, since you made Ihram for Hajj before performing `Umrah in the correct way, you are regarded as Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). If you performed all the acts of Hajj perfectly, then your Hajj and `Umrah are valid because in this case they are Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). You do not have to take any further action to compensate for shortening your hair before making Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) because you were ignorant of the relevant ruling.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions.

The first question of Fatwa no. 17955

Q 1: My nose bled during Hajj before I entered Al-Haram. I washed the blood off, made the Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and completed my Hajj. When I returned to my place, I found some traces of blood on my Ihram garment (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and this was two years after my performance of Hajj. Is my Hajj valid in this case, or should I perform it again. I must say that I am ignorant of the matters of Hajj?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 242)

A 1: Bleeding from the nose or elsewhere does not effect the validity of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). Yet, if the pilgrim bleeds a lot and he wants to offer Prayer or make Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), he should wash off the blood and perform wudu' (ablution) for Prayer and Tawaf. If one has performed Prayer or Tawaf and after that found traces of blood on his clothes without taking notice of it, or one has noticed it but forget it, his Prayer and Tawaf are valid, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). But he should wash the blood off in future.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions.

The first question of fatwa no. 18021

Q 1: What is the ruling on a person who performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) without having Wudu' (ablution)?

A 1: If someone performs Tawaf-ul-Ifadah without having Wudu', his Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) is invalid because Taharah (ritual purification) is a condition for the validity of Tawaf. Accordingly, whoever does so is required to repent to Allah from that and return to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). If they have sexual intercourse in the period in between, they are charged with a Fidyah (ransom) of sexual intercourse (a sheep) slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among its poor people. Then, when he intends to leave Makkah after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, he should observe Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). If he travels immediately after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, there is no other Tawaf required and Tawaf-ul-Ifadah is sufficient.

Q 1: A woman offered Hajj in 1418 A.H. She entered a state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) as performing Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). However, when she was performing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) her Wudu' (ablution) was invalidated. She did not tell anybody and after she completed the Tawaf, she performed Wudu', offered Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and completed the Hajj. When she performed Hajj, she had Taharah (ritual purification) in this way, so what is the ruling on her Hajj and what is required of her, taking into consideration that no sexual intercourse was practiced between Hajj and `Umrah?

A 1: This woman committed an error by performing Tawaf without Taharah (ritual purification) because Taharah is a condition for the validity of Tawaf. Consequently, her Tawaf is not valid and her `Umrah is not counted because the Sa`y is not accepted without a valid Tawaf. She is required to repent to Allah from what happened and her Hajj is valid. She is regarded as Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) because she entered into Ihram for Hajj before offering a valid Tawaf for `Umrah.

Q: I performed Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) this year but during Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) I felt some drops of Madhy (thin white viscid fluid secreted due to sexual thoughts or desire). I became confused because of some opinions that having Taharah (ritual purification) is not a condition for Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and I completed my Tawaf. I went to the toilet to check and renew my Wudu' (ablution) to perform two Rak`ahs (unit of Prayer) behind Maqam Ibrahim (the Station of Ibrahim) and do the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). However, I found nothing but I was not sure if there was no Madhy from the beginning or that it dried out and I did not see it, I do not know. Please, illustrate for us the ruling on this Tawaf and is there anything due upon me? May Allah reward you with the best!

Also, I did not combine between Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) but I performed each one alone and while I was performing it I felt the same thing that I felt in Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) again. I remembered that I did not find anything, so I took it as certainty and completed Tawaf-ul-Wada` and offered two Rak`ahs behind the Maqam. Then, I entered the toilet after I finished and I found nothing. Please, show us the ruling, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: If you had started Tawaf while you were sure about your purity then you doubted the validity of your Wudu' during Tawaf and completed the Tawaf, your Tawaf is valid because Taharah (ritual purification) was based on certainty while the others were merely doubts, and certainty is not cancelled by doubts. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said to the person who raised doubts about the occurrence of Hadath (ritual impurity that invalidates ablution) during Prayer: \(He should not leave unless he hears a sound or perceives a smell \(of passing wind\)\). As for

(Part No. 10; Page No. 245)

Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), it is permissible to intend it with Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) if a pilgrim is leaving directly after it. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(and every person will get the reward according to what he has intended.\) Moreover, this is rightfully considered as the last thing to be witnessed from Al-Bayt (Ka`bah). However, if a pilgrim will stay after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), it is obligatory to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` upon leaving.

Q 1: I offered Hajj this year, praise be to Allah. However, I made three rounds of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and in the beginning of the fourth round I felt something dripping out of me. I thought it was blood but when I went to the toilet I found out it was water. Yet, I did not repeat the Wudu' (ablution) but I repeated the fourth round and completed the Tawaf and after that I performed Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). What should I do now? Is my Hajj invalid? Do I have to slaughter a sheep or repeat the Tawaf? I would like you to note that I was ignorant of the ruling here and I did so unintentionally.

A 1: It is obligatory on you to return to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah because your Tawaf was invalidated by the lack of purification. Also, you are required to perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) if you were offering Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), or if you were offering Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) and did not perform the Sa`y after Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). Then, you are obliged to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) if you are late in Makkah. Moreover, if you have had sexual intercourse during this time, you are required to pay the Fidyah (ransom) which is slaughtering a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and to distribute it among the poor people of Al-Haram.

Q 2: We went to Hajj this year in one of the Hajj campaigns and after we went to `Arafah we moved to Muzdalifah and remained there until 1 a.m. Then, we went with the campaign to Mina and finally to Al-Haram to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). We returned at about 3 p.m. to throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) and disengage of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). Is there anything wrong with that? Answer us, may Allah reward you with the best!

A 2: There is nothing wrong with you in what you mentioned because it is permissible to delay throwing Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah until after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj).

Fatwa no. 21798

Q: 11 years ago, my wife and I performed Hajj. During Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) on the last day of Hajj, my wife urinated. She was suffering from a serious disease and she was pregnant in the sixth month and could not control herself, according to her. We completed the Tawaf and she only told me of that today. Please, tell us what we are required to do, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: If the reality is what is mentioned, your wife has to go to Makkah with a Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) because it is one of the pillars of Hajj which does not stand without it. The Tawaf which she did was invalid because her 'Wudu' (ablution) was invalidated during it.

Also, if sexual intercourse took place after she returned from Hajj, she is required to slaughter a sheep in Makkah meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute it among the poor people of Al-Haram. If she is unable to do that, she is to fast ten days. Moreover, if she was offering Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), she would have to repeat the Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) because her first Sa`y was also invalid. The same applies to her if she was offering Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and she did not perform Sa`y after Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah).

Q: A woman went to Hajj in 1399 A.H. Yet, blood and a yellowish liquid leaked out of her and she tried to stop them by taking contraceptive tablets but she could not. She completed her Hajj in this state, what is the ruling on her?

A: The continual discharge of blood at any time other than the monthly period is like hemorrhage and it does not interrupt the validity of Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah) provided that she performed Wudu' (ablution)

and put something to stop its discharge during Tawaf. Supposing that the blood is menses, it does not prevent her from entering into Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) or performing the rituals of Hajj except Tawaf for which she should remain until she is purified and performs the after-menstruation Ghusl (full ritual bath). The Prophet (peace be upon him) said to `A'ishah when she menstruated while she was in the state of Ihram: \(Do what all the pilgrims do except that you do not perform the Tawaf around Al-Bayt \(the House, referring to Al-Ka`ba\) until you are clean.\)

Q: A woman went to Hajj and performed its rituals except Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) to be done with Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). However, she menstruated on the tenth of Dhul-Hajjah. She feared missing her group if she performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah at the end of Hajj before leaving. Though being menstrual, she performed it because she could not stay in Makkah al-Mukarramah. What is she required to do? Is her Hajj valid? If it is obligatory on her to repeat Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, can she do so at anytime of the year? If she is unable to go to Makkah, what can she do?

A: Firstly, the Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) which she performed is invalid because she was in the menstruation period. Actually, among the conditions of the validity of Tawaf is being pure of the

the major Hadath (ritual impurity that necessitates full bath) and minor Hadath (ritual impurity that necessitates ablution).

Secondly, she has to return to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). As for Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), if she had entered in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) with the intention of doing Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) and she offered the Sa`y after Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah), then she is ok. If she did not perform Sa`y or intended Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), she has to perform the Sa`y after Tawaf.

Thirdly, if she is married and her husband had sexual intercourse with her during the time between the first and the last Tawaf, she is required to slaughter a sheep sufficient for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute it among the poor people of the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) because she fell into one of the prohibitions of Ihram.

Q: Last year, on the Day of `Arafah, a pregnant woman was performing Hajj and another woman fell on her. On the 10th day (of Dhul-Hijjah), the pregnant woman experienced slight bleeding from her womb, so she asked me to perform Rami (throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj)) on her behalf. Because the woman is overweight and in weak health, I feared that she and her fetus could be at risk if she throws the pebbles. Therefore, I stoned the pillar on the 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah. On the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, however, the woman performed both Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) in succession, but she noticed an insignificant amount of blood. Is this act of her right? If not, what is the most correct act that she should have done? Please, give me an explained Fatwa on this. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: If a pregnant woman experiences occasional bleeding from her womb, it is not permissible for her to perform Tawaf in this condition. If she did so, she must repeat it again.

However, if the bleeding (from the womb) continued to flow after the usual period, she can perform Tawaf after wearing something like sanitary towel to absorb the blood, and performing Wudu' (ablution). This is due to the fact that this continuous blood (after the period) is only Istihadah (abnormal vaginal bleeding outside the menstrual or post-partum period).

As for Rami (throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj)), there is no problem for her to perform it by proxy because of the mentioned excuse.

Q: My wife wanted to perform Hajj to the Sacred House of Allah. All praise be to Allah, she did it this year and she performed all the rituals in `Arafah, Mina, and Muzdalifah perfectly. She performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during `Umrah) without any mistakes committed. However, she started to feel the beginning of the monthly period after throwing the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah), although she took medical precautions before going to perform Hajj. We went to a private hospital in Makkah, and paid more than we could afford. She received intensive medical treatment there to ensure that the bleeding would stop completely. Actually, she performed after-menstruation Ghusl (full ritual bath), then, she performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y. After she completed the Tawaf, she checked her clothes and saw that her underwear was clean. Then, she felt some red discharge inside, but it neither reached her underwear nor did any of it flow out during Tawaf.

Then, she continued taking the prescribed drug, as we were part of an organized Hajj group that must return on the twelfth day, i.e. the day of Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Yet my wife experienced a slightly yellow discharge, so she performed Ghusl again and circumambulated the Ka`bah, for fear that it would be wrong on her part if she did not perform Tawaf, as the red discharge had already stopped.

Is the Tawaf she performed valid in spite of this slightly yellow discharge? We hope, may Allah bless you, that you will answer these questions.

A: Both Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y which she performed are valid, as she was not sure that any blood was discharged during performing Tawaf. Tawaf-ul-Wada` is not valid because she performed it while she was experiencing Sufrah (yellow vaginal discharge during or after menstruation). A menstruating woman is not obliged to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`. Thus, it becomes clear to you that she is required to do nothing, and her Hajj is valid In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills), if the case is as you have mentioned.

Q: A Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) woman had a few drops of blood discharged during Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), what is the ruling on this? Is there any difference between having these drops during the days of the monthly period and outside of them? What will the ruling be if she continued her Tawaf in spite of this due to overcrowding, then she returned to her homeland, and more than a year passed since then?

A: Any woman who has a few drops of blood discharged during performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) or any other kind of Tawaf, her Tawaf will be invalid, as she is not Tahir (ritually pure) anymore. Thus, she should discontinue, and when the bleeding stops, she should perform after-menstruation Ghusl (full ritual bath) if it is menstruation; or she should perform Wudu' (ablution) if she is outside the menstrual period. After that she should return and perform the obligatory Tawaf from the very beginning. If she travelled back without performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah correctly, she should come back to Makkah to perform it. If she had any conjugal relations during this period, she should slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute it among the poor in Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) as a Kaffarah (expiation) for having conjugal intercourse.

Q: Last year I went to perform Hajj and I used pills to prevent the monthly period to be able to perform all the rituals of Hajj. We spent the first days in Mina. Then, we went to `Arafah and Al-Muzdalifah, but nothing happened, all praise be to Allah. When we went to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), I felt the cramps of the monthly period during Tawaf; and when I finished Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwa during Hajj and `Umrah), I felt some wetness. I went to the toilet and saw a blood spot. Is my Hajj considered complete and valid, taking into consideration that this day was the date of the beginning of my monthly period, but I used pills to prevent it as I told you before? I hope, respected Shaykh, that you will give me the legal opinion, and whether I am obliged to do anything or not.

May Allah reward you with the best.

A: If you completed Tawaf without any blood coming out, then your Tawaf and Sa`y are valid. But, if any blood came out during Tawaf, you should repeat it by coming back to Makkah. Then, you should circumambulate intending Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, afterwards, perform Sa`y. If you had conjugal relations during this period, you should, as we mentioned before, sacrifice a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute it among the poor in Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If you can not do that, you should perform Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Q: A woman began menstruating just before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and she could not remain in Makkah because she had to stay with her group. Would it have been permissible for her to perform Tawaf while she was in a state of menstruation or not, considering that remaining behind would be extremely difficult and costly for her? We hope Your Eminence will clarify this issue for us and suggest any book that can enlighten us regarding this issue. Thank you very much, As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: A menstruating woman is not permitted to circumambulate Al-Bayt (the House: another name for the Ka`bah) because Taharah (ritual purification) is a condition of validity of Tawaf. Thus, the woman referred to in the question should remain in Makkah and perform

(Part No. 10; Page No. 255)

Ghusl (full ritual bath) after menstruation, then perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. If she is forced to leave Makkah due to her inability to remain behind alone without her group, she is allowed to leave and then return to Makkah after her menstruation ends. She is then to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), if she did not perform Sa`y after Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah), whether she was Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Mufrad (pilgrim performing Hajj only). She may perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) immediately before leaving Makkah. Her husband must not have sexual intercourse with her until she completes Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Sa`y.

The first question of Fatwa no. 15041

Q 1: Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) granted me the ability to perform Hajj three times, but each time I did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). I only performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) because I was told that Tawaf-ul-Wada` is sufficient even if the pilgrim does not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. This year, someone told me that Tawaf-ul-Ifadah is one of the Rukns (integral pillars) of Hajj and that whoever neglects it their Hajj is invalid and incomplete. Is it true that Tawaf-ul-Wada` is a substitute for Tawaf-ul-Ifadah? Was my Hajj in the three times incomplete? What should I do to perform a complete, sound, and acceptable Hajj In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills)? Is it permissible to complete my Hajj for those years? If this is permissible, when should this be done? Can it be done on only one day or on different days for the three times?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 256)

Also, in one of these three times, my wife was with me and she did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah like me. Is it permissible for her to delegate me to perform Tawaf on behalf of her or must she complete it herself?

A: It seems, according to what you said in the question, that you intended to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah accompanied with the intention of performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`, since you know that you have to perform both Tawafs; Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Tawaf-ul-Wada' but you only performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` thinking that it is sufficient for both. Accordingly, your Hajj is sound because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(The reward of deeds depends upon the intentions and every person will get the reward according to what they have intended.\) The Fuqaha' (Muslim jurists) stipulated that if a pilgrim delays Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and performs it immediately before leaving Makkah, it will be sufficient even if they do not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`. You thought that Tawaf-ul-Wada` is sufficient and that you do not have to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. You only misunderstood the ruling and you are excused.

Q 1: I combined Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) with one intention for both, is this valid?

A: If you delayed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and performed it just before you left Makkah and you did not stay in Makkah after performing it, it would serve as sufficient for Tawaf-ul-Wada`. However, if you remained in Makkah after performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, you would be obliged to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` upon leaving Makkah. This is according to what Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with them both) said: \(The people were ordered to perform Tawaf of the Al-Bayt \(the House: another name for the Ka`bah\) \(i.e. Tawaf-ul-Wada`\) as the last thing \(they do\) before leaving \(Makkah\), except menstruating women who were excused.\)

Q 2: We used to stay at Mina part of the night from about 10 p.m. until 3.30 or 4 a.m., is it permissible to do so?

A: If you stayed at Mina for most of the night, this is sufficient to fulfill the obligatory stay at Mina.

Fatwa no. 15763

Q: I performed Hajj in 1411 A.H. and at the beginning of Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) I experienced minor Hadath (ritual impurity that necessitates ablution). I knew that Tawaf is not valid without complete Taharah (ritual purification), but because I felt embarrassed in front of my companions, I completed my Tawaf in that condition. When it was time for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), I made the intention to do both: Tawaf-ul-Ifadah during which I became ritually impure and Tawaf-ul-Wada`. Was my Tawaf valid or not? If not, what should I do?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 258)

A: As long as you made the intention to perform both Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Tawaf-ul-Wada`, this was sufficient for both and you need not do anything else. As for the Waswasah (insinuating thoughts from Satan) you mentioned, you should seek refuge with Allah from the accursed Satan immediately when it first occurs to you; earnestly and sincerely depending on Allah Alone. You should not pay any attention to Waswasah acting upon the Saying of Allah (Glorified be He): ﴿And if an evil whisper comes to you from Shaitân \(Satan\), then seek refuge with Allâh. Verily, He is All-Hearer, All-Knower.﴾ May Allah heal and protect you.

Q. I would like to ask about Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and 'Umrah) after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka'bah in Hajj) for a Mutamatti' (pilgrim performing 'Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) taking into consideration that one of the Islamic societies in Indonesia give priority to the Hadiths of Jabir ibn 'Abdullah and reject the two Hadiths attributed to 'Aishah and ibn 'Abbas (may Allah be pleased with them both) concerning Tamattu' Hajj ('Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and do not concur with the explanations of great Muhaddithun (Hadith scholars). The followers of this group do not perform Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah after returning from Mina though they are Mutamatti'un.

The exponents of this society presented the following argument:

- 1- Jabir (may Allah be pleased with him) said: (We went out with Allah's Messenger (may peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) while being in 'a state of Ihram for the Hajj. There were women and children with us. When we reached Makkah we circumambulated the Ka'bah and made Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah. The Messenger of Allah (may peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: He who has no sacrificial animal with him should put off Ihram. We said: What kind of putting off? He said: Getting out of Ihram completely. So we went into our wives, and put on our normal clothes and wore perfume. When it was the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah), we re-entered into the state of Ihram for Hajj, and we did not have to make Sa'y again as the first Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah sufficed us,) as recorded by Imam Muslim, though they abandon the Sharh of Imam Muslim on this issue by Al-Nawawi.
- 2- They ruled out the Hadith narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas on the question of Tamattu' Hajj, on account of the oddity of the phrase: "we went into our wives", claiming that he had not reached adulthood at that time.
- 3- The incongruity between the second Hadith and the Fatwa of Ibn Abbas himself which was recorded by Imam Ahmad as follows: we were informed by Al-Walid ibn Muslim that he said, we were informed by Al-Awza'y on the authority of 'Ata' on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he used to say: It is sufficient for the Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and 'Umrah without a break in between), Mutamatti' and Mufrad (pilgrim performing Hajj only) to circumambulate Al-Bayt (the House: another name for the Ka'bah) and perform Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah) only once.
- 4- The adherence to the opinion of Ibn Taymiyyah in his view of including Al-Zuhry in the Hadith of 'Aishah which was recorded by Imam Al-Bukhari and others.
- 5- Relating the following Glorious Ayah (Qur'anic verse): (whoever performs Hajj or 'Umrah (pilgrimage) of the House (the Ka'bah at Makkah)) Surah Al-Baqarah, Verse 158, to the end of Allah's (Most Exalted be He) saying:

(Part No. 10; Page No. 260)

﴿Then if you are in safety and whosoever performs the 'Umrah in the months of Hajj, before (performing) the Hajj, (i.e. Hajj-at-Tamattu' and Al-Qiran), must slaughter a Hady such as he can afford, but if he cannot afford it, he should observe Saum (fasts) three days during the Hajj and seven days after his return (to his home)﴾ Surah of Al-Baqarah, Verse 191.

Furthermore, I read in [Al-Muhalla] by Ibn Hazm (7/174) the following: (From `Abdul-Razzaq we were informed by `Ubaydullah Ibn `Umar on the authority of Nafi` that Ibn `Umar used to say: The Qarin and Mutamatti` must perform two sets of Sa'y, but I did not find this narration in the book of Al-Musannaf by `Abdul-Razzaq Al-San`any.

So, I hope Your Eminence will clarify this on-going problem in some detail as a means of correctly explicating the teachings of the Purified Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet Muhammad) and the Manhaj (methodology) of our Salaf (righteous predecessors). May Allah grant us success for helping the good cause of Islam.

A. Mutamatti` must perform two Sa'ys; one for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and the other for Hajj. One Sa'y only does not fulfil the obligation according to the soundest of the two opinions held by scholars which conforms to the opinion of Jumah (dominant majority of scholars). This is according to the hadith of `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) in which she said: "We went out with Allah's Messenger (may peace and blessings of Allah be upon him),..." until she reached the section of the hadith in which she quoted the Prophet as saying: ﴿Anyone who has a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) with him should assume Ihram (ceremonial state) for Hajj along with `Umrah and let him not put off the Ihram till he finishes both.﴾ Then Aisha added:

﴿Those who were in a state of Ihram for 'Umrah circumambulated Al-Ka'bah and made Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah before they put off their final removal of the ceremonial state of Hajj and 'Umrah. Then they circumambulated Al-Ka'bah another time after they returned from Mina but this time s a ritual for their Hajj,﴾ that is, making Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah. The correct opinion maintained by scholars emphasized the second Tawaf, since Tawaf around Al-Ka'bah is one of the pillars of Hajj. It was authentically reported from Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) that he was asked about the Hajj of Tamattu'. He replied: People from Al-Muhajirun and Al-Ansar and the wives of the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) set out for Makkah in the Farewell Hajj (Hajj-al-Wada`) of Allah's Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) and we all entered into the state of Ihram. When we arrived at Makkah the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: ﴿Let all who have set out for Hajj make their intention to performing 'Umrah only, except those who have brought Hady with them.﴾ We circumambulated Al-Ka'bah and made Sa'y between Al-Safa' and Al-Marwah. We also went into our wives and put off Ihram clothes and wore ordinary ones.

Ibn Abbas quoted the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) as saying: "Whoever brought Hady is not allowed to cease their state of Ihram till they have slaughtered their Hady." He then commanded us on the evening of the Day of Tarwiya (8th of Dhu'l-Hijja) to enter into the state of Ihram for performing Hajj. Once we have finished performing the prescribed duties of Hajj, we are to circumambulate Al-Ka'bah and make Sa'y between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah." This Hadith is very clear regarding the obligation of the Mutamatti' to perform two sets of Sa'y.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Q: I performed Hajj this year. I put on my Ihram (garment worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and intended `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with Tamattu` (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) until the time of Hajj. I circumambulated Al-Bayt (the House: another name for the Ka`bah), performed Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), shortened my hair, and then ended my ritual state of Ihram. On the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah), I again entered the state of Ihram from Mina. I stayed for some time in `Arafat and Muzdalifah and I stoned Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (the largest pillar; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah) on the first day, then I circumambulated Al-Bayt, ended my Ihram and did not perform Sa`y again. I completed throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) after which I returned to my hotel and had sexual intercourse with my wife. After some time, some people told me that my Hajj was incomplete. I hope Your Eminence will give me a final and decisive answer, as I have been very confused since then.

A: You must return to Makkah to perform Sa`y in order to complete your Hajj. You must also offer a sacrifice in Makkah, which can be any animal that is sufficient as Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), and give it to the poor as Kaffarah (expiation) for having sexual intercourse with your wife before performing Sa`y. In addition, you must perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) upon leaving Makkah.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Fatwa no. 18910

Q: A person who performed Hajj this year - may Allah accept it - is inquiring about the validity of his Hajj. At Safa and Marwah, he began Sa`y from Marwah and finished at Safa. What is the ruling on his Hajj in this case, is it valid or not?

A. The round of Sa`y which he made for Hajj, starting from Marwah, does not count.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 263)

If the pilgrim performed seven rounds afterward, starting from Safa and ending at Marwah, then his Sa`y is complete and his Hajj is valid. He is required to do nothing else. However, if he counted the first round in his Sa`y, which he started from Marwah, then his Sa`y is incomplete and invalid. If this incomplete Sa`y took place after having done the minor Tahallul (partial ending of the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah through shaving or shortening the hair and throwing pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah) through throwing the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah), or shaving or shortening his hair, he is only required to repeat his Sa`y. If he performed this Sa`y before the minor Tahallul, and he had sexual intercourse with his wife after this Sa`y, in this case his Hajj is invalid. But he has to complete this invalid Hajj and perform Hajj again in another year. At the same time he has to slaughter a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah). However, if no sexual intercourse took place after this invalid Sa`y, he only has to repeat the entire Sa`y again.

Q: I performed Hajj in 1414 A.H. I arrived at Makkah and performed seven rounds of Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). After that I only performed another round, but I could not complete the rest since I was accompanied by old women who did not have the ability to complete the other six rounds. I went to Mina and stayed there until the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah) then returned to `Arafah after sunrise on the ninth day. We stayed at `Arafah until before sunset of that day and then we went from `Arafat to Muzdalifah before sunset and spent the night at Muzdalifah. We then went to Mina where the women delegated me to throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). I did so in the middle of the night of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice). In the morning, we slaughtered our Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and went to Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) where we performed seven rounds of Tawaf, but we only performed two rounds of Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). On the following day, I threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) at about ten o'clock in the morning. On the third day, I threw the pebbles in the middle of the night, and then we went to Al-Haram and performed seven complete rounds of Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) but only one round of Sa`y. I hope Your Eminence will clarify the issue for me, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: If the case is as you mentioned, you must come back to Makkah and perform seven rounds of Sa`y between Safa and Marwah. If you had sexual intercourse with your wife during this period, you have to slaughter a sheep in Makkah to be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram. Also, each one of you must pay Fidyah (ransom) for leaving `Arafah before sunset.

Every one of you has to pay Fidyah for throwing the pebbles before Zawal (midday) since this is not valid. All these Fidyahs should be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor. Whoever is not able to pay Fidyah must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days for each Fidyah.

Q: I performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) with my mother who is sixty-five years old. Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah), the Hajj was very comfortable. After finishing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), I heard some people saying that Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) is not obligatory. I asked a shaykh dressing like a scholar and carrying a radio set. I trusted him when I saw many pilgrims asking him. I went to him and asked if I had to perform Sa`y and he asked whether I was a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and I replied in the affirmative. He said that it was not obligatory for me to perform Sa`y, and so I did not as I was convinced by his opinion.

I hope Your Eminence will clarify this issue for me since my mother is old and she is unable to perform Hajj again because of her age and poor health. May Allah safeguard you and all Muslims! As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: Both you and your mother must return to Makkah to perform the prescribed Sa`y. Your mother can even perform Sa`y while being carried or riding a wheelchair. This is the correct opinion that is adopted by Jumhur (dominant majority of scholars), supported by the authentic Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet), and practiced by the Sahabah (Companions of the Prophet) who performed Tamattu` Hajj following the command of the Prophet (peace be upon him). If you had sexual intercourse with your wife after Hajj, you must slaughter in Makkah any animal suitable as Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) for the poor. If your mother is married and did the same, she must also offer a sacrifice

Q: My parents went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) to perform Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). They performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) very easily - Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah). However, during the performance of the rituals of Hajj, specifically Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), my mother did not manage to complete its rounds. She only performed five rounds and felt completely exhausted during the fifth that she could not go on. She has been suffering from dermatological problems for more than ten years, and the complications worsen in hot weather and crowded places. My father and the group left her in one part of Mas`a (the place where pilgrims go between Safa and Marwah), and completed their rounds. After that they took her and tried to find a wheelchair for her, but they did not find any. When they came back to their tent, they asked about the ruling on what had happened. Someone told them that she had to complete her Sa`y before leaving Makkah Al-Mukarramah. When they went to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), my mother, my stepmother, and others in the group completed their Tawaf, but my father did not manage to complete the first round because of suffering from sunstroke

after his return from Sa`y as a result of which he was taken to a hospital in Makkah. He, thus, did not manage to complete Tawaf and the group took him away from the crowd outside the Masjid (mosque) in order to complete their Tawaf. After finishing their Tawaf, they came back to take him and left Makkah heading for Madinah and then returned home to Hafr Al-Batin. There was a woman among the group who was possessed by Jinn (creatures created from fire) after performing `Umrah easily and comfortably.

After performing `Umrah, she was possessed by Jinn and did not manage to complete the rituals of Hajj. This made the group hasten to leave Makkah Al-Mukarramah. That woman had gone to Makkah Al-Mukarramah to perform Hajj for the first time.

I hope Your Eminence will clarify the ruling on the validity of my parents' Hajj and illustrate what they should do and when.

Is the Hajj of this Jinn-possessed woman valid or not? Benefit us, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: First: Regarding your mother, she must come back to Makkah to perform seven complete rounds of Sa`y between Safa and Marwah then perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`. If her husband had sexual intercourse with her during this period, she has to pay Fidyah (ransom), meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), that should be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Second: Your father must pay Fidyah for abandoning Tawaf-ul-Wada`; it should be slaughtered in

Makkah and distributed among the poor of the Haram.

Third: If the woman was possessed by Jinn after completing `Umrah and before entering into Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for Hajj, she need not do anything, but if she has not performed Hajj before, she must perform it whenever she becomes sane.

Second question of Fatwa no. 17841

Q2. A man performed 'Umrah during the time of Hajj. He first performed Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) but did not perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) until the following day because he was very exhausted. What is the ruling on the validity of his 'Umrah?

A.2 Delaying of Sa`y until after making Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) to the following day is permissible, if this was to be extremely hard on him.

The first question of Fatwa no. 18556

Q 1: I have performed the obligation of Hajj, all praise be to Allah. But due to my ignorance during Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and 'Umrah),

(Part No. 10; Page No. 269)

I started my Sa'y with Al-Safa and finished it there. I counted these two rounds as one round and I did this in the seven rounds. After I came back from performing Hajj, one of my friends told me that a round is a journey from Al-Safa to Al-Marwah, and coming back again to Al-Marwah is another round. My question is: Is there any sin on me because of this mistake, and what should I do? May Allah reward you with the best.

A 1: Your Sa'y is valid, your addition to the rounds of Sa'y is an excusable mistake because it was done out of ignorance. But you should not do this again.

Q: I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) in Ramadan. While I was performing Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) I halted it to pray `Isha' (Night) Prayer in congregation. Then I completed my Sa'y. After I had cut my hair short to make Tahallul, I performed Tarawih (special supererogatory night Prayer in Ramadan) also in congregation. But during my prayer, I doubted whether I had carried out five or seven rounds of Tawaf. In order to dismiss these doubts, I performed two extra rounds after I had already cut my hair short. Now, I do not know whether my `Umrah is valid or not?

A: Your `Umrah is valid In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills), because having doubt after completing a certain `Ibadah (worship) does not spoil it.

Q: I intended to perform Hajj as a Mufrad (pilgrim performing Hajj only) saying: Allahumma labbayka Hajj (O Allah! In response to Your Call I perform Hajj. If anything prevents me, I will keep still as I am) I carried out all the rituals of Hajj including staying in `Arafat and throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). I had to leave on the 15th of Dhul-Hijjah to Egypt, but I got severely ill that I could not carry out Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). What is the ruling in this case? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: You have to return to Makkah and perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah which is one of the main pillars of Hajj without which Hajj is not complete. Moreover, if you had sex with your wife during this period, you have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) in Makkah, you must slaughter a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute its meat among the poor in Makkah. You should not eat of its meat. If you traveled immediately after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, it will suffice to make up for Tawaf-ul-Wada`. If you stayed in Makkah after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, then you would have also to carry out Tawaf-ul-Wada` at the time of your departure.

A: Delegation is not valid or permissible in performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah nor Tawaf-ul-Wada`. Those who are not able to perform Tawaf, should perform it while being carried. Q 1: I performed the obligation of Hajj this year, 1410 A.H. with my family members and we were nine in total. Our intention was to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). However, I did not complete all the rituals of Hajj for some of my young daughters, who were ten, seven, five, and three years old, due to the crowdedness and fear of infectious diseases. I thought that the obligatory act of Hajj will not be waived from them by doing Hajj in this age. Furthermore, I was ignorant of the rulings related to their case, and I did not know what the legal consequences of the incompletion of their rituals of Hajj. Also, I did not ask at the time. When I came back home, someone told me that I have to carry out some duties for my young daughters, since I had initially intended to perform Hajj for them. So, I wish Your Eminence could write to me clarifying what I should do In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) and answer my question. I have big worry that I would lose the reward of Hajj for my daughters. May Your Eminence kindly clarify what I should do? May Allah reward you with the best. My ten-year old daughter did not perform Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), and I do not know for sure whether I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah to Makkah) for her or not. But I know for sure that I threw the other three Jamarat during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) for her.

A 1: You have to go back along with the mentioned daughter and perform Sa'y for her. You also have to slaughter an animal because you neglected throwing Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah for her, unless you are quite sure that you threw the pebbles for her, in which case you are not required to offer a Fidyah (ransom).

Q 2: Three girls who are seven, five and three years old did not perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), make Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) or perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah).

A 2: First: You have to go back with those mentioned girls to perform Tawaf and Sa`y for them. It will be sufficient and would discharge the responsibility if you did not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` and go home immediately after making Tawaf and Sa`y. You also have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) for each one of them because they neglected throwing the pebbles; this Fidyah should be slaughtered in Makkah, provided that it meets the same conditions of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and its meat must be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah).

Second: You have to perform those rituals which have just been mentioned as perfectly as you can in accordance to what Allah (Glorified be He) says: ﴿So keep your duty to Allāh and fear Him as much as you can﴾

Q 3: One of my daughters was one month to complete fifteen years old according to her birth certificate at the time of Hajj, but she had never menstruated until that time. Only two months after performing Hajj, she began to menstruate, will this Hajj discharge her obligation to perform the obligatory Hajj?

A 3: If the mentioned daughter had seen the signs of pubescence, even if just before the dawn of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice), by having a wet dream, or if she had pubic hair, this would discharge her obligation of performing Hajj. But if she does not experience any of the above signs, she will still be obligated to perform the obligatory Hajj again. This is because performing Hajj before pubescence does not discharge the responsibility of performing the obligatory Hajj.

Q 4: One of my sons was seventeen years and six months old at the time of performing Hajj, is he excused from the obligation of performing Hajj again?

A 4: Yes, this certainly absolves him from performing the obligatory act of Hajj again.

Q 5: My mother performed the obligatory Hajj some years ago, but she insists to go again to perform Hajj, as she claims that she did not slaughter a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and she is doubtful concerning the intention of her Hajj. Is she required to offer a Hady? Where should it be slaughtered? Is she allowed to pay money as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) instead of performing Hajj again? What is better to do? Would it be sinful if I do not let her go to perform Hajj again?

A: It will be sufficient for your mother to delegate a trustworthy person to slaughter a Hady on her behalf in Makkah, and distribute it among the poor there and she need not go herself to Makkah if the Hajj she performed was Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) or Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). Moreover, it is permissible to eat of this Hady.

Q 6: My father who performed Tamattu` to discharge the obligation of Hajj said: "I bought some corn and gave it to a poor man in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) instead of Hady." Is what he did permissible and valid or must he offer a Hady?

A: Your father is not excused for substituting the Hady required to be offered in Tamattu` with corn as this is not sufficient to discharge his responsibility. He must do the same as your mother in delegating someone to slaughter a sacrificial animal on his behalf. It is permissible for the person offering the Hady to eat of it.

Fatwa no. 14553

Q: I went to perform Hajj in 1411 A.H. I spent the first night of the Nights of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) at the end of the mountain at the South-East part of King `Abdul-`Aziz bridge, along with many pilgrims whom I found sleeping there. On the next day of the Days of Tashriq I asked another pilgrim concerning the place where I slept the previous night, and he told me that this place was outside Mina. He asked me whether this was my first time performing Hajj or if it was a supererogatory one. I told him that I had already performed the Faridah (obligatory act) of Hajj. He replied saying 'In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills), there is nothing wrong with this'. We both spent the second night of the nights of Tashriq in Hawd cafe.

The question now is: Has this act of mine invalidated my Hajj? If there should be a Kaffarah (expiation), is it permissible for me to offer it at home or must it be offered in a certain place? I would like Your Eminence to clarify this issue for me. May Allah reward you with the best. As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!).

A: It is obligatory on whoever is performing obligatory or voluntary Hajj to spend the nights of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) in Mina. Consequently, you have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) for not spending the night in Mina in order to make up for the missing acts of your rituals. This Fidyah is a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It must be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat be distributed among the poor of the Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah). If you can not afford offering this Fidyah, then you should fast ten days.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Fatwa no. 15521

Q: First: All praise is due to Allah, I consistently perform Hajj every year. In the past years, we used to stay in Mina i.e. within the outskirts of Mina. However, in the last four years, we stayed in Hawd where we prayed the obligatory Salah (prayers). We were praying behind a resident Imam and we offered the Salah in full after him without availing of the permission to shorten it. Are we correct in our act? Is it required from us to perform the Sunnah Ratibah (supererogatory Prayer performed on a regular basis)? Should we pray the obligatory Salah behind the Imam and leave the Sunnah Ratibah, would we be required to offer expiation for that?

Second: After nightfall, we take our baggage and family and enter Mina to stay the night there. Often, we spend the night on roads and sidewalks while the dirty water used by the pilgrims flows near us and it is difficult for us to stay away from this impurity. Upon performing ablution, we found no place to screen us so as to attain purity. Furthermore, those having their families i.e. wives and children, with them suffer even worse circumstances. Indeed, Islam is the religion of easiness.

Third: After throwing the Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) in the morning of the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals), we do not have our hair shaved until we arrive home. Is there any blame on me or any expiation if I cover my head with my garment to be protect it from sunstroke?

Fourth: After leaving `Arafat to Al-Muzdalifah by car in the company of my family, i.e. we have our car with us, we found no way to enter Muzdalifah due to heavy traffic, but finally we spotted a place that we thought it was within the boundaries of Al-Muzdalifah. However, in the morning, we discovered that it is outside Al-Muzdalifah. What is the ruling on that? Please note that we endeavoured to find a place inside Al-Muzdalifah and Allah knows best our intention.

Fifth: Is it permissible for a pilgrim performing Hajj to pray the supererogatory Salah during his stay in Mina at night after having shortened the obligatory Salah?

Sixth: Is the Hadith that states: "When the first ten days of the month of Dhul-Hijjah begin, then those intending to offer Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) should not cut any of their hair or nails until they have sacrificed it..." Or, as the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said. Does this Hadith apply to the person performing Hajj while he left one Ud-hiyah or more to his family to slaughter? Is it impermissible for him to observe any of the things mentioned after reaching the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) during the first ten days of the month of Dhul-Hijjah because he left Ud-hiyah for his people to slaughter? Please advise us on these issue.

May Allah keep you safe.

A: First: It is obligatory on you to spend the night in Mina during the nights of the days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) when this is possible for you. However, if this is not possible for you or you find no place to stay therein, then you may spend the night in the nearest possible place to Mina in the company of other pilgrims. Allah (Most Exalted be He) says: \(So keep your duty to Allâh and fear Him as much as you can\) The Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) also said: \(When I command you to do anything, do of it as much as you possibly can.\)

Second: The first Tahalul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) is only complete after doing two of the following three acts: Throwing Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah, having the hair shaved or cut short, or making Tawaf (circumambulation) around the Ka`bah. Thus, covering your head before the first Tahalul is impermissible so you should then pay a Fidyah (ransom), which is to fast for three days, to feed six needy persons, or to slaughter a sheep.

Third: Spending the night in Muzdalifah is one of the ritual duties of Hajj for those who can do so. Whoever abandons it while he is able to observe it must offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

Fourth: According to the Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet Muhammad), a traveler is to shorten the four-Rak`ah Salah praying it as two only and he is allowed to leave the Sunnah Ratibah except for the two Rak`ah before the Fajr (dawn) Salah and the Salah of Witr (Prayer with an odd number of units). That is because the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) never left these two prayers i.e. before Fajr and Witr, whether he was traveling or at home.

As for the other supererogatory prayers that are not offered on a regular basis, a traveler may pray them as he wishes during the day and night, because the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) used to do that.

Fifth: It is authentically reported on the authority of Um Salamah (may Allah be pleased with her) that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: \(When the \(first\) ten \(days of the month of Dhul-Hijjah\) start and anyone of you intends to offer Ud-hiyah \(sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims\), let them not cut any of their hair or clip their nails until they have offered the sacrifice.\) This is specifically applied to the one who is going to offer Ud-hiyah based on the Hadith above.

One's wife and children are free from this duty.

A person passing by the Miqat and intending to perform Hajj or `Umrah with the intention to offer Ud-hiyah, should not cut any of his hair or clip his nails. It is known that having the hair cut or clipping the nails are just an act of Sunnah for a man in ordinary time. But doing so for a person intending to offer Ud-hiyah is impermissible according to the Hadith above. So the adherence to the prohibition mentioned in the Hadith takes priority over the observance of a recommendable act.

The Mutamatti` (a pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), must have his hair shaved or cut short after making Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). Doing so is one of the rites of `Umrah that admit him to the state of Tahalul. It should be noted that it is more preferable for the Mutamatti` to shorten his hair leaving the shaving to be observed during the rites of Hajj.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions.

Q 2: If the grave sins are not included among those that are pardoned after an acceptable Hajj, then is it true to say that this merit [atonement of sins] is given to a person who says: "Subhan Allah wa bihamdihi (All praise and glory are due to Allah)" one hundred times and to the one who does other good deeds that are conducive to forgiveness of sins? If so, what is the merit of Hajj?

A: It is reported in the Two Sahih (authentic) Collections of Hadith (i.e. Al-Bukhari and Muslim) on the authority of Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) that the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: \(Anyone who says: "Subhan Allah wa bihamdihi \(All praise and glory are due to Allah\)" one hundred times, will have their sins forgiven even if they were like the foam of the sea.\) i.e. provided that the person has not committed any of the grave sins, by virtue of combining all respective legal proofs of the Book and the Sunnah. For example, Allah (Most Exalted be He) says: \(If you avoid the great sins which you are forbidden to do, We shall expiate from you your \(small\) sins\) Allah (Most Glorified be He) also says: \(And those who, when they have committed Fâhishah \(illegal sexual intercourse\) or wronged themselves with evil, remember Allâh and ask forgiveness for their sins; - and none can forgive sins but Allâh - and do not persist in what \(wrong\) they have done, while they know.\) \(For such, the reward is Forgiveness from their Lord, and Gardens with rivers flowing underneath \(Paradise\), wherein they shall abide forever. How excellent is this reward for the doers \(who do righteous deeds according to Allâh's Orders\).\)

Similarly, the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) also said: \(The observance of the five obligatory prayers every day, and consistently offering Friday prayer every week, and regularly observing the fast of Ramadan every year are expiations for all \(sins\) what is committed between these duties, provided that one shuns the major sins.\) According to another version: \(If major sins are not committed\) Thus, if the five obligatory prayers, which are the cornerstone of Islam and the greatest pillar after the profession of faith, and the Friday Prayer and the fast of Ramadan do not grant forgiveness of sins unless a person avoids the major sins, then other acts of worship also cannot atone sins unless the major sins are avoided.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions.

Q 1: We performed Hajj but Mina was too crowded to find a place for us. Therefore, we stayed overnight in the southern section between Muzdalifah and the Valley. The same occurred on the night of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice), where we stayed in Muzdalifah till the moon set and then walked and threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing areas during Hajj) and performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) before Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. Is there any error in our Hajj?

A: If the case is as mentioned in the question, your Hajj is valid In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills); and staying outside Mina for those who find no place there is permissible. This is based on the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He):

(Part No. 10; Page No. 281)

(So keep your duty to Allâh and fear Him as much as you can) It is also permissible to depart from Muzdalifah after midnight for the weak and those who fall under the same ruling as them.

First question of Fatwa no. 16415

Q 1: We performed Hajj in the year 1412 A.H. We threw the pebbles on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) and then took off the clothes of Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) after performing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah). We spent the evening and night of the tenth day of Dhul-Hijjah in Mina and threw the pebbles for the second day after the sun had passed the meridian. Then, we deputized someone to throw the pebbles on our behalf for the third day. We later performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) in the afternoon and left Makkah after midnight. What is the ruling on what we did? Do we take the legal ruling of a person who hastens to leave in two days?

A: You made three mistakes and did not complete the obligatory rites of Hajj, as you left the duties that are required for Hajj. First, you did not spend the night in Mina during the night of the twelfth day; second, you deputized others to throw the pebbles on your behalf during the twelfth day, while it is impermissible for you to do so when you are physically able to throw the pebbles. Therefore, each one of you should offer three Fidyahs (ransoms) by slaughtering three sacrificial sheep that meet the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and the meat should be distributed among the poor in Makkah. It is not permissible for you to eat of any of this meat. The first sacrificial animal is to compensate for failing to stay the night in Mina in the night of the twelfth day. The second Fidyah is for failing to throw the pebbles by yourselves while you were physically able to do so. The third is for your performance of Tawaf-ul-Wada` before its due time, which is unacceptable.

May Allah grant us success. May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions.

Q: I threw the Jamrat-ul-Kubra (the closest stone pillar to Makkah) on the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and then I went to the tents in Mina and prayed the Zhuhr (Noon), `Asr (Afternoon), and Maghrib (Sunset) Prayers. After sunset, I headed for Makkah Al-Mukarramah in the company of some women and a group of other pilgrims to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj), because I was Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). However, I could not return until after dawn from Makkah Al-Mukarramah because of my attendance on the group of women and the great crowd. Thus, I did not spend the night in Mina that night and could not come back to Mina because of the reasons cited above. At the same time, I did not spend the night in Makkah Al-Mukarramah on that day. Indeed, I spent the night while performing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) until the time of Fajr (Dawn) Prayer became due. Is it mandatory on me to offer a sacrificial animal for that? Please, advise me on this.

A: If the case is as you have mentioned, that you and those in your company went to Makkah to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and come back to Mina after completing it but you were hampered from returning to Mina until after the Fajr Prayer due to the crowd and your inability to return to Mina during the night, then there is no sin on you and nothing is due on you. This is because of the general implication of the Ayah (Qur'anic verse) where Allah (Most Exalted be He) says: \(Allāh burdens not a person beyond his scope.\) In addition to the other Ayahs to the same effect.

First and fourth questions of Fatwa no. 18857

Q 1: Last year, I performed Hajj and it happened that I spent one night outside the boundaries of Mina but I was not aware of that. I just slept outside Mina. The same incident took place during the second night, and I slept outside the boundaries of Mina at the same place on the side of a road until it was 1 a.m. Only then a man beside me exclaimed: We are outside the boundaries of Mina, as there is a sign right there indicating that. I then tried to enter into the boundaries of Mina but I could not, as there was no available space. Therefore, I returned to my former place and paid no attention to what he said. Only on the third night when the area became clear following the departure of the pilgrims, who hastened to leave on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, I became sure that I was indeed outside Mina. What is the ruling on this?

Should I offer a Fidyah (ransom) i.e. sacrificial animal, as expiation? Is it permissible to slaughter it outside Makkah or must it be in the area of Al-Masjid Al-Haram only? Is it permissible to fast or do any other kind of expiation instead of slaughtering a sacrificial animal? Please clarify this point, because I am completely confused and I am not sure about the correct legal ruling on this case. I resort to you in compliance with Allah's (Most Exalted be He) Command: \(So ask the people of the Reminder, if you do not know.\)

A: If you intentionally failed to spend the nights of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) in Mina while you were able to do so, you have to offer a Fidyah (ransom), which is to slaughter a sheep that meets the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It must be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat should be distributed to the poor of the city of Makkah. However, if you were unable to slaughter a sheep, you must fast ten days.

I am working under the sponsorship of a Saudi person. During the last period, I had a problem at the time of Hajj. When I wanted to perform Hajj, the Saudi sponsor told that it I am not permitted to perform Hajj without his permission. I then said: It is the obligatory Hajj and no one's permission is required for it and I will provide you with a person who will carry out my work during my absence. However, he insisted on his opinion. Now, I ask you by Allah, is it actually his right to give me permission? Is he not regarded in this case as preventing me from performing Hajj? What is the evidence that supports his opinion?

A: You have no right to perform Hajj unless your sponsor gives you permission, as you came to this country

First question of Fatwa no. 18489

Q 1: An employee performed the obligatory Hajj this year, even though he was not given leave from work except for one day only; namely, on the day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah). However, on the days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), he had to attend his work during the daytime and go to Mina after `Isha' (Night) Prayer where he would stay until after midnight. Then, he would go to sleep in his home in Makkah. What is the ruling on this case? Please bear in mind that he threw the pebbles at the due time.

A: If the case is as you have mentioned, his Hajj is valid even if he left Mina during the day time to do his work and came back at night to spend the night there.

Q: We own some buildings that are about 550 meters away from Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest stone pillar to Makkah) on the western side. During the season of Hajj, the tents are spread on the slopes of the mountains and the sides of the road until they reach these buildings and go past them due to the large crowd gathering inside the area of Mina during the days of Hajj, and it is known to your Eminence. My question is:

Is it permissible to stay and spend the night in these buildings during the days and nights of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah)?

I hope your Eminence would give us a legal fatwa in this regard. May Allah reward you with the best and keep your steps on the way of truth and welfare.

A: If it is proved that these buildings where you live are inside the boundaries of Mina, then there is nothing wrong with you staying there during the three nights: the night of the 11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, or during only two nights i.e. the 11th and 12th days, when you may hasten to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah if you want to travel from Makkah to any other place. This would be sufficient for you, because your stay at night is actually within the boundaries of Mina. However, if the buildings referred to are outside the boundaries of Mina, then it is unacceptable to spend the night in them during the Days of Tashriq. This is because spending the night in Mina is obligatory and you are bound to spend the night with other pilgrims inside the boundaries of Mina unless you can not find a place there after unsuccessfully endeavouring to find one due to the crowd. Therefore, there is no sin on you in such a case if you spend the night outside the boundaries of Mina for the legal excuse verified and it would be acceptable, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). In addition, no ransom is required from you for not spending the night in Mina because it was beyond your ability to do so. Allah

Q 1: In 1417 AH., I performed Hajj along with my father, mother and wife. We came on the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah) from Al-Ta'if after passing by the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) in the morning to stand at Mount `Arafah. We then left `Arafat for Muzdalifah where we spent the night and then headed for Makkah before dawn and there we offered Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. Thereafter, we went to the Jamrat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) and threw the pebbles of Al-`Aqabah, and this is where an awful accident took place during which I was about to be crushed had it not been for Allah's Grace and Mercy. Actually, we stayed at Makkah as we could find no place to stay in Mina due to the great fire that took place that year. In fact, some relatives of ours searched for a tent for us to stay in at Mina but they found nothing. For this reason, we did not go to Mina and after throwing the pebbles of Al-`Aqabah we performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation around the Ka`bah in Hajj) and then headed for Al-`Aziziyyah where we rented an apartment. Thus, we did not stay at Mina during the nights of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). Thereafter, I and my father threw the remaining pebbles on behalf of ourselves and my mother and wife. Although they were able, and asked us to do so, we refused their request and insisted on throwing on behalf of them because it was very crowded and so we were worried about them. To sum up, we threw pebbles on their behalf on the Days of Tashriq and then hastened to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah. We then performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) as our Hajj was Ifrad (performing Hajj only). We then went back to Al-Ta'if where I and my father slaughtered two sheep: one as an offering as a token of gratitude to Allah (Exalted be He) for saving me from death in the accident and the other on behalf of us all for our stay at Al-`Aziziyyah in Makkah and for not spending the night at Mina during the nights of Tashriq. Is what we did valid? Does slaughtering one sheep on behalf of us all make up for not spending the night at Mina on the nights of Tashriq, bearing in mind that we slaughtered it in Al-Ta'if based on my father's request and distributed it among our neighbors and deserving people who were not in Makkah?

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, what you did is valid as you do not have to spend the night at Mina because doing so was beyond your capacity.

Your wife did not throw pebbles on behalf of herself even though she was capable of doing so, therefore, she must offer a sacrificial animal that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and it is to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor. Furthermore, you should all return to Makkah to perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) if you did not perform it along with Tawaf-ul-Ifadah; actually, you said in your letter that you performed the latter but you did not mention Sa`y. Moreover, those who deputized others to throw pebbles on their behalf have not discharged the obligation and each of them has to slaughter a sacrificial animal in Makkah to be distributed among the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) and nothing of this should be eaten by the one who slaughters it. As for sacrificial animals you slaughtered in Al-Ta'if, they do not discharge your obligation because sacrificial animals should be slaughtered in Al-Haram. However, if it is beyond your capacity to slaughter, you should fast for ten days.

Q: On the first night we spent in Mina, we stayed there from 9 p.m. till 2.30 a.m. On the second night, we stayed in Mina from 5.45 p.m. till 2.15 a.m. By doing so, have we properly fulfilled the obligation of spending the night in Mina? Please be informed that I and my wife hastened to leave Mina after these two nights because we had left our young children alone in the house of a relative of ours in Al-`Azizziyyah district. Actually, we worried about them as there was no one to care for them. Are we liable for any obligation? If I and my wife are liable for any obligation, how should we discharge it; should this take place in Makkah or in the South where we live? Please bear in mind that we are now back in our workplace in the South. Please give us fatwa. May Allah reward you with the best for benefitting us and all Muslims.

A: Spending most of the night in Mina discharges the obligation and thus what you have done is sufficient, praise be to Allah. However, spending the whole night in Mina is far better as doing so follows the practice of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

A: It is obligatory on a Hajji to be sure that pebbles fall within the enclosure. Actually, it is not a prerequisite that they hit the pillar as it will be enough if they fall in the enclosure.

Fatwa no. 14605

Q: Allah blessed me to perform Hajj in 1411 A.H. When I went to throw pebbles (at the stone pillars during Hajj) on the 11th of Dhul-Hijjah after coming from Masjid Al-Khayf in Mina, I faced Al-Jamrah Al-Ula (the first stone pillar) and inquired about the right place to start from. The people I asked pointed to the Last Jamrah (the closest stone pillar to Makkah) so I went there and threw pebbles at the closest stone pillar to Makkah and then at Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (the second [middle] stone pillar) ending with Al-Jamrah Al-Ula. On the next day, I was also coming from Masjid Al-Khayf accompanied by a group of people who told me to begin with the Jamrah closest to Al-Khayf, which I did and then hastened to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah for Riyadh where I work.

My question is: Is throwing pebbles in this manner valid? Give me a fatwa, may Allah benefit you! Is it a prerequisite that pebbles hit the concrete pillar and then fall within the enclosure surrounding it, and what is the ruling on doing otherwise? Give me a fatwa, may Allah benefit you and make you beneficial for Islam, Muslims and the whole Muslim Ummah, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills)! As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: Your throwing pebbles on the 11th of Dhul-Hijjah is invalid as you began with Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest stone pillar to Makkah), while the correct position is to begin with Al-Jamrah Al-Ula, then move to Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta and end with Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah.

You should have re-thrown pebbles even on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah after noon. However, since you did not do so, you must expiate for the defect of this Hajj rite. You must offer a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) that is to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor inhabitants of Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If this is unfeasible, you should fast for ten days.

Q: I performed Hajj two years ago. On the last day of throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) I picked up my pebbles from outside Mina in the direction of Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored). Is it Wajib (obligatory) to pick pebbles from Mina or Muzdalifah? Moreover, on the last day of throwing the pebbles at Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area), I was not sure whether I threw the pebbles inside the enclosure because it was extremely crowded. However, it seems most likely that I threw them within the enclosure, bearing in mind that I know it is Wajib to therein.

A: It is permissible to pick up the pebbles from anywhere whether inside or outside Mina. If it is most likely that the pebbles you threw on the last day were thrown within the enclosure, it will suffice and any later doubt after throwing does not have any effect.

A: Throwing pebbles before noon during the Days of Tashriq is impermissible. The Prophet (peace be upon him) did not throw pebbles except in the afternoon and stated: \(Take your rites of Hajj from me.\) Accordingly, you must offer Fidyah (expiation) for throwing pebbles before noon, which is to slaughter a sheep that fulfills the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor in Haram (all areas within the Sacred Precincts of Makkah) without eating anything from it.

While performing Hajj and during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) at seven in the morning. On the next day, I threw the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area) at ten in the morning and being Muta`jil (pilgrim who hastens to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah) on the third day, I threw at nine in the morning, i.e., before Zawal (midday). What is the ruling on this?

A: Throwing the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) before the appointed time is invalid. Throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) during the Days of Tashriq should begin after Zawal on the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) because the Prophet (peace be upon him) along with his Sahabah (Companions) began waited until after Zawal. The Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: «Take your \(hajj\) rites from me.» Regarding the case in question, you are liable for a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah for the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Precincts of Makkah). If this is unfeasible, you must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Q: I performed the obligatory Hajj for the first time this year. I intended Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) from Qarn Al-Manazil, wore Ihram (clothing worn during the ceremonial state for Hajj and `Umrah) and proclaimed Talbiyah (devotional expression chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah) on my way to Makkah, where I performed Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and offered Salah (Prayer) near Maqam Ibrahim (the Station of Ibrahim) as the Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet) of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah). I then performed Sa`i (going between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). Thereafter, I headed for Mina to spend the night prior to `Arafat. On the ninth of Dhul-Hijjah, I stood at Mount `Arafat from sunrise until after sunset where I combined Zhuhr (Noon) and `Asr (Afternoon) Salahs (Prayers) at the time of the earlier one. I then left `Arafat for Al-Muzdalifah where I combined Maghrib (Sunset) and `Isha' (Night) Salahs at the time of the later one and spent the whole night until I performed Fajr (Dawn) Prayer. I also supplicated to Allah at Al-Mash`ar-ul-Haram (Sacred Monument). Thereafter, I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pillar to Makkah) after sunrise on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals). Later, I shortened my hair and headed for Makkah where I performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). I was so tired and fatigued, as I suffer from hypertension, that I performed Tawaf on the upper level due to excessive crowding on the main floor.

After performing two rounds of Tawaf, I rented a wheelchair to help me complete the remaining rounds. After finishing Tawaf I fell down to the ground out of fatigue and thus could not perform the two-Rak`ahs (units of Prayer) Sunnah of Tawaf. I remained unconscious until the Adhan (call to Prayer) of Maghrib Prayer and then performed Wudu' (ablution) and offered Maghrib and later `Isha' Prayers while sitting. In fact, while sitting in the wheelchair I would alert those unaware using my walking stick or in a low voice so that they would not be harmed by the chair's wheels. Anyway, I later went to Mina where I spent the tenth and eleventh nights of Dhul-Hijjah. There I threw the three Jamrat (pillars which are stoned during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah), beginning with Al-Jamrah Al-Sughra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area) on the second and third days of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) after Zawal (midday) and before sunset. However, I was not completely sure whether the pebbles fell into the enclosure surrounding the stone pillars, and thus I threw more than seven pebbles. On the third day of `Eid-ul-Adha and after throwing the Jamrat, I headed for Makkah and entered the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) during the rush hour when all its floors were very crowded. This, in addition to my hypertension, caused a skin rash on my thighs making me feel as if hot iron bars were between them. Hardly able to walk, I could not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Moreover, I had booked a flight that was departing on the same day. I was told that Tawaf-ul-Wada` is Sunnah according to the Maliki school of jurisprudence, while viewed by some other Imams to be Wajib (obligatory) which requires a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) should be slaughtered as compensation, according to other scholars; or nothing should be done as compensation for not doing it, according to some other scholars.

The question is: Is my Hajj as such valid? What should I do? Answer me, may Allah benefit and reward you!

A: You are liable for a Fidyah (ransom) since you doubted whether the pebbles you threw fell within the enclosure or not. You are also liable for another Fidyah (ransom) for not performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`. You have to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute it among the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If this is unfeasible, you must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days in place of each Fidyah.

Q: During Hajj last year, it was crowded on the first day of throwing pebbles (at the stone pillars during Hajj). I was pushed at the Jamrah (stone pillar marking the pebble-throwing area). This made me throw all the seven pebbles at one time. I also deputized my cousin to throw the pebbles on my behalf. I am ignorant of the ruling pertaining to this case and I do not know whether I did the right thing or not. Do I have to do anything; especially that I did not throw the pebbles consecutively? Please benefit us regarding this. We extend our best regards and appreciation and may Allah safeguard you.

A: Throwing the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest stone pillar to Makkah) on the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) is one of the Wajib (obligatory) requirements of Hajj.

Accordingly, if a person abandons a Wajib requirement of Hajj, they must offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) fulfilling the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). This Dam has to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the poor who reside at the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). They are not allowed to eat any of it. If one is incapable of offering Dam, they will be required to observe Sawm (fast) for ten days.

Q: While performing Hajj this year, I threw Al-Jamrat-ul-Sughra (The first stone pillar) before Al-Jamrat-ul-Kubra (the closest stone pillar to Makkah) on the last of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), which is the last day for throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). I did so out of ignorance. I hope you will give me a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) on this matter.

A: You are liable for a Fidyah (ransom) because your throwing the pebbles on the last day was invalid as you threw Al-Jamrat-ul-Sughra before Al-Jamrat-ul-Kubra. The Fidyah is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), one-seventh of a cow that is more than two years old, or one-seventh of a camel that is more than five years old to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). The second question of Fatwa no. 16020

Q 2: What is the ruling if a pilgrim throws Jamrat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) before Zawal (midday)? Is they required to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah)? What is the ruling if they return home before they know the ruling? Will it suffice if they observe Sawm (Fast) for three days?

A: The pilgrim who throws Jamarat before Zawal on the eleventh day and the following days will have to throw the pebbles again after Zawal if the days of throwing the pebbles have not yet expired.

Otherwise, they will be required to offer Fidyah (ransom): one sheep or one seventh of a cow that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If they cannot afford this, they should observe Sawm for ten days.

Q 3: Some Hajj tour companies take pilgrims by bus from Makkah to `Arafat directly and thus they do not spend the night in Mina on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah). They then take them from `Arafat back to Mina directly and they do not spend the night in Muzdalifah, or at least stay therein for half of the night. Actually, such companies do so under the pretext of the heavy crowd. Are these pilgrims sinful? What should they do?

A: Spending the night in Mina on the eighth night of Dhul-Hijjah is Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet) and thus not doing it entails nothing. As for spending the night in Muzdalifah on the ninth night of Dhul-Hijjah, it is one of the Wajib (obligatory) acts of Hajj which if left out, where possible, requires a Fidyah (compensation) of slaughtering a sheep in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) and distributing the same among the poor inhabitants of the Haram. However, the patients and the disabled obliged not to spend the night there are not liable. In any case, travel companies undertaking Hajj tours should enable pilgrims to spend the night there and the pilgrims should insist on that.

Q: I went to perform Hajj this year and threw the pebbles on the Day of `Eid (the Festival of the Sacrifice) for myself and on behalf of my daughter. On the following day [the 11th of Dhul-Hijjah], I threw the three Jimar [Arabic pl. of Jamarah; i.e, Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah), Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area), and Al-Jamrah Al-Sugra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area)]. But on the 12th day, I threw the first Jamarah for me and for my daughter and I got lost because of over-crowdedness and did not complete stoning. I spent the night at Mina, though I did not throw the pebbles on the 13th day; what is the legal ruling on not completing the stoning? Provide us with an answer, may Allah reward you.

A: You must offer a sacrificial animal for neglecting to stone Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta on the second day and also for neglecting stoning on the 13th of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). A goat will suffice as a sacrificial animal here; it is to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor at Al Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Q: A pilgrim threw the pebbles (at the stone pillars during Hajj) on the eleventh day of Dhul-Hijjah before Zawal (midday). On the twelfth day of Dhul-Hijjah, he threw the pebbles before sunrise. Then he made Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation around the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) at 9:00 a.m. on the same day. After that, he went back home. What is he required to do?

A: He is required to offer two Fidyahs (ransoms): one for throwing the pebbles on the eleventh and twelfth day of Dhul-Hijjah before Zawal, and the other for making Tawaf-ul-Wada` before performing the ritual of throwing the pebbles properly. He has to slaughter two sheep or two-seventh of five-year-old Badanah (livestock driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) that meet the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). Q: I went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) with my family to perform Hajj this year. While we were at Mina, it was overcrowded on the first of Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) when we were throwing pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). While at Mina on the eleventh night of Dhul-Hijjah, an Islamic Awareness vehicle passed by us. The people in the vehicle were instructing people on the rituals of Hajj and what they had to do during the Days of Tashriq. I told them that my old age made me suffer a lot while throwing the pebbles on the first of the Days of Tashriq. The shaykh permitted me to throw the pebbles of the second Day of Tashriq at midnight, which was the eleventh night of Dhul-Hijjah. I threw the pebbles of the second day of Tashriq at 1:00 a.m. on the twelfth day of Dhul-Hijjah. I also threw the pebbles on behalf of my wife and six children. I could find no one to undertake throwing the pebbles on behalf of me, my wife and children. After I returned to work, someone told me I had to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for my wife and each one of my children despite the fact that he knows of my old age and that I had many young children with me, which caused me to suffer a lot while throwing the pebbles. That is why I hope that you, may Allah bless your steps and benefit us with your knowledge, will send me an endorsed Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) so that I can know more about the religious matters of Islam.

A: The appointed time of throwing the pebbles on each of the three Days of Tashriq starts after the Zawal (midday) of each day. Accordingly, by throwing the pebbles of the twelfth day of Dhul-Hijjah at 1 a.m., you did not perform one of the rituals of Hajj at its Shar`y (Islamically lawful) time. Therefore, you are obliged to offer a Fidyah (ransom) on behalf of yourself, your wife and each of your children. It has to be sacrificed in Makkah and distributed to the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If you are incapable of doing that, you will all be obliged to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Fatwa no. 17167

Q: On the third day of Hajj, I and many others threw all the three Jamrat (pillars at which are stoned during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) before Zhuhr (Noon) Prayer. Thereafter, I heard the loudspeaker proclaiming it is impermissible to throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) until after Zhuhr Prayer. Therefore, I threw Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah) again after the Zhuhr Prayer. Having forgetfully overlooked throwing Al-Jamrah Al-Sughra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area), I threw it at Al-Jamrat-ul-Wusta and Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah.

Your Eminence, am I liable for anything for doing so? Is this Hajj I intended on behalf of a certain woman valid? May Allah safeguard you!

A: You are liable for Fidyah (compensation) for not throwing the pebbles in order as you threw Al-Jamrat-ul-Wusta and Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah before Al-Jamrah Al-Sughra.

The Fidyah is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), one-seventh of a cow or one-seventh of a camel to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor inhabitants of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If this is unfeasible, you must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days. As for doubting whether the pebbles you threw hit the pillar or not, it does not affect the validity of the throwing the pebbles if they fell within the enclosure surrounding the pillars.

Fatwa no. 17212

Q: I read a Hadith by the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), reported by `Asim ibn `Ady that (the Prophet (peace be upon him) allowed the camel shepherds to spend the night outside Mina throwing pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). Then, they throw pebbles the next day and the day after that for two days, then they throw pebbles on the Day of Nafr (departure from Mina, 12th or 13th of Dhul-Hijjah).) (Related by the Five Compilers of Hadith [Imams Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy, Al-Nasa'y and Ibn Majah], and ranked as a Sahih Hadith [authentic] by Al-Tirmidhy)

I understood from this Hadith that those who have excuses are permitted to throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) separately. Then, they may throw the pebbles of the eleventh and twelfth days together on the same day, and finally they throw the pebbles of the thirteenth day if they are not in a hurry.

I read a Fatwa by Your Eminence in a book entitled 'Fatawa Islamiyyah' (Islamic Fatwas), vol. 2, p. 284, under the title 'The Ruling on Throwing All of the Pebbles in One Day', as follows:

"Q: Is it permissible for a pilgrim to throw the pebbles all in one day instead of throwing them during the three Days of Al-Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), whether this day is the first day of the Days of Tashriq, the Day of Nahr (10th of Dhul-Hijjah) or the last day of Tashriq; then, they spend the night in Mina for two or three days without throwing pebbles, as they threw all of the pebbles in one day? Is this way of throwing correct, or should they throw the pebbles in the right order of days until they complete the throwing of the three days? I hope you will clarify this matter for us, along with giving

Your answer was: "Throwing the pebbles is one of the obligatory steps of Hajj, which should be performed on the day of the Festival and three Days of Tashriq for people who are not in a hurry, and it can be performed during the first two days for people who are in a hurry. This is performed each day in the afternoon, according to the action and saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): (Take your (Hajj) rituals from me.) Throwing the pebbles cannot be performed before its due time, while it can be delayed in case of urgent need, such as over-crowdedness, based on an opinion maintained by some scholars. This is like the case of the shepherds when the Prophet (peace be upon him) allowed them to throw the pebbles of the two days on the second Day of Tashriq, 12th Dhul-Hijjah They should intend to throw the pebbles first on the day of the `Eid (Festival), and then throw the pebbles of the first, the second and the third days, for people who are not in a hurry. Then, they should perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Allah knows best." Issued by Shaykh Ibn Baz.

I understand from the last paragraph of the Fatwa that it is permissible to throw the pebbles of the four days at one time along with intending to throw them in the right order. Is what I understand correct?

This is supported by a Fatwa of the Permanent Committee in the same book entitled 'The way of throwing pebbles for people who delayed it until the last day of Tashriq because of illness or old age'. The Fatwa is as follows:

"Q: If the pilgrims delayed throwing the pebbles to the last Day of Tashriq due to illness, old age or fear of over-crowdedness, may they throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah and the other pebbles at one time, or should they throw the pebbles of each day separately, i.e. they throw the pebbles of the first day, then the second and the third, even if there is hardship in doing so?

A: They should throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah first, then throw the pebbles of the eleventh day, then those of the twelfth and the thirteenth days, if they are not in a hurry. The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) guides us to throw the pebbles of each day in its due date, depending on the ability of each person."

By this answer, the Committee confirms the permissibility of throwing the pebbles of the four days all at one time.

My question: I understand from the Fatwa of Your Eminence and that of the Permanent Committee that it is permissible to throw the pebbles of the four days at one time. However, this contradicts with what I understand from the above-mentioned explicit Sahih Hadith, if I understand well. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) allowed the camel shepherds to throw the pebbles on the Day of Nahr, then they threw the pebbles the next day and the day after the next day for two days. Then, they threw the pebbles on the Day of Nafr. We hope you will clarify this matter for us. May Allah reward you with the best for the sake of the Muslims.

A: The mentioned Fatwas are explicit in revealing the permissibility of delaying the throwing of the pebbles to the thirteenth day (13th Dhul-Hijjah), if necessary. They do not signify that throwing the pebbles can be performed for all the days at one time.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 308)

However, in the case of delaying the throwing of the pebbles, the pilgrims should throw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah first. Then, they should throw the pebbles of the eleventh day in the right order and come back. Subsequently, they should then throw the pebbles of the twelfth day and those of the thirteenth day.

Q: I traveled to Makkah Al-Mukarramah to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). I was riding a mass transport car on 14/9/1414 A.H. As we were traveling, the driver run a music cassette. When I asked him to turn it off, he got angry and stopped the car to have a fight. Some benevolent people interfered to settle things down.

Second: I was throwing Jamrat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) during the Hajj season of this year. During over-crowdedness I saw an old woman trodden on under the feet of walking people. I tried to save her, but I could not do that because of the over-crowdedness. She died because of that. This crowdedness prevented me from throwing the first Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest stone pillar to Makkah). I threw fourteen pebbles at the second Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah. Is that permissible or not?

Third: I saw the word "Allah" written on a type of soap product which was placed inside a bathroom. I would like you to issue your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) regarding the points mentioned above.

A: First: You did the right thing when you tried to correct a wrong situation by wanting to save that Muslim woman. May Allah reward you with the best!

Second: You are obliged to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for abandoning throwing the first Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah. This Dam is considered as a Fidyah (ransom) which meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It has to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the Fuqara' (poor) who live in the area of Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). The seven additional pebbles which you threw at the second Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah will not make up for your missing to throw the pebbles at the first Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah. This is because each Jamrah is independent from the other.

Third: Whenever a person finds the name of Allah (Glorified be He) written on any object which is subject to misuse, it must be wiped as a means of safeguarding it.

Q: I performed Hajj with my wife and I had intended to perform Hajj on behalf of my mother. When I went to throw the pebbles at Al-Jamrah Al-Ula (first or smallest pebble-throwing area), I intended the first throwing to be on behalf of my mother and the second one on behalf of my wife, as she had deputized me to throw instead of her. Then the place became very packed with pilgrims and I found myself far from the throwing enclosure, so I threw all the rest of the pebbles at one time. They all reached the throwing enclosure. Does the collective throwing of pebbles count? And, if it does not, what should I do to make up for it?

A: If the situation is as you have mentioned, your throwing of the pebbles for yourself and your wife is not valid and each of you must offer a Fidyah (i.e. sacrificial animal) in Makkah and its meat should be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). An acceptable Fidyah can be one of the following: a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), one-seventh of a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) or one-seventh of a cow. If someone cannot afford this Fidyah, he should fast ten days. And Allah knows best.

Q 2: A person threw the pebbles of Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) during Hajj by taking seven pebbles hurling them together in one time.

A 2: Whoever throws the pebbles of Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah in one stroke, has to repeat the throwing again during the days specified for this act. It is obligatory to throw them one by one. Throwing all of them in one stroke counts as throwing one pebble. If the person did not repeat the throwing, he must offer Fidyah by slaughtering an animal because of missing one of the obligatory rituals of Hajj. The slaughtered animal is a sheep meeting the same conditions of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It should be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat be distributed among the poor of Al-Haram. If one is not able to offer a Fidyah, he can fast for ten days, consecutively or separately.

Third question of Fatwa no. 16842

Q 3: My aunt performed Hajj last year. She told me that while she was throwing the pebbles she was not able to see the spot where those pebbles fell because of the overcrowdedness. She is not sure if all the pebbles fell into the Hawd (the pebble-throwing area) or not, taking into consideration that she sometimes was able to see some of them. What should she do in this case? Kindly clarify this issue for us. May Allah reward you with the best.

A 3: One of the conditions for the validity of throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) is making sure that the pebbles fall in the pebble-throwing enclosure. So, if she is sure that she saw those pebbles fall into the Hawd, and later she had doubt about the pebbles' not falling in the enclosure of the pebble throwing, her throwing is valid and she simply dismiss that doubt. But if she was doubtful and was not sure of the falling of the pebbles in that enclosure at the time of throwing, then she has to offer a Fidyah (ransom) which should be slaughtered and distributed among the poor of Al-Haram. However, if she can not afford offering a Fidyah, then she has to fast ten days.

Q: Four years ago, I performed Hajj along with two other Muslim brothers. Each one of us had two women to look after. We threw the pebbles of Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah to Makkah) on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals). We postponed throwing the other three Jamarat until the third day, where we threw Al-Jamrah Al-Sughra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area) then Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah). Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) only once. Our Eminent Shaykh! Is there any sin on us in the light of what I have mentioned in the question? Kindly clarify the issue for us. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: What you did concerning delaying the throwing of the pebbles of the 11th and 12th of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) to the the 13th Day of Tashriq and throwing the three Jamarat of the first, then the second, then the third day is valid and permissible, though it is preferable not to do so. As for performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah only instead of Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), this is also valid and permissible, if you left immediately after Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, so that Al-Bayt (the House: another name for the Ka`bah) was the last place you have visited before going home.

Q 2: Some pilgrims were convinced that they have to throw their pebbles before noon starting midnight of the day before, that is, they start throwing pebbles from 11 p.m. for the first day of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) and start throwing after 1:30 a.m. for the second day of the Days of Tashriq, thinking that they are applying what Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(But whosoever hastens to leave in two days, there is no sin on him\)

then they used to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and leave Makkah before Zawal (midday) of the second day of Days of Tashriq, their pretext is that their will be great crowds after noon.

A 2: It is not valid to throw the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) during the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) except after noon, this time is extended until sunset, there is no harm in throwing at night for the previous elapsed day, but it is not permissible to throw the pebbles on the next day before noon of that day. The meaning of what Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(But whosoever hastens to leave in two days, there is no sin on him\) is that it is permissible for those who threw the pebbles after Zawal (midday) of the 12th to leave from Mina to Makkah or any other place outside Mina before sunset, and they are not required to spend the night of the 13th nor throw the pebbles on the 13th. As for Tawaf-ul-Wada`, it is not valid unless it was done at the time of leaving after completing the rituals of Hajj. Tawaf-ul-Wada` of those who travel on the 11th day is not valid because they should spend the night at Mina on the night of the 12th and throw in the afternoon of the 12th day.

Q 1: A person threw the pebbles deliberately before noon on the last day of throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), he asked a scholar where he lives in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. The scholar then told him that he has to offer a Fidayh (ransom). Others told him that his Hajj is valid and he does not have to do anything; what is the right course of action in this case? May Allah reward you with the best!

A 1: Whoever threw pebbles on the second or third day before noon would be obliged to offer a Fidyah because he did not perform throwing at its right legal time, so, it is not valid. The Fidyah is one sheep meeting the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), which should be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Is there any sin on him? He died without performing Hajj again, what should his son do?

A 1: If what he neglected of the rituals of Hajj was only throwing the pebbles on the days of

of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), then his son has to offer two Fidyahs (ransom) on his behalf to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor of Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah); one of them as a Fidyah for throwing the pebbles and the second for Tawaf-ul-Wada`. Q: I performed Hajj and all its rituals this year. However, on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, I could not throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), and so I authorized one of my relatives to do this on my behalf, as he was not Muta`jil (pilgrim who hastens to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah), and spent the night in Mina. Then, I heard that it is not permissible to authorize him, so I went back on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah and threw the pebbles for these two days, i.e. the 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah. Is what I did correct?

A: A pilgrim is not permitted to authorize another person to throw the pebbles on their behalf, unless there is a reason necessitating it, such as sickness or old age. You did well when you threw the pebbles for the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah. As for the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, if you intended to hasten to leave Mina before the sun set on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, then you would not have to throw the pebbles on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, and your throwing would not count.

Q: My wife and I performed Hajj last year; on the second day of throwing pebbles (at the stone pillars during Hajj), there were so many crowds of people that my wife was about to fall when approaching the first of the three Jamrat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah), so my elder brother, one of our companions, took the pebbles from her after she had thrown two of them and threw them in one time. For fear of the crowds at throwing the other Jamrat, I, her husband, threw the pebbles on her behalf. What is the opinion of Your Eminence concerning what we did and is there anything we should do now? Please guide me. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: The woman who had the Jamrat thrown on her behalf in one time should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and slaughter it in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor. During the first she performed Hajj, she was physically fit to throw the pebbles by herself, but she had a baby with her. In the second Hajj, she was quite old and unable to throw them. That is why my father once again threw the pebbles on her behalf. Are her two occasions of Hajj valid in this case or not?

Is there any shortfall in my Hajj, bearing in mind that I performed it many years ago?

Q: I went to offer Hajj with my daughter. I performed Hajj more than once but it was the first time for my daughter. We formed the intention to do Hajj from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). Then we reached Makkah Al-Mukarramah and did Tawaf (circumambulation around the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). After that, we headed for Mina and then for the Plain of `Arafah and stopped there. On the first day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice), we stoned Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah), then we went to Makkah and preformed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). After that we went back to Mina and spent the night there. On the second day, we stoned the three Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) and returned to Mina. On the third day, we stoned Al-Jamrah Al-Sugra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area) but there was a massive crowd, which caused me and my daughter to lose consciousness. We were carried to the hospital and stayed there for four hours. I regained my consciousness but I was badly affected by what had happened to me.

We went by car to the cities in this region and appointed a person to stone Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah) on our behalf. But we did not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). We wrote to you hoping for advice concerning what we have to do due to appointing someone to stone Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah on our behalf and not performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`, may Allah safeguard you !

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, that you faced hardships, then your appointing of the person mentioned in the question to stone on your behalf is valid. As for omitting Tawaf Al-Wada', each one of you has to offer Fidyah (ransom) which is a sheep that meets the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and it should be slaughtered in Makkah. Its meat should be distributed among the poor there. If you cannot afford this, then you have to fast ten days.

Q: Allah blessed me with the performance of Hajj in 1411 A.H. along with some Muslim brothers and their families. A few of the women who were in my group were my nieces but the rest were not related to me in any way. We performed the rituals of Hajj as follows:

Firstly: We entered Makkah with the intention of Tamattu` Hajj (performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). We performed all the rituals of `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and then removed the ritual state for `Umrah.

Secondly: We assumed the state of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) on the eighth of Dhul-Hijjah and headed for Mina, but we did not find a place where we could stay, so we spent the night in Muzdalifah.

Thirdly: On the ninth of Dhul-Hijjah, we went to `Arafah in the morning and stayed there until sunset.

Fourthly: We left `Arafah and arrived at our residence in Muzdalifah. When it was the due time of the `Isha' (Night) Prayer, we performed the Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer and the `Isha' Prayer combined.

Fifthly: We left Muzdalifah at 1 a.m. and went to Mina to throw Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah). As I have said, some women were in our company. We threw the Jamrah (stone pillar marking the pebble-throwing area) after midnight.

Sixthly: We all went to the Sacred House in Makkah where we performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) before the Fajr (Dawn) Prayer, made Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and had our hair cut. I would like to inform you that we paid the price of the Hady (a sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) through Al-Rajhiy Company which is commissioned to distribute the meat of the Hady and Ud-hiyah (a sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to the poor.

Consequently, we entered the stage of major Tahallul (final removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah, after performing the final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah for Hajj).

Seventhly: On the eleventh of Dhul-Hijjah we went to throw the three Jamrat; Al-Jamrah Al-Sugra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area), Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah). My niece authorized me to throw the Jamarat on her behalf. Out of my keenness to protect their interest, I threw the Jamarat on their behalf before throwing the Jamarat for myself.

Eighthly: In the early morning of the twelfth of Dhul-Hijjah, we performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). This was done according to a Fatwa my father had received from one of the Shaykhs, may Allah reward them with the best! Then, we offered the Fajr Prayer in the Sacred Mosque and left for Al-Abtuh .

Ninthly: Before noon of the twelfth of Dhul-Hijjah, we left Al-Abtuh to go to the Jamarat. We were exhausted and our women were left alone at Al-Abtuh. An hour and a half before noon, we threw the three Jamarat respectively; Al-Jamrah Al-Sugra, Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah). Then we went back to Al-Abtuh and left Makkah .

May Allah prolong your life! My question is as follows; After my return, I was told I have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) for the following reasons:

1- I threw the Jamarat for my authorizer before throwing for myself .

2- I, as well as others in my company who have to offer a Fidyah as well, performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` before throwing the Jamarat .

(Part No. 10; Page No. 322)

My dear father! I would be grateful if you, after knowing how my Muslim brothers and I performed the rituals of Hajj, could tell us what we should do and whether our Hajj is valid or not? I would like to inform you that this Hajj was the first for all of us with the exception of three people from among our Muslim brothers. Benefit us, may Allah benefit you!

A: Firstly: It is Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for whoever does not have any weak people in their company to stay in Muzdalifah until they perform the Fajr Prayer, to supplicate to Allah and to praise Him until sunrise. Then they can go to Mina. However, as long as you left Muzdalifah after midnight, we hope that there is nothing wrong with doing so. Similarly, there is nothing wrong in staying and sleeping in Muzdalifah during the nights of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) when it was impossible for you to find a place for residence in Mina.

Secondly: It is obligatory upon the authorized person to throw the Jamarat for himself and then on behalf of his authorizer. The act of throwing the Jamarat should not be done except after noon on the days of Tashriq. Therefore, each of you has to offer a Fidyah for throwing the Jamarat before noon and for the fault of giving your authorizer preference over yourself regarding the throwing of the three Jamarat. It is worth mentioning that the Fidyah is a sheep meeting the same conditions of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat distributed among the poor residing in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). As for those who cannot afford it, they have to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Thirdly: With regard to Tawaf-ul-Wada`, it is not performed except after finishing all the rituals of Hajj. Seeing as you performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` before throwing the Jamarat on the first day of Tashriq, each of you has to offer a Fidyah like the Fidyah which is obligatory in the case of throwing the Jamarat, as explained above. As for those who cannot afford it, they have to observe Sawm for ten days.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q 1: In the year of 1409 A.H., my mother and I performed Hajj with some of our relatives. My mother got very tired due to the massive crowding and thus she authorized me to throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on her behalf on the last two days of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). Is authorizing me in this regard permissible or not?

A 1: If your mother could not throw the pebbles on her own or feared for herself from the massive crowding and thus authorized you to throw it on her behalf, then there is nothing wrong with this .

Q 2: A Muslim brother left Makkah on the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah), and after it was too hot during the daytime, he left `Arafah, going to Makkah, where he rented a flat for his family and they rested there until sunset. Is his Hajj invalid on account of his conduct?

A 2: If the person mentioned in the question stayed at `Arafah during the daytime and did not remain until sunset in `Arafah, so he should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah), because staying in `Arafah until sunset is an obligation which he abandoned.

He should make up for this by offering Dam meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and slaughter it in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor people in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If he could not do this, he should fast for ten days. If his family members were also Muhrimis (pilgrims in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and left with him, each of them should offer Fidyah (ransom) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor people in the Haram; otherwise, they should observe Sawm (Fast) as mentioned earlier.

Q 3: Some pilgrims throw pebbles at the Jamarat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) with anything they have, including shoes and empty water glasses, and so on. Is their action invalid because of this, or are they excused for their ignorance? Please guide me. May Allah reward you with the best. As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you.)

A: It is not permissible to throw shoes, glasses, and so on, at the Jamarat for this is not Mashru` (Islamically permissible). This contradicts the conduct of the Prophet (peace be upon him), who threw small pebbles that were just a little bigger than chickpeas at the Jamarat and he said: \(Take your \(Hajj\) rituals from me.\) These people are sinners for what they do, and anyone who sees them do this should advise them against that. However, their throwing pebbles at the Jamarat is not invalid, as long as they threw the prescribed pebbles.

Q: I am a 65-year-old woman and I performed my first Hajj with my relatives after I had reached menopause. Since I do not have a Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) except a small child, I intended to perform Hajj with my male relatives and their wives and paid the expenses of my travel. I threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on the first and second days. On the Day of Nafr (departure from Mina, 12th or 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), I appointed one of my relatives to throw on my behalf. I performed another Hajj with my male cousin for he is my closest relative and with his mother and other women. He threw all the pebbles on my behalf on the first, second and third days.

Did I commit a sin for performing Hajj without a Mahram, bearing in mind that I was in the company of women during both Hajjs, and are my Hajjs valid? Do I have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) for appointing someone to throw on my behalf on the second day during my first Hajj and for appointing my male cousin to throw on my behalf during my second Hajj? Please give me a Fatwa, may Allah reward and safeguard you, Amen!

A: Firstly: It is known that one of the conditions of the validity of a woman's Hajj is the presence of a Mahram with her during Hajj. So for a woman who does not have a Mahram to perform Hajj with, the obligation of Hajj is waived in her case until she finds a Mahram. The woman who performs Hajj with a non-Mahram (not a spouse or an unmarriageable relative), her Hajj is valid but she has to offer Tawbah (repentance to Allah) because of her traveling without a Mahram, for such an act is a wrongdoing and a sin. This is according to the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): «A woman should not travel except with a Dhu-Mahram \(her husband or a man with whom she cannot marry at all according to the Islamic Jurisprudence\)» (Sahih [authentic] - agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim).

Secondly: As for appointing another person to throw on one's behalf, it is obligatory upon the pilgrim to throw the pebbles themselves when they are able to do so. Whoever is unable to do so such as a sick person or an old or physically disabled woman, then it is permissible for them to appoint others to throw the pebbles on their behalf.

Thirdly: According to what is mentioned above, if you were unable to throw the pebbles at the time that you appointed someone else to do so on your behalf, then the appointing is valid and you do not have to do anything. But if you were able to throw the pebbles during your first and second Hajj, then you have to offer a Fidyah (ransom) that should be slaughtered in Makkah and that meets the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). Its meat should be distributed among the poor there. This ruling is with regard to appointing another person to throw on your behalf during your first Hajj if you were able to do so. If you cannot afford a sacrificial animal, then you have to fast ten days. The same is also applied to appointing another person to throw on your behalf during your second Hajj whether you were able to do so or not.

Q2: One of my relatives performed Hajj last year. On throwing the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah), he authorized another pilgrim to throw the Jamrat on his behalf, but that authorized person did not throw the Jamrat on the second and third days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). What is your opinion regarding this issue?

A: Islam basically prescribes that a pilgrim performs all the rituals of Hajj by themselves. It is not permissible for a pilgrim to authorize others to throw the Jamrat on his behalf unless he is not able to throw the Jamrat by himself. If the person referred to above authorized another person to throw the Jamrat on his behalf even though he was able to do so, this person is sinful and the obligatory act of throwing the Jamrat has not been fulfilled. If this person was not able to do so, it is permissible for him to authorize another person to throw the Jamrat on his behalf. Moreover, the person authorized to throw the Jamrat have to fulfill his commitment in the legally prescribed manner. Since this person did not fulfill his commitment, he is sinful and the authorizing person have to offer a sacrificial animal meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (a sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat is distributed among the poor people at the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q: In 1414 A. H., my wife and I performed Hajj, and on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, my wife authorized me to throw the pebbles (at the stone pillars during Hajj) on her behalf. However, I could not fight my way through the huge crowd and so could not throw Al-Jamrah Al-Wusta (second or middle pebble-throwing area) and Al-Jamrah Al-Kubra (largest pebble-throwing area; Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah). I only managed to throw Al-Jamrah Al-Sugra (first or smallest pebble-throwing area). Afterwards, I returned to the tent as my companions would not wait for me. On my way to the tent, I met an Egyptian whom I do not know and I told him what had happened, so he offered to throw the pebbles at the Jamrat on behalf of me and my wife. What is the ruling on this throwing, and what should I and my wife do?

A: The questioner should offer a Fidyah (ransom) in Makkah, which is slaughtering a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), or one-seventh of Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) and should distribute its meat among the poor in Makkah. This is to make up for the throwing of pebbles which he and his wife abandoned. His wife should also offer a Fidyah. If they could not offer a Fidyah, they should fast for ten days.

Q: In 1415 A. H., I traveled to perform Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only) for the first time in my life. On the first day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice)-after leaving `Arafah and staying at night in Muzdalifah, I threw Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) and went to Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) and performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). After that, while I was in Makkah I authorized someone to stone the Jamrat (stone pillars at which pebbles are thrown during Hajj, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) on my behalf because I was ill. Is there anything required from me? I am ignorant of the matters related to Hajj and the order of throwing pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). Kindly provide me with a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) and what should I do .

A: If the case is as you mentioned, there is nothing wrong if you authorized another pilgrim to throw the pebbles on your behalf.

Q 1: To avoid the crowds of people who gather at the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah), I threw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on the 11th and 12th of Dhul-Hijjah on behalf of my wife, though she is young and capable of doing this, as we hastened to leave Mina on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah. As for Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah to Makkah), we threw the pebbles at it together. When I threw the pebbles on the 11th of Dhul-Hijjah, I found that there were crowds of people and had I brought my wife with me, she would not have been able to throw the pebbles by herself. But on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, we and all the passengers packed our belongings and got on the bus, which then stood far away from the Jamarat. My wife stayed in the bus along with the other women, and I went to throw the pebbles on behalf of myself and her, following the `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer. When I reached the Jamarat, I found no crowds, but it was too difficult to go back to the bus to bring my wife to throw the pebbles at the Jamarat by herself, so I threw them on my and her behalf and then returned to the bus. What is the ruling on this; should my wife or I do anything?

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, your wife should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah), which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) that should be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If she can not do this, she should fast for ten days, for there was no excuse that exempts her from throwing the pebbles directly at the Jamarat.

Q 2: When we went to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), we performed it on the roof of Al-Masjid Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) because of the overcrowdedness around the Ka`bah. Having finished Tawaf-ul-Wada` of our Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between), I asked my wife if she was pure (by means of performing Wudu` [ablution]) while performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`, but she did not remember whether she had performed Wudu' or not. Because the driver of the bus that would take us back to Al-Ta'if stipulated a specific period of time for our return, this prevented my wife from performing Tawaf-ul-Wada` again. Besides, we were very tired and our feet were badly wounded because of the long distance of Tawaf on the roof of Al-Masjid Al-Haram. Is it obligatory upon us to offer anything as a Fidyah (ransom) for doing so?

A 2: If your wife was ritually pure (by means of performing Wudu') in this situation but she doubted whether her Wudu' was broken or not, the basic ruling is that she is regarded as ritually pure and her Tawaf is valid. If she was not pure (by means of not performing Wudu') and doubted whether she performed Wudu' or not, the basic ruling is that she is regarded as not ritually pure and consequently her Tawaf is invalid. In this case, she should have performed Wudu' and performed Tawaf again. Since you traveled to Ta'if before performing Tawaf again, she has to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) to be slaughtered in Makkah and the meat is to be distributed among the poor people as Tawaf-ul-Wada` is one of the obligatory acts of Hajj, which she did not perform as she performed it while she was not ritually pure.

Q: One of my friends accepted six hundred Riyals from some pilgrims as payment for throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) on their behalf on the last two days of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). Unfortunately, he did not stone the pillars and now he is confused about his situation. Please give us a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) concerning this matter, may Allah reward you with the best !

A: It is obligatory upon each one of these pilgrims and upon your friend to offer a Fidyah (ransom) because he did not throw pebbles on their behalf .This Fidyah is to be a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and should be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat should be distributed among the poor there. The basic principle is that it is obligatory upon the pilgrim to perform the rituals of Hajj on their own, and this includes throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj). If they are unable to do so, then it is permissible for them to appoint another pilgrim to do so on their behalf. Your friend must return the money he took to its owners if he knows them. He also has to inform them about what happened so that they will offer a Fidyah (ransom) for themselves. If he does not know them, then he must use the money to buy a sacrificial animal for each one of the pilgrims. If the sacrifices cost more than the sum he took from them, he must provide the rest from his own money because he neglected to throw the pebbles on their behalf. The sacrificial animal may be one seventh of a camel or a cow or one sheep for every person. If he cannot afford this, he must fast ten days for each one of them.

On the first of the Days of Tashriq, I performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and then left by the end of the day after offering the Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer; am I to blame for this? Guide me, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: You did wrong when you did not spend the night in Mina, during the Days of Tashriq, and also when you neglected Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), as the Tawaf you performed on the first of the Days of Tashriq does not count, as you did it before completing the rituals of Hajj, i.e. throwing pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) and spending the night in Mina. All these are of the obligations of Hajj; so you should seek Tawbah (repentance to Allah) and Istighfar (seeking forgiveness from Allah). You also have to make up for the mistakes you made in your Hajj; you should slaughter two sheep meeting the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute their meat among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah); if you can not do so, you should fast for ten days instead of each sheep.

Q 4: Is it permissible for a person who is unable to throw the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj) to appoint someone to do so on their behalf?

A: Whoever is unable to throw the pebbles because of being old or due to illness, it is permissible for them to appoint a trustworthy person from those who perform Hajj with them to throw pebbles on their behalf. This should be done after the person appointed throws the pebbles on behalf of themselves. This discharges the obligation on the person who is unable to throw the pebbles. This is based on the general meaning of Allah's Saying: ﴿Allâh does not want to place you in difficulty﴾ And: ﴿Allâh burdens not a person beyond his scope.﴾ Also, the woman for whom it is difficult to throw the pebbles because of being old, ill or pregnant or having children whom there is no one to take care of when she goes to throw the pebbles, it is permissible for her to appoint one of the trustworthy pilgrims to throw the pebbles on her behalf because of what is mentioned above.

Q: I would be grateful if you could answer the following question:

I performed the rituals of the obligatory Hajj this year along with two unmarried women who were in the same Hajj group. On the second day of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), we heard of the crowding around the three Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) from those who had threw the Jamarat before us. I was afraid the women in my company would be harmed, so I insisted that they authorize me to throw the Jamarat on their behalf though they had no legal excuse that could prevent them from doing so. I objected to their going to stone lest they be harmed due to the crowds. So I made them agree to authorize me to perform this rite on their behalf. When I reached the place of throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing area during Hajj), I found the crowd had greatly decreased. I regretted not bringing them along with me, but they were very far away from the Jamarat. Therefore, I stoned the Jamarat on their behalf; is this valid or not? Do I and they have to offer anything if such authorization is not valid? I would be grateful if you could answer my question as soon as possible!

A: If the case is as you mentioned, that the women in your group were able to stone the Jamarat on their own, but you insisted that they authorize you to do so for fear of overcrowding and there was no crowd, it is obligatory upon each of these women to offer a Fidyah (ransom) by slaughtering a sheep in Makkah meeting the conditions of Ud-hiyah (a sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) whose meat is distributed among the poor around the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Precincts of Makkah). As for those who cannot afford it, they must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Q 1: What is the ruling on people who performed Hajj, and when it was the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) they wanted to hasten and hence they threw the pebbles at the three Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) on the first and second of the Days of Tashriq. Then they went to Makkah before the sunset on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah and spent the night there and did not throw pebbles on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah; should they offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) or not?

A 1: Anyone who throws three Jamarat on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah and was in a hurry, should leave Mina before sunset and does not have to throw pebbles on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, whether they stayed in Makkah or elsewhere.

Q: Allah (Exalted be He) blessed me, my wife, and our son and daughter with the chance of performing Hajj this year. We performed all the rituals of Hajj except for Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). We thought that it is not an obligatory part of Hajj and it is just Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet). After we reached the place of our residence and reviewed some books on Hajj, we discovered that Tawaf-ul-Wada` is an obligatory part of Hajj. Moreover, the only thing that makes up for it is Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement) or fasting three days during the Hajj and seven days after one's return to homeland. The Dam should be offered in Makkah during the days of Hajj.

The question is: What should we do to make up for this missed obligatory act of Hajj so that our Hajj becomes perfect, bearing in mind that we performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) on the twelfth day, threw the pebbles and then left Makkah in the morning of the thirteenth day? If we should fast, what do we have to do with regard to the three days that should have been fasted during Hajj?

A: It is obligatory for each of you to offer a Fidyah (ransom, i.e., sacrificial animal) for omitting Tawaf-ul-Wada` to make up for this ritual. The Fidyah is a sheep meeting the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It is to be slaughtered in in Makkah and its meat distributed among the poor of the Haram, even if the slaughtering is not on the days of Hajj. If any of you cannot afford a sheep, they have to fast ten days. If your wife was menstruating during the time of leaving Makkah, she does not have to offer a sacrifice.

Q: I performed Hajj last year, 1412 A.H. On the second day of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), I performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) after the `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer; but I spent the night in Makkah Al-Mukarramah, and traveled to Al-Ta'if the following morning. Guide me whether Tawaf-ul-Wada`, which my family and I performed, is sufficient or should we repeat it or should we offer a Kaffarah (expiation)? Guide me, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: Anyone who performs Tawaf-ul-Wada` and stays in Makkah after it for a short period of time does not have to repeat it. However, if the person stays after Tawaf-ul-Wada`a for a long period, they should repeat it. As you performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` after the `Asr Prayer and traveled on the following morning and did not repeat Tawaf-ul-Wada`, then each one of you should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) meeting the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and you should slaughter it in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). However, if there was a menstruating woman or a woman in her postpartum period among you, she does not have to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`.

Q: I performed Hajj in 1411 A.H.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 338)

Having performed all the rituals of Hajj, I tried, on the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah, to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), but I got a severe disease and could not perform it. I left Makkah on the same day. I hope Your Eminence could give me a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) in this regard. Is my Hajj incomplete and should I offer a Kaffarah (expiation) or what should I do? Guide me, may Allah reward you with the best and safeguard you.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned and you left Makkah and did not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`, you should slaughter a sacrificial animal in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If you can not do this, you should fast for ten days.

Q1: Allah (Exalted be He) blessed me and I offered Hajj this year. I traveled with a group of pilgrims by private car and we agreed that we would return by the same car. By the grace of Allah, we managed to perform all the rituals of Hajj. We offered Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) after midnight but I stayed in Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) till 2 a.m. on the same day. When I went back to the car, I found that they had left and thus I had to return to Al-Masjid Al-Haram.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 339)

I stayed there till 10 a.m. then I traveled but without performing any Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) or Salah (Prayer). Did I commit a sin and do I have to do anything? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: It was better for you to repeat Tawaf-ul-Wada` for there was a long time between Tawaf-ul-Wada` that you performed and your departure. Since you did not do so, we hope that Tawaf-ul-Wada` that you performed serves as sufficient and that you do not have to offer a sacrifice. As for the Salah you did not perform and if you mean by it Fajr (Dawn) Prayer, then you have to make up for it, in the case that you have not already done so, and to do Tawbah (repentance to Allah) because of this act.

Q: Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) blessed me and I offered Hajj in 1414 A.H. I properly performed all the rituals of Hajj by the grace of Allah (Exalted be He) and with the help of the scholars who were present in the places of performing the rituals. On my last day in Makkah Al-Mukarramah, I visited some of the Egyptian pilgrims who are from my town. Because I had an appointment to travel with my friends, I could not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah).

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, then you have to offer a Kaffarah (expiation) for omitting Tawaful-Wada`. The Kaffarah is a sheep that has to be slaughtered in Makkah and it should meet the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). If you cannot afford this, then you have to fast for ten days.

The second question of Fatwa no. 17128

Q2: I went with my wife to perform Hajj. We were accompanied by a group of people while traveling to and from Makkah. I was not responsible for the car carrying all of us or for making a move. The group was in a hurry and I could not make my wife perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) for two reasons:

1- She was exhausted because of performing the rituals of Hajj and the residence was not comfortable.

2- The group was in a hurry and they asked us to make a move and I did not have a place of residence there or any means of transportation but theirs. Besides, I paid all the costs for them in advance.

That is why I decided to take my wife the following Ramadan to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and asked her to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) after performing all the rituals to make up for the one she omitted in our Hajj. Does this discharge the obligation?

A: Your wife has to offer a sacrifice for omitting Tawaf-ul-Wada`. This should be a sacrificial animal meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) that is to be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat is to be distributed among the poor. Also, she has to do Tawbah (repentance to Allah) and Istighfar (seeking forgiveness from Allah). Doing Tawaf-ul-Wada` in her `Umrah with the intention of making up for the one she omitted in her past Hajj does not count for the past Tawaf. That is because Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) has become due in her case for she traveled to her home before performing the Wajib (obligatory) Tawaf.

Fatwa no. 21293

Q: We are from the town of Hadda' which is 25 kilometers away from Makkah Al-Mukarramah. When performing Hajj, should we perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), bearing in mind that the majority of us are employees and work in Makkah al-Mukarramah and that some of us come to Makkah most of the time? We hope that Your Eminence will give us a Fatwa. May Allah bless your knowledge, make others benefit through you, and safeguard and protect you.

A: Tawaf-ul-Wada` is obligatory for each pilgrim who wants to go from Makkah to Hadda' or to any other place after performing Hajj. That is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(No one should leave until the last thing he has done is to circumambulate Al-Bayt \(the House: another name for the Ka`bah\)\). This Hadith is general in meaning.

Q: Last year, my wife performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). She performed all the rituals of Hajj except Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), because she got her menses. However, my father took her to Al-Masjid Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) to see the the Sanctified Ka`bah. What is the ruling on this? Please guide us. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: Tawaf-ul-Wada` is waived for a menstruating woman; accordingly, your wife does not have to do anything. It is authentically reported on the authority of Ibn `Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) that he said: \(The people were ordered that the last thing they should do is to circumambulate the Ka`bah \(Tawaf-ul-Wada`\), but an exception was made for menstruating women.\) It is reported on the authority of `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) that she said: [\(Safiyyah bint Huyay got her menses after she performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah \(final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj\). I mentioned that to the Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\) and he said, 'Will she detain us \(i.e. prevent us from leaving\)?' Fatwa no. 16618

Q: My wife, my stepmother and I performed Hajj in 1412 A.H. and we performed its rituals with ease. Since my stepmother was suffering from a cardiac disease, we could not perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). Also, it was because we agreed with a taxi driver to take us and there were other pilgrims with us and we did not want to delay them. I asked a shaykh of the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) about that and he replied that we have to pay Fidyah (ransom), which is offering a slaughtered animal for each one of us. However, I could not do so due to being unable to afford even our living costs. It is worth mentioning that my stepmother died a year after her Hajj, which she was performing on behalf of her mother. Please advise me of what I should do, considering that I am poor and indebted with about sixty thousand riyals.

A: Tawaf-ul-Wada` is an obligatory part of Hajj and it should be performed after finishing the rituals of Hajj and when you are about to travel to your home. Whoever travels to their home without performing Tawaf-ul-Wada` have to pay a Fidyah, which is slaughtering a ram or offering one-seventh of a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah) or one-seventh of a cow. It should be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat should be distributed among the poor therein. Whoever cannot afford such an animal must observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days, whether they are consecutive or separate. As for the woman who died, if she left an estate, then the price of the sacrificial animal should be taken from that estate and an animal should be slaughtered on her behalf in Makkah. If she did not have an estate, then it is permissible for any of her relatives or others to offer a slaughtered animal or observe Sawm on her behalf. It is even permissible if two people or more share in the price of the slaughtered animal or in the Sawm. Besides, Allah (Glorified be He) will grant them great reward. This is according to the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): \(Whoever dies having \(some days of obligatory\) Sawm, his Waliy should make up for them on his behalf.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim) The Waliy stated in the Hadith means one's relative.

Q 6: If a person enters Makkah while not being a pilgrim who is performing Hajj or `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), does he have to offer Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) when leaving Makkah? Also, does the person who performs `Umrah have to offer Tawaf-ul-Wada` if he stays in Makkah for one or two days or the like? Is there any Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) called Tawaf-ul-Wada` that was authentically reported from the Prophet (peace be upon him)? Or, may any Tawaf serve as Tawaf-ul-Wada` if the person, after performing it, leaves Makkah ? Please give us a Fatwa. May Allah reward you and never deprive you of entering the Jannah (Paradise), Amen!

A 6: Tawaf-ul-Wada` is obligatory upon the pilgrim who performs Hajj and wants to leave Makkah after performing Hajj. This is according to the Hadith of Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) where he said: «The people were commanded that the last thing they do should be to circumambulate the Al-Bayt \(the House: another name for the Ka`bah; meaning Tawaf-al-Wada`\), but an exception was made for menstruating women.» (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim). A woman who is in her postpartum period also falls under the same ruling as a menstruating woman. Non-pilgrims do not have to offer Tawaf-ul-Wada` according to the correct scholarly opinion. That is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not command those who were performing `Umrah to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada`. Tawaf-ul-Wada`, after performing Hajj, must be accompanied by intention because it is `Ibadah (worship). Besides, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: «The reward of deeds depends upon the intentions and every person will receive the reward according to what he has intended.» And Allah knows best!

The second question of Fatwa no. (19604)

Q 2: Is it permissible to buy some things after performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`; is there is a sin on the person who does so?

A: Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) should be the last ritual of Hajj the pilgrim does, and after which they should leave Makkah. But if the pilgrim stays for a short period to wait for companions, carry baggage or buy some needs, there is nothing wrong with this.

Q 1: A pilgrim performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) on the 12th of Dhul-Hijjah, then went to Mina to throw the pebbles at the Jamarat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing areas); is his Tawaf valid as he circumambulated the Ka`bah before throwing the pebbles? What should this man do, bearing in mind that he is from Jeddah?

A: If anyone performs Tawaf-ul-Wada` before throwing the pebbles (at the pebble-throwing areas during Hajj), this does not count, because Tawaf-ul-Wada` should be the last ritual of Hajj. The pilgrim in question traveled back before repeating Tawaf-ul-Wada` after throwing the pebbles at the Jamarat, therefore he should slaughter a sacrificial animal in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah); he should eat nothing of its meat. The sacrificial animal should meet the same conditions of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). If he cannot do this, he should observe Sawm (fast) for ten days.

Q 2: Two young men accompanied by a number of women and children stoned the Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area, Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah being the closest to Makkah) on the twelfth of Dhul-Hijjah two hours before noon. Then they went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah and performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah upon departing from Makkah) at the due time of Zhuhr (Noon) Prayer. When asked why they had stoned the Jamarat before noon, they replied that the Saudi Scholars Committee had extended the time of stoning the Jamarat, particularly for women and the weak because of accidents. What is your opinion on their stoning the Jamarat before noon? If it is invalid, what do they have to do?

A 2: Stoning the Jamarat on the eleventh of Dhul-Hijjah and on the following days does not fulfill the purpose unless it is done after noon. This is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) stoned the Jamarat in the afternoon on these days and then said: \(Perform the rites of Hajj as you have seen me doing them.\) This is the juristic ruling given by the Saudi scholars. They have not issued any other ruling on this point. Because you stoned the Jamarat before noon, you must offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (a sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). If you cannot afford it, you have to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days.

Q3: There is a person who does not know anything about Hajj, even its pillars and its obligatory rites. To this day, when performing Hajj he omits Sa`y. What does he have to do?

A 3: Whoever omits Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) must return to Makkah and complete seven rounds of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) with the intention of making up for the missed Sa`y. Secondly, they have to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). If the person has had sexual intercourse with their spouses during such a period, they must slaughter a sheep in Makkah which meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). Also, its meat should be distributed among the poor living in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q 4: On the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals), a group of Mutamatti's (pilgrims performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) stoned the Jamrah (stone pillar marking the pebble-throwing area) and shaved their heads. As for the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), they appointed one of their friends in Makkah who gave them his word that he would slaughter on their behalf early on the Day of Nahr. Then they made Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) after stoning and shaving, as they were certain that their friend fulfilled his promise. However, that evening, their friend apologized for delaying the slaughtering on their behalf until Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer because he got tired after slaughtering several sacrificial animals. The question is: Does delaying the slaughtering affect the validity of their Tahallul or not?

A 4: There is nothing wrong with shaving one's head after stoning the pillars. Even if this person had not slaughtered the Hady, there is no blame on this group of pilgrims.

The first question of Fatwa no. 21041

Q 1: My wife and I visited Makkah for approximately two days during which we performed `Umrah.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 348)

During Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) before leaving Makkah, my wife got her menses, but she performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` in ignorance. What is the ruling on this? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: First, according to the correct scholarly opinion, Tawaf-ul-Wada` is not obligatory in `Umrah; this is specific to Hajj. The Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered the pilgrims performing Hajj to make Tawaf-ul-Wada`, but it was not reported that he (peace be upon him) ordered the pilgrims performing `Umrah to do so.

Second, a menstruating woman does not have to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` during Hajj, as a menstruating woman is excused from this ritual. What your wife did was out of ignorance and she will be excused In sha'a-Allah (If Allah wills).

The fifth question of Fatwa no. (21294)

Q 5: Before sunset of the twelfth of Dhul-Hijjah, we left Mina in a hurry. The organizer of the Hajj journey had rented a hall for wedding parties in a place called Al-Shara'i, no. 2 which we thought was outside the borders of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). The pilgrims spent the night there. After the Fajr (Dawn) Prayer, the pilgrims were transported in buses to the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) by some and to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) by others. Some knowledgeable persons told them they had to offer (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) a Fidyah (ransom) for leaving the borders of the Haram before performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah or Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah); is it obligatory upon a pilgrim who left the borders of the Haram without performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah

despite knowing it, to offer a sacrificial animal? As it is generally understood from the statement of the Fuqaha' (Muslim jurists) reading, "If a pilgrim returns home without performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`, he has to return to Makkah even if his homeland was Damascus or Basra". The Fuqaha' do not say that such a pilgrim is required to offer a sacrificial animal for not performing Tawaf. Is this correct? Please give us the ruling on this question. May Allah reward you with the best!

A 5: Tawaf-ul-Wada` is performed on leaving Makkah after performing the rituals of Hajj. It is permissible for a pilgrim, before performing such Tawaf, to go to any place in the vicinity of Makkah as he has not intended departure or travel. If a pilgrim goes to any place that is far from Makkah, it is obligatory upon him to offer a sacrificial animal for having left Makkah before performing Tawaf-ul-Wada`. It is worth mentioning that returning to Makkah to perform such Tawaf does not discharge the obligation.

Q 1: Five years ago, I performed Hajj and during Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), I had a stomachache and diarrhea, so my Wudu' (ablution) was invalidated many times. I was performing Tawaf-ul-Wada` on the second floor due to the large crowds, and as water was available on the second floor, I would perform Wudu' every time my Wudu' got invalidated and continue my Tawaf-ul-Wada` from where I stopped; I did so according to my knowledge. However, I heard that Wudu' is Wajib (obligatory)

in Tawaf; was my action right and valid or not?

A 1: If the case is as you mentioned, your Tawaf-ul-Wada` is invalid and you should offer a Fidyah (ransom), which is to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor people. If you can not do this, you should fast for ten days. This is because when the Wudu' of a person performing Tawaf gets invalidated during Tawaf, he should perform Wudu' again and start the Tawaf from the beginning and not continue it.

`Umrah

The first question of Fatwa no. (19307)

Q 1: Is it true that the people of Makkah Al-Mukarramah do not have to offer `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), and that and that their circumambulation of the Ka`bah is considered `Umrah, and that they do not have to enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah)? Where is the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of the people of Makkah when they intend to perform `Umrah?

A 1: `Umrah is obligatory upon every Muslim at least once in lifetime, just like Hajj, including the people of Makkah and other Muslims. Allah set it as a general ruling when He (Exalted be He) says: ﴿And perform properly \(i.e. all the ceremonies according to the ways of Prophet Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم\), the Hajj and `Umrah \(i.e. the pilgrimage to Makkah\) for Allāh.﴾

This ruling is also supported by the Hadith reported on the authority of `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) that she said: ﴿O Messenger of Allah! Is Jihad \(fighting/striving in the Cause of Allah\) incumbent on women?﴾ He replied: "Yes, Jihad which does not include fighting is incumbent on them. It is the Hajj and the `Umrah." (Related by Ahmad in his "Musnad (Hadith compilation), and Ibn Majah in his Sunan (Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes) through authentic Isnad [chain of narrators]). It was authentically reported on the authority of `Umar that the Prophet (peace be upon him) answered Gabriel when he asked him about Islam: ﴿Islam is to bear witness that there is no deity but Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah; to establish Salah \(Prayer\); to pay the Zakah \(obligatory charity\); to perform Hajj and `Umrah; to do Janabah Ghusl \(full ritual bath to cleanse of sexual discharge\) and to do Wudu` \(ablution\) perfectly; and to fast Ramadan.﴾ (Related by Ibn Khuzaymah and Al- Darqutny, and Al- Darqutny said: "It is reported through authentic Isnad.") If the Hajj and `Umrah have been proven to be obligatory upon women, they should be obligatory on men first. Thus, we come to know that `Umrah is obligatory upon every

Mukallaf (person meeting the conditions to be held legally accountable for their actions), male or female, at least once in a lifetime, just like Hajj, for whoever is able to perform it. Accordingly, the people of Makkah should perform `Umrah at least once during their lifetime, just like all other Muslims. They should enter Ihram from the nearest place to Al-Hil (all areas outside the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah), i.e., outside the boundaries of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q 3: My parents are dead and I perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) on their behalf in Ramadan; yet, some people say it is preferable to give in Sadaqah (voluntary charity) on their behalf; which is better?

A 3: It is Mustahab (desirable) to give in Sadaqah and perform Hajj or `Umrah on behalf of the parents, based on the evidence reported from the Prophet (peace be upon him) in this concern. He (peace be upon him) said: «When a son of Adam dies, their acts come to an end, but three, recurring charity, or knowledge \(by which people\) benefit, or a pious son, who prays for them \(for the deceased\).» If there is adversity, it is better to give in Sadaqah than to perform voluntary Hajj and `Umrah.

Q: Is it permissible for my father to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with money that he borrowed from a bank ?

A: It is obligatory upon whoever wants to perform Hajj or `Umrah for themselves or on behalf of others to perform Hajj or `Umrah with lawful money as Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) only accepts acts of worship performed with money obtained by lawful means.

As for borrowing money from banks and others with an interest, it is not permissible at all as it is a practice of Riba (usury/interest). The Prophet (peace be upon him) cursed the one who gives Riba, the one who takes Riba, the one who writes down a usurious transaction and those who witness the transaction, and he (peace be upon him) said: \(They all are equal in sin.\) The Ill-gotten money is a reason for Allah to reject supplications and not accept acts of worship. If this money is borrowed with no interest, there is nothing wrong with performing Hajj or `Umrah with it.

Q: Is it permissible for a woman to perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) while her husband or her Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) does not accompany her in Tawaf and Sa`y, but awaits her in the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah), until she finishes her `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage)?

A: The presence of a Mahram is not a condition for the validity of a woman's Tawaf for `Umrah or Hajj; rather, it is a condition that the woman has a Mahram with her when traveling for `Umrah or elsewhere.

Q2: If a person performs `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) on a Friday of any month and wants to go to another place outside Makkah, but two or three days later the person returns to Makkah and wants to perform another `Umrah, is it permissible for them to perform a second `Umrah without wearing Ihram (garment worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah)?

A 2: Whoever wishes to perform `Umrah must assume the state of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering into the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) they enter into Makkah from. It is not permissible for a Muslim to pass the Miqat without assuming the state of Ihram as the Prophet (peace be upon him) set these Miqats so that those who intend to perform Hajj or `Umrah assume the state of Ihram from these Miqats; whether it is for the first `Umrah, the second, or more. As for one staying at a place within the Miqats, they can assume the state of Ihram from the place where they declare their intention to perform `Umrah. However, if they are staying in Makkah, they must go to Al-Hil (all areas outside the Sacred Precincts of Makkah) to assume the state of Ihram for `Umrah as done by `A'ishah (may Allah be pleased with her) when the Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered her to do so.

Q3: What is the ruling on a person who performs `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) about five times and assumes the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for each `Umrah from Tan`im?

A 3: Performing `Umrah repeatedly be a person visiting Makkah for a short period of time was not the practice of the Prophet (peace be upon him) or his Companions (may Allah be pleased with them). If this practice had been the best, they would have hastened to do it. It is Islamically prescribed for a person visiting Makkah and having finished their rituals to do much of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), recitation of the Qur'an, Salah (Prayer), Sadaqah (voluntary charity) and other acts of worships. Also, it is permissible for them to perform `Umrah for themselves or for others whom they can perform `Umrah on their behalf such as the dead and those who are not able to do so because of being old-aged or chronically ill as long as this will incur no hardship for them or for other people during the time when it is very crowded. This is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(\(The performance of\) `Umrah is an expiation for the sins committed \(between it and the previous one\). And the reward of Hajj Mabrur \(the one accepted by Allah\) is nothing except Paradise.\)\) It was also authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered `A'ishah (may Allah be pleased with her) to perform `Umrah from Tan`im after she had finished the state of Ihram for Hajj and `Umrah when she asked his permission to do so.

I finished Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), I offered the rest of the Tarawih (special supererogatory night Prayer in Ramadan) with the Muslim congregation. However, I fainted due to stress excessive crowds. After that, I left the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah), and forgot to shave or shorten my hair. What should I do now?

A: If you forgot to shave your hair after finishing `Umrah, you should, when you remember, put on Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) once again, then shave or shorten your hair. If you had sexual intercourse with your wife before you shaved, you have to offer a Fidyah (ransom), i.e. slaughter a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in the Haram and distribute the meat among the poor of the Haram. If you could not do this, you should fast for ten days.

Q 1: I would like to tell Your Eminence that I intended to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and after I finished the seven rounds of Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) between Safa and Marwah, I did not shorten my hair out of negligence and laziness, but not out of ignorance. Then I removed Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah), and put on my usual clothes and traveled to my country. Am I to blame for what I did? Please guide me. May Allah reward you with the best!

A 1: Shaving or shortening the hair is one of the obligations of `Umrah that should not be abandoned. You have to put on your Ihram again and then shave or shorten your hair, for you are not absolved of this obligation. Nevertheless, you should offer Fidyah (ransom) for having worn Makhit (clothes sewn to fit body limbs) on purpose, and this is done by slaughtering a sheep in Makkah, and distributing its meat among the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah), or feeding six poor persons in the Haram; for each person you should give one kilo and a half of the staple food of the place, or you can fast for three days anywhere.

Q: I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during last Ramadan, 1417 A.H., and I forgot to shave or shorten my hair. After I finished Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), I went from Makkah to Al-Ta'if. On the second night, I wanted to perform another `Umrah, but some people told me that this is not permissible, so I entered into Ihram with the intention of performing `Umrah on behalf of a friend of mine. Now, after a year has passed, I send you this message to know the ruling on my first `Umrah, taking into consideration that I am a married person.

A: Your `Umrah is valid, and you have to remove your usual clothes and put on the clothes of Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and then shave or shorten your hair with the intention of performing this for the first `Umrah. Besides, you have to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) if you had sexual intercourse with your wife before fulfilling the obligation of shortening the hair. The Dam you should offer is slaughtering a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), to be slaughtered in Makkah Al-Mukarramah and its meat to be distributed among the poor.

Q: I, as well as my father, mother and brother, performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during Ramadan about fourteen years ago. When we made Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) , and made three rounds, my brother said we had completed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), but my father and I said there were still four rounds left; after which, we returned home. It is worth mentioning that we had made only three rounds of Tawaf around the Ka`bah and completed the rites of `Umrah by drinking from Zamzam and making Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). We then returned home. We would be grateful if you would give us the ruling on such practice. Should we offer Fidyah (ransom) or anything else in this respect? It is worth mentioning that both my father and my mother are dead, and my brother and I are still alive. Is the `Umrah we performed valid or incomplete? We would be grateful if you could show us what we need to do and what is incumbent upon my deceased parents. Do we have to perform this `Umrah again for which we assumed the state of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) only once, or must each of us return and assume the state of Ihram again? I would like to inform you that we live far away from the Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) and are busy all the time. If it is obligatory upon us to offer Fidyah, is it permissible for us to give it to Al-Rajhiy Bank located in Sarat `Ubaydah to deliver it to the Islamic Bank to offer the Fidyah on our behalf as is the case with the Fidyah offered during Hajj; or do we have to go to the Haram and slaughter the Fidyah? Give us the ruling on this question in detail, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: As for you and your brother, you must put on Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) again and complete the rites of the previous `Umrah by performing Tawaf around the Ka`bah, making Sa`y and having your hair shaved or cut short. Each of you has to offer a sacrificial animal meeting the same conditions for Ud-Hiyah (a sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) if you have had sexual intercourse during the period of time mentioned. Also, you have to assume the state of Ihram for a new `Umrah from the Miqat (site for entering the ceremonial state for Hajj or `Umrah) where you assumed the state of Ihram for the first `Umrah in case you have had sexual intercourse, as the first `Umrah has been rendered invalid and it is necessary to complete it and make up for it. As for your deceased parents, there is no sin on them. Whoever performs Hajj or `Umrah on their behalf will be greatly rewarded by In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

The first question of Fatwa no. 18708

Q 1: My aunt is about fifty or sixty years old and she enjoys good health. In 1412 A.H., she performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), and during the Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), she lost her Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) and sat on the ground. Then, a kind man came and asked her what was wrong with her. She told him the story and he helped her complete the Tawaf, but she did not perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). Then, in 1415 A.H., she performed another `Umrah. Is she to blame for what she did?

A: If what you mentioned is true, the Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) of this woman in the second `Umrah is not valid, as she had already been in Ihram since the first `Umrah. So, her Sa`y and shortening of hair in the second `Umrah is complementary to the first `Umrah and her Tawaf in the second `Umrah would be counted as Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah). She does not have to do anything else, provided that she did not have sexual intercourse between the Ihrams of the two `Umrahs. If she had sexual intercourse between the two `Umrahs, the first `Umrah is invalid and the second `Umrah will be complementary to the first invalid `Umrah. She had to enter Ihram from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) where she entered Ihram for the first `Umrah, to make up for the first `Umrah that was invalidated by having sexual intercourse. She has to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah, and distribute the meat among the poor, as a Fidyah (ransom) for having sexual intercourse in the state of Ihram. She should also repent to Allah (Exalted be He) for what she did.

Q: Five years ago, my young son and I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). It was very crowded as this was on the twenty-sixth of Ramadan. We circumambulated around Al-Bayt (the House: another name for the Ka`bah) but could not perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), so we returned to Jazan. After `Eid-ul-Fitr (the Festival of Breaking the Fast), I returned alone and made up for this `Umrah. Kindly keep in mind that I had sexual intercourse with my wife after I returned from the first `Umrah. What should my son and I do?

A: First: Your son, who did not complete the `Umrah, should put on the Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) once again and return quickly to Makkah to complete his `Umrah by performing Sa`y and shortening his hair.

Second: You should return to Makkah and enter into Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) once again from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) where you performed your first `Umrah which you invalidated by having sexual intercourse with your wife. You should perform a complete `Umrah to make up for your first invalid `Umrah.

You should slaughter a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and distribute the meat among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If you could not do this, you should fast for ten days.

Q: A woman performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) but did not complete it because she feared for her pregnancy. As she did not know what she should do, she did not perform another `Umrah. Many years later, she performed Tamattu` Hajj ( `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), and later on, performed Hajj on behalf of her mother. Is her Hajj valid? What should she do, bearing in mind that she did not perform another `Umrah before her Hajj, meaning that she performed Hajj after an invalid `Umrah? Please guide us. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: The `Umrah, which she performed before Hajj, is considered making up for the `Umrah which was invalidated by having sexual intercourse with her husband, if she had did so before performing the `Umrah of the Tamattu` Hajj. Q: I traveled from Ha'il to Jeddah and intended to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). I entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). I had arranged to meet my wife at Jeddah Airport as she was coming from Cairo, and I accompanied her from Jeddah to Makkah. We entered our room before performing the `Umrah and had sexual intercourse. We did not end up performing the `Umrah, and I did not know that I must make a Kaffarah (expiation). After three years, I asked the Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) of a Masjid (mosque) about this and he told me that I owe Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement). Please tell me what I have to do. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, the `Umrah in which you had intercourse before Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) has become void, and each of you must enter Ihram from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from which you had made Ihram for this void `Umrah, and perform another `Umrah in compensation for the void one. Q: On Thursday, 25 Ramadan 1421 A.H. we headed for Makkah via Al-Sayl Road, from which we entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). We then headed toward Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) at about 4:30 pm entered through Bab Al Malik `Abdul `Aziz It was very crowded; my wife and three sons - aged five years, four years, and eight months - were with me, together with our Indonesian employee (who is a Muslim). My five-year-old and four-year-old boys entered Ihram too, but when we saw how crowded the place was we decided to wait for a better chance of Tawaf. However, the place became more and more crowded throughout the night, and after Fajr (Dawn) Prayer, we tried again to do Tawaf. I could not go with my whole family, so I left them and went alone and finished my `Umrah. I then stayed with the children so that my wife and our employee could go and perform the `Umrah, but when they saw the crowd, they decided not to go at that time. We waited until 9:30 am on Friday, 26 Ramadan, 1421 A.H., but it was still crowded. Since the whole family was exhausted due to not having slept all night, in addition to the lack of food for the children, the family insisted on returning to Riyadh. So we left Al-Haram without my wife, our employee and our children having performed the `Umrah. Please tell us the legal opinion about this, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, those who did not perform the `Umrah must wear the clothes of Ihram again, and return to Makkah as soon as possible, to perform the `Umrah for which they started Ihram and did not complete its rituals. If you had sexual intercourse with your wife in this period, her `Umrah is invalid, and she must go on with this invalid `Umrah, then return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from which she first entered Ihram and start another Ihram for a new `Umrah as compensation for the invalid one. She must also slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah, and distribute it among the poor people who live in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah), in addition to paying a Fidyah (ransom) for the intercourse.

Q: Around two years and three months ago, before getting married,

(Part No. 10; Page No. 365)

I went to Makkah to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) in Ramadan. I put on the clothes of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), but I intended to cease the 'Umrah in case of physical inability. Then, I went to Makkah and circumambulated Al-Ka'bah, and set out to perform Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). At the Mas'a (the place where pilgrims go between Safa and Marwah) and due to the overcrowding and physical contact with women, some of whom were unveiled, I was sexually aroused nearly during the fifth round of Sa'y. I ceased Sa'y fearing more temptation and committing a sin. I went out of the Sacred Mosque, endeavouring to find a way to protect myself and dismiss all thoughts of temptation. The cursed Satan insinuated me to masturbate, inspiring me that in this way I will be relaxed and relieved and shall be able to resume my `Umrah. I masturbated and yet things got worse; I could not complete the remaining rounds of Sa'y, i.e., two or three. Eventually, I had my hair cut, took off the clothes of Ihram and wore my ordinary clothes and left without completing my `Umrah. I also broke my fast in this day of Ramadan. About one year and two months later, I performed Hajj (the pilgrimage to Makkah undertaken according to the prescribed ritual during the month of Dhul-Hijjah) without offering 'Umrah, and after two months I got married and I performed `Umrah together with my wife. But when performing this 'Umrah with my wife, my intention was not to correct my previous invalid `Umrah. Last Ramadan, I intended to perform another `Umrah to make up for the invalid `Umrah. So, I set out from Riyadh to perform `Umrah, but not intending when reaching the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah) that this `Umrah would be in compensation for the previous incomplete one. With Allah's Help, I performed the `Umrah. What is the ruling on this? May Allah reward you with the best!

(Part No. 10; Page No. 366)

A: According to what you have mentioned above, your Hajj is invalid, as you wore the clothes of Ihram to perform Hajj while you are already in the state of Ihram of a previous `Umrah that was not completed. Thus, your Hajj is complementary to your incomplete `Umrah, and your marriage contract which you entered into after performing this `Umrah is valid. However, it is obligatory on you to sacrifice an animal that meets all the specifications for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrim). You must slaughter it in Makkah as an expiation for your masturbation before completing your `Umrah. The meat of the sacrifice should be distributed among the poor of Makkah. Now, it is obligatory on you to perform Hajj, if you did not perform it before. Your Hajj, which you mentioned earlier, is considered invalid for the reasons mentioned above.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Q: I accompanied my wife and my children to Makkah Al-Mukarramah to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). One of my children, aged 9, was in the state of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or 'Umrah). Unfortunately, after finishing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah), my wife and one of my children went missing at Al-Haram (the Sacred mosque in Makkah) I was put in extremely difficult situation, due to the overcrowding of people and having my 9 year old son - who was Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) - and a suckling baby with me. Giving these circumstances, I had to take my two sons down to the house of my father, who lives in Makkah Al-Mukarramah, and return to Al-Haram to look for missing my wife and my son and to resume the rites of `Umrah. But, my Muhrim son did not complete his Sa'y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and took off his clothes of Ihram and wore his ordinary clothes. During `Eid, I had his hair cut and he wore perfume and clipped his nails.

As for my wife, she wore Niqab (face veil) before performing Sa'y, but she did not wear it during Sa'y. She also forgetfully wore perfume. I hope Your Eminence would give me a Fatwa regarding the validity of the 'Umrah of my 9 year-old son and my wife in this case.

A: First, it is obligatory on your son, who did not complete his `Umrah, to wear his clothes of Ihram again and complete his `Umrah, including performing Sa'y and shaving or shortening his hair. Also, it is obligatory on him to pay Fidyah (ransom) due to wearing his ordinary clothes, Fidyah due to shaving his hair, and Fidyah due to wearing perfume. As for every Fidyah, the person, who is going to pay it, has the option either to sacrifice an animal in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah), to feed six Miskins (needy persons) in Al-Haram, giving every Miskin 1/2 Sa` (1 Sa` = 3 kg. approx.) of food, or to fast three days for every prohibition committed intentionally, being aware of its ruling. But in the case of being unintentional or unaware of its ruling, then there is no sin on him.

Second, it is obligatory on your wife to pay Fidyah due to wearing her Niqab (face veil) and wearing perfume, being intentional and aware of its ruling. But if it was unintentional or she was unaware of its ruling, then there is no sin on her.

The first question of Fatwa no. 14419

Q 1: Last Ramadan I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), and at the time of wearing the clothes of Ihram (the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) I intended it to be on behalf of my late father. When I arrived at Al-Bayt AL-Haram (the Sacred House), I started performing the rites of `Umrah. As we were performing Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), time came up to perform Zhuhr (Noon) Prayer, and so we interrupted Sa`y to perform the prayer. However, during the prayer I had excessive nose bleeding, but I completed the prayer, using the clothes of Ihram to stop the bleeding. When the prayer was completed, I performed Ghusl (full ritual bath) and set out to resume my Sa`y, taking into account that I was fasting and I did not break my fast. After completing three rounds, I felt so dizzy to the extent that I slept at in one of the corners of the Mas`a (the place where pilgrims go between Safa and Marwah), for a while. When I woke up, I felt extremely tired and therefore I decided to break my fast. Due to this situation, I decided to interrupt my Sa`y, and I finished my `Umrah without completing its rites, intending to perform another `Umrah In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) in another time. Is what I did right? What is the ruling on this?

A: It is obligatory on you to wear the clothes of Ihram and return to Makkah and to resume Sa`y for your previous `Umrah, and to shave or to shorten your hair. If you are married and you had sexual intercourse with your wife at that time, your `Umrah is considered invalid. Accordingly, it will be obligatory on you to complete it and to sacrifice an animal that meet the requirements for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). You should slaughter it in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of Al-Haram. You should set out to perform your new `Umrah from the very place where you wore the clothes of Ihram for the first invalid `Umrah.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Q 1: I set out to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the blessed month of Ramadan in 1411 A.H. with my family. After performing four rounds of Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), one of my children, who is eight years old, got tired and sat to rest on the ground of the Mas`a (the place where pilgrims go between Safa and Marwah). Having completed four rounds, he was too tired to finish all rounds. We returned home in the south without resuming his Sa`y. Please, give us a Fatwa explaining the ruling concerning this situation.

Q 2: One of my good friends advised me not to watch TV at home due to various harm it causes. I complied with the advice immediately, and I promised Allah that this set would not be used in my home as long as I live. I kept my word for around two years. We have neighbors who too stopped watching TV like us, but later they have resumed watching it again. They are very close to us, and we often exchange visits.

My children began to visit my neighbours day and night, causing us some problems. One day, I paid a visit to a friend of mine at night. When I came home, I felt angry because I discovered that my wife had allowed the children to watch the TV again. I ordered them not to watch useless programs, and they promised to abide by this command, especially when I am not at home. In my presence I do not permit them to watch nonsense. Now, I feel guilty due to the vow I took upon myself with Allah. Please, guide me in explaining the ruling! May Allah keep you safe!

A: It is obligatory on you to go back with your son and ask him to wear the clothes of Ihram again, because he is still in the ritual state for `Umrah, in order to resume his 'Umrah; to perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka'bah) and Sa`y. But in case of his inability to perform Sa`y in person, it is permissible to put him on a stretcher and do it, and then he should have his hair shaved or shortened until he completes his `Umrah. As for the vow you broke, it is obligatory on you to pay the Kaffarah (expiation) of an oath, i.e., feeding ten Miskins (needy persons), or clothing them, or emancipating a believing slave. But if you can not afford any of these, you should fast three days instead.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Fatwa no. 14222

Q 2: My wife has a question, and she wants to know the answer. May Allah reward you with the best! Before getting married, she set out with her paternal uncle to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and to visit Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah. During her preparation for the journey, she had her first monthly period while still at home. She felt too shy to inform her family and her uncle about her monthly period. Notwithstanding this, she went with them to Makkah and Al-Madinah, performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), and offered prayer at home during her menstruation. She also visited Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah during her menstruation, but she still felt too shy to tell her family and her uncle about this.

The question is: Is she considered sinful or not? And if she is sinful, what is the Kaffarah (expiation) for this sin? What should she do?

May Allah grant you success and reward you with the best!

A: Your wife's Tawaf is considered invalid, as she had her menstruation. However, she was still considered a Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) at the time you got married to her. Accordingly, her `Umrah is considered invalid when you had sexual intercourse with her while she was still in the ritual state of Ihram for `Umrah. She should go to Makkah, wearing the clothes of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), to complete her `Umrah, i.e., the invalid one. Then, after completing her `Umrah and ceasing the state of Ihram, she should go to the very Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) at which she previously intended to perform her first invalid `Umrah, and wear the clothes of Ihram for her second `Umrah, which is considered a compensation for her first invalid one. It is also obligatory on her to sacrifice an animal in Makkah that meets the specifications of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It must be slaughtered and its meat be distributed among the poor of Makkah. This is to compensate for having sexual intercourse with her during her ritual state for `Umrah. But if you got married to her during her ritual state of `Umrah, you should renew the marriage contract after performing the rites of `Umrah.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Fatwa no. 15692

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the question that His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, received from the enquirer M.M.B., via the Court Presidency in Tabuk, which was transferred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 5065 on 11 Shawwal, 1412 A.H. and reads as follows:

The citizen M.M.B., holding ID no., in Tabuk Register, said that he went with his wife to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during Ramadan this year. His wife took pills to prevent menstruation, but when she arrived at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), she had spotting. She entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) while she was not ritually pure, and by the time she arrived at Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) the bleeding had stopped, but that was because of the many pills she had taken.

While performing Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), she was ritually pure and she had had ritual bath. She had no bleeding at all at Tawaf or Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). After she performed Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and went out of Haram, she had bleeding on the same day, which continued for three days and then stopped as is usual for all women.

The inquirer asks: Is there anything required of her? Please take into consideration that we had sexual intercourse and we had trimmed our nails and had our hair cut. We ask Your Eminence to tell us whether she must compensate for the `Umrah, or pay for Dam (sacrificial animal offered as an atonement).

After examining the Fatwa request, the Committee replied as follows: If the reality is as you mentioned, the `Umrah that your wife performed is valid, because she did Tawaf while being ritually pure.

Fatwa no. 17012

Q: I am a 26-year-old woman. I got married 13 years ago when I was 13 years old. At that time, I had not yet reached puberty. A year after my marriage, I went with my husband to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) and we performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) while I was menstruating, bearing in mind that I did not perform Salah (Prayer), Sawm (Fast) or read at the time as I was illiterate. I performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) seven times with my husband as well as Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) all that while I had my menses. Now I am confused whether I have to offer Kaffarah (expiation) or Fidyah (ransom) and whether I must repent or not. Am I held guilty for performing Tawaf while I had my menses? Please advise and may Allah reward you.

A: If, as you mentioned, you performed `Umrah after reaching puberty and you performed Tawaf and Sa`y while menstruating and you did not offer Salah or

Sawm before that, then your `Umrah is absolutely invalid. This is because abandoning Salah is Kufr (disbelief) and no deed is considered valid in such a state. Hence, you must repent to Allah for this grave sin and offer the Five Obligatory Daily Prayers at their due times, fast Ramadan and perform Hajj and `Umrah, in addition to other deeds prescribed by the Shari`ah (Islamic law) after your repentance.

Q 2: I accompany my family to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) and perform the rites of `Umrah and we stay in Makkah for a week. I face a recurrent problem, wherein my menses ends one or two days after we reach the place where we assume the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). I feel too embarrassed to tell my family about my condition, so I assume Ihram with them and wear the appropriate garments since it is impermissible to go beyond that place without assuming the state of Ihram. We then go to Makkah and perform the `Umrah, whereas I stay at home until my menses is over while wearing the clothing of Ihram. I try as much as possible not to do anything that might invalidate my state of Ihram.

It is known that a woman must perform Ghusl (full ritual bath) after her menstruation ends. Therefore, should I have the intention of entering the state of Ihram once again from the place where I live, or is the initial intention that I had at the place of assuming Ihram sufficient and then only perform Ghusl at the place where I live when my menses ends?

It is also known that one of the things that invalidate the state of Ihram is one's hair falling out; does that nullify my Ihram, if it is originally valid?

A 2: If a woman passes by the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) while intending to perform the rites and is experiencing her menses or postpartum bleeding, she should assume the state of Ihram and remain in it until she becomes pure and performs Ghusl. She is then to perform `Umrah. Having Ghusl or changing (Ihram) clothing do not affect the validity of `Umrah. However, she should avoid adornment in her clothes and perfume and other nullifiers of Ihram, until she completes the rites of `Umrah. If any of her hair falls unintentionally while performing Ghusl, there will be no blame on her and she should have the intention of performing the post-menstruation Ghusl. It is impermissible for her to repeat her intention for assuming the state of Ihram because she is still in the state of Ihram that she intended when she was at the Miqat.

Q: I set out to perform `Umrah in the year 1412 A.H. On the way,

(Part No. 10; Page No. 376)

I got my period and when we reached our place of residence, my family went to perform `Umrah and I stayed behind. When they asked me when my menses would be over, I shyly and ignorantly replied that it would end the next day because I wanted so much to make `Umrah since it was my first time to visit Makkah. I kept on drinking cold liquids and bathing in cold water, thinking that this would stop my menses.

I went to the Miqat (site for entering the ceremonial state for Hajj and `Umrah) and performed Ghusl (full ritual bath) with cold water. I assumed the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and wore clean clothes and placed a white towel where the blood comes out. I performed Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and I then went to make sure whether there was any blood. I found two drops of red blood and I do not know whether it came out during Tawaf or Sa`y. Four years after this `Umrah, I set out to perform Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and thereafter I got married. Is my `Umrah invalid and does the Tamattu` Hajj make up for that `Umrah? Is my marriage contract invalid and should it be renewed? Do I have to offer a sacrifice?

A: The `Umrah that you performed while you had your menses is invalid. Hence, you are still in that previous state of Ihram. Moreover, your Ihram for the Tamattu` Hajj was invalid as well, because of your previous Ihram. Therefore, your Ihram for this second `Umrah was nothing but a continuation of your previous `Umrah and your Hajj was Ifrad Hajj (performing Hajj only). If your marriage contract was concluded after your performance of Hajj, then it is valid, because it was concluded after your Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from your previous Ihram.

Q: I set out to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) almost six years ago. During Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), I had my menses. I continued my Tawaf and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) and I completed the `Umrah. It should be noted that I know that Tawaf in my case was impermissible. However, I thought that my `Umrah was invalid and that my Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) came to an end once my `Umrah became invalid. It should be considered that I got married after time. So, what is the ruling on my marriage contract? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: If the case is as you mentioned, then your marriage contract is invalid since it was concluded while you were in the state of Ihram. Hence, your husband must stop having intercourse with you and you have to return to Makkah and perform Tawaf and Sa`y and shorten your hair to make up for the `Umrah that was invalidated by sexual intercourse. Then you should go to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from where you assumed the state of Ihram for your first `Umrah and assume Ihram for a new `Umrah as a compensation for the invalid `Umrah. Moreover, your marriage contract must be renewed and you must offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah), a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed among the poor people in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah).

Q 2: After a miscarriage during the month of Ramadan, I performed Ghusl (full ritual bath) and made the intention to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). When I arrived at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) I was surprised to find my monthly menstruation had begun so I performed Ghusl once again at the Miqat. I went to Al-Masjid Al-Haram, and only performed Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah); I did not perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) but immediately returned to my house, some 400 km from Makkah. I made Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) after I arrived at my house. What is the ruling on this? Please take into account that this is the first time for me to perform `Umrah.

A 2: With reference to your first question, your Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for `Umrah during your postpartum period was valid that you should have performed the rituals of `Umrah. It is impermissible for you to reject it since you have to adhere to the rulings of Ihram and go to Makkah to perform the rituals of `Umrah, such as Tawaf, Sa`y and shortening the hair.

Q: I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) along with my family in 1408 A.H and assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) for `Umrah while I had my menstrual period. After I arrived in Makkah, I performed Tawaf circumambulation of the Ka`bah) but did not perform Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah) between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah since I had doubts about the validity of these acts during my present state. I then left with my family. In 1410 A.H., I performed `Umrah once again with my family but I didn't intend it to make up for the last `Umrah; my intention was to perform a new one. In 1414 A.H., I got married, consummated my marriage and had a son. I contacted the Ifta' Department and they informed me that I had to inform Your Eminence for a correct Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar). For this reason, I request a Fatwa about the status of the `Umrah I mentioned in the question and whether my second `Umrah stands for the first. Did I remove my Ihram with my third `Umrah? And do I have to make up for the first `Umrah which I performed in 1408 A.H.? Is my marriage contract valid? If it is null and void, what should I do? I hope you will convey my inquiry to the Grand Mufti of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to give me a Fatwa as to what is legally required. May Allah protect and safeguard you.

A: Your second `Umrah is considered continuation of, not making up for the first `Umrah. This is because you were still in a state of Ihram of the first `Umrah. As long as you performed all the rituals of the `Umrah in full, then you were released from the Ihram and it was permissible for you to marry. Therefore, your marriage contract is valid, praise be to Allah, and there is nothing due upon you.

Fatwa no. 18562

Q: One of my relatives went with his mother and wife to Makkah for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). They all assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). When his mother reached the Haram, she asked that they give her the children to look after while he took his wife to perform the `Umrah; the mother herself did not perform `Umrah. Is there anything upon her concerning this matter, which occurred during the month of Rajab in 1416 A.H.? If her husband was intimate with her during this time, what is due on her to do? May Allah reward you well.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned in the question, that woman must observe the rituals of Ihram and stay away from the things that violate its conditions, because she has been in a state of `Umrah. Therefore, she has to go to Makkah and perform the `Umrah for which she entered into Ihram. This is because whoever enters Ihram to perform the rituals (of `Umrah or Hajj) must observe them.

It is impermissible to refuse to perform the rituals, based on Allah's Words: ﴿And perform properly (i.e. all the ceremonies according to the ways of Prophet Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم), the Hajj and `Umrah (i.e. the pilgrimage to Makkah) for Allâh.﴾ If the woman engaged in intercourse with her husband during this period, then her `Umrah has invalidated and she must continue it and conclude it with Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah) and shortening her hair. Then she has to return to the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from which she entered Ihram for the first `Umrah which was nullified by engaging in intercourse, assume Ihram from there for another `Umrah and make up for the first one. Then she has to perform the `Umrah in full as well as offer a Fidyah (ransom) by offering one sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the poor there. If she cannot find any poor individuals, she is to fast ten days for nullifying her `Umrah by engaging in sexual intercourse and make Tawbah (repentance to Allah) for what she did.

Q: I went to Makkah Al-Mukarramah (Makkah, the Honored) with my wife in Ramadan this year with the intention of performing `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage). We traveled from Abha while my wife was menstruating. When we arrived at the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) of the people coming from Yemen she found out that her period had ended and entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) with the intention of performing `Umrah. When we arrived at Al-Haram she found that she had started bleeding again and so did not observe the rituals of `Umrah.

We then went to Jeddah and when she became pure we engaged in intercourse several times. Later after `Eid-ul-Fitr (the Festival of Breaking the Fast) we went to Makkah and she made up for the first `Umrah. Is there anything due upon her?

A: The sexual intercourse you engaged in nullified your wife's `Umrah. Consequently, she must continue its rituals until she finishes them in full. She is to make up for the `Umrah and assume Ihram once more from the Miqat from which she entered for the first `Umrah that was nullified. She has to finish the rituals of `Umrah, such as Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), Sa`y (going between Al-Safa and Al-Marwah) and shortening her hair. She must also offer a sacrificial sheep in Makkah and distribute its meat among the poor of the Haram as a Fidyah (ransom) for engaging in intercourse.

You must both make Tawbah (repentance to Allah) to Allah Almighty for engaging in intercourse before Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah).

Q: Last Ramadan in 1415 A.H, I went on `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with my family that consists of 15 members. We entered Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from the Miqat (site for entering Ihram). Before we performed our `Umrah, news reached us of the death of one of our relatives. Due to our shock, we all removed our Ihram and returned to the place where we live to attend the burial and condolence gatherings. Please take into account that we did not make a condition at the time of entering Ihram. We would like to know the ruling on our action and what we must do. I asked a number of shaykhs on this matter and received different answers, all of which confused me. I hope Your Eminence will clarify the ruling on this, taking into account that we removed our Ihram and returned home unknowing the ruling. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: What you did was wrong and you all must wear Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) once again. You are to desist from doing any of the things that violate the conditions of Ihram and return to Makkah to perform the `Umrah for which you entered into Ihram. At the same time you must make Tawbah (repentance to Allah) for what you did. This is because whosoever enters into Ihram for Hajj or `Umrah must perform them, based on Allah's Words: ﴿And perform properly (i.e. all the ceremonies according to the ways of Prophet Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم), the Hajj and `Umrah (i.e. the pilgrimage to Makkah) for Allâh.﴾ It is impermissible for you to deny this.

Whoever engaged in sexual intercourse during this period, must resume their `Umrah until they finish it as mentioned above and then return to the Miqat from which they assumed Ihram. They should not enter into Ihram for another `Umrah, making up for the `Umrah they nullified by engaging in sexual intercourse. You are to offer a Fidyah (ransom) of offering a sacrificial sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It is to be slaughtered in Makkah and its meat distributed among the poor of the Haram.

Q: I entered into the state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) for `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) with my wife while we were on the plane flying from Cairo to Jeddah. Right after Ihram and while we were at Jeddah Airport, my wife's period started. Unknowing the ruling, I made Tahallul (termination of the state of Ihram), took off my Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and resumed our journey from Jeddah to Al-Zahran and did not go to Makkah. This happened almost four months ago. Then we performed `Umrah during the month of Ramadan this year. So I would like to know the ruling on my case; and what I should do.

A: You should have not canceled your `Umrah and should have performed it. Actually, the action you took of cancelling the intention of Ihram and changing your clothes of Ihram did not breach your state of Ihram. Therefore, your second `Umrah is regarded as a complement of the first `Umrah. Yet, if you had intercourse at any time before performing the second `Umrah, you and your wife have to offer another `Umrah from the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state of Hajj or `Umrah) of the first `Umrah to make up for that `Umrah which was invalidated by your intercourse. You also have to pay a Fidyah (ransom) by offering a sacrificial sheep for each of you to be slaughtered in Makkah and distributed to the poor there.

Q: Five years ago I visited the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia in order to perform `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage), and praise be to Allah I did it. Yet, I did not perform it during the month of Hajj (Pilgrimage), and instead of leaving to Egypt, I stayed in Jeddah for six months. Then I thought of performing Hajj in that year, and so I entered into Ihram (ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) from my residence in Jeddah, made Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah) and headed for Makkah to perform Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). At a checkpoint at the entrance of Makkah, an officer did not let me in because I did not have permission to enter. He told me that he would not allow me to proceed on my journey for Hajj and instructed me to say at the checkpoint: "Allah-umma in habasani habis fa mahilli Haithu habastani (O Allah, if I am prevented, my destination is where I am prevented)", to terminate my Ihram. So I repeated what he said and took off the garments of Ihram, and I was sent back to Egypt. Am I bound to offer a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) in this case, given that I did not repeat the previous provisional statement at the time of Ihram but after it when I was at the checkpoint. If I am bound to offer a Hady, how can I slaughter it at the place where I was prevented, as I am now in Egypt; my homeland, and I do not know anyone who can slaughter a Hady on my behalf at the place where I was prevented. Would you please tell me what I have to do?

A: You are not to blame for your termination of the Ihram of Hajj and turning back to your country before completing the rites of Hajj, for you had no choice but were forced. The case being as you mentioned, the ruling of Muhsar (pilgrim prevented from completing Hajj or `Umrah) applies to you. However, since you did not say the provisional statement that reads: "O Allah, if I am prevented, my destination is where I am prevented" when and where you made your Ihram but rather repeated it when you were at the checkpoint at the entrance of Makkah, it does not count. This provisional statement becomes of no effect as it did not occur at the time of putting on your Ihram garments and making your intention for Hajj. Therefore, you have to offer a Hady meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It may be slaughtered wherever you can even in your country, and should be entirely given out to the poor, and you are not allowed to eat from it at all. Then you should have your hair shaved or shortened with the intention of Tahallul (termination of the state of Ihram) and you should repent to Allah for making Tahallul before completing the rites of Hajj and delaying the offering. This is based on the Ayah (Qur'anic verse): ﴿But if you are prevented (from completing them), sacrifice a Hady (animal, i.e. a sheep, a cow, or a camel) such as you can afford, and do not shave your heads until the Hady reaches the place of sacrifice.﴾ [Surah Al-Baqarah 2:196]; and based on the Prophet's (peace be upon him) practice when he was prevented (from entering Makkah) during the year of Hdaybiyah.

Q: I traveled with my whole family to Makkah Al-Mukarramah for Hajj. We were 15 individuals; two of us have not attained maturity, and the rest are of full age. We arrived in Makkah on the Day of Tarwiyah (8th of Dhul-Hijjah). Some of us went to Al-Haram Al-Makky (The Sacred mosque in Makkah) for Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), and the rest stayed in Mina on the night of Tarwiyah. We were all in Mina on the Day of Tarwiyah. Your Eminence surely knows about the fire that flamed up in Mina on the Day of Tarwiyah and consumed our pavilion and all our luggage, and forced us to climb to the mountaintops, and when the fire was put out we returned to our pavilion which was entirely consumed by fire. Some of my family suffered from suffocation which made it too difficult for them to complete the rituals of Hajj. Because of this catastrophe and suffering that withheld us on Day of Tarwiyah and before we stood in `Arafah, we decided not to complete the rituals of Hajj and instead we left off for our homes and took off our garments of Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) with the hope that In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) we would perform Hajj during the next year. I would like Your Eminence to answer me whether I have to offer a sacrifice or what should I do? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: Whoever among you failed to continue offering the rituals of Hajj because of the hindrance mentioned, the ruling of Muhsar (pilgrim prevented from completing Hajj or `Umrah) is applied to him or her and whoever necessarily accompanies them; namely, each person has to offer Fidyah (ransom) meeting the same conditions for an Udhiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) or one-seventh of a camel or a cow, and perform Tahallul (removal of the ritual state of Hajj and `Umrah).

(Part No. 10; Page No. 388)

A sacrifice should be slaughtered in Makkah and given out to the poor of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). Furthermore, the Hajj has to be made up as soon as possible for anyone who had not performed Hajj before and this was their first time.

Q 2: I went to perform Hajj in 1414 A.H., but I fell ill on the eighth day of Dhul-Hijjah while I was in a state of Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) in Mina. I entered a hospital and could not complete the rituals of Hajj because I stayed in the hospital until the end of the time of Hajj. Please, tell me what to do. May Allah reward you with the best and safeguard you! May Allah guide your footsteps!

A 2: If a pilgrim is prevented from completing Hajj because of a disease and could not complete the rituals of Hajj, it is permissible for him to disengage from Ihram if he made a stipulation when assuming Ihram by saying "My location is where I am prevented," and nothing is required of him. If the pilgrim did not make this stipulation, it is allowable for him to release Ihram according to the more correct of the two scholarly opinions but it is required of him, before releasing it, to slaughter a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) in Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If he is unable to do so, he should fast for ten days because he is regarded as a Muhsar (pilgrim prevented from completing Hajj or `Umrah). Moreover, if it is possible for a pilgrim in this case to change his Ihram to `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) by offering Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah), Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), shortening the hair and making Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) after that, it is obligatory on him to do so. Then, he must make up for this Hajj in the future if he is able and to offer a sacrifice meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) with his Hajj.

Q: I performed `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the last ten days of this year, 1413 A.H. I assumed Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and when I reached Al-Haram, I felt some pain in my head and in my whole body. I intended to make a condition and went to perform Tawaf (circumambulation of the Ka`bah). However, I performed only one round and left and disengaged from my Ihram. I made the condition when I was in the courtyard of the mosque. I should mention that I cannot return to Makkah even after resting because I have suffered from the same pain in the last year even more strongly. At that time, I fell down and was wounded because I suffer from epilepsy. Should I repeat the `Umrah? Am I charged with sacrifice or feeding the poor? Answer me, may Allah safeguard you!

A: Your condition is invalid because it was mistimed. The time of stipulation is when assuming Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah). So, you take the ruling of a Muhsar (pilgrim prevented from completing Hajj or `Umrah) and you are charged with a sacrifice to be slaughtered where you were prevented from completing the `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) and distributed among the poor in that place.

You are obliged to avoid the prohibitions of Ihram until you slaughter the mentioned Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims).

Q: My brother takes pilgrims who come to Madinah to some sanctuaries, which include unallowable places such as Al-Masajid Al-Sab`ah, Bi'r `Uthman, Bi'r Ad-Dud, Turbat-ul-Shifa', Masjid Al-`Arid and other places like Masjid Al-Qiblatayn. He gets fees from the pilgrims or their supervisor in return for that and they agree to the fees before moving. Is this work permissible in Shari`ah (Islamic law)? Are these fees lawful? Please, give us a detailed Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) concerning that, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: What your brother does of leading pilgrims and those performing `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) to places in Madinah that are unallowable for visiting, such as Al-Masajid Al-Sab`ah, is not permissible and the money he receives in return is Haram (ill-gotten) money. Hady

Q: Thirteen years ago, my wife and I performed Hajj with the intention of Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). However, we did not offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) because of our ignorance. What should we do now, taking into consideration that I am about four hundred and fifty kilometers away from Makkah? Is it permissible to pay the price of the sacrificial animal to the Kingdom's project for benefiting from the Hady meat, or should I slaughter it by myself?

A: You have to offer a Hady that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), i.e. a six-month-old sheep or a one-year-old goat, and slaughter it in Makkah, and distribute one third of its meat among the poor people of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). You should offer the Hady as soon as possible, once you know the ruling, whether or not you are in the season of Hajj.

A: They have to offer another Hady that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), and slaughter it in Makkah at anytime, and distribute the meat among the poor. They have the choice to eat the meat themselves or give presents from it, if they wish.

Fatwa no. (14321)

Q: Ten years ago, I performed Hajj with my parents, uncle and brother. Some things happened to us and we are in doubt about them; we said Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah) for Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between). We reached Makkah and performed Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah), and then we went to Mina and stayed overnight there. This was on the sixth day of Dhul-Hijjah. We remained in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and did not perform Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) on the morning of the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah). We performed Fajr (Dawn) Prayer in Mina, and then we moved to `Arafah where we stayed until sunset. After that, we proceeded to Muzdalifah, and offered the Maghrib (Sunset) and `Isha' (Night) Prayers, combining or shortening them. Then, we collected pebbles and as we had our parents with us, we continued walking after midnight until we reached Mina, where we stoned Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah). Then, we continued walking to Makkah, where we performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y, then we returned to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah), after which we returned to Mina, where we stayed for the 11th and 12th of Dhul-Hijjah. After that, in the afternoon, we left Mina to our country. Your Eminence Shaykh! When we reached Mina, we asked some seekers of knowledge and they answered us that we do not have to offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and that it is permissible to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` along with Tawaf-ul-Ifadah. However, we were not convinced with this opinion so we went to a learning circle in the Masjid (mosque) of Al-Khif in Mina, and waited till the Shaykh finished preaching and asked him whether we should offer Hady when we are Qarins (pilgrims combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) and did not perform Tahallul. We also asked him whether it was permissible to offer Tawaf-ul-Ifadah along with Tawaf-ul-Wada`. His answer was the same, meaning that this is permissible, but that the better way is to perform Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and offer Hady.

Our question is: Is our Hajj valid? Is the obligation of offering Hady waived, or should we offer it, and if we should, how can we do this? Please guide us. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, each of you has to offer Hady, for each of you is considered Qarin, and so should slaughter Hady in Makkah, and you are permitted to eat from it. Besides, each one of you should offer Fidyah (ransom) for abandoning Tawaf-ul-Wada`, as you performed it before finishing the rituals of Hajj and this is not permissible and so will not be counted. Rather, it should be performed after finishing the rituals of Hajj and before traveling from Makkah. The Fidyah is to slaughter a sheep that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah and distribute the meat among the poor people there, and you are not permitted to eat any of it. However, if you could not offer it, you should fast for ten days.

Q: I hope Your Eminence to provide me with Fatwas on the following issues:

1: What is the meaning of Allah's (Exalted be He) Saying: \(he must slaughter a Hady such as he can afford\) ?

2- Are the conditions of Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) the same as those of an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) with regard to age and faults?

3- Is it permissible to slaughter the Ud-hiyah and Hady after the first day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice)?

4- Is it permissible to slaughter for a vow at night or not? If it is not permissible to do so, what is the evidence for that?

5- When does the time of Takbir (saying: "Allahu Akbar [Allah is the Greatest]") start in the first ten days of Dhul-Hajjah and when does it end?

6- A man said: "If such and such happens, a sacrifice will be incumbent on me." The question is: Is the ruling of the sacrifice of `Eid the same as that of a vow? Is it permissible for its owner to eat from it or not?

I ask Allah the All-Sublime and All-Powerful to guide us to what he loves and to benefit

\(Part No. 10; Page No. 395\)

Muslims with your knowledge!

A: Firstly: As for Allah's (Exalted be He) Saying: \(he must slaughter a Hady such as he can afford\)

This means whatever is available of livestock, which includes camels, cows and sheep. The least of the Hady is a sheep meeting the same conditions for an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims).

Secondly: Yes, this is a condition.

Thirdly: It is better and worthier to slaughter the Hady and Ud-hiyah in the daytime and if it is sacrificed during the nights of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), it will be valid.

Fourthly: The unrestricted Takbir (saying: "Allahu Akbar [Allah is the Greatest]") starts from the Fajr (Dawn) of the first of the ten days of Dhul-Hajjah while the restricted Takbir is said after Prayer starts from the Fajr of the day of `Arafah until the `Asr (Afternoon) Prayer of the last day of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah).

Fifthly: If the condition happened, it is obligatory to fulfill the vow of `Eid [namely the Festival of the Sacrifice] because it is a vow in the meaning. If he did not intend certain people, he should distribute it among the poor.

Fatwa no. 18502

Q: A pilgrim came to me on 20th Dhul-Hajjah, 1415 A.H. and he was obligated to offer the sacrifice of his Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between). He asked me to buy, slaughter and distribute the meat of his Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) among the poor people of Makkah Al-Mukarramah. I carried out all what he asked me in the best manner in the beginning of Al-Muharram, 1416 A.H. Is my sacrifice on his behalf valid? Is he discharged from the obligation of the sacrifice, though I slaughtered his Hady on a day other than the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals), in the beginning of Muharram 1416 A.H.? Please, explain for me the ruling of Shari`ah regarding this matter, may Allah reward you! My dear Sir! I referred this question to you because some friends argued for the invalidation of commissioning me to fulfil the sacrifice on behalf of that man and my slaughtering on a day other than the Day of Nahr or the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah).

Also, we experience this situation very often, as residents of Makkah al-Mukarramah every year. Usually, pilgrims are in rush and hasten to travel, and so they deputize a person to do the slaughtering on their behalf.

A: The sacrifice of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) is one of the obligatory rites of Hajj. It is imperative to slaughter it during the determined time as stated in the Shari`ah, i.e. the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah) and the three Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah). If this time elapses, it must be slaughtered as soon as possible even after its specified time. However, if a pilgrim delayed it without a legal excuse, he is sinful and should repent to Allah and ask Him for forgiveness. However, the sacrifice is among the fiscal acts of devotion liable for deputization and it is allowable to commission a person to slaughter it during its time or anytime thereafter. The deputy should fear Allah and fulfill this obligation in the right way.

The first question of Fatwa no. 19596

Q 1: What is the best Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) that can be offered? Also, is it better for a Muslim to slaughter the Hady himself or to give the money to a company, an institution or a bank that can do it? I heard from some students that it is better to give it as cash because it more beneficial.

A 1: The best Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) to be offered are camels, then cows if the pilgrim will offer it entirely on his own. But, if he will share it with others and contribute one-seventh of it, then it is better to offer a sheep. Moreover, it is better for a pilgrim to slaughter the Hady himself and eat therefrom and give some of it as charity. Allah Almighty says: ﴿Then, when they are down on their sides \(after slaughter\), eat thereof, and feed the beggar who does not ask \(men\), and the beggar who asks \(men\).﴾

Q: We are ten students who performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) two years ago. It was our obligatory Hajj and we slaughtered a camel on behalf of all of us depending on the Hadiths nos. (904) and (905), Chapter "What is reported in participating in a camel and a cow" from the chapters of the Hajj of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) in the Book of Hadith of Sunan (Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes) Al-Tirmidhy. What is the ruling on our Hajj? Is there anything required of us?

A: Your Hajj is valid, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). You are obliged to slaughter three rams in Makkah because each one of you is committed to a Fidyah (ransom). A camel is sufficient for seven people according to the Hadith reported on the authority of Jabir who said: \(Allah's Messenger \(peace be upon him\) commanded us to become seven partners \(in the sacrifice\) of a camel and a cow.\)

A: It is permissible to slaughter the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) in Al Mu`aysim because it is from Al-Haram. All the area stretching between the installed banners on the borders of Al-Haram is part of Al-Haram. The fourth question of Fatwa no. 19478

Q 4: Is it permissible for us to slaughter the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) in Al-Shara'i` or must it be inside the borders of Al-Haram? We live one kilometer away from Al-Haram.

Is it permissible for a husband or a wife to go to Al-Shara'i` before offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj)? Is this place, Al-Shara'i', previously known as the village of Mujahidin, considered part of Al-Haram? Please, explain these matters for me because the rulings of Hajj and `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) are dependent on them and many of the seekers of knowledge differ regarding that. May Allah reward you with the best!

A 4: It is obligatory to slaughter the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) inside the borders of Al-Haram which are marked by the installed banners in all directions. All the terrains inside these borders from the direction of Makkah is part of Al-Haram and what is outside them is not from Al-Haram. Moreover, there is no harm if a pilgrim goes to Al-Shara'i` before offering Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) due to a need.

Q 2: My wife and I performed Hajj in 1417 A.H. I authorized my children's uncle to slaughter Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) for the children in Riyadh, thinking that this is sufficient on behalf of me and all my household. However, I heard later that both my wife and I have to offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) in Makkah. Does the Ud-hiyah that was offered in Riyadh suffice for me and my household or should my wife and I offer Hady? What should we do? May Allah reward you with the best.

A : If both of you were Mutamatti's (pilgrims performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) or Qarins (pilgrims combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between), you should both offer Hady that meets the same conditions for Ud-hiyah in Makkah. The Ud-hiyah is not sufficient as it does not take the place of Hady. However, if you were Mufrads (pilgrims performing Hajj only), you do not have to offer Hady. If you did not offer Hady at its due time in Makkah, you should offer it now in Makkah, either by yourselves or through a trustworthy agent.

The first question of Fatwa no. (20401)

Q 1: A man told me that he performed Hajj in 1415 A.H. He told me that a pilgrim gave him a sum of money on the first of the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) to buy a sacrificial animal for him, as this pilgrim has to offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). However, this man did not buy the sacrificial animal. Now he wants to repent of what he did and asks me what he should do. Therefore, I ask Your Eminence to provide us with the answer for this issue.

A 1: This man has to offer the sacrificial animal he was authorized to slaughter in Makkah as soon as possible and he should distribute the meat among the poor people there. This will make up for it. He also has to repent to Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He).

Q: Twenty years ago, I performed Hajj with a colleague of mine. We made the intention to observe Sawm (Fast) or offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), as when we arrived in Makkah we performed `Umrah (the lesser pilgrimage), then we went to Al-Ta'if for some days. Then we returned to Makkah and performed Hajj in full. However, we did not observe Sawm or offer Hady, as my colleague suggested that we should offer Hady first, so we did not observe Sawm in the first days of Dhul-Hijjah. However, we ran out of money and could not buy the Hady, so we did not slaughter. Thus we could neither observe Sawm nor offer Hady. In Makkah, we threw some cereal to the pigeons of the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) for three days, half a Sa` (1 Sa` = 3 kg. approx.) on each day. Then, we returned to our country where I slaughtered a sheep, as a recompense for the days that I did not fast and the Hady that I did not offer and invited my neighbors to eat from it.

Kindly, answer my question in detail and guide me to what I should do. May Allah reward you with the best. As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: Having studied the Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) request, the Committee answered that the Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and Qarin (pilgrim combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) should offer Hady, which is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), one-seventh of a cow, or one seventh of a camel. If you could not do this, you should fast for ten days; three during Hajj and seven after returning to your homeland. It is better to fast these three days on the 6th, 7th, and 8th of Dhul-Hijjah while you are still Muhrim (pilgrim in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah). If not, fast the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah).

As for you slaughtering a sheep in your country and feeding the pigeon with cereal in the Haram, this is not sufficient to discharge the obligation. You have to slaughter a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah in Makkah as a recompense and distribute it amongst the poor people of the Haram. You are allowed to eat from it. If you cannot not offer it, you can fast for ten days in your country.

Q: If a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) did not slaughter Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) nor observed Sawm (Fast) for three days during Hajj and seven days after going home and two years have passed, what should this person do? What is the ruling on his Hajj? Is it invalid?

A: The Hajj of this person is valid. He did wrong when he delayed slaughtering the Hady on its prescribed days, namely the days of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice), 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah. He should now slaughter a Hady meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) in Makkah as compensation. He should also repent to Allah (Exalted be He) and seek His Forgiveness for delaying slaughtering the Hady. If he is unable to afford slaughtering a Hady, he should fast for ten days.

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To Proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read the letter sent to His Eminency, the General Mufty, from His Eminence the Chief of Legal Courts in Makkah Al-Mukarramah no. 3-2614-346, dated 28/6/1414 A.H., and was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 2542 and dated 19/6/1415 A.H.

His Eminence asked about the status of the money drawn from the man who was arrested by the police because he took advantage of the season of Hajj in 1413 A.H. and seized amounts of money from some pilgrims for slaughtering a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) on their behalf but did not fulfill what he was committed to, etc.

After studying the request for Fatwa, the Committee states that the money proven to be the price of a Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) should be used for purchasing a Hady. Then, these sacrificed animals are to be slaughtered in Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) in the present time on behalf of their owners. Yet, purchasing, slaughtering and the distribution of the Hady should be entrusted to two trustworthy deputies.

Q 1: I performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) and did not offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims). What should I do?

A: If you are able to offer Hady, you should slaughter it in Makkah. The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) is to eat one third of it, give one third in charity, and give one third as a gift. If you are not able to offer Hady, you should fast for ten days.

Fatwa no. 21822

Q: In His Ever-Glorious Qur'an, Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) ordains that whosoever performs `Umrah (the lesser pilgrimage) in the months of Hajj before performing the Hajj, i.e. Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) should offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) if they can afford it. If they cannot afford it, they should observe Sawm (Fast) for three days during Hajj and seven days after returning home. However, if a person can neither observe Sawm or offer Hady, can such a person come under the ruling on those concerning whom Allah says: ﴿And as for those who can fast with difficulty, \(e.g. an old man\), they have \(a choice either to fast or\) to feed a Miskîn \(poor person\) \(for every day\).﴾ So, can they feed a Miskin (needy) person for each day? Guide me, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: If a person performs the `Umrah in the months of Hajj before performing Hajj and is not a resident of Makkah, they should offer the Hady that Allah ordains in the Ever-Glorious Qur'an. This is a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) that should be slaughtered in Mina or Makkah, or one seventh of a cow, or one seventh of a camel. If a person is unable to afford it, they should fast for three days during Hajj and seven days after returning to their families. If they cannot fast, the Hady will remain required of them and this obligation will not be discharged by feeding the Miskins, for there is no evidence to support this point. Therefore, we cannot draw Qiyas (analogy) between this person and the person who is permanently unable to fast during Ramadan because the `Illah (effective cause) is different in the two rulings.

To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the question no. 137, dated 2/9/1419 A.H. submitted to His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, by the Chairman of Fayfa Committee Center, and referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, under no. 5590, dated 8/9/1419 A.H. The letter of His Eminence included the Fatwa request that reads as follows:

In 1413 A.H., my wife and I performed Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between)

and I knew that my wife and I should offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims). However, some friends of mine told me that it is better to pay money to the bank, so I went to the bank but it refused to accept any money from me. Then I went to the slaughterhouse to buy the Hady, but the merchants seized the opportunity and raised the prices, so I did not purchase an animal. However, I performed the rest of the rituals of Hajj. Some people told us that it is sufficient to slaughter the sacrificial animal in our country and distribute it among the poor people there. Others told me to observe Sawm (Fast) for ten days, which I did after returning to my home in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. I also slaughtered two sacrificial animals in my homeland, Egypt, and distributed them among the poor people and my family. Unfortunately, I am not at ease, for I know that I should have fasted for three days in Makkah and seven after Hajj, but I was in a hurry and my circumstances prevented me from staying any longer in Makkah. More importantly, I would like to know whether I should return to Makkah and buy two Hadys for my wife and me and distribute them among the poor people in Makkah or should I perform the obligation of Hajj alone this year and slaughter two Hadys for my wife and me? Which is better, from the point of view of Your Eminence? Kindly clarify this matter for me so that my and my wife's Hajj is acceptable, without any shortfalls. May Allah reward you with the best! Is it permissible for me to act on her behalf in slaughtering the Hady or should she go with me, bearing in mind that she is breastfeeding and could not go to perform Hajj again this year.

May Allah guide you to what He likes and pleases Him!

Having studied the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that if the reality is as you mentioned, that you were unable to find a Hady and the banks buying the Hady on behalf of the pilgrims refused to accept money from you because Hady prices had gone up, you are in this case unable to offer Hady, and so it is permissible for you to observe Sawm instead. Your Sawm for ten days after returning to your residence in the Kingdom is acceptable and will be rewarded In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). There is nothing wrong with that and you are not obliged to offer a Fidyah (ransom).

However, as Allah mentioned in His Ever-Glorious Qur'an, fasting for three days during Hajj and seven days after returning to your residence is the ideal and most perfect way to discharge the obligation as soon as possible, and this is a Rukhsah (concession) granted by Allah. But as you were unable to do so due to running out of time and being occupied with your business and travel, there is nothing wrong with you having fasted the ten days after returning to your residence, and this does not affect the validity of your Hajj In sha'a-Allah. Similarly, your wife has to fast for ten days for not completing the Hady, if she did not do so after returning from Hajj, in order to discharge the obligation. She does not have to offer Fidyah and her Hajj is complete In sha'a-Allah.

Fatwa no. 15759

Q: My wife and I performed Hajj this year, during which our money was stolen. Because of this we were unable to purchase and slaughter the sacrificial animal. We fasted for three days during Hajj, stayed for a period of time in `Arafah, spent the night in Muzdalifah, and threw the pebbles at Jamrat-ul-`Aqabah (the closest pebble-throwing area to Makkah) in Mina. Then on the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals), I shaved my hair and went alone to Makkah, where I performed Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) and Sa`y (going between Safa and Marwah during Hajj and `Umrah). On the following day, 11th of Dhul-Hijjah, I accompanied my wife, who is in the first month of pregnancy, to Makkah in order for her to perform Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj). I told her to perform it after forming the intention for both Tawaf-ul-Ifadah and Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah). It took her two and a half hours to perform this Tawaf, after which she was unable to perform Sa`y between Safa and Marwah, even with the help of a wheelchair. Then we returned to Mina, and I had sexual intercourse with her. On the following day, my wife performed Sa`y between Safa and Marwah. She was unable to perform Tawaf-ul-Wada` because of the growing crowds. Am I to blame for having had sexual intercourse with my wife before she performed Sa`y? Does Tawaf-ul-Ifadah, which my wife performed, suffice for and take the place of Tawaf-ul-Wada`, bearing in mind that she formed the intention for both Tawafs? When I returned to my work in Riyadh, I could not fast the seven days, due to being occupied with my business which takes all my time. Is it permissible for me to delay fasting the seven days? Is it permissible to fast them separately?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 410)

A: You have to fast the seven remaining days as soon as you are able to do so. It is permissible for you to fast them consecutively or separately. As for having had sexual intercourse with your wife before she performed Sa`y, this is a forbidden act for which both you and she should repent and seek Allah's Forgiveness. She also has to offer a Fidyah (ransom) by slaughtering a sheep, or one seventh share of a camel, or one seventh share of a cow slaughtered in Makkah, and distributing it among the poor people in the Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). If she is unable to do so, she has to fast for ten days either consecutively or separately. As for her performing Tawaf-ul-Ifadah intending that it will suffice for Tawaf-ul-Wada`, this is not permissible as Tawaf-ul-Ifadah does not take the place of Tawaf-ul-Wada`, because it was not performed after finishing all the rituals of Hajj.; For this she should offer Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) by slaughtering a sheep meeting the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), or one seventh share of a camel, or one seventh share of a cow slaughtered in Makkah and distributing it among the poor people in the Haram. If she is unable to do so, she should fast for ten days.

Q: Those performing Tamattu` Hajj ( `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) but cannot offer a sacrifice or fast during Hajj, can they combine the three and the seven days of fasting when they return home?

A: If a Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) cannot offer a sacrifice or fast during the days of Hajj, he should fast when he can, even after returning home.

Q: A man set out to offer Hajj and had only little money not sufficient for offering Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims), and so he was under obligation to fast three days during Hajj and seven when he returns home. Now, when he returned home, he fasted four days only and three days remained. Several years elapsed without fasting them. What should he do regarding these days? Kindly explain this matter for us.

A: The man in question is obligated to make up for the remaining days which he had to fulfil in place of the sacrifice of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between), which is the three days. These days are a debt on him and he should fear Allah and complete what he is obligated to do.

Q: I went to offer Tamattu` Hajj ( `Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) with a group of people, but during Tawaf-ul-Qudum (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on arrival in Makkah) I lost most of my money except 550 riyals. I gave the remaining money to someone to preserve them. However, while we were offering the rituals of Hajj, I said to him, "You and I are obligated to offer Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and I authorize you to do on my behalf the same as what you will do for yourself and the money is with you. If you pay the bank or offer a slaughtered animal, do the same for me whether I am with you or not." I said this out of fear of being separated and he agreed. Then, during Tawaf-ul-Ifadah (final obligatory circumambulation of the Ka`bah in Hajj) we were separated because of the crowd. This happened before sacrificing the Hady and I passed all the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) searching for him, but I did not find him and the money was with him. I returned home to Tabuk on Sunday and he came back after me. I asked him about the Hady but he said that he did not sacrifice for me.

Explain to me what I should do because I did what was required upon myself before Allah and authorized him. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: It is incumbent on you to slaughter the Hady in Makkah and do the same with its meat as if you are on the Days of Tashriq. The Hady was required of you, so it is obligatory to carry it out. You should hasten to do that yourself or authorize a trustworthy person.

Ud-hiyah

Q: I offer an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on behalf of my dead father who passed away 20 years ago. A friend told me that it is not permissible to offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of a dead person, but I offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of my dead father and brothers and an Ud-hiyah on behalf of my family. What is the ruling on that?

A: Offering an Ud-hiyah on behalf of the dead is permissible, because the Prophet (peace be upon him) offered Ud-hiyah on behalf of those who had not offered Ud-hiyah among his Ummah (nation based on one creed). The people who are alive and the dead are included in this. It was reported on the authority of Jabir that he said: ﴿I witnessed `Eid-ul-Adha \(the Festival of the Sacrifice\) Prayer with the Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\). When he finished, he brought a ram and slaughtered it. He said: "Bismillah \(In the Name of Allah\), Allahu Akbar \(Allah is the Greatest\). O Allah! This \(Ud-hiyah\) is on behalf of myself and on behalf of those of my Ummah who have not offered an Ud-hiyah.﴾ (Related by Ahmad, Abu Dawud and Al-Tirmidhy)

Also, Amir Al-Mu'minin (Commander of the Believers) `Aly ibn Abu Talib offered an Ud-hiyah on behalf of the Prophet (peace be upon him) after the Prophet's death. Hanash Al-San`any said: ﴿I saw `Aly \(may Allah be pleased with him\) sacrificing two rams. I said to him: "What is this?" He said: "Allah's Messenger \(peace be upon him\) entrusted me to offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of him and I am doing that.﴾ (Related by Abu Dawud and Al-Tirmidhy) The saying that it is not prescribed to offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of a dead person is unsubstantiated with evidence. Thus, this opinion is not correct.

Q 4: What are the categories of animals which are impermissible for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims)?

A 4: The Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) must be from the beasts of cattle which are camels, cows and sheep. It is a condition that they must be void of blemishes, such as being one-eyed, sick, lean or crippled. In order to be valid for Ud-hiyah, a ram must complete at least sixth months of age, a goat must complete one year, a cow must complete two years and a camel must complete five years.

The first question of Fatwa no. 16977

Q 1: There are farms in the neighborhood that raise Dutch cows. They feed cows condensed nurture so that they grow bigger than local cows, during 10 months. Are these cows valid for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) on behalf of seven people?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 416)

A 1: A cow is valid for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) only when it completes two years of age or more. If it is less than that, they are inadequate for Ud-hiyah even if it has more flesh and fat. It was reported on the authority of Jabir ibn `Abdullah (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) that the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said: \(Sacrifice only a grown-up animal, unless it is unaffordable for you, in which case sacrifice a ram \(of even less than a year, but more than six months' age\).\) Recorded by Imam Muslim. Imam Al-Nawawy, said: "Scholars said: "The 'grown up' sheep is defined as the Thaniyyah (a sacrificial animal of the required age) of all cattle: camels, cows or sheep, or older. This is a statement that in no way permits the sacrifice of Jadh`ah (a six-month-old animal) from any animal other than the sheep. This is agreed upon as related by Al-Qady `Iyad.

The grown-up cow is that which has completed two years.

The second question of Fatwa no. 18417

Q 2: My question is about Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). There are many types of sheep here, such as Hari, Sawakini and other types. Which of these is better for the Ud-hiyah? Kindly provide me with your opinion, may Allah reward you with the best!

A 2: It is prescribed to offer the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) from all categories of livestock, including camels, cows and sheep, provided that it reaches the required age and is free from blemishes that make them unsuitable for Ud-hiyah. There is no difference between types of sheep, whether Hari, Sawakini, Najdi or any other type. But the best of it is the most precious and valuable. However, in order to be adequate for Ud-hiyah, the sheep must reach six months of age or more; the goat must reach one year or more; the cow must reach two years or more; and the camel must be five years or more.

A: Offering a castrated ram as an Ud-hiyah is permissible, because this is not a blemish but it is better for the flesh of the animal. Q 2: A man bought the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and, after slaughtering and flaying it, found that it had two abscesses that had not burst or bled. Is this Ud-hiyah sufficient or should this man offer another one? You should bear in mind that the man did not witness the process of slaughtering; he just saw that the animal was slaughtered and went to his work where he cut his nails and shaved his hair, knowing nothing about the abscess. Guide us, and may Allah reward you with the best!

A: The abscess found in the Ud-hiyah is a kind of disease. As it was not evident at the time he bought it and did not outwardly seem to affect its health, it is sufficient and discharges the obligation In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). This is not a defect that prevents it being accepted; rather, if the disease in the Ud-hiyah is extreme and the abscess spoils the meat, it renders the Ud-hiyah invalid. Al-Bara' ibn `Azib (may Allah be pleased with him) said: "The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) stood among us and said: Four (types of animals) should be avoided in Ud-hiyah: An obviously one-eyed animal, an obviously sick animal, an obviously lame animal, and an animal with a broken leg with no marrow." (Related by Abu Dawud and Al-Nasa'y) Al-Tirmidhy reported a similar Hadith and ranked it (a Hadith) as Sahih (authentic).

Q: Please, give me a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) regarding someone who offered Salat-ul-`Eid (the Festival Prayer) in `Amr Masjid (mosque) and slaughtered his Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) there although he lives in another district where the Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) of the Masjid, for example, `Uqba Masjid, offered Salat-ul-`Eid thereafter. In other words, he slaughtered his Ud-hiyah before the Imam of `Uqba finished Salah (Prayer). Would he receive the reward of an Ud-hiyah? May Allah guide you and me to righteousness and piety! As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: The time of slaughtering Ud-hiyah and Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) starts after finishing Salat-ul-`Eid in the country you are in. If there is more than one place for performing Salah, the time of slaughtering starts following the first Salah offered, as the ruling is relevant to offering Salat-ul-`Eid and finishing it. Accordingly, it is permissible for someone to offer Salat-ul-`Eid in a place other than the district he lives in and to slaughter the Ud-hiyah before the Salah in his district is over. Thus, the Ud-hiyah is count as sufficient and there is nothing wrong with what the person in the question did.

Q: If a person dies after the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), is it permissible to slaughter an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on his behalf? Some people offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of a person who dies during the month of Dhul-Hijjah.

A: The days of slaughtering the Ud-hiyah on behalf of the dead or any person are over with the sunset of the thirteenth day of Dhul-Hijjah. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(All the Days of Tashriq are days of sacrifice.\) (Related by Ahmad and Al-Haythamy in his book "Majma' Al-Zawa'id")

Imam `Aly (may Allah be pleased with him) said: "The days of sacrifice are the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and three days after it." Also, Ibn Al-Qayyim said: "These days are distinguished by being days of Mina and Days of Tashriq and it is not permissible to observe Sawm (Fast) on them."

Thus, it will not serve as sufficient to slaughter the Ud-hiyah if these days are over, except for the Ud-hiyah required by a will, vow or specification. In this case, it is allowable to make up for it and slaughter the Ud-hiyah after these days for those who miss slaughtering during these days.

Q: Is it permissible for a person to buy a slaughtered and skinned sheep and offer it as Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) for `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice)? I mean, if one went to the market but he found no sheep, and so he had to buy a slaughtered and skinned sheep. Is it sufficient in place of Ud-hiyah or not?

A: The Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) is not accepted if bought slaughtered and skinned, because there was no intention of its being an Ud-hiyah on behalf of its donator at the time of the slaughtering. It is regarded as allowable meat and not an Ud-hiyah. If someone bought a slaughtered Ud-hiyah, they should buy an Ud-hiyah in place of it during the rest of the four days, which are the day of `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and the following three days.

Q: If someone and his family perform Hajj, is it required on them to offer the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) or is the offering of the Fidyah (ransom) sufficient for them?

A: If they offer Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between), then the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) of Hajj is sufficient for them. However, the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) is not obligatory in the first place, unless it is a will in which case it must be fulfilled. The Prophet Muhammad

Q 3: A Muslim left his family in his homeland and traveled abroad. Is it permissible for him to send the price of his Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to his children to buy and slaughter it on his behalf as a sacrifice for `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice)? He is an emigrant and he is sure that the Ud-hiyah will be offered as he wishes. Or is it required that he offers it himself?

A 3: A 3: There is nothing wrong with an emigrant sending the price of the Ud-hiyah to his children in his home country to buy it and slaughter it in their home. This is even better and more consistent with the Sunnah.

A: There is nothing wrong with accepting the gift of your father who gives you one of his sheep to offer as a sacrifice on behalf of you and your family. By accepting his gift, you will please your father even if you are in no need of it; and the sacrifice will count as sufficient on behalf of you and your family. The first question of Fatwa no. 19198

Q 1: I have two families, living in two separate but adjacent homes; with only a wall in between. Sometimes, we have our meals together in one house. My question is: Will one Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) suffice on behalf of the two households or should each household offer one?

A: The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for the Muslim man is to sacrifice one sheep on behalf of him and his household. This is proved by the report of `Umarah ibn `Abdullah who said: I heard `Ata' ibn Yasar say: I asked Abu Ayyub Al-Ansary (may Allah be pleased with him) about Ud-hiyah at the time of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and he replied: "Indeed a man used to slaughter a sheep on behalf of him and his household, and they would eat of it and give others from it. Then later on people began to compete with one another until it became as you see." (Related by Al-Tirmidhy in his Jami` see: ( `Aridhat Al-Ahwazy vol. 6, p. 304).

As you have two families due to having two wives and each wife lives in an independent home, they are all considered your household. Therefore, one sheep will suffice on behalf of you all as an Ud-hiyah, because the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to offer one sheep on behalf of him and all his households - although they were several and each of the houses of his wives was separate from the other.

(may Allah be merciful to him) or should each one of us offer his own Ud-hiyah?

A: If you share the estate and expenses, one Ud-hiyah will suffice on behalf of you all as you take the same ruling of one householder. However, if each one of you has his house independent from others in terms of ownership and expenses, then each household has its particular ruling and each should offer its own separate Ud-hiyah. However, there is nothing wrong if one of you volunteers on behalf of everyone to offer an Ud-hiyah for all of you from his money. Q: Several years ago until the past year, I used to slaughter eight Ud-hiyahs (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on behalf of my parents, maternal and paternal grandfathers and grandmothers and my aunts. My children were with me but now they are married, Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah), and I do not have anyone to distribute and divide the Ud-hiyahs. I donate these Ud-hiyahs, but some are on behalf of my paternal grandfather and grandmother. My paternal grandfather bequeathed my father to offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of him from the produce of his yielding palms. However, 45 years ago, the palms were neglected owing to the lack of water and they became dry and fruitless.

My question is: What should I do with these Ud-hiyahs? I looked for a charitable association to give it the Ud-hiyahs after slaughtering them to distribute them among the needy but I failed to find one. I do not like to neglect offering these Ud-hiyahs as long as I am alive. Please, give me a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar), may Allah reward you with the best and benefit people with your knowledge!

A: It is prescribed for a Muslim to slaughter an Ud-hiyah on behalf of himself and his living and dead family members. Moreover, there is nothing wrong with offering more than one Ud-hiyah and it is recommendable to eat from it and give the poor from it. It is noted that the needy are many but one should search for them. As for what you mentioned about your grandfather's bequest, you should consult the legal court to consider it.

Q: Muslims in Thailand offer cows as Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), is this better than offering sheep? They offer a cow on behalf of seven people, bring a paper with the names of the participants, and say Tasmiyah (saying, "Bismillah [In the Name of Allah]") upon slaughtering. Is this valid? Is a sheep sufficient as an Ud-hiyah for one family, namely, the father, mother and children? Are the grandchildren included or only one's dependants? Is it permissible to slaughter an Ud-hiyah on behalf of the dead and say, "This is the Ud-hiyah of so-and-so, the deceased"? Is it permissible to include the dead as partners in a cow? Is it permissible for a number of families to participate in one cow? Is there evidence on dividing the Ud-hiyah among seven people as in the case of Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) and Dam (atonement required of a pilgrim for a willful violation of a prohibition or obligation while in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah)? We hope that you will give us a written Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) in order to translate it to Thai and circulate it. Answer us from what you have of knowledge. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: The Ud-hiyah is offered from any livestock, including camels, cows and sheep. A sheep is sufficient for a man and his family, while a camel or a cow is enough for seven. It was reported on the authority of Jabir that he said: \(Allah's Messenger \(peace be upon him\) commanded us to become seven partners \(in the sacrifice\) of a camel or a cow.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)

However, one sheep is better than one seventh of a camel or a cow. Moreover, there is no harm in mentioning the name of participants of Ud-hiyah when slaughtering it, because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said when slaughtering an Ud-hiyah: \(On behalf of Muhammad and the family of Muhammad.\) Also, it is permissible to offer the Ud-hiyah on behalf of the living and the dead according to the act of Muslims and general evidence.

One seventh of a camel or a cow is offered on behalf of only one person alive or dead. One's family members include the wife and children as well as the grandchildren and parents if they are dependants.

Q 2: It is well known that whoever wants to offer an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) should not remove anything of their skin, hair, or nails. However, the Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet) pertaining to Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) is to remove hair and clip nails. What should the person who intends to perform Hajj and deputize someone to offer Ud-hiyah on his behalf at his town do? Please advise; may Allah reward you with the best! Does the Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) offered by the Mutamatti` (pilgrim performing `Umrah during the months of Hajj, followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) suffice instead of Ud-hiyah?

A: Whoever enters into Ihram during the first ten days of Dhul-Hijjah should not cut any of their skin, hair or nails before entering Ihram if they intend to offer Ud-hiyah on behalf of themselves or their family members. However, if the Muslim performs `Umrah (lesser pilgrimage) during the first ten days of Dhul-Hijjah while they are going to offer Ud-hiyah, it is obligatory upon them to shorten their hair because Tahallul (removal of the ritual state for `Umrah) is dependant on this. Such shortening of the hair is not included in the reported forbidding that prohibits the person offering Ud-hiyah to cut any skin, hair, or nails when Dhul-Hijjah starts until the offering of the Ud-hiyah. The Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered the Mutamatti`s who ended their `Umrah during Dhul-Hijjah to shorten their hair and he did not differentiate between those who would offer Ud-hiyah or not. This indicates the general obligation of shaving or shortening the hair upon those who perform `Umrah in Dhul-Hijjah. Hady of Tamattu` Hajj (`Umrah during the months of Hajj followed by Hajj in the same year with a break in between) or Qiran Hajj (combining Hajj and `Umrah without a break in between) which is offered in Al-Haram does not suffice instead of Ud-hiyah because the Prophet (peace be upon him) offered two rams as Ud-hiyah during the Farewell Hajj though he offered one hundred camels as a Hady.

Q 1: If the pilgrim wants to offer Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and reaches the Miqat (site for entering the ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), is it permissible for them to cut any of their hair or clip their nails?

A: It is not permissible for those who want to offer Ud-hiyah to cut any of their hair or nails once the first ten days of Dhul-Hijjah starts until the offering of the Ud-hiyah because the Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade that. In the case of starting to enter Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah), one should enter Ihram without cutting any of their hair or nails. In the case of ending Ihram of `Umrah before offering Ud-hiyah, they should only shave or shorten their hair (of the head) without shaving any other hair or clipping their nails because shaving or shortening the head hair is one of the rituals of `Umrah. However, it is permissible for the one who offers Ud-hiyah on behalf of another person to cut their hair, nails, or skin.

The third question of Fatwa no. 16507

Q 3: On the 8th of Dhul-Hijjah, 1413 A.H., I made an unintentional mistake, I plucked a hair from my chest out of forgetfulness. It should be known that I did not perform Hajj. However, I was told that my act was impermissible because I intended to offer Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on behalf of myself and my family members. Is it correct that the person who intends to offer Ud-hiyah is considered like the person who enters Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah)?

A: Whoever wants to offer Ud-hiyah should refrain, during the first ten days of Dhul-Hijjah, from removing any hair, clipping any nails, or cutting anything of the skin of the body until the Ud-hiyah is slaughtered. There is a Sahih (authentic) Hadith in this regard which was narrated by Um Salamah attributing it to the Prophet: \(When the \(first\) ten \(days of Dhul-Hijjah\) starts and anyone of you intends to offer Ud-hiyah, let them not cut anything of their hair or nails until they sacrifice it.\) (Related by Ahmad and Muslim in his Sahih [Authentic Hadith Book]) Such a person is not considered in the state of Ihram; rather, this is a specific ruling for them.

Cutting hair or clipping nails out of forgetfulness or ignorance has no consequences because Allah (Glorified be He) says: \(Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error\) It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said about the Tafsir (explanation/exegesis of the meanings of the Qur'an) of this Ayah (Qur'anic verse) that \(Allah said: 'I did.'\)

Fatwa no. 17720

Q: There are three days before `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) and another three days after it which some people claim to be inviolable. For example, one should not shave their hair or wear new clothes. Also, the Qur'an schools take these days as vacation. There are other days in a month which I do not know where these practices are done. People gravely threaten those who violate these norms. What is your opinion in this regard?

May Allah reward you with the best.

A: Regarding the first ten days of Dhul-Hijjah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade whoever wants to offer an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) from cutting any of their hair, nails, or skin from the body until the Ud-hiyah is offered. There is a Hadith narrated by Um Salamah (may Allah be pleased with her) which she attributed to the Prophet that states: \(When Dhul-Hijjah starts and anyone of you intends to offer Ud-hiyah \(sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims\), let them not cut anything of their hair or nails until they sacrifice it.\)

It is permissible for those who will not offer Ud-hiyah to do any of the acts mentioned above that are forbidden for those who will offer Ud-hiyah.

With regard to the Days of Tashriq (11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul-Hijjah), it is forbidden to observe Sawm (Fast) during them. They are days of eating and drinking as the Prophet (peace be upon him) pointed out.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 436)

With regard to forbidding the shave of hair on the Day of `Ashura' (10th of Muharram), there is no evidence that supports such a prohibition. This also applies to the prohibition of wearing new clothes. The day of `Ashura' should not be marked with either joy or sadness. We think that this is the other day meant by the person asking.

The permissible act to do is to observe Sawm on the Day of `Ashura' along with a day before or after it according to the command of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Q 1: Is it permissible to pay the value of the `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) or Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to charitable societies which take care of the orphans, needy, and poor people instead of buying and slaughtering the sheep? I read a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) issued by a scholar whose name I do not remember which permitted giving the monetary value of the Ud-hiyah to Al-Muntada Al-Islami. Please advise; may Allah reward you well!

A: It is impermissible to pay the monetary value of the sheep to be slaughtered as an `Aqiqah or Ud-hiyah because slaughtering it, eating from its meat and giving some of its meat in charity is an act of `Ibadah (worship) which can not be replaced by giving the value in charity.

Fatwa no. 18508

Q: Is it valid to intend the slaughtered Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) to offer it as an Ud-hiyah and charity on behalf of dead parents or those who are still alive?

A: It is permissible for the person and family members to eat from the Ud-hiyah and give charity from it to the needy. One sheep is sufficient for the intended people of family members whether alive or dead because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(The reward of deeds depends upon the intentions and every person will get the reward according to what he has intended.\) Also, the Prophet (peace be upon him) offered one ram as an Ud-hiyah on behalf of himself and his household. The second question of Fatwa no. 18769

Q 2: Is it permissible for Muslims to give non-Muslims, such as their neighbors, from the meat of their Ud-hiyah and other kinds of food? How should we deal with them if we are commanded under Shari`ah (Islamic law) not to give them of its meat?

A: It is permissible to give non-Muslim from the meat of your Ud-hiyah and other kinds of food if they are not in a state of war against us because Allah (Exalted be He) says:

﴿Allâh does not forbid you to deal justly and kindly with those who fought not against you on account of religion nor drove you out of your homes. Verily, Allâh loves those who deal with equity.﴾ Rather, it is Mustahab (desirable) and stressed to give them of its meat if doing so will endear Islam to them and encourages them to embrace it.

Q: I hired a man to work as a builder. He stipulated a condition to provide him with the daily meals of breakfast, lunch and dinner in addition to his wage. We agreed on this in Dhul-Hijjah. Two days after `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice), he came to work and ate from the meat of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). As it is unlawful to sell the meat of Ud-hiyah and the hired worker stipulated food as a condition, is it permissible to let him eat from it?

A: It is permissible to let the hired worker, who stipulated a condition upon you to provide him with lunch or dinner, to eat from the meat of your Ud-hiyah. This is not considered an aspect of selling Ud-hiyah because it is provided for him and for others.

Q 1: My work commissioned me to work at the Al-Masha`ir (Sacred sites where the rites of Hajj are performed: Mina, `Arafah and Muzdalifah) during the season of Hajj this year. It is a great opportunity that I wished to serve the pilgrims of the Sacred House of Allah. As the place of my work and my residence are outside of Makkah Al-Mukarramah, I will take my family to Makkah to stay at the home of my wife's brother until I finish my mission and then return to my residence.

My question is what should I do regarding my Ud-hiyah? Should I give any neighbor of mine the monetary value of the Ud-hiyah to buy, slaughter and distribute it according to the followed way on my behalf? Should I deputize the brother of my wife where my family will stay in his home to offer the Ud-hiyah on my behalf? Please advise; may Allah reward you with the best!

A: According to the Sunnah Ud-hiyah should be slaughtered at the home where your family resides so they can eat and give charity from it. Moreover, it is permissible to deputize someone in your country to slaughter it on your behalf.

Q 1: What supplication should be recited on slaughtering Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on the occasion of the blessed `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice)?

A 1: On slaughtering the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), a person has to say: (in the Name of Allah) and it is Mustahab (desirable) to say: [Allahu Akbar (Allah is the Greatest!); O Allah! This is from You and to You, may You accept it from me or (on behalf of someone) if the Ud-hiyah was done on behalf of someone else.]

Fatwa no. (21777)

Q: We have some people, particularly old people who do the following acts on `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice):

They bring the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and stand around it as a whole family and they are the household members. Before beginning to slaughter, the man reads Al-Fatihah (Opening Chapter of the Qur'an), the verse of Al-Kursy (Allah's Chair), Al-Ma'awizitin (Surah Al-Falaq no.113 and Surah An-Nas no.114) and Surah Al-Ikhlâs (no.112) with reciting Du`a-ul-Istiftah (opening supplication when starting the Prayer) like the saying: Wajjahtu wajhi lillahi rabi al-`alamin...etc (I directed my face towards the Lord of the worlds...etc. He puts his hand over the back of the animal to be slaughtered and stretches it from the neck up to the end of the back and then slaughters it after this action. Some of these people, if they do not attend the process of slaughtering the Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), they slaughter another one, and these are the people of the household. They claim that they should attend the process of slaughtering. Therefore,

I beg Allah and Your Eminence to explain to them the proper way for the person who is to do so. This is in order to free their conviction In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). We hope that your Fatwa will be given soon, if you can, because such actions will take place soon.

A: Your actions of standing around the Ud-hiyah while slaughtering it, reading the verse of Al-Kursy and the mentioned above Surahs, and the conviction that he who does not attend will not share the Thawab (reward from Allah) of the Ud-hiyah and has to slaughter another Ud-hiyah, all of these have no basis in Shari`ah (Islamic law) and are the actions of a Muftadi` (one who introduces innovations in religion). You have to avoid such actions and draw attention to the fact that they are not permissible. The reward of an Ud-hiyah, if it was donated, will include each person who intended to share in it, even if he did not attend, according to the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): \(The reward of deeds depends upon the intentions and every person will get the reward according to what he has intended.\)

If the Ud-hiyah was a will, it should be slaughtered on behalf of the one for whom it was made in the will.

The third question of Fatwa no. (21367)

Q 3: My paternal grandmother passed away and left some sheep. Since she passed away, my father offers an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on her behalf every year without any will from her. What is the ruling on this action? Does the Ud-hiyah have a specific time before or after my father's Ud-hiyah? Benefit us with your answer! May Allah reward you with the best!

(Part No. 10; Page No. 442)

A 3: If the Ud-hiyah on behalf of your father's mother was according to her will, what she willed has to be fulfilled. If it is a donation from your father to be taken from his mother's wealth which she left behind, the agreement of all the inheritors has to be given.

If a Muslim wants to offer an Ud-hiyah on behalf of himself and another one on behalf of another person, he is to begin with his own Ud-hiyah. The Ud-hiyah on behalf of the deceased is Mashru' (Islamically permissible), whether it was offered according to a will or not because it is a type of Sadaqah (voluntary charity).

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: What is the ruling on donating or giving the skins of the Ud-hiyahas (sacrificial animals offered by non-pilgrims) as a gift or Sadaqah (voluntary charity) to any committee or charitable organization in each circle which will benefit from these skins, which is to benefit from their prices by selling them to a Muslim merchant of skins. The prices of these skins will be spent on Prayer rooms, mosques, schools of Qur'an, Islamic nurseries, paying the allowances of the servants of the mosques, buying carpets or cleaning tools, making fences around the cemeteries or on other charitable activities which will benefit the Muslim public...etc?

A: It is Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) to give the skins of Ud-hiyahas (sacrificial animals offered by non-pilgrims) and Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims) as Sadaqah (voluntary charity), according to the Hadith of `Aly ibn Abu Talib (may Allah be pleased with him) who said: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) ordered me to offer a Badanah (a camel or a cow or an ox driven by pilgrims to be offered as sacrifice within the sacred precincts of Makkah), give its meat, skins and dung as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) and not to give the butcher any of it; and said: \(We would pay him ourselves.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim). Such voluntary charities can be given to a person himself or a certain organization of a legal status which finances legal activities.

Fatwa no. (16411)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has gone through what has come to His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, from the questioner, Chairman of the Unit of Publication in the Islamic Foundation in Kelantan, Malaysia / Luqman ibn Al-Hajj `Abdul-Latif ibn Sulayman through the General Manager of Overseas Da'wah by proxy and which was transferred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 5836, dated 10/11/1413 A.H. The Fatwa inquirer asked a question which reads:

It gives me pleasure to explain to Your Eminence our problem about the permissibility of a person, who offers an Ud-hiyah, to give the skins of the Ud-hiyahas (sacrificial animals offered by non-pilgrims) as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) or a gift to any committee or charitable organization in each circle which will benefit from it in the sense that it will benefit from their price through selling them to a Muslim merchant of skins. The benefit of the price of these skins will include, for example, establishing Prayer rooms and mosques, schools of Qur'an, Islamic Nurseries, paying the allowances of the servants of the mosques, buying carpets or cleaning tools, making fences around the cemeteries or on other charitable activities which will benefit the Muslim public in the districts of these people who offered the Ud-hiyah.

I read in the book entitled Al-Targhib Wal-Tarhib min Al-Hadith Al-Sharif, or Attraction and Deterring in the Noble Hadiths) a Hadith on the authority of Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) who said: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: \(If anyone sells the skin of the Ud-hiyah \(sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims\), there is no Ud-hiyah \(accepted\) from them.\) Narrated by Al-Hakim who said: Its Isnad (chain of narrators) is Sahih (authentic). Al-Hafizh said: Its Isnad includes `Abdullah ibn `Ayash Al-Qabbany Al-Misry whose reliability is disagreed upon. More Hadiths from the Prophet (peace be upon him) include the prohibition of selling the skin of an Ud-hiyah.

In the margin, there is an explanation for the meaning of (there is no Ud-hiyah (accepted) from them) which is that they will not receive its reward. (The Book of Al-Kamil, vol. 2, p. 156. Edition of Dar Ihya' Al-Turath Al-`Araby - Beirut. The question is that people who offer an Ud-hiyah do not sell the skins directly but they give them all as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) or a gift to the representatives of this Islamic organization or committee. Thus, these skins become the property of this organization. It is known that those who receive the meat of the Ud-hiyahs may be from among the rich, poor or needy as long as they are Muslims and are single people. As for such committees or organizations, they are not people but they are juristic or representative people, they represent the Muslims of the area.

The skins of an Ud-hiyah may be buried and thus no benefit will be derived from them in our circles nowadays. We are of the view that Muslims should not waste them completely. We also opine that it is preferable for the authorities to take systematic, organised and reforming steps to build a factory of skins in every Islamic country. On the basis of this Islamic principle which includes the skins not only in the Prophetic Hadith but also in the Glorious Qur'an, I ask Your Eminence, most kindly, to reply and give us a Fatwa in this regard. May Allah reward you with the best for the Malaysian Muslims! In view of my unsuccessful attempt to find a solution to the problem in the collections of Fatwas, your hastening to give us a Fatwa will benefit us immediately before we receive `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice) this year.

I sincerely pray for Your Eminence. May Allah cherish and protect you! May Allah guide us, your Malaysian sons, with your instructions!

A: After studying the Fatwa request, the committee answered: If the skin of an Ud-hiyah was given to a poor person or his representative, it is permissible for him to sell it and benefit from its price. It is forbidden only for the person who offers the Ud-hiyah to sell its skin. It is also permissible for charitable organizations to sell

what they receive of the skins of Ud-hiyah and spend their price on the interests of the poor.

The first question of Fatwa no. (17805)

Q 1: If I receive a newborn baby after the Maghrib (Sunset) Prayer, how do I count seven days? Or when exactly do two days separate from each other every night? Please provide me with an explanation of this issue.

A 1: The day starts from the time of the second daybreak, which is Al-Fajr-ul-Sadiq (true dawn) until sunset. The concerned night belongs to its following day except the night of the Day of Nahr (Sacrifice, 10th of Dhul-Hijjah, when pilgrims slaughter their sacrificial animals) which belongs to the Day of `Arafah (9th of Dhul-Hijjah) under the ruling of Hajj.

Q: I have been granted a newborn male baby; by the completion of forty days since its birth, I slaughtered an `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) of one sheep. After the passing of ten days, I slaughtered the second 'Aqiqah of a goat. Since the first `Aqiqah belongs to the sheep species and the second one to the goat species, and each one of them was slaughtered separately after some days and the matter is as I have mentioned, I hope you will give me a Fatwa of whether these two `Aqiqahs meet the same conditions for `Aqiqah. May Allah cherish and protect you!

A: If the goat was one year old, it has met the same conditions for an `Aqiqah. With regard to the newborn baby mentioned above, offering one sheep and one goat is enough.

The second question of Fatwa no. (15888)

Q 2: When a man has his male or female baby circumcised, is it permissible for him to invite his relatives or people of his neighborhood to the time of circumcision, knowing that each one of them comes with a sheep which they consider as a Sadaqah (voluntary charity) for the sake of Allah seeking no praise or pride. They do not take all of it but the amount of it which suffices those who attended the circumcision. The same thing is also applied to marriage. Do you advise them to do this? May Allah reward you with the best!

A 2: It is commendable for a person who receives a newborn baby to slaughter for a baby boy two sheep and for a baby girl one sheep , it is preferable to slaughter on the seventh day of giving birth and to have it circumcised on that day. If the slaughtering or the circumcision was later than that day, there is nothing wrong with that. It is permissible for him to invite his neighbors and relatives to eat from the `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn).

The fact that they come with sheep to the person who invited them has no basis in Shari`ah (Islamic law) and causes hardship and embarrassment for people. Such a custom has to be given up.

The first question of Fatwa no. (16356)

Q 1: I traveled from Egypt to Saudi Arabia on the seventh day of the birth of my son. Due to many debts and a limited amount of money and time, I did not offer an `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn). This happened several months ago. Now I have become rich with the grace of my Lord and can offer an `Aqiqah. I left my wife and my son in Egypt. Should I send them money to offer it in Egypt, or is it permissible to postpone it until I come back and offer it by myself?

Kindly be informed that my family will be pleased if I offer the `Aqiqah; my mother may be upset if I send it to them to offer it while I am absent.

A: The `Aqiqah is an act of Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for the person who can afford it. It is Islamically permitted to offer it quickly on the seventh day or after it whether you slaughter it in your country or outside it. All of this is permissible and being grateful to your mother is required too; it is even a type of dutifulness to parents. Therefore, postponing it until you come back in order to please your mother is permissible.

Q 5: The Maliki Madh-hab (School of Jurisprudence) is for the invitation of Muslims to an `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) whatever their number might be. This is because the benefit of it is for Muslims to be close together, during which they collect donations and pray for the newborn baby while raising their hands. The Hanbali Madhhab is of the view that coming together for the `Aqiqah is a Bid`ah (innovation in religion) and there is no evidence to support it. Only the witnesses are to be invited and no donation should be collected for the baby.

A 5: `Aqiqah is an act of stressed Sunnah; for a baby boy two sheep should be sacrificed and for a baby girl one sheep to be slaughtered on the seventh day of giving birth to the new baby, the hair of the new baby is to be cut and the baby boy or baby girl are to be named. It is Mashru` (Islamically permissible) in the sight of some scholars to divide the `Aqiqah into thirds: One third for the family members and their guests, one third for neighbors and relatives and one third to be given to the poor as Sadaqah (voluntary charity), as is the case with an Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). Some scholars stated that the matter of `Aqiqah is broad: If its people will give it as Sadaqah, eat it, or distribute some of it and eat some of it. Also if they want to invite relatives, neighbors and others they would like to invite.

From this, it is known that there is no problem in cooking it at home and inviting people to it without a commitment to donate or pray for the new baby on the part of the attendees. However, whoever wills, can donate or pray and whoever does not do so will not be committed to do it. No one has the right to specify a certain act of `Ibadah (worship) which Allah and His Messenger did not prescribe. This is the correct opinion.

Q 1: Knowledge is scarce in my village which is located in the southern zone. Therefore, when a new baby is born, the father of this baby slaughters a sheep and people call it (Sufadah), for which relatives and neighbors gather and have dinner with them and there is no commitment to attend on the part of a certain person. Is such an action valid or not? After seven days of the birth of the baby, they slaughter an `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) of two sheep for a baby boy and one sheep for a baby girl and this is, and Allah knows best, an act of the Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet).

However, they do more and slaughter an extra one and thus the `Aqiqah becomes three sheep for a boy and a second one for a baby girl and thus the `Aqiqah becomes two or three sheep for a baby girl. Then the neighbors and relatives gather and the `Aqiqah hardly suffices. Is such an action of (Safadah), as they claim, valid or not? Is the act of slaughtering more in an `Aqiqah valid? Benefit us with your answer! May Allah reward you with the best!

A 1: It is Islamically permissible for an `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) to slaughter two sheep for a baby boy and one sheep for a baby girl on the seventh day of birth if possible. The extra slaughtered sheep are not an `Aqiqah but a sheep slaughtered for obtaining meat and no exaggeration should be made regarding this, it should be done according to what is needed. There is no Islamically prescribed sacrificial animal to be offered on the occasion of a birth but the `Aqiqah mentioned above. Anything else will be considered a Bid`ah (innovation in religion), whether it is given the name of "Sufadah" or any other name.

Fatwa no. (16470)

Q1: Are the conditions of 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) met after the baby is more than seven days old? I have heard Hadith Qudsy (Revelation from Allah in the Prophet's words) which means: 'Aqiqah is to be offered for the baby of seven, or fourteen or twenty one days of age, or according to the correct wording of the Hadith. What is the ruling if the father or the guardian did this later than these given times due to certain circumstances?

A1: It is a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for the time of slaughtering the 'Aqiqah for the newborn baby to be on the seventh day of his or her life. This is according to the Hadith of Samurah ibn Jundub (may Allah be pleased with him) that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: \(A boy is in pledge for his 'Aqiqah. It will be slaughtered for him on the seventh day, his head is to be shaved and he is to be named.\) This was narrated by Abu Dawud Al-Tirmidhy and others.

You mentioned what has been reported in a Hadith that 'Aqiqah is to be slaughtered on the seventh, fourteenth or twenty-first day. This is the Hadith of Samurah saying that it should be on the seventh day. Specifying other times is the view of a group of Salaf (righteous predecessors). Al-Tirmidhy (may Allah be merciful to him) said after the mentioned above Hadith of Samurah: This is a Hadith Hasan Sahih (a Hadith that stands at a higher level than a mere Hasan Hadith, but at a bit lower level than Sahih). Acting upon this is endorsed by the scholars. They prefer that 'Aqiqah is to be slaughtered for the new baby boy on the seventh day. If it is not possible on the seventh day, it should be done on the fourteenth day. If it is not possible on that day, it should be done on the twenty-first day.

The Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) is what I have learnt in the Hadith of Samurah indicating the slaughter to take place on the seventh day. If the Waliy (guardian) fails to slaughter the animal on that day, the conditions of 'Aqiqah will be met because the objective is met by slaughtering 'Aqiqah at any time but he missed the commendable time.

Q2: In the case that the mother took it on herself to offer `Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) voluntarily and willingly, and with which she entertained some of her relatives on the seventh day of the baby's birth, would it be considered `Aqiqah, knowing that two sheep with the required conditions are slaughtered for the baby boy?

A2: The one responsible to offer `Aqiqah is the father due to his responsibility to support the newborn baby. However, if the mother took it on herself to slaughter `Aqiqah, it would be acceptable according to the generality of the meaning of the mentioned above Hadith of Samurah (may Allah be pleased with him) stating: "It will be slaughtered for him" which indicates that the slaughterer of the `Aqiqah is not specified.

Q3: What are the best ways to offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn), or what is the best way to offer and give it away?

A3: To the best of my knowledge, there is no Nas (Islamic text from the Qur'an or the Sunnah) on the authority of the Prophet (peace be upon him) indicating how to give away the meat of the 'Aqiqah. However, the method of giving it away should be similar to other similar offerings, i.e. Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims). It should be eaten and given as gifts and in charity.

Q4: What is the difference between 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) and Al-Sabi' (a name given to the seventh day of birth)? Or does such a nomination give the same meaning?

A4: 'Aqiqah is the SABI' and there is no difference between both of them. To give 'Aqiqah the name of Al-Sabi' is naming it according to its time.

The first question of Fatwa no. (19842)

Q1: Our respected Shaykh! May Allah forgive you! I am a father of five children, all praise be to Allah; one of them is a female and the rest are males. Unfortunately, out of negligence on my part, I offered only two sheep; one for the female as known and the other for my eldest son which means another one remains for him. The rest of the sheep for the remaining children are seven. What should I do? Please benefit me with your answer. May Allah reward you!

Please keep in mind that, at the moment, I am indebted for more than one hundred thousand Riyals. If it is necessary to offer all the sheep, how should I do it? May Allah grant you success!

A1: It is a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) to offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for all children; two sheep for the male and one sheep for the female if you can afford it. This is so, even if you need to borrow money to do it and you can repay it later. This is to follow the example of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) where he offered 'Aqiqah for Al-Hasan and Al-Hussayn and so did the Companions (may Allah be pleased with them).

Imam (initiator of a School of Jurisprudence) Ahmad said: If he borrowed, I wished that Allah (Exalted be He) may compensate him for it because he revived a Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet). If you cannot afford but one which you offered for a male baby as is done for the female, it will be acceptable, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) and you will be rewarded by Allah (Exalted be He). Ibn 'Abdul-Bar said: I do not know any scholar who opposes this.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

the sixth question of Fatwa no. (18672)

Q6: It has been reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) offered 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for himself when he was sent. Is this statement correct? Is it permissible for a man to offer 'Aqiqah for himself because his father did not offer it for him?

A6: It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) offered 'Aqiqah for himself when he was sent, and the 'Aqiqah for the new baby is a Sunnah, and not obligatory. It is to offer two sheep for a baby boy and one for a baby girl. The conditions of 'Aqiqah are the same as that of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) and it is preferable to slaughter it on the seventh day. If it was slaughtered before or after the seventh day, its conditions will have been met. If a person offered 'Aqiqah for himself, even if he is grown up, it would be good, such as when his father did not offer 'Aqiqah for him.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Fatwa no. (20221)

Q: Is it permissible if I am granted a child and I do not have any sheep to offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for him but I have camels, and I want to slaughter a small one (as 'Aqiqah)? I hope you give me a Fatwa about this. I also hope that you give me a Fatwa whether the 'Aqiqah should have a specific age if it was a camel or cow. I heard that its ruling is similar to that of Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) but I did not understand the meaning of this.

A: The condition of 'Aqiqah that has to be met is that it should be Jadh`ah (a six-month-old sheep), Thaniyyah (a one-year-old goat), Thaniyyah of a cow which is two years old, and Thaniyyah of a camel which is five years old. Less than this does not meet the condition of 'Aqiqah, Ud-hiyah or Hady (sacrificial animal offered by pilgrims). It is preferable for an 'Aqiqah to be a sheep. Two sheep are offered as 'Aqiqah for a baby boy and one sheep for a baby girl and it should be free from any defects as is the case with Ud-hiyah. As for how to give away the meat of 'Aqiqah, no Nas (Islamic text from the Qur'an or the Sunnah) has been reported from the Prophet (peace be upon him) regarding this. However, it should be given away in the same way as other similar offerings such as Ud-hiyah in the sense that it should be eaten and given as a gift and charity. Yet, if all of it was eaten or its meat was given as a Sadaqah (voluntary charity), there is nothing wrong with this.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: In the past years, four of my children passed away including boys and girls but I did not offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for them because our living conditions were difficult and we could not afford even one 'Aqiqah at that time. Now, we are better off and our wealth has increased, all praise and thanks are due to Allah. Is it permissible for me to offer 'Aqiqah for them now? How should 'Aqiqahs be offered; one or two or more?

A: It is Islamically permissible for you to slaughter 'Aqiqah for your deceased children; two sheep for the male child and one sheep for the female and the animals should meet the same conditions for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims).

Q2: What is the ruling on offering 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for a deceased person and what did the Prophet (peace be upon him) say about this?

A2: 'Aqiqah is Mustahab (desirable) for the newborn baby even if it passed away. This is according to the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): \(Every child should have 'Aqiqah \(sacrifice for a newborn\) to be sacrificed for him.\) This includes those who are alive and those who passed away. 'Aqiqah for a miscarried baby

Q4: Is 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn baby) offered for a baby who was born after the fourth month and then passed away? We hope that you give us a clear and sufficient explanation for this question. If a person cannot buy these slaughtered sheep except by going into debt and he will repay the debt from the salary of the next month and he may not be able to pay it except after a long period of time and delay, what is the ruling (on this)?

A4: Yes, he should offer 'Aqiqah for the baby because a spirit has been breathed into him. It should be two sheep for a baby boy and one for a baby girl. 'Aqiqah is a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) in the view of the Jumhur (dominant majority of scholars), so whoever cannot afford 'Aqiqah is not to be blamed.

Q1: My father (may Allah be merciful to him) passed away eighteen years ago and left a male child of five months old. My father (may Allah be merciful to him) refused to offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) for him (his child) because he used to say that there is no 'Aqiqah for such a child. This means that the reason for his refusal was his ignorance. We want Your Eminence to inform us of what we should do regarding this matter. May Allah reward you with the best!

A1: To offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) is a stressed Sunnah for the father when he receives a new baby even after he has passed away. 'Aqiqah is also a stressed Sunnah to be offered for a miscarried baby after the spirit has been breathed into it after four months of being in the womb because it is a human into which the spirit has been breathed and will be resurrected on the Day of Resurrection. Therefore, 'Aqiqah has been Islamically permissible for him, according to the generality of the meaning of the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): \('Aqiqa is to be offered for a \(newly born\) boy, so slaughter \(an animal\) for him, and relieve him of his suffering.'\) Narrated by Imam Ahmad and Al-Bukhari and Ahl-ul-Sunan (authors of Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes) on the authority of Salman ibn 'Amir and according to the generality of the meaning of the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): \('Every child is in pledge for his 'Aqiqah \(sacrifice for a newborn\)

to be slaughtered for him on the seventh day and he should be shaved and named.'\) Also, in another narration: \('Every child should have 'Aqiqah \(sacrifice for a newborn\) to be sacrificed for him.'\) Narrated by Imam Ahmad and Ahl-ul-Sunan (authors of Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes) and has been rated Sahih (authentic) by Al-Tirmidhy and if the father refused to offer 'Aqiqah for his child or the father passed away before offering 'Aqiqah for his child, it is a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for one of his relatives, including his brothers, mother or uncles and so on, to offer 'Aqiqah for him: two sheep for a baby boy and one for a baby girl. He will be highly rewarded by Allah (Exalted be He) for this action.

A5: If he were to offer 'Aqiqah for the children who died at a young age, it would be preferable because 'Aqiqah is a stressed Sunnah. However, if he did not offer 'Aqiqah for them, he would not be blamed, knowing that two sheep are to be offered for a male child and one for a female child.

Q2: If the father has no sheep for 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn), will it be sufficient to slaughter a cock or a duck? Is giving (gold equal to) the weight of the hair of the new baby as a charity obligatory or not?

A2: 'Aqiqah for a new baby is an act of the Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet), and not obligatory. It is Mustahab (desirable) to slaughter two sheep for a male child and one for a female, according to the Hadith of Um Karaz that she asked the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about the 'Aqiqah and he answered: Two sheep are to be sacrificed for a boy and one for a girl. Narrated by Ahmad, and Al-Tirmidhy ranking it (a Hadith) as Sahih (authentic). A4: Giving away money or any other type of wealth does not meet the conditions of 'Aqiqah and is not an alternative to slaughtering 'Aqiqah or Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), because these are acts of worship and it is not permissible to change their legal position.

Q2: What is the ruling on the 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) which is offered for children whose age is more than two years regarding its distribution without having invited anyone to it? Knowing that there are those who say: When children grow up, people should be invited to it.

A2: 'Aqiqah is a stressed Sunnah to be offered for the new baby starting on his seventh day. It is acceptable to slaughter it even after two years whether it was distributed as meat or in a Walimah (wedding dinner) or in the form of a Walimah (wedding dinner) that was made and to which people were invited. If a person gave 'Aqiqah or a part of it as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) or invited people to it, this would be acceptable because the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not fix any time for it.

A1: The mentioned above action with regard to 'Aqiqah is not Islamically permissible because there is no evidence to endorse it. The fourth question of Fatwa no. (21717)

Q4: Allah (Exalted be He) has provided me with a second new baby and because I am going to take a leave and travel to Egypt soon, I decided to offer 'Aqiqah (sacrifice for a newborn) in my homeland. Is it permissible to give away its value in cash to the poor and the needy or should its value be distributed as raw meat among the poor, relatives and friends? Is it permissible to cook part of it and leave another part raw and give the cooked meat to members of the household and the raw meat to the poor as well as distributing other things that are necessary for cooking. This is due to the incapability to cook Kabsah (Saudi food consisting of mainly rice and meat) at home. Is there a specific age for the 'Aqiqah of sheep or young cows?

(Part No. 10; Page No. 465)

A4: 'Aqiqah is a stressed Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) for the father to offer two sheep for a boy and one for a girl. Giving away the value of 'Aqiqah does not meet its conditions because this conflicts with the guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his Sahabah (Companions of the Prophet, may Allah be pleased with them) after him. It is permissible to distribute the meat of the 'Aqiqah as raw meat among the poor or to cook part of it for members of the household, neighbors and friends and the other raw part to be distributed among the poor. It is a Sunnah for the 'Aqiqah, as it is for Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims), to be divided into three thirds: one third to be eaten, the second third to be given as a gift and the last third to be given as a charity. The age of the 'Aqiqah which meets its conditions is the same as that of Ud-hiyah of a camel which is five years old, a cow which is two years old, a goat which is one year old and a sheep which is six months old.

Q 2: Is shaving the hair of a girl on the seventh day of her birth a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet)? If not, is it permissible to do so?

A2: Two Hadiths have been reported about shaving the hair on the seventh day: The first one is: \(When Fatimah \(may Allah be pleased with her\) gave birth to Al-Hasan, the Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\) said: 'Shave his head.'\) (Related by Ahmad in his Musnad [Hadith compilation])

The second is the Hadith of Samurah (may Allah be pleased with him) that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: \(Each

(Part No. 10; Page No. 468)

boy is in pledge for his `Aqiqah \(sacrifice for a newborn\). It will be slaughtered for him on the seventh day, his head is to be shaved and he is to be named.\) (Related by Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Nasa'y, and Ibn Majah)

The first Hadith is about the birth of Al-Hasan (may Allah be pleased with him) and the second Hadith used the word boy and so the ruling applies exclusively to the male and not the female. Therefore, It is not permissible to shave the head of the newborn female baby.

The first question of Fatwa no. 14507

Q1: Is it permissible to give a child the same name as his father, if his father is alive; for example, the father's name is `Aly and the name of the child is also `Aly?

A: The father should choose a good name for his son. This name should distinguish him when people call him by it. However, if a father gives his son the same name as his and there is a distinction between them, this is permissible.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Fatwa no. 18537

Q1: We work in a hospital, and as you know, there are non-Muslim contracted workers from the People of the Book and others. When some of them have a newborn baby, they distribute sweets and other eatables on this occasion. The question, respected Shaykh, is:

First, what is the ruling on eating such sweets and other eatables, which they distribute among Muslims and others?

Second, what is the ruling on Muslims who do the same when they have a newborn baby and distribute sweets to the offices where there are Muslims and non-Muslims?

We seek your guidance. May Allah reward you with the best. Please inform us of the ruling on these two questions.

A: First, it is permissible to eat of the sweets that are served by non-Muslims to Muslims on non-religious occasions, such as the birth of a child and so on, because this is included under the permissibility of accepting the gift of a disbeliever. It is authentically reported from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he accepted the gifts of the Mushriks (those who associate others with Allah in His Divinity or worship).

Second, distributing sweets on the occasion of having a newborn baby is one of the customs whose primary ruling is permissibility and if a person usually does this as a custom, not as a Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) and an act of worship, there is nothing wrong with this.

Fatwa no. 18302

Q: I present to your Eminence what the members of the Committee for the Propagation of Virtue and the Prevention of Vice (CPVPV) have observed in al-Farshah, Tuhamah, Qahtan: Some parties take place in that area which they call [Samwah (naming)] where a person gives his son the same name as that of another person from another tribe. The person, whose name was given, raises some funds and collects some clothes and goes with some of his family members in a car which might be available to the person who was given the name and the former gives the latter the money and other things which are called [Kiswah (clothing)].

The person who was given the name gives a party for the person whose name was given and slaughters a large number of camels and sheep and prepares other types of food. Then, the latter gives a similar party which will be larger than the first and which incurs more loss of money.

Is it permissible to eat such meat and food which is prepared for these parties? I pray Allah (Exalted be He) and hope that Your Eminence issue a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) on this topic. May Allah benefit us all with it. May Allah safeguard you.

A: These Wala'im (Sing. Walimah [wedding dinner]) which are prepared for giving the name of a person to another are unlawful because related people immoderately spend money. The person who wants to spend money, should do so on the poor members of the tribe; widows, orphans and the needy from among their relatives and others. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(They ask you \(O Muhammad SAW\) what they should spend. Say: Whatever you spend of good must be for parents and kindred and orphans and Al-Masakin \(the needy\) and the wayfarers, and whatever you do of good deeds, truly, Allah knows it well.\)

Q: Is Tahnik (chewing dates or any sweet and rubbing it inside the mouth of a newborn baby) a Sunnah (supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet)? Nowadays, some people do this for their children; they make Tahnik for them with dates or sweets, or is it specific to the Prophet (peace be upon him)?

A: Tahnik for a newborn baby is a Sunnah which has been confirmed by the action of the Prophet (peace be upon him) for babies born to some Companions (may Allah be pleased with them). This indicates the generality of this action for the Ummah (nation based on one creed) of the Prophet (peace be upon him). This is also based on the saying of Allah

Q1: What do you say, may Allah honor you, about the ruling on the names which are given to some well-known families: [Al-Ruhaymin (Those who are Merciful), Al-Jalil (The Majestic), Al-Rafiq (The Clement), Al-Mu'min (The Preserver of Security), Al-Basir (The All-Seeing), Al-Hafiz (The Maintainer), Al-Shafy (The Healer), Al-Raqib (The Vigilant), and Al-Badi' (The Superb)]. Such, as is noticed, are the Magnificent Names of Allah (Exalted be He), some of which are pronounced in the diminutive form and others are pronounced as they are. Please give us a Fatwa! May Allah reward you!

A: The referred to appellations of some families distinguish them from others and this is not prohibited in the Shari'ah (Islamic Law).

Q: I made a vow that if Allah grants me a son, I will name him Ra`ad (thunder), after the name of Surah (Qur'anic chapter) Ar-Ra`ad (The Thunder).

(Part No. 10; Page No. 473)

Actually, I intend to get an honorable name for my son in hope that he will not fall into the sins I experienced in my life. Now, as the time of my child's birth, Ra`ad, approaches; many people warn me about using this name. So, what is your Eminence's opinion about this name, given that I offered Salat-ul-Istikharah (prayer of guidance) many times and saw good visions about my son which brought me comfort; one of which is seeing him committing the Qur'an to memory in a short time. Please I need your Fatwa on this issue, may Allah reward you.

A: The case you have mentioned comes under the vow of doing something permissible. If you like you can give him this name, and if you wish to change it you can do so but will have to expiate for the oath. You must free a bondsman, or feed ten needy persons an amount of one kilo and half of food for each one, or to provide them with ten garments, one for each; and if none of the previous is possible, you must fast three days.

Q: I named one of my daughters Nayruz and did not know that it is a name of a Persian Feast. The only thing I knew was that the name means 'springtime' in Persian. Now I need your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) on this issue. Should I change my daughter's name, given that it has been officially registered for three years?

A: The father of a child, male or female, must pick a good name for his child and avoid inappropriate names. As for the man who named his daughter "Nayruz" which is a name for a Persian feast, he must change it to a better one, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) changed some of his Companions' names.

Furthermore, having the name officially registered does not prevent you from changing it according to the current official system.

Q: I, along with over twenty citizens, have illegal names according to Shari`ah (Islamic law). It is not easy to change them except with a Fatwa, as we have sons and daughters who are employees or students in different educational phases including college. I hope that you can inform the administration of civil affairs in Al-Jouf (an area in KSA) of this Fatwa so that we can change our names. When we obtain this we will provide our children with the new names and a copy of the Fatwa to act accordingly on this issue and conclude it. May Allah reward you.

NB: I am a retired noncommissioned officer and others who have my same name are retired as well.

This may create a problem, unless there is a Fatwa on our issue, as we have to send a copy of such a Fatwa to the Administration of the Retirement Affairs. May Allah bless you.

A: Scholars are unanimous that one is not permitted to bear a compound name that suggests servitude to anyone other than Allah (Exalted be He), as such names (like `Abd [Servant]) should only be added to one of Allah's Names which have been mentioned in the Glorious Qur'an and in the authentic Hadiths.

As such, the word: "Al-Muslih" (i.e. reformer) is not one of Allah's Names, so one is forbidden to bear the name "`Abd Al-Muslih". One must replace it with a valid one like `Abdullah (Servant of Allah), `Abdur-Rahman (Servant of the Most Merciful), `Abdul-`Aziz (Servant of the Al-Mighty), `Abdur-Rahim (Servant of the Ever-Merciful), `Abdul-Wahhab (Servant of the Bestower), `Abdul-Latif (Servant of the Most Kind and Gracious), `Abdul-Quddus (Servant of the Holy, All-Pure), `Abdul-Mu'min (Servant of the Peace-Giver), `Abdul-Muhaymin (Servant of the Ever-Watcher and Protector), `Abdus-Salam (Servant of the All-Perfect), `Abdul-Jabbar (Servant of the Compeller), `Abdul-Khaliq (Servant of the Creator), `Abdul-Bari' (Servant of the Originator), and so on.

This name may also be replaced with any of Allah's Prophets' names or His righteous servants like Muhammad, Ahmad, Ibrahim, Isma`il, Adam, Ishaq, Zakariyya, Yusuf, Yunus, Sulaiman, `Umar, `Uthman, `Aly.

These good names do not suggest servitude to anyone other than Allah.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the question submitted to the Grand Mufti by the manager of the branch of the Committee for the Propagation of Virtue and Prevention of Vice in the area of `Asir; number (24/9/891) dated (21/2/1417 AH), which was referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars number (1246) dated (29/2/1417 AH). The question reads as follows:

We send Your Eminence the letter which we received from the head of the authority of Bishah Governorate numbered (65/22) dated 3/1/1417 AH. which states that a Bangladeshi doctor named "Muhammad Khairul-Anam (the best of humans) Tufayl Ahmad" hopes to guide him whether or not he should change his name.

Having reviewed the question, the Committee answered that the questioner must change the name (Khayrul-Anam) to a name Islamically appropriate, as this title is exclusive to Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Q: Our fathers and forefathers had bondsmen. Some of them were manumitted by their masters before their death and others lived under the care of their masters as free men. Previous bondsmen died and left behind free offspring who obtained personal identification cards as nationals. Each one of these freed men attributed their lineage to the Hashimi title by saying, "So and so the Sharif" instead of - for example - "So and so the former bondman, the bondsman, or one who has no certain lineage". These people's lineage is not traced back to the household of the Prophet from which their masters descended. As there are Hadiths emphasize preserving one's lineage and that people are entrusted to preserve their lineage especially that of the household of the Prophet (peace be upon him). It is stated in the Sahih of Muslim that Zayd ibn Arqam (may Allah be pleased with him) said that Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) delivered Khutbah (sermon) at a watering place known as Khumm situated between Makkah and Al-Madinah and said: (And the members of my household. I remind you (of your duties) to the members of my household. I remind you (of your duties) to the members of my household.) It was said to Zayd ibn Arqam: "Who are his household?" He replied: "(They are) those who are forbidden to take from Sadaqah (voluntary charity); the family of `Aly, the family of Ja`far, the family of `Aqil, and the family of `Abbas."

Is it permissible to attribute the lineage of the freed bondsmen and their offspring to the noble lineage of the Prophet? Are they considered among this noble lineage or is it a mistake that must be corrected in their identity cards which they and their offspring hold? Can we change their title from Sahrif to another title?

I need a Fatwa in this regard. May Allah reward you with the best.

(Part No. 10; Page No. 478)

A: It is impermissible for freed bondsmen to attribute themselves to the lineage of their masters, unless it is explicitly stated that they are attributed to them by the relationship of having been manumitted because there are Hadiths that bears clear warning for those who attribute themselves to other than their ancestors. This was the approach of scholars in writing down biographies stating the attribution of some people to a lineage by a relationship of manumitting. Attributing oneself to another lineage involves lying and causes confusion of lineages. Consequently, Shari`ah rulings will not be in disorder. This ruling is enhanced when some people attribute themselves to the noble lineage of the Prophet due to the special rulings applied to this lineage.

Fatwa no. 20448

Q: I put before you this question which is briefly related to the names of some employees in a government body. These names are: `Abdun-Naby (Servant of the Prophet), `Abdul-Jayid (Servant of the good), and `Abdur-Rasul (Servant of the Messenger). Some of these names are first names and most are fathers' names and some are grandfather's names. The question is: Is a son duty-bound to change his father's or grandfather's name if it conflicts with Islamic Shari`ah (Islamic law)?

A: It is not permissible to carry any of the names mentioned in the question as they suggest one's servitude to a human and one is forbidden to be a servant to any but Allah.

So, if a person, his father or his grandfather carries any of these names or their likes and is still living, then he must change his name to a name that is in line with Islamic Shari`ah. He should submit a name change request to the authorities. However, if one has died and their name was one of the above mentioned names or their like, then no one has the right to change it as there is no benefit gained from changing it after death. Further, the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not change the name of his grandfather `Abdul-Muttalib. Had it been prescribed to change it, the Prophet (peace be upon him) would have changed the name of his grandfather after his death. It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) stated in the Battle of Hunayn: \(I am the Prophet in truth. I am the son of `Abdul-Muttalib.\) (Related by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the question sent to the Grand Mufti from the general director of the Committee branch in `Asir, numbered 2407/9/24 and dated 16/6/1417 A.H., which was attached with the papers sent from the chairman of the Committee branch in Al-Wadiyyin, numbered 435/42 and dated 14/6/1417 A.H. It states that a Pakistani worker bears the name Rahmat `Ali Allah Luk, according to the identity card which copy is attached. The question has been referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, numbered 3364 and dated 22/6/1417 A.H. It includes a request about the legal ruling on giving a person the name "Rahmat Ali Allah Luk".

Reviewing the question, the Committee issues the following answer: There are many Hadiths urging Muslims to pick good names and forbidding them to bear improper names or those suggesting invalid meanings. Rather, it instructs replacing such names with other good ones. Accordingly, it is not permissible to bear the name, (Allah Luk), since in case of inserting the word "Ibn" (i.e. son of), the name would read: "Rahmat Ali Ibn Allah Luk" and as such the name suggests an improper and invalid concept. Allah (Exalted be He) states: ﴿No son (or offspring or children) did Allah beget,﴾ and He (Glorified be He) further states: ﴿He begets not, nor was He begotten.﴾ So, the name in question must be replaced with a name free of any improper or invalid concept.

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed question no. (524/21/23), dated 13/11/1417 A.H. submitted to the Grand Muftly by the Director of the Da`wa and Guidance Center in Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah about the ruling of bearing the name: Al-Mustafa and whether it is a must to change this name or not. The question was referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. (6359), dated 16/11/1417 A.H. and reads as follows:

We refer to Your Eminence the case sent to us from the Province of Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah, under no. (20194/15), dated 8/11/1417 A.H. concerning the petition submitted by/ Al-Mustafa Muhammad Taqyullah Weld Mayaba, in which he asks to change his name from Al-Mustafa to Mustafa in his birth certificate, no. (266), dated 17/7/1402 A.H. Given that a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) is required in order to change a name, we hope that Your Eminence will review the case.

Having reviewed the case, the Committee answered that a Muslim should pick their baby name in line with the Sacred Shari`ah (Islamic law). As for the name Al-Mustafa, it suggests a praise and resemblance to Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) in one of his attributes. So it is improper to bear this name, and it is a must that the one bearing such a name change it to Mustafa instead.

Q: I applied to the Civil Affairs Department in Abha to change my name from `Aziz (Mighty) to `Abdul `Aziz (Servant of Al-`Aziz) since the `Aziz is Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He). They told me that this can only be done after having a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified scholar) issued by Your Eminence because the name `Aziz is not classified in the list of forbidden names. Q: My grandfather had been nicknamed 'Fasih-ul-Llah', which later became the family name, and many people have been asking about its meaning and why my grandfather was nicknamed as such. This prompted many people to advise us to change it. So, we applied to the Administration of the Civil Affairs to replace this nickname with the name right before it which is 'Hafizh'. This latter nickname was given to him as he committed the Qur'an to his memory, and used to teach it at Dar-ull- al-aytam (an orphanage) in Al-Madinah. The Administration of the Civil Affairs asked us to get a Fatwa maintaining the prohibition of using this word either as a name or as a nickname, or maintaining that it is improper. So what is the ruling on such a case?

A: You are not bound to change this name as it does not suggest any improper denotation or connotation. The first part of the name in question reads, 'Fasih' (i.e., eloquent) which is the opposite of 'A`jam' (i.e., vague). The name in question further provides an example of adding a created thing to its Creator, like 'Naqat-ul-Llah' (the she-camel of Allah) and 'Khalq-ul-Llah' (the creation of Allah).

Q 1: What is the ruling on naming a newborn child Mu'min (believer)? Is this permissible in the Shari`ah (Islamic law)?

A: It is permissible to name a newborn child Mu`min because there is no evidence to prevent that and permissibility is the basic ruling in this regard.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad.

Q: What is the ruling of the Shari`ah (Islamic law) on naming somebody Rama as some claim that it is not permissible to use this name because there is a temple in India called Rama and it is peculiar to non-Muslims as well. I am not going to change this name until I receive your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) in this concern. May Allah reward you with the best!

A: There is nothing wrong with naming a person Rama because the basic ruling concerning names is permissibility except for adding the word `Abd (servant) to anyone other than Allah (Exalted be He). However, if it is proved that the abovementioned name is a name of a temple in which people worship other than Allah (Exalted be He), it will not be permissible to take it as a name because this glorifies and propagates this temple.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad.

Q2: Your Eminence Shaykh, what is the ruling on giving one's daughter a name that is mentioned in the Qur'an, like Ala', Istabraq or Afnan?

A: Girls can be given any of these names (i.e. Ala', Istabraq or Afnan) and other similar names as long as they do not involve any improper connotations or resemble infidels' names, even if they be mentioned

(Part No. 10; Page No. 489)

The third Question of Fatwa no. (20617)

Q3: What is the ruling on bearing any of the following names: (Shu`y, Shu`iyyah, `Abduh, Mashniyyah)?

A 3: It is Makruh (reprehensible) to bear the name Shu'y or Shu`iyyah as they imply ill meanings, and may be confused with some banned denominations. The same applies to the name "Mashniyyah" as it linguistically denotes ill meanings like weariness, aversion, and the like.

The name `Abduh is permissible, but changing it is still preferable as it does not denote a complete meaning, and it is further generalized and suggestive. So, it is safer and permissible that one adds the name "Abd" (servant) to one of Allah's Names. It has been authentically narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said that the names dearest to Allah (Exalted be He) are: `Abdullah and `Abdur-Rahman. It is the child's right on his or her father that he chooses a good name for him or her that suggests sublime meanings which are far from sin.

Fatwa no. (18886)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the letter submitted to His Eminence, Grand Mufty, from the Director General of the Branch of the Ministry of Islamic Affairs, Endowments, Da'wah and Guidance in Al-Madinah Al-Munawarah no. (1/300) and dated 30/3/1417 A.H., and its attached request submitted by the heirs of the deceased (Ila Bakhsh Muhammad Muhammad Wiryam. They are asking for correcting the first name of their deceased kin to be (Allah Bakhsh) instead of (Ila Bakhsh). The request has been referred to the Committee from Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. (1875) dated 6/4/1417 A.H. The person who submitted the request seeks an answer to the question raised by the body concerned with administrating the civil affairs in Al-Madinah Al-Munawarah about the permissibility of changing the name in this manner.

After reviewing the question, the Committee issued the following Fatwa:

There is a large number of Shar`y (Islamic legal) texts that pay great attention to the importance of selecting good names and the prohibition of choosing bad ones including these imply invalid meanings, and the necessity of changing them to better ones. Accordingly, it is impermissible to bear the name (Allah Bakhsh) for when adding the son's name, it shall read: (Muhammad Ibn [son of] Allah Bakhsh), which apparently contains an offensive suggestion and invalid meaning, and Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿No son (or offspring or children) did Allah beget,﴾ Allah (Glorified be He) further says: ﴿"He begets not, nor was He begotten.﴾

Therefore, we view that the name should remain as is; namely (Ila Bakhsh).

Q2: What is the ruling on naming a child Rakan?

A: There is nothing wrong with naming a child Rakan, for this name does not bear any bad implications. The original rule is the permissibility of names that do not suggest bad meanings. Yet, names implying servitude to Allah (Exalted be He) like `Abdullah and `Abdul-Rahman are still preferable.

So, we refer this issue to Your Eminence to get your Fatwa in this regard. May Allah bless you and your effort and reward with the best!

A: There is nothing wrong in naming your son Ra'uf, as it is not one of the names peculiar to Allah (Exalted be He) that are forbidden for anyone else. Allah (Exalted be He) named His Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) with this name in the Qur'anic verse that reads:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read what was sent to His Eminency, the Grand Mufty, from the Undersecretary Deputy of the Ministry of Internal Affairs

no. 12347-M, dated 27/3/1417 A.H., and referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 1951, dated 10/4/1417 A.H. His Excellency asked about the ruling on using the following names because some citizens submit formal requests to change the names of their sons and daughters, such as Abrar, Iman, Burrah, Jabriel, `Abd-ul-Mu`in. They show us copies of some Fatwas. We need to know the legal ruling on these names and is it obligatory to change them or not? We hope that you will show these name to the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' and inform us of what is issued so that we can do what is required.

After studying the request of Fatwa, the Committee answers that there is nothing wrong with using the aforementioned names except `Abd-ul-Mu`in because it was not reported that Al-Mu`in (the Ever Supporter) is among the Names of Allah (Exalted be He). Also, it is better to change the name of Burrah and not to call anyone by this name because the Prophet (peace be upon him) changed it.

Q: I have been blessed with a daughter, praise be to Allah. I agreed with my wife to name her (Yara) which is originally Persian but has meanings of power, capability and bravery. We chose this name because of these good meanings not imitating non-Muslims. In addition, this name is not reported as forbidden, does not include servitude or indicate pessimism or other bad meanings, nor does it contain a religious meaning and it is not the name of an angel or a Surah (Chapter) from the Qur'an. I decided to give my child this name (Yara) and I ask Allah to make me a memorizer of the Glorious Qur'an.

My question is: What is the ruling on giving her this name?

A: You mentioned that the name is originally Persian, so we advise you not to give your daughter this name because it is included in imitating the non-Arabs. Doing so is prohibited by the Shari'ah (Islamic law) and it is required to avoid that. At the same time, Arabic names that are of good meanings and free of prohibitions are plentiful. The Muslim father is required to choose good names for his children, whether males or females, which is an indication of his perfect mind and wisdom.

The first question of Fatwa no. (17325)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has viewed the letter sent to His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, from His Excellency, Assistant Chief of Al-Qunfudhah Courts and Chief of Hisbah (regulation of economic, commercial, and public matters) Da`wah (call to Allah) no. 733, dated 24/8/1415 A.H., which was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 3488, dated 13/8/1415, and His Eminence posted the following question which reads:

I would like to inform Your Eminence that many people in this town and the coastal district give their female children the name of (Nabiyyah) (i.e. female Prophet). The origin of this name is an unlawful belief. There were some people who called themselves Al-Sadah (i.e. Masters) and people believed that those people could bring benefit and cause harm without the Help of Allah (Exalted be He), which is major Shirk (associating others with Allah in His Divinity or worship that takes the Muslim out of Islam). Those so-called Masters would give their female children the name of Nabiyyah to delude the ignorant persons. This belief, Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah), no longer exists but the name is still used. I hope that you will issue a Fatwa in this regard.

After studying the request for Fatwa, the Committee maintains that it is not permissible to give a woman the name of Nabiyyah (i.e. female Prophet) or to give a man the name of Naby (i.e. male Prophet) because this name is confined to Allah's Prophets and Messengers (peace be upon them) who ended with Muhammad (peace be upon him). Allah (Glorified be He) says: ﴿ Muhammad \(صلى الله عليه وسلم\) is not the father of any of your men, but he is the Messenger of Allâh and the last (end) of the Prophets.﴾

If a female has this name (i.e. Nabiyyah), it is obligatory to change it to another one such as Nabiha, Safiyyah or the like.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read the letter sent to His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, from the Judge of Al-Khafjy Court with no. (1244), dated 19/7/1417 A.H. It was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars with no. (4084), dated 22/4/1417 A.H. and included the following question:

We received a letter from Chairman of Al-Khafjy police no. (Kh. Sh. 5-4298-12-21), dated 30/5/1417 A.H. with regard to what was sent to them from His Excellency, Deputy Governor of Al-Khafjy of no. (2316), dated 25/5/1417 A.H. in reference to the letter of the Committee for the Propagation of Virtue and the Prevention of Vice in Al-Khafjy with no. (S. T. 191), dated 19/5/1417 A.H. which included notes on the name of a worker whose name is: Bismillah Muhammad Bashir, an Indian citizen, who works under the warranty of Naif Gatly Al-Shamry. The chief of the police requested in his letter to consider the change of the name of the referred to man.

I hope you will read this and give me the Fatwa with regard to the permissibility of this name from the Shari`ah (Law) point of view.

After considering the request for Fatwa, the Committee states the following:

It is not permissible to give someone a name of Bismillah because it is a Dhikr (Remembrance of Allah) and a supplication which should not be used for other than what it is put forth to. The same applies to Subhan Allah (Glorified be Allah), Al-Hamdu li-Allah (praise be to Allah) and the like. Therefore, whoever is given this name should change it to another allowable name.

Q 4: What do you say about compound nouns such as Rahmat-ul-lah, Rafiq-ul-Rahman, Gharm-ul-lah, `Ata-al-lah, Ghulam-ul-Rahman and the like?

A 4: There is nothing wrong with compound nouns such as `Abdullah, `Ata'-ul-lah and Rahmat-ul-lah. As for Rafiq-ul-Rahman, Gharm-ul-lah and Ghulam-ul-lah; it is better not to give someone these names because their meaning is doubtful.

To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read the letter sent to His Eminence, the Grand Mufti, from His Eminence the General Chairman of the Branch of the Committee for the Propagation of Virtue and the Prevention of Vice in `Asir no. 24/9/2751, dated 9/7/1417 A.H. It was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 3912 and dated 14/7/1417 A.H., and included the following question:

Attached are the notes we received from the governor of Hail in his letter no. 28-173, dated 7/7/1417 A.H., regarding the names of some newcomers who are:

1- Muhammad Kalim-ul-lah. 2- Muhibb-ul-lah Abu-ul-Bashar.

Enclosed are copies of their residence papers.

Please, give us your directions with regard to that as well as the suggested change of the impermissible names.

May Allah safeguard you and guide your footsteps!

After studying the request for Fatwa, the Committee answered with the following:

With regard to giving someone the name of (Kalim-ul-lah) it is unallowable because this is the name of Prophet Musa (Moses, peace be upon him) who actually spoke to Allah (Exalted be He). Also, giving someone the name of (Abu-ul-Bashar, father of mankind) is not allowable because this name is confined to Adam and Nuh (Noah), peace be upon them. This name truly applies to both of them whereas it is a kind of falsehood when given to others. Moreover, there is nothing wrong with the name (Muhibb-ul-lah, adorer of Allah) because it contains nothing prohibited.

The second question of Fatwa no. (19346)

Q 2: Is it permissible to give someone the name of (`Abd-ul-Nur)?

A 2: Allah's (Exalted be He) Names are Tawqifiyyah (bound by a religious text and not amenable to personal opinion). It has not been reported that (Al-Nur) is a Name of Allah and consequently it is unallowable to refer servitude to it ((by using the prefix `Abd, i.e. a servant, before it). So, it is not permissible to say: ( `Abd-ul-Nur).

Q: The following is my case: My name is (`Abd-ul-Hashim). Yet, some friends disapprove of it, so please give me the Fatwa regarding that and forward my case to the General Administration of Passports to change it. May Allah safeguard and support you!

A: Giving someone the name of (`Abd-ul-Hashim) is not permissible because it means servitude to other than Allah. Hashim is not a Name of Allah but the name of a man. Thus, it is impermissible to refer servitude to it (by using the prefix `Abd, i.e. servant, before it). So, this name should be changed to a better and allowable one.

Q: In our school, there is a student called `Abd-ul-Nasir and another student whose father's name is `Abd-ul-Jabir. Are these two names permissible? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: Al-Nasir and Al-Jabir are not among the Names of Allah (Exalted be He). So, it is not permissible to refer servitude to them (by using the prefix `Abd, i.e. a servant, before them) in names, such as `Abd-ul-Nasir or `Abd-ul-Jabir. Yet it is better to be said `Abd-ul-Jabbar because Al-Jabbar (the Almighty) is among the Names of Allah.

Jihad

The eleventh and twelfth questions of fatwa no. 19773

Q 11: Is civil defense counted as Jihad (fighting/striving in the Cause of Allah)?

A 11: Any work that benefits Muslims or deflects a harm away from them is highly rewardable provided that its doer has a good intention and performs it for the sake of Allah. We hope that it is regarded as Murabatah (guarding the Muslim frontiers in Allah's Cause).

Q 12: Is the person who dies in the line of duty is regarded as a martyr, whether the cause is a fire, drowning or anything else?

A 12: If someone dies in a demolition, drowning or because of sudden accident, they are regarded as martyrs, as indicated by the Hadiths. However, they should be washed and Janazah (Funeral) Prayer should be offered for them like all dead Muslims. They differ from those who die in the battlefield who should not be washed and no Janazah Prayer should be offered for them because the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not wash the martyrs of Uhud and did not perform Janazah Prayer for them.

Q: Is it true that the woman who dies while delivering is considered a martyr?

A: Any woman who dies during her postpartum period or during pregnancy is a martyr, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). In the Hadith narrated by `Ubadah ibn Al-Samit (may Allah be pleased with him) the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ﴿'Who is counted as a martyr among you?' They said, 'The one who fights and is killed in the Cause of Allah \(Glorified and Exalted be He\).' The Messenger \(peace be upon him\) said: 'Then the martyrs among my Ummah \(nation based on one creed\) would be few. The one who is killed in the Cause of Allah is a martyr; the one who dies of plague is a martyr; the one who dies of an intestinal ailment is a martyr; and a woman who dies during her pregnancy is a martyr.'﴾ (Related by Imam (initiator of a School of Jurisprudence) Ahmad in his Musnad [Hadith compilation]), Ibn Majah, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih [Authentic Hadith Book] as well as others) Therefore, a woman who dies during her pregnancy is a martyr. It was also narrated by Rashid Ibn Hubaish (may Allah be pleased with him) that ﴿The Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\) entered upon `Ubadah ibn Al-Samit during his sickness and said, 'Do you know who is a martyr in my Ummah?' The people remained silent. `Ubadah said: 'Help me to sit up.' They helped him to sit up, then he said, 'O Messenger of Allah, \(is it\) the patient person who seeks reward from Allah for their patience?' The Messenger of Allah \(peace be upon him\) said: 'Then the martyrs among my Ummah would be very few. Being killed for in the Cause of Allah is martyrdom; dying of plague is martyrdom; drowning is martyrdom; dying of an internal disease is martyrdom; and if a woman dies during the postpartum period, her baby will drag her with the umbilical cord to Jannah \(Paradise\).﴾ (Related by Imam Ahmad in his Musnad and Abu Dawud in his Sunan [Hadith compilations classified by jurisprudential themes]) A report with a similar meaning was related by Imam Muslim in his book

Al-Imarah, chapter 51, vol. 3, p.1521)

There is much evidence that indicates the great reward of a woman who dies during her postpartum period or pregnancy and that she is one of the martyrs among the Ummah of Muhammad (peace be upon him). However, the highest level of martyrdom is that of the person killed for in the Cause of Allah (Exalted be He).

Knowledge

Fatwa no. 20773

Q: Is it permissible for a Muslim to memorize the Qur'an from the Mus-haf (copy of the Qur'an) but without a teacher?

If it is impermissible, how can one correct his past recitation? If it is permissible, then what can be said to those who believe that the Qur'an must be transmitted orally? If there is a better way, inform us of it.

A: It is obligatory to learn the Qur'an from a good reciter so that the learner masters the recitation of the Qur'an in the right way. It is not enough to recite it just by reading it because this may lead to error, especially if there is someone to teach them.

student who memorizes the Qur'an in his group? Do I get the reward of 10 good deeds for every letter? If one of them grows up and teaches the Qur'an or leads people in Salah (Prayer), do I receive a similar reward because I paid the salary of his teacher?

Q 2: I started memorizing the book of Bulugh-ul-Maram by Al-Hafiz ibn Hajar, (may Allah be merciful to him)! Q: I am a student in the Faculty of Pharmacy, Annabah University, Algeria. In this faculty, Tabarruj (woman's public display of her adornment or charms) and permissiveness have reached an extreme, and it is as if we are living in a European or an American society. Because our Islamic law orders us to protect our own faith, I suffer a lot from this disgraceful Tabarruj, as humans are weak by nature and can be affected by such sights. Additionally, I became bored of studying in this faculty and I wanted to leave to join the faculty of Shari`ah (Islamic law) in Constantine to study the sciences of Shari`ah, but my parents are opposed to the idea of abandoning the Faculty of Pharmacy. Please tell me what I should do (may Allah safeguard you); shall I leave this faculty? I was about to leave it before writing to you, but I feared that I might commit something that is more dangerous, which is undutifulness to my parents. Please tell me what to do because I am very worried and confused.

A: We advise you to join the faculty of Shari`ah in order to learn all that is related to your faith and to abandon everything that is evil, because if someone leaves something for the sake of Allah, Allah recompenses them with something that is better. You should not obey your parents concerning co-education, because there is no obedience to someone in what displeases Allah. We also advise you to be dutiful to your parents and to talk to them in a delicate, gentle manner. Q: In our country, Morocco, there is a man who teaches the people rituals of Hajj in a practical way; he made a black-colored wood frame resembling the Ka`bah, Maqam Ibrahim (the Station of Ibrahim), Safa and Marwah and Zamzam, in addition to other rituals related to Hajj. The training is performed by people bringing and wearing their Ihram (clothing worn during the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) and performing the rituals starting from `Umrah until the end of Hajj. Moreover, they raise their voices collectively, performing Talbiyah (devotional expressions chanted at certain times during Hajj and `Umrah) in the Masjid (mosque). This phenomenon has started to spread in all of the areas of Morocco; if you enter some Masjids, you find a wooden frame resembling the Ka`bah and everything related to the rituals of Hajj throughout the year.

I hope you will clarify the ruling of the Shari`ah (Islamic law) in this regard, taking into consideration that this training of the rituals of Hajj was shot by camera, and videotapes are distributed among the people.

A: Making shapes of wood or similar materials for the Ka`bah, Maqam Ibrahim, Jamrat (stone pillars marking the pebble-throwing area) and so on to be used in teaching the rituals of Hajj and `Umrah in the way mentioned in the question is not permissible; rather, it is an abominable Bid`ah (innovation in religion). The reason is that it may lead to falling into the dangers warned against by Shari`ah such as the hearts' clinging to these shapes - even after a period of time - and exposing them to abuse and so on, although there is no need for this method. Explaining and illustrating orally along with using illustrative writings are quite enough to convey the Shar`y (Islamic legal) meaning to the people in general. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) is reported to have said: \(Anyone who does an action which is not in accordance with this matter of ours \(Islam\) will have it rejected.\)

Q 4: One of the guides in an organized Hajj group instructed the pilgrims that no Muqallid (strict follower of a specific School of Jurisprudence) is allowed to give the people a legal opinion different from that adopted by the Jumhur (dominant majority of scholars). No one may give a legal opinion apart from that of the Jumhur except a Mujtahid (a scholar qualified to exercise juristic effort to infer expert legal ruling) such as Ibn Baz (may Allah be merciful to him). Some of the students of knowledge among us, when asked before the occurrence of an action, give the legal opinion of the Jumhur; and when asked after its occurrence, give the legal opinion of any Imam apart from that of the Jumhur.

The question: Is the opinion of the guide of the Hajj group signifying that the only legal opinion that should be given before and after the occurrence of the action is that of the Jumhur correct, in spite of the hardship of repeating it that the questioner may encounter? Please give us your legal opinion, may Allah reward you.

A: The Mufti (Islamic scholar qualified to issue legal opinions) should give the legal opinion that is preponderant according to evidence, if he has enough competence and knowledge to do so; otherwise, he should refer the question to any other scholar.

Q 3: Are the ignorant about religious matters and the lay not brought to account for the things they do not know about? Is acquiring religious knowledge Wajib (obligatory) in their case?

A: It is impermissible for a person to remain ignorant. They have to learn what they must know about their Din (religion) and gain religious knowledge from scholars. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(So ask the people of the Reminder, if you do not know.\) Therefore,

Q 2: Does the printing of valid Islamic books benefit a Muslim after death, and can it be considered as knowledge by which people may benefit, as mentioned in the Hadith?

A: The printing of useful books that benefit people in their religious and worldly affairs is a good act, for which the Muslim will be rewarded during their life and it will be of ongoing benefit and reward after their death. This is included in the general meaning of the Hadith on the authority of Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) in which the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) is authentically reported to have said: \(When someone dies, their works \(righteous acts\) come to an end, apart from three: Sadaqah Jariyah \(ongoing charity\), beneficial knowledge, or a pious child who prays for them \(the deceased\).\) (Related by Imam Muslim in his "Sahih"; Al-Tirmidhy, Al-Nasa'y and Imam Ahmad) Everyone who participates in conveying useful knowledge will attain this great reward, whether this participation is by writing, teaching, publishing, issuing or participating in printing, each according to their effort and contribution in the work.

He wrote a book entitled "Talbis Iblis" (Entanglements of the Devil) in which he discussed the ways that the devil uses to entangle humans in whims and suspicions. The first question of Fatwa no. 16421

Q 1: My question is about Shaykh Hasan ibn `Aly Al-Saqqaf, who printed a book entitled "Tanaqudat Al-Albany Al-Wadihat Fima Waqa` Lahu fi Tashih Al-Ahadith wa Tad`ifiha min Akhta' wa Ghaltat, (Clear Contradictions concerning the Faults of Al-Albany in Ranking Hadiths as Da`if (weak) and Sahih (authentic)", Part 2, printed in Dar Imam an-Nawawi in Jordan. I hope you will clarify whether

Shaykh Hasan ibn `Aly Al-Saqqaf is one of the recommended knowledgeable scholars or not, and whether or not we can rely on these books and their contents?

A: It is well-known that the abovementioned person has some faults in his `Aqidah (creed) that we came to know through the falsehoods he published in his books on `Aqidah. We have not read the mentioned book, so we cannot judge it until we are acquainted with it, and Allah knows best.

Q: What is your opinion about a book entitled "Kashf Al-Akinnah `Amma Qila 'Innahu Bid`ah Wahwa Sunnah (Revealing the Secrets concerning what is Deemed as Bid`ah [innovation in religion] while it is a Sunnah [acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet])" by `Abdul-Wahab Mahiyah?

A: After reviewing the mentioned book, I realized that its author is not one of the reliable scholars in respect of the rulings of Shari`ah (Islamic law). He regarded some Bid`ahs as acts of the Sunnah. It is necessary to refer to the books of the verifying scholars known for their religiousness, honesty and conversance with Islamic knowledge.

Fatwa no. 21342

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed what was submitted by some counselors. This inquiry is registered at the General Secretariat of the Council of Senior Scholars, under number (779) dated Safar 6th, 1421 A.H. It was enclosed by a copy of a book entitled "Tadhkir Al-Ta'ifah Al-Mansurah Biba'd Al-Sunan Al-Mahjurah (Reminding the Supported Sect of some Abandoned Sunan [supererogatory act of worship following the example of the Prophet])", collected by Mahmoud Imam Mansour, and printed in Dar Al-Ma'athir in Al-Madinah in 1420 A.H.

Upon reviewing this book, we found it was based on the author's own rule that the habitual acts done by the Prophet (peace be upon him) are considered a source of legislation and a Sunnah as the acts he did as a kind of `Ibadah (worship) as is mentioned in the book (p.17). It is known that mixing the ordinary and innate acts with legislative ones is an absolute mistake and setting incorrect rules and principles as clarified in the books of Usul-ul-Fiqh (principles of Islamic jurisprudence). According to these incorrect rules upon which the author wrote his book, he made many scholarly mistakes and Fiqhi abnormalities. Moreover, he regarded as Sunnah the matters that are deemed by reliable scholars as Bid`ah (innovation in religion) if they are done for the sake of being a Sunnah. One of the subsidiary matters in which the author makes a mistake in regarding them as Sunnah is the act of lying down after Fajr (Dawn) Prayer (p.15), in addition to the Sunnah of keeping silent after Fajr Prayer till the sun rises (p.66). However, it was proven that the Prophet (peace be upon him) talked to his wife, Mother of the Believers, `Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) after Fajr Prayer, as mentioned in Sahih (Authentic Hadith Book) of Al-Bukhari and others. Furthermore, he mentioned that it is a Sunnah to bring both heels together during Sujud (prostration) (p.86), while the Sunnah is separating both heels and the belly from the thighs during Salah (Prayer) without exaggeration. He also deemed as a Sunnah limiting the steps of the Minbar (pulpit) to only three (p.131). Moreover, he mentioned that it is a Sunnah to unfasten the buttons (p.212) and wear a tied up turban (p. 222). In addition, he considered Iftar (breaking the Fast) upon hearing the cannon shot (traditional way of announcing the time to prepare for breaking the Fast) to be a Bid`ah (p.135), as well as other matters he regarded by mistake as Sunnah. By doing so, he disturbed people and caused them confusion. Therefore, the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has decided to prohibit this book from sale and circulation. Furthermore, it advises the author to seek the knowledge of Shari`ah (Islamic law) from the scholars known for their knowledge, virtue, and sound `Aqidah (creed) and understanding. May Allah grant us success.

May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: What is the ruling on obtaining the book titled, "At-Ta`rif bil-Shaykh Sidy `Ubayd Al-Sharif (Biography of Master Shaykh `Ubayd Al-Sharif)", compiled by Al-Hady Bashawat? Is it reliable?

A: Having examined the abovementioned book, we learned that it contains many dangerous ideas including the following:

1- Recommending building a Masjid (mosque) over the grave of the so-called `Ubayd Al-Sharif, frequenting it and seeking blessing from it.

2- Promoting many Bid`ahs (innovations in Islam) and Shirk-related beliefs (Shirk: associating others with Allah in His Divinity or worship), including seeking blessings from graves and shrines and Tawassul (invoking Allah through an intermediary) through the righteous both the dead and alive.

3- Approving Bid`ahs associated with acts of `Ibadah (worship) including Adhkar (invocations and Remembrances said at certain times on a regular basis), invoking blessings on the Prophet (peace be upon him) and visiting places the abovementioned Shaykh used to visit.

4- Quoting unauthentic Hadiths falsely attributed to the Prophet (peace be upon him) in support of his suggestions.

Accordingly, it is impermissible to publish, print, obtain or promote this book as it calls to Shirk, Bid`ahs, superstitions and satanic practices.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Fatwa no. 20784

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Seal of all prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the question submitted to His Eminence the Grand Mufty (Islamic scholar qualified to issue legal opinions), from his Excellency the Director General of the Worldwide Association for introducing Islam Mr. Muhammad Hussayn Dhul-Qarnayn which was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars with the No. 492, dated

22/1/1420 A.H. The question is as follows:

The present Holy Books, which include what is called the Holy Bible and others contain falsehood, aberrance, and lies such as crucifixion and divinity of Jesus, and the Trinity. However, they give glad tidings of our Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Collecting and publishing such information leads to great benefits, such as:

- Calling the Christians to Islam through showing them the inconsistency and the weakness of their beliefs and presenting the merits of Islam on the other hand.
- Resisting the Christian missionary activity. Showing the feebleness and the voidance of Christianity through evidence taken from their books is the strongest and most effective way to repel the attempts of Christianizing the weak and the poor Muslims or the atheists and the pagans.

Undoubtedly, collecting and documenting such information needs analytical, close, and deliberate study of the books which are circulated among the Christians, so that the Du`ah (callers to Islam) can establish documented and strong proofs. However, the Worldwide Association for introducing Islam have referred to some Du`ah who said that it is not Mashru` (Islamically permissible) to study the Injil (Gospel) or quote from it during discussions with the Christians. Likewise, it is not Mashru` to study comparative religion, because this is all Bid`ah (innovation in religion) and the Du`ah should call the People of the Book only through the Qur'an and the Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet).

The Association replied that the Noble Qur'an and the authentic Sunnah contradict the Christian beliefs. The Qur'an calls the People of the Book to Tawhid (belief in the Oneness of Allah/ monotheism), which is a common matter between them and Muslims, but it argues with them over their other beliefs and asks them to provide evidence. Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) says: Say \(O Muhammad SAW\): "O people of the Scripture \(Jews and Christians\): Come to a word that is just between us and you, that we worship none but Allah, and that we associate no partners with Him, and that none of us shall take others as lords besides Allah. Then, if they turn away, say: "Bear witness that we are Muslims.") And: (And they say, "None shall enter Paradise unless he be a Jew or a Christian." These are their own desires. Say (O Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم), "Produce your proof if you are truthful.") And: (All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel made unlawful for himself before the Taurat (Torah) was revealed. Say (O Muhammad SAW): "Bring here the Taurat (Torah) and recite it, if you are truthful.")

It was reported on the authority of Ibn `Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) that he said: (The Jews came to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), and mentioned to him that a man and woman from among them had committed Zina (sexual intercourse outside marriage). The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) asked them: "What do you find in the Tawrah (Torah) about stoning?) (Related by Al-Bukhari and Muslim) The question which the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) directed to them was to force them to admit the evidence which they know from their book and which is in conformity to the Shari`ah (Islamic law) and to demonstrate the truth mentioned in the Book of Allah (i.e. Tawrah), which they concealed, distorted, and altered. Thus, they did not want to apply the Tawrah laws but Allah (Exalted be He) exposed them.

(Manhaj Al-Rasul fi Da`wat Ahlul-Kitab, by Muhammad ibn Sidy ibn Al-Habib Al-Shinqity, first edition, vol. 1, Amin Muhammad Ahmad Salim Library, Al-Madinah Al-Munawwarah).

Besides, many Imams and scholars such as: Imam Ahmad ibn Taymiyyah, Imam Muhammad Al-Ghazaly, and Imam ibn Hazm (may Allah be merciful to them) discussed these different creeds and religions and compared them to Islam. Many books were also written in this regard to disclose the aberrance and falsehood of these religions such as Izhar Al-Haqq by Shaykh Rahmat Allah Kairanawy Al-Hindy. These books proved its importance and benefits, Your Eminence.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 27)

The question is: Is it permissible to study the books of the Christians for the mentioned reasons and for quoting them when necessary? Is it permissible to teach comparative religion at the Da`wah institutions and for the knowledge seekers in the countries of Islamic minorities? Please advise us.

After the Committee had reviewed the question, it replied that it is not permissible for anyone to read the books of the People of the Book that contradict Islam except for the scholars to refute the falsehood of these books. On the other hand, it is not permissible for those who are not qualified to read such books so that they would not influence them. It is also not permissible to teach these books to seekers of knowledge out of comparing it to Islam. Seekers of Knowledge should only study Islamic books as they include refutation of their falsehood and nullification of their claims.

Fatwa no. 16579

Q: Is it permissible to give a translated version of the Noble Qur'an to non-Muslims, especially that during our discussions they ask me to offer them a copy of the Qur'an to read? What are the effective methods that we should follow to call non-Muslims to Islam?

(Part No. 11; Page No. 28)

A: There is nothing wrong with giving a non-Muslim who is expected to convert to Islam the translations of the meanings of the Qur'an, because it is not permissible to give them Mus-hafs (copies of the Qur'an). The translations of the meanings of the Qur'an are considered Tafsir (explanation/exegesis of the meanings of the Qur'an) and not a Mus-haf. When calling non-Muslims to Islam, a person should explain to them its principles and show them its merits. They should be asked to embrace Islam, because Allah (Exalted be He) does not accept any religion other than Islam and this should be done in a kind and gentle manner, and by setting good examples for them, and by explaining the true principles of Islam through the deeds and opinions of Du`ah (callers to Islam).

Da`wah

The second question of Fatwa no. 21768

Q 2: What is the ruling on the claim that Da`wah (calling to Islam) should be in complete secrecy?

A: Da`wah can be in secret or in public, whichever is possible, according to circumstances and capacities, following the example of Allah's Messengers (peace be upon them).

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: Allah (Glorified be He) guides many people all over the world (to Islam) by virtue of calling people to Islam at their homes and having the subjects of Da`wah leave for faithful-oriented environments for 3 days a month, 40 days a year or 4 months in their lifetime. Actually, we systematize Da`wah efforts as such because we believe that regularity and continuity of any work, in all issues of life, can be achieved only through a good system exactly like time and attendance systems. Moreover, His Excellency the Director of Da`wah, Guidance and

(Part No. 11; Page No. 30)

Foreign Communities Enlightenment Bureau in Buraydah, Shaykh `Abul-`Aziz Al-Tuwijry, visited Pakistan and judged doing so not to be a Bid`ah (innovation in religion). Your Eminence Shaykh:

What is the ruling on such a system? May Allah bless you and your time and make you beneficial for Islam and Muslims! Give us a fatwa, may Allah reward you!

A: Da`wah is a noble activity undertaken by prophets and their followers. In this regard, Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Say (O Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم): "This is my way; I invite unto Allâh (i.e. to the Oneness of Allâh - Islâmic Monotheism) with sure knowledge, I and whosoever follows me (also must invite others to Allâh i.e. to the Oneness of Allâh - Islâmic Monotheism with sure knowledge). And Glorified and Exalted be Allâh (above all that they associate as partners with Him). And I am not of the Mushrikûn (polytheists, pagans, idolaters and disbelievers in the Oneness of Allâh; those who worship others along with Allâh or set up rivals or partners to Allâh).﴾ In fact, the system to be adopted for Da`wah should be derived from the Qur'an and the Sirah (the Prophet's biography) rather than from the methodology introduced by Islamic groups and not substantiated by any reference to the Qur'an or Sunnah. The system mentioned in the question has no grounds in the Qur'an or (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet); rather, it is humanly introduced, bearing in mind that everybody can have their word accepted or rejected except the impeccable Prophet (peace be upon him). In fact, any Da`wah group that does not undertake, as a primary concern, the task of setting right people's belief, propagating the Oneness of Allah, forbidding Bid`ahs and acquiring beneficial knowledge derived from the Qur'an and Sunnah from scholars is not rightly-based because in this way it does not follow the methodology of Da`wah adopted by the prophets. Actually, the first thing a prophet would address to his people was: ﴿O my people! Worship Allah! You have no other Ilah (God) but Him.﴾

﴿When the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) sent Mu'adh to Yemen, he instructed him: 'You will be going to a Christian and Jewish Community. Invite them first to testify that La ilaha illa Allah (there is no god but Allah) and that I am (Prophet Muhammad [Peace be upon Him]) the Messenger of Allah. If they accept this, then tell them that Allah has enjoined upon them Five Obligatory Daily Prayers. If they obey, then tell them that Allah has made Zakah (obligatory charity) as Faridah (obligatory act) on them to be collected from their rich and distributed among their poor.﴾ Therefore, the first task Mu`adh was charged with was calling them to the Oneness of Allah giving it no specific term, whether a week, month or year. No doubt, your specifying a term for Da`wah is not substantiated by any evidence. In fact, there is always a continuing need for Da`wah.

Q: Is it permissible to distribute, throughout the country, pamphlets about Islam? They are published in Chinese and include contact numbers for those who want to ask for further interpretation about Islam. Please advise us with the correct method to spread Islam in Taiwan. May Allah reward you with the best!

(Part No. 11; Page No. 32)

A: Calling to Allah (Exalted be He) is one of the precious deeds that brings a Muslim closer to Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He). Allah praises those who practice it when He says: ﴿And who is better in speech than he who [says: "My Lord is Allāh (believes in His Oneness)," and then stands firm (acts upon His Order), and] invites (men) to Allāh's (Islāmic Monotheism), and does righteous deeds, and says: "I am one of the Muslims."﴾ The Da`y (caller to Islam) to Allah, who calls with insight, follows suit of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Concerning His Prophet (peace be upon him), Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Say (O Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم): "This is my way; I invite unto Allāh (i.e. to the Oneness of Allāh - Islāmic Monotheism) with sure knowledge, I and whosoever follows me (also must invite others to Allāh i.e. to the Oneness of Allāh - Islāmic Monotheism with sure knowledge). And Glorified and Exalted be Allāh (above all that they associate as partners with Him). And I am not of the Mushrikūn (polytheists, pagans, idolaters and disbelievers in the Oneness of Allāh; those who worship others along with Allāh or set up rivals or partners to Allāh).﴾

Accordingly, there are many methods to follow in spreading Islam and calling to Allah; such as individual Da`wah (calling to Islam) in which the Da`y follows what suits each invitee, and public Da`wah by delivering speeches and Khutabs (sermons) and the like. There are also other fruitful means like printing and distributing well-prepared and understandable books and pamphlets to those who may be inclined to embrace Islam.

Q: Does the Hadith that reads: "A man will be brought on the Day of Resurrection and thrown into the Hellfire; his intestines will spill forth and he will go around them as a donkey goes around the millstone ..." mean that the person who calls people to a false Manhaj (methodology) and those who follow their orders all will deserve the Hellfire?

A: The Hadith mentioned in the question was stated in the Two Sahih (authentic) Books of Hadith (i.e. Al-Bukhari and Muslim). It is narrated by Al-A`mash from Abu Wa'il that he said: (It was said to Usamah ibn Zayd, "Why do not you visit so and so ('Uthman) and talk to him?' He replied, 'Do you think that I have not talked to him but that I have made you hear? I have talked to him (about things) concerning me and him and I did not like to divulge those things about which I had to take the initiative and I do not say to my ruler: 'You are the best among people' after what I heard from Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him). The people said, 'What did you hear him from him?' He said, 'I heard him say: 'A man will be brought on the Day of Resurrection and thrown into the Hellfire; his intestines will spill forth and he will go around them as a donkey goes around the millstone. The people of the hellfire will gather around him and say: 'O So and so, what is the matter with you? Did you not enjoin the Ma`ruf (that which is judged as good, beneficial, or fitting by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect) and forbid the Munkar (that which is unacceptable or disapproved of by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect)?' He will say: 'Yes, but I used to enjoin the Ma`ruf and not do it, and I used to forbid the Munkar and do it.'") (Narrated by Ghundar from Shu`bah from Al-A`mash. This is the wording of Al-Bukhari.) This Hadith indicates the true reason why this person will deserve the Hellfire and it is not the reason mentioned in the question.

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' viewed the Fatwa that His Eminence, the Grand Mufti, has received from the head of the branch of the Ministry of Islamic Affairs, Ifta', Da`wah and Guidance in `Asir, which was transferred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 2197 in 21 Rabi` Al-Thany, 1419 A.H., and to which was attached a letter from the respected Shaykh Fahd ibn Saqr Al-Mudarra`, the judge in Diwan Al-Mazalim (Grievances Court), `Asir branch, which reads as follows:

An acquaintance told me about a phenomenon that has prevailed in some Masjids (mosques) in Tarib. Some people hang a shroud on the Minbar (pulpit) in front of the praying people all the time. The speaker explained that this was intended for exhorting people and softening their hearts. This phenomenon is very obvious, and I have made sure of it myself as we have seen this in the major Masjid in Tarib. This urged me to write to Your Eminence as the authority responsible for investigating this matter from the perspective of the Shari`ah (Islamic law), together with considering the Bida`hs (innovations in religion) that have no basis in Shari`ah that might take place as a consequence of it.

After examining the Fatwa, the Committee replied that the above mentioned action, namely, hanging a shroud in front of the worshippers, has no basis in the Shari`ah, and constitutes a Bid`ah; and any Bid`ah is considered a Dalalah (deviation from what is right). Exhortation must be done through the Book of Allah (Exalted be He) and the Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet, peace be upon him). Thus, this act must be prevented and the shroud removed.

The fourth question of Fatwa no. 20920

Q4: I have relatives in France and they will come during the summer holiday. What do you advise me concerning the way of teaching them the matters of Din (religion) of Islam, bearing in mind that they do not know how to talk or write in Arabic properly? Should I start by teaching them the Arabic language and then give them Islamic books or should I teach them what is Tawhid (belief in the Oneness of Allah) and its categories? Or, should I teach them about Salah (Prayer), Taharah (ritual purification), Zakah (obligatory charity), and Sawm (Fast)? Their holiday will be no longer than two or one and a half months. Please guide us to the way by which we can teach them the matters of Din. May Allah help us to guide others and make us truly guided.

A: If you cannot teach them about religious matters in their native language and also do not have anyone who can do so, then you may teach them the Arabic language in the spoken and written form till they are able to understand about the matters of Din in Arabic. This is according to the general sense of the Saying of Allah (Exalted be He): \(Allâh burdens not a person beyond his scope.\) Yet, this does not mean that you cannot teach them Taharah practically, to go with them to the Masjid (mosque) to offer Salah in congregation, or to search for Islamic books written in their native language, particularly the books issued by the Islamic Ministry or the Ministry of Education in your country.

The third question of Fatwa no. 21653

Q3: If there is a woman who wants to embrace Islam, is it permissible for a man to dictate the Shahadah (Testimony of Faith) to her or should it be a woman who does so?

A: There is no problem with dictating Shahadah to a woman who wants to become a Muslim if this is performed by a man or a woman. Yet it is preferable if it is a woman who does so, so that the new Muslim woman can learn all that she needs to know about Islam with complete ease.

The second question of Fatwa no. 21653

Q 2: If a person wants to embrace Islam; should they first perform Ghusl (full ritual bath) or say Shahadah (Testimony of Faith)?

A: It is Mashru' (Islamically prescribed) for anyone who wants to embrace Islam to first say Shahadah then perform Ghusl. This is according to many Hadiths. It was narrated by Qays ibn `Asim that when he wanted to embrace Islam, the Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered him to perform Ghusl using water and Sidr (lotus tree/ lotus jujube). (Related by the Five Compilers of Hadith [Imams Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy, Al-Nasa'y, and Ibn Majah] except for Ibn Majah)

Q: Your Eminence Shaykh, what is your advice to the expatriate youth? Please advise us, may Allah guide you! Allah does not waste the reward of any person.

A: The expatriate youth seeking knowledge should fear Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) in all their affairs. They should follow what Allah enjoins and avoid what Allah forbids so that Allah may make all matters easy for them, facilitate their affairs and safeguard them against all evils. They should observe the Five Obligatory Daily Prayers at their appointed times in congregation at the Masjid (mosque) as often as possible. They should befriend righteous, practicing people. They should avoid all places of evil and depravity.

Q: What is the ruling on giving recent Muslim converts some gifts, or some money to reconcile their hearts to Islam though they are wealthy. The money given may be of the Zakah (obligatory charity) money. May Allah reward you with the best, do justice to you and benefit others with your knowledge!

A: If those who have recently converted to Islam are chiefs and notable figures in their communities, they are of Al-Mu'allafati Qulubuhm (those whose hearts are inclined to Islam) whom Allah mentioned (in the Qur'an) among the Zakah recipients, when He (Exalted be He) says: and for bringing hearts together (for Islam) It is permissible to give them from the Zakah to strengthen their faith and encourage others to embrace Islam. Likewise, it is permissible if they are poor to give them from the Zakah due to their poverty. However, the Zakah money should not be used for buying gifts or the like, and those people should be given from the same kind of the collected Zakah. With respect to Sadaqah (voluntary charity), it is not permissible to give it but in the charitable ways that a giver of Sadaqah appoints, so if those people come under a category which the giver of Sadaqah appoints, or are permitted to be given, it is permissible to do this to fulfill the said interest. Otherwise, it is not permissible to give them from the Sadaqah.

Q 2: Some people see Munkar (that which is unacceptable or disapproved of by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect) being done, such as acts of Shirk (associating others with Allah in His Divinity or worship), grave worshipping, witchcraft or other evils, but they say: We are not obliged to resist such evil deeds, because there are certain authorities that are responsible for that; and they also do not report these evil deeds to the concerned authorities. What is the ruling on these people?

A: If someone sees a person doing any kind of Munkar or Bid`ah (innovation in religion), they must advise this person in a way that is gentle, lenient and wise; and call them to Islam in a good way, clarifying Al-Haqq (the Truth) for them so that they might give up this sin and turn to Allah (Glorified be He) with sincere Tawbah (repentance to Allah), and exert all their effort to eliminate such Munkar and do their best to rectify it, according to their ability, abiding by the Hadith in which the Prophet (peace be upon him) is authentically reported to have said: \(Anyone of you who sees something wrong, let them change it with their hand \(by taking action\); if they cannot, then with their tongue \(by speaking out\); and if they cannot, then with their heart \(by hating it and feeling that it is wrong\); and that is the weakest of Iman \(faith\).\) (Related by Imam Muslim, Al-Tirmidhy and others) According to the narration by Muslim on the authority of Ibn Mas`ud: \(Beyond that there is no Iman even to the extent of a mustard seed.\) Also, Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression.\) Then, if the perpetrator of such evil persists in their deviation from what is right and does not give up their sin, but insists on committing the same offense, the concerned authorities must be informed so as to resist such evil and reveal righteousness. The wrongdoers must be curbed and compelled to abide by the right way, so as to suppress the evil of the perpetrators of Bid`ah and corruption and prevent their harm and influence from prevailing among Muslims.

Q 4: I join some gatherings where Allah (Exalted be He) is disobeyed. I advise people while they are committing Munkar (that which is unacceptable or disapproved of by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect), such as smoking, etc.,

until they give it up - all praise be to Allah. Is what I am doing permissible, as I do not resist their evil at the beginning so as not to shun them away?

A: Muslims are permitted to attend places where Munkar occurs with the intention of resisting it and advising those who commit it. But attending such places for other reasons or for participating in the commitment of such sins is not permissible, because Allah (Exalted be He) says: «And it has already been revealed to you in the Book (this Quran) that when you hear the Verses of Allah being denied and mocked at, then sit not with them, until they engage in a talk other than that; (but if you stayed with them) certainly in that case you would be like them. Surely, Allah will collect the hypocrites and disbelievers all together in Hell,» The Prophet (peace be upon him) also said: «Anyone of you who sees something wrong, let them change it with their hand (by taking action); if they cannot, then with their tongue (by speaking out); and if they cannot, then with their heart (by hating it and feeling that it is wrong); and that is the weakest of Iman (faith).» (Related by Muslim in his Sahih [Authentic Hadith Book])

Q 2: I have electrical equipment, sanitary fittings and construction materials. Some workers ask for commission on every client. Is it permissible to give them commission, taking into consideration that this commission will be added to the client's list of sales?

The first question of Fatwa no. 20213

In Kinanah city, we suspected a matter concerning a kind of sale. Some said that it is Haram (prohibited), others said it is Halal (lawful) and others were undecided. We work at Kinanah Sugar Company, which gives every employee a third of a sugar bag. Because some workers are in dire need, they sell their share of the sugar in advance at a lower price than that of the current market under the pretext that the sugar was not present at that time. They receive the sugar at the end of the month and sell it at the beginning of the month. Please take into consideration that the share of sugar is not completely guaranteed at the end of the month for two reasons:

A. The worker may be dismissed from the company; consequently, he will not receive the share of sugar.

B. The company may make mistakes in programming and it may delay the workers' share of sugar for a month or two to be given later on.

I hope you give me your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) in this respect taking into consideration all the details of the sale in advance along with the failure to guarantee the share and the low price, and so on, in addition to the fact that there are twelve thousand workers at the company who are dealing in this way. We can say most of them, if not all.

A: This kind of sale is invalid because it is Majhul sale (sale of the unknown) and you cannot guarantee to take your share of the sugar. However, if you sell a known amount of sugar that is guaranteed for a certain time at the current price, and it is received in the meeting during which a contract is concluded, there is no objection because this is Salam sale (sale with advance payment), which is valid according to Shari'ah (Islamic law).

Fatwa no. 20139

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has examined the letter submitted to His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, by His Eminence, the Director of Da`wah and Guidance Centre in Al-Dammam, `Abdul-Muhsin ibn Muhammad Al-Banyan, which was referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 199 dated on 02/01/1419 A.H. The letter of His Eminence contained the Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) request submitted by Rashid ibn Muhammad Al-Zahrany in which he asks about the Shari`ah (Islamic law) ruling on naming his firm Mu'sasat Al-Sahaby lil-Malabis Al-Jahizah [Al-Sahaby Firm for Ready-to-Wear Clothes]. The Fatwa request reads as follows:

Your Eminence, I have a commercial firm which I called Mu'sasat Al-Sahaby as per Commercial Registration Certificate, a copy of which is attached hereto. However, I was shocked by a man of the Committee for the Propagation of Virtue and the Prevention of Vice (CPVPV) who prevented the car from being sold in the city of Hafr Al-Batin. He objected to the firm's name and demanded that I change it on the pretext that it is prohibited to use the word Al-Sahaby (Companion) as a name of the firm. I tried to persuade him that the name is permissible and asked him to give me evidence that supports the prohibition; however, he insisted and even threatened that if he saw the car once again, both the car and driver would be arrested. When I contacted the CPVPV in the Eastern Province, they asked for a Fatwa with regard to the firm's name. So I submit my Fatwa request to Your Eminence, asking whether the firm's name is permissible or not. Kindly bear in mind that Al-Sahaby is my family name and that of my father, Muhammad Ma`id Al-Zahrany, who is known as Muhammad Al-Sahaby among his close relatives. He was named so after a shaykh who was a judge in the city of Ta'if nearly 65 years ago. I wish that Your Eminence could give me an authorized Fatwa to present it on demand. May Allah reward you with the best and safeguard you!

Having examined the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that there is nothing wrong with naming the abovementioned firm as Mu'ssasat Al-Sahaby.

Q: Your Eminence, as you know, prepaid calling cards (Zajoul Cards) have spread throughout retail stores, that buy them from the Saudi Telecom Company at a cost of, for example, 50 Riyals and then resell them for 53 Riyals, though the purchaser receives only 50 Riyals of call credit. What is the ruling on the three extra Riyals that the shopkeeper gains? Also, what is the ruling on the company giving a discount of one or two Riyals per card for those who buy a large quantity of phone booth cards? Do you see any wrongdoing in this act?

A: There is nothing wrong with buying or selling these kinds of phone cards because they are a lawful utility.

Fatwa no. 20466

Q: Your Eminence, what is the Shari`ah (Islamic law) ruling on someone who holds a public auction for their commodities and bids up against others to raise the price? We would also like to know the ruling on a person who increases the price of their commodity in an auction not to sell it in the auction but to raise its value when purchasers ask for it afterwards. Is this permissible and what is the Shari`ah ruling on those who do this? Please advise us, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: It is Haram (prohibited) for anyone who offers their commodity for sale in a public auction to set a price for it, even at or under its market value, or to charge a high price for it through bidding up against customers to increase its price, whether this person really wants to sell it in the auction or increases its price for future sale. It is also Haram for the seller to falsely claim that they have been offered a certain price for this commodity, because this is a form of Najash (an illegal transaction in which the buyer is ensnared by artificial outbidding of a fake buyer), which is Haram in the Shari`ah. This also involves lying, cheating, deceit, wronging, and devouring people's property unjustly. The Shari`ah forbids the Gharar sale (fraudulent transaction where details about the sold item are unknown or uncertain). Ibn Al-Qayyim said: "Al-Gharar refers to ignoring an item's characteristics and the consequences of this." Najash is absolutely Haram whether made by the commodity owner or by someone else who attends the auction with the purpose of raising the price without wanting to buy it; they seek to raise its price to harm the purchaser or benefit the seller or vice versa. Najash committed by the commodity owner is more unjust than Najash committed by anyone else.

Q 2: Some clients may like to buy or rent a certain building which is accordingly reserved for them unconditionally against a down payment. However, it may happen that the client retracts the buying or rent and then demands his money (the down payment) back. Is it impermissible according to Shari`ah (Islamic law) to refuse to pay back the down payment because reserving the building leaves it unexploited even for a short period of time no matter how high or low the down payment may be? Please, bear in mind that applicable regulations and customs approve of forfeiting the down payment in such a case so that rights of others may not be played with.

A: It is permissible for the seller to take the down payment and not to pay it back to the buyer in the case of voluntary cancellation of the agreement by the buyer, according to the more correct of the two scholarly opinions. Actually, this view is authentically reported to be maintained by some Sahabah (Companions of the Prophet), including `Umar (may Allah be pleased with him). Accordingly, if both parties agree or it is customarily established that the earnest shall be forfeited, it will be binding. This is because it is an established rule according to the Shari`ah that customarily agreed upon stipulations regarding transactions are enforceable so long as they do not conflict with a Shar`y (Islamic legal) text.

Q: We have a department for selling cars on installment. Actually, people are not equal regarding paying installments as some of them might become overdue. Please, bear in mind that following up the process of collecting late payments costs us additional charges concerning fees of collectors and supervisors and the like. Is it permissible according to the Shari`ah (Islamic law) to charge defaulters an additional limited percentage in order to cover additional charges and to encourage them to be punctual through being on their guard against incurring additional charges in cases of default?

A: It is impermissible to add extra charges to the debt if the debtor fails to pay installments when payable. Actually, this is the Riba (usury/interest) of Jahiliyyah (pre-Islamic time of ignorance) prohibited by Allah, His Prophet (peace be upon him) and Ijma` (consensus of scholars). Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿but if you repent, you shall have your capital sums. Deal not unjustly (by asking more than your capital sums), and you shall not be dealt with unjustly (by receiving less than your capital sums).﴾ ﴿And if the debtor is in a hard time (has no money), then grant him time till it is easy for him to repay, but if you remit it by way of charity, that is better for you if you did but know.﴾

A: It is impermissible for whoever sells a commodity for a price that is delayed for a fixed time to purchase it for a price that is less than that of its sale because this is called 'Inah sale (sale with immediate cash repurchase for profit), which is impermissible and a form of Riba (usury/interest).

Q: I hope you give me your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) concerning a gas station I sold for four hundred thousand Riyals out of which I received only sixty thousand Riyals in cash. Two hundred and twenty thousand Riyals were paid in kind as follows: a YM82 Jeep Salon for forty thousand Riyals, forty sheep for forty thousand Riyals and a YM 83 traditional Mercedes for a hundred and forty thousand Riyals. However, the remaining amount of one hundred and twenty thousand Riyals was divided into two equal installments over two years. The person who bought the gas station used it for two years. After the end of this period, I asked for the balance, but he refused to give it to me. He rather asked me to purchase the station though I offered to give him more time to collect the required money. I purchased the station at the price of two hundred and seventy thousand Riyals that consisted of the balance of a hundred and twenty thousand Riyals and fifty thousand Riyals I paid.

I ask for your Fatwa in this regard to discharge me of any obligation. Is this sale considered valid or a kind of Riba (usury/interest)?

A: According to Shari`ah (Islamic law), it is permissible for you to purchase the gas station, which you sold after the purchaser used it for two years in addition to his failure to pay the remaining value. In addition, it cannot be considered as a kind of `Inah sale (sale with immediate cash repurchase for profit) which is prohibited according to Shari`ah, if the use of the man who purchased the mentioned station changed its attributes, and the money he obtained is the returns of his property at the time it was in his possession.

Q: We are Muslims living in New Zealand. We own grocery stores where we sell fresh, canned, and frozen pork. We have to do this because people do not shop in our stores if we do not sell pork. We sell it at cost price without making any profit. Are we permitted to do this?

A: It is not permissible to sell pork or profit from it, for Allah (Exalted by He) prohibited it. Allah (Exalted by He) says: ﴿Forbidden to you \(for food\) are: Al-Maitah \(the dead animals - cattle - beast not slaughtered\), blood, the flesh of swine﴾ In another Ayah (Qur'anic verse), Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿for that surely is impure﴾

Q: I work in the Saudi Consulate in Karachi. We are given exemption from custom duties on vehicles and electrical appliances in accordance with the law. So we buy and resell these items at a profit. My question, may Allah reward you, is:

Is it permissible, in the Shari`ah (Islamic law), to do the following: I make an agreement with a Pakistani to buy a car in my name because I cannot afford to buy it at the present time and I need it urgently; I then submit the car papers to the Pakistani Foreign Ministry to get the exemption, and sell the exemption certificate to the Pakistani; after a period of time, I transfer the car ownership to the Pakistani. Kindly bear in mind that all this takes place with our mutual consent.

Please give me your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) in this regard. May Allah reward you with the best.

Fatwa no. 21790

Q: Honored scholars, I am sure that you are well aware of the intensive intellectual invasion encountered by the Muslim and Arab Ummah (nation based on one creed) that aims to westernization and shaking Islamic foundations and principles. It also aims to transfer cultural practices, superstitions and myths of the advanced world with all its mores and ideas to the people of this region and squeeze their resources through such vanities and trivialities.

Muslim children are the main target of an unmanageable torrent from such invading cultures through animated movies shown on satellite channels. The role played by such channels is integrated and given more effectiveness by businesses which in cooperation with foreign companies deepen the practical effect of the relationship between children and animated characters by attractively flooding the markets with below-cost child-related goods, such as toys, tools, briefcases, stickers, pictures, animated character logos and so on.

Under children insistence, parents rush to buy such goods heedless of the negative effect of such logos and pictures on children's character, culture and concerns.

Nowadays, an animated movie dubbed into Arabic (Pokémon), telling the story of strange creatures doing extraordinary things and developing from one form to another, has become a noticeable and dangerous obsession. It has been merchandized into Pokémon products, including balls, trading cards, candy, stickers, school briefcases and tools all of which bear pictures and logos of Pokémon characters and its forms.

What is the ruling on buying, selling and exchanging Pokémon products and goods? How do our reverend Shaykhs advise us regarding such products? What is the ruling on watching such movies? May Allah reward you with the best for benefiting us, Islam and the Muslims! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions!

A: It is impermissible to buy or sell goods and products of the abovementioned movie because this involves consuming people's money unjustly and cooperation in sin and transgression. It also involves bringing up children to be heedless and idle and promotion of unlawful pictures in addition to other prohibited things. Therefore, people should be warned not to do so or cooperate with those who do so.

Fatwa no. 20657

Q: Many SONY computer devices for children are currently widespread. They contain many games in the form of animated cartoons of cars, persons, animals and so on. Some of these tapes, or CDs, contain immoral pictures of men and women that resemble the real pictures. These pictures are most frequently at the beginning of the tape to present the story of the content of the tape or competition. Moreover, the show is interesting and short in duration, during which the child becomes interested in continuing the game and joining the competition on the spot. I viewed one of these tapes titled 'Resident Evil'. At the beginning of its presentation, there is an almost naked woman, wearing very tight clothes that reach halfway up her thighs. Moreover, her body is clearly shaped and her breasts were very noticeable.

I found her riding a two-wheeled tank and when she reached a place, she stepped down and entered a bar where wine is served and many whores exist. However, this place was empty, and the woman walked around it. Suddenly, she found a man who was drinking wine and tried to catch her upon seeing her - of course to commit Zina (sexual intercourse outside marriage) - but she ran away. In this way, the people who produce this tape attempt to give the false impression that even if a woman is dissolute and immoral, she can be virtuous and chaste. Then, I found other drunken men from whom the woman was trying to escape. At this point, the show came to an end to give the child a chance to continue the mission in a state of extreme excitement wondering about what would happen next after she was caught. When the child starts the competition, he moves the woman and the drunken men after her. If one of these men catches the woman, he embraces and kisses her, while the child watches them and continues the game. If the drunken men were able to catch her and beat the competitor, one of them jumps over her, kisses her and has sex with her. However, the picture is not displayed completely. In addition, the other drunken men swoop down on the prey. During this time, the boy or the girl watches the scene, and they may watch it with each other. Moreover, they may try to imitate what they watch. Then, the snapshot stops. In this way, the children get used to watching such scenes. Moreover, there are wrestling tapes, which display naked men with the exception of Al-`Awrah Al-Mughhallazhah (the strictest definition of the private parts of the body that must be covered in public). Moreover, there are tapes that display women while taking a shower, but hiding behind an insulator that may reveal some of their charms and so on. The questions are:

1- What is the ruling on purchasing or selling this kind of device, taking into consideration that it amuses the children and prevents them from going out and watching dissolute films. In addition, please note that there are tapes that do not contain dissolute pictures and snapshots such as car races and so on. What is the ruling on selling or purchasing such devices and their tapes?

2- What is the ruling on children and adults watching them for long hours?

3- What is the ruling on the music played in them?

4- If they are Haram (prohibited), what is a suitable substitute for the children?

5- What is your advice for the owners of stores that import and sell these devices?

A: It is impermissible to sell or to purchase films containing pictures of creatures that have souls, as there is a lot of Shar`y (Islamic legal) texts that prohibits making, selling and supporting pictures. They become more prohibited if they lead to spreading Zina and sins, arousing interest in them by revealing the `Awrah (private parts of the body that must be covered in public), kissing, Tabarruj (woman's public display of her charms or adornment) and unveiling the face, mixing between the two sexes, or sodomy. This is so whether these films are directed to children or adults. The one who spreads them betrays Allah (Exalted be He), His Messenger (peace be upon him) and Al-Mu'minin (believers). He is included in what Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Verily, those who like that (the crime of) illegal sexual intercourse should be propagated among those who believe, they will have a painful torment in this world and in the Hereafter.﴾ May Allah save us from the causes for His Wrath and Punishment.

Q: My brothers and I trade in TVs, internal and external antennas and condensers, but we have never traded in receivers. We have a small amount of wealth, taking into consideration that I (a professor of physics) pay them the monthly rent fees. Then, I became acquainted with your legal opinion concerning TVs. My question now is: What is the ruling of the Wise Law-Giver (Allah) on my money that I earned before being acquainted with your legal opinion? What is the ruling of the Wise Law-Giver on the money that is still in the form of TVs and antennas?

A: You must stop trading in prohibited commodities or any form of them. Also, you should stop helping in sin and Batil (false). The one who leaves something for the sake of the Pleasure of Allah, will be compensated by Him with more than what he had. We hope that there is nothing wrong with the money you earned from your previous trade, as you did not know and as Allah (Glorified be He) says: [\(whereas Allâh has permitted trading and forbidden Ribâ \(usury\). Q: Flower stores are wide spread in some hospitals, and we see some of the visitors bring flower bouquets to the patients. What is the ruling on this?

A: Throughout the centuries, Muslims have not been accustomed to giving natural or artificial flowers as a gift to patients in hospitals or in any other place. This habit came from the disbelieving countries, conveyed by the weak believers, who have been affected by them. In fact, flowers do not benefit the patient, and bringing them as a gift is merely an imitation of the Kafirs (disbelievers). Also, this habit includes squandering money in matters that do not deserve it. As it is feared that this habit will lead to the belief that flowers are regarded as one of the reasons for recovery, it is not permissible to use the flowers in the mentioned way, either by selling, purchasing, or giving.

The acts that are permissible in visiting patients are: supplicating to Allah (Exalted be He) for their recovery, consoling their souls with hope, and advising them with what they need during their illness, as mentioned in the Sunnah (what is reported from the Prophet).

Q1: I work at a used car markets. The owner of the dealership where I work tells his employees that if one of us finds a car in a good condition, we should buy it as if it is for us, pay the down payment and get the rest of the money from him to give to the seller. The owner gives 500 Saudi Riyals if he makes a profit, but may not give them anything. Please take into account that the dealership owner does not commission us to buy the car on his behalf, and if the owner of the car learns of this, he will not agree to sell it to the dealership. I feel that I lied to the car owner by telling him that the car was for me when in fact, I bought it for the dealership. The owners of the dealership may sometimes say that we do not know whether a car is in good condition or not, so as not to give us a commission. One of the good youths told me that such transactions are Riba (usury) and this is what made me write you to you. I would like you to inform me and others who also work at dealerships in used car markets and to advise the owners of these dealerships. Please take into account that there are many good Muslims who observe Prayers working there.

A1: It is not permissible for you to buy a car in your name for the owner of the dealership, as this involves lying and deception. If you do buy it in your name, it becomes your property which you may sell to the dealership in question or to any other.

Q2: My father owns a farm on which he grows Qat (Khat: leaves and buds that are habituating stimulants when chewed or used as a tea), alternating the rows between Qat and corn. He orders me to water the corn and the rest of the farm, but I refuse because the Qat is planted along with the corn and because I cannot water the corn without the water reaching the Qat. My father sometimes not only orders me to pick the Qat to sell at the market, but also sometimes orders me to sell it myself. Sometimes I obey him and at other times, when I try to explain that the plant is prohibited, he becomes angry. I love my father and wish only what is good for him and pray that he enters Jannah (Paradise). Please take into account that my father observes Prayers regularly. But the problem of Qat in Yemen is a public concern.

My question is: Is my work permissible? If not, please direct me and advise my father so that he may be persuaded if he sees and reads my name as the inquirer, especially if the Fatwa is from the the Permanent Committee and he sees and reads the signature of the Grand Mufty.

I kindly request from the eminent scholars that they advice my father, the people in my village and especially the people of Yemen, in general. I also hope that you supplicate to Allah to guide my father to the Right Path. May Allah reward you with the best on behalf of all Muslims!

A2: It is impermissible for you to obey your father in watering the Qat because it is prohibited, as it is also prohibited to sell and receive money for it. It is impermissible to obey anyone in disobeying

Fatwa no. (21669)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the letter no. (4869) dated 5/8/1421 A.H. that His Eminence, the Grand Mufty, received from an inquirer who is the owner of car agency. The letter was sent by the General Manager of the Ministry of Islamic Affairs, Tabuk branch, to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars. The inquirer's question includes the following:

I own an auto dealership at Tabuk. In this letter, I intend to clarify the facts regarding buying and selling new cars such as HiLux cars and pick up trucks. The buyer comes to our dealership and purchases a car for an agreed price based on a certain method of payment; whether it is monthly installments or during a specific period. However, before the sale we stipulate that he is not to resell it to any other dealership and he agrees. Upon the sale, we specify a price and not more. For instance, in other dealerships or the auto market, the HiLux is sold for 38,000 Saudi riyals when in our dealership we pay 36,000 SR for it. If anger erupts over the low price, we say, "If you do not like the price or do not want to conclude the transaction, we can tear up the papers." And he would then, due to his need for money, agree to sell for the price we offer him. In the case where the buyer says that he will transfer the ownership of the car to his name, the dealership refuses while in some instances the price is doubled; if it is concluded at the time of purchase and sale at the dealership it costs 500 SR, and if the title is in his name it costs 1000 SR. This is what happens daily at auto dealerships. Dealership owners monopolize the sale of new cars; they prevent the purchasers from reselling them to other dealerships and do not transfer their ownership to the purchasers. If the purchaser refuses this manner of sale, they refuse to buy the car from him and he is forced to comply due to his financial need which forces him to resort to buy on credit and sell for cash at the price stipulated by the dealership. This is the case I present to you fearing Allah, and to absolve myself from any sin on the day I will stand before Him.

May Allah grant you long life and increase your knowledge with what benefits the people!

We request a clarification of what is permissible and what is prohibited in what we do as mentioned above.

After the Committee examined the inquiry, its reply included that the conditions mentioned in the question are Batil (null and void) because once the sale is concluded, the buyer is free to dispose of the car, complete the necessary documents and sell it to whomever he wishes. He must remove it from the dealership from where he bought it since he will not receive its worth except in this manner.

The seller is entitled to put the car up as collateral for its price and prevent the purchaser from selling it until he pays its full price.

Q: Two persons are equal partners in a commercial store. One of them decided that he wanted to withdraw from the partnership by waiving proprietorship of the store to his partner after liquidating all the merchandise in the store and appraising all its valuables. The two parties agreed that the person getting the store will pay half of its value. Since he is not in possession of the money at present, they agreed that he pay it in monthly installments. They will split any proceeds generated during this period in half.

Does this agreement conform to the venerable Shari`ah (Islamic law)? Please benefit us in this regard!

A: The scenario mentioned in the question is impermissible and the contract is Batil (null and void) because it involves a double sale. This is because the partner withdrawing from the partnership stipulated that he will share in the profit of the share he sold and to which he is no longer entitled. Moreover, this contract involves Gharar sale (fraudulent transaction where the details about the sold item are unknown or uncertain) and Jahalah sale (sale with lack of knowledge) due to the condition laid down by the withdrawing party of sharing the profits but not the losses. If there are any disputes between them, they can resort to the courts.

Fatwa no. (21407)

Q: We present to Your Eminence our question, hoping that you examine it well along with the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' and issue a prompt Fatwa on the following two matters:

- 1- In the Governorate of Al-Dawasir Valley we are currently in the water melon season.
- 2- A large number of farmers ask about this important matter, especially those who follow the Right Path, seek to follow the right conduct and wish to absolve themselves of any blame for anything that is prohibited by Allah.

The owners of the water melon farms use the following:

- 1- Illegal hormones to increase production and fruit size and enhance their variety. The use of these hormones is harmful to humans and the Ministry of Agriculture and Water forbids their use.
- 2- They use pesticides and fungal pesticides that are not permissible during periods ranging from one to three weeks before harvesting. Although the farmers are obliged to refrain from using them during these periods, some continue to do so and harvest the fruit on the same day or the next.

What is the ruling on using the above mentioned hormones and pesticides?

And what is the ruling on the money generated from the sale of these fruits as mentioned?

We hope that you will advise the farmers on this and other similar matters.

A: This practice is unlawful because it involves deceiving Muslims. It has been established that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: "He who deceives us is not of us (is not my follower)." Such conduct harms Muslims and whoever harms a Muslim Allah will harm him. Therefore, they are sinners and have committed a prohibited act and must be punished for their deception. It is not lawful for anyone who knows the method of the cultivation of these fruits to merchandise or sell them, as this involves helping one another in sin and transgression. Allah (Exalted be He) says: "Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ (virtue, righteousness and piety); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. Verily, Allâh is Severe in punishment.)"

These farmers and others like them from among Muslims must fear Allah and help one another in virtue, righteousness and piety and keep away from that which leads to sin and transgression. They must seek lawful profit and income and refrain from what is prohibited, or else they will be blinded by the temptations of this world such as accruing wealth from any unlawful means. Small sums of lawful profit are better than large sums of prohibited profit. Muslims must inform the authorities of any person involved in this so that they may be punished since this is from among the Munkar (that which is unacceptable or disapproved of by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect) and therefore must be repudiated. Moreover, Muslims must urge one another to what is right, enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil, and advise others.

Fatwa no. 21661

Q: I own a number of retail stores and supermarkets in Makkah, Jeddah, and Madinah where I sell food and other consumables.

From time to time, certain distributors of foodstuff and other consumables offer me fake commodities that are close to the originals in terms of outward appearance and trademark and which the consumers cannot distinguish from the original.

Some brothers, may Allah reward them with the best, advised me not to do sell these products because it is cheating the consumer. Furthermore, it harms the traders and shopkeepers who trade in the original commodities.

Your Eminence Shaykh, is it permissible to sell and trade in these fake commodities? Does distributing these fake commodities to the retail stores that sell and trade in them contradict the Shari`ah (Islamic law) of Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He)?

Please advise us, may Allah safeguard you.

A: It is not permissible to sell the fake commodities claiming that they are original. Also, it is not permissible to trade in or distribute them to retail stores because this involves cheating and lying to Muslims. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was reported to have prohibited cheating in his saying: \(Whoever cheats us is not one of us.\) It also involves collusion in sin and aggression and devouring people's money unjustly. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(but do not help one another in sin and transgression.\) And: \(And eat up not one another's property unjustly \(in any illegal way e.g. stealing, robbing, deceiving, etc.\)\) Moreover, this involves harming those who sell the original commodities and competing with them without the right to do so. Therefore, it is Haram (prohibited) to sell these forged commodities without informing the buyer of this fact; to do so would remove the blessing inherent in the transaction. The Prophet (peace be upon him) was reported to have said: \(Both the buyer and the seller have the option \(of canceling the contract\) as long as they have not separated; then if they both speak the truth and make everything manifest, their transaction shall be blessed; and if they conceal and tell lies, the blessing of their transaction shall be obliterated.\) (Related by Al-Bukhari in his Sahih on the authority of Hakim ibn Hizam (may Allah be pleased with him) who said that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(A Muslim is a brother of his Muslim brother and it is unlawful for a Muslim \(the seller\) if there is a defect in the goods sold, not to point out or show it to his \(Muslim\) brother \(the purchaser\).\) (Related by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Majah on the authority of `Uqabah ibn `Amir [may Allah be pleased with him]). Al-Bukhari related the same (with slight variation) in a Hadith Mawquf (words or deeds narrated from a Companion of the Prophet that are not attributed to the Prophet).

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions.

Q: I bought a piece of land and wanted to buy an adjacent plot to expand the area. Since I was unable to pay cash, I asked a company to buy it for me and then sell it to me in installments. The company did in fact buy it after we settled on the sale price to be paid in installments and the maturity period. Now, after the company came into possession of the plot of land, I wish to ask Your Eminence about the ruling on buying this plot of land in installments and whether this transaction involves Riba (usury) or anything Haram (unlawful)?

A: If the company purchased the above mentioned plot of land and acquired full possession of it, it is permissible for you to buy it from them and this does not involve any prohibition. However, it is impermissible for this company to sell the plot of land before it purchases and acquires possession of it, in compliance with the command of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: \(Do not sell what you do not have.\) Therefore, it is impermissible for you to enter into a contract with the company before it completely owns the plot of land and has it under possession.

Q: A merchant deals with a governmental company; this company requests that he buys materials it needs as well as others in the following manner:

The company gives this merchant a list of what it needs who sets certain prices either due to his prior knowledge of the prices or because he asks about market prices and adds his profit. He then returns the list to the company with the final quotes, i.e. the price of the merchandise in addition to his profit. The company signs and approves the papers after presenting them to the financial surveillance office for approval. The company returns the list to the merchant who then buys the items it needs and submits the bills of sale along with the merchandise to the company. The company then transfers the money to his bank account. The company does not deal in any other way.

The question is: What is the ruling on this transaction? What is the ruling on the profits that the merchant receives from these transactions? Please take into account that he is ignorant of the ruling. Is there anything that the merchant must do?

A: It is impermissible for the merchant to sell what he does not have or own because the Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade this. Hakim Ibn Hizam, may Allah be pleased with him, said: I approached the Prophet \(peace be upon him\) and said: "People sometimes come up to me and ask to buy what I do not have. I go and buy what he needs from the market and sell it to him." The Prophet \(peace be upon him\) replied, "Do not sell what you do not own." Related by Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy and Al-Nasa'y.

As for the profits made by the merchant from these transactions while he was ignorant of the ruling, there is nothing upon him.

The fourth question of Fatwa no. (21095)

Q4: Some people enter into agreements with companies to buy land and then proceed to sell it once again. Please take into account that the sale is not finalized except after the company receives a down payment. What is the ruling on this?

A4: It is impermissible to sell a plot of land or any other object except if it is in one's possession at the time of the sale. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(Do not sell what you do not possess.\)

The down payment is evidence to the finalization of the sale, and therefore it is impermissible in this case.

Fatwa no. (21295)

Q: I am a merchant and sell cars on monthly installments. This matter has begun to trouble me due to the Fatwas I hear and read about it.

First: The manner I follow when buying a car that I intend to sell on monthly installments is as follows: I first examine the car before buying it and then pay its price which is approximately 35, 000 and receive a bill of sale listing its make and model while it is still at the dealership. There is nothing to prove my ownership except for this document. I buy the cars for the profit I make from the installments.

Second: The method of selling the cars: The person wishing to buy a car negotiates with me after which we reach an agreement on the price which is approximately 50, 000 Saudi riyals. The monthly installment is approximately 1, 500 SR for a specified number of months and total price. Please take into account that I sell some of the cars after receiving a down payment while I sell others without any down payment, according to the agreement between me and the buyer. Moreover, I am aware that the buyer is not in need of the car itself, but of its price since he will sell it to another buyer for cash, but for a lesser price than its price in installments due to his financial need. I am not involved in this second transaction.

I request that Your Eminence clarify whether or not this transaction is correct. If not, what is the ruling on the above manner of buying and selling?

Please tell me the ruling, may Allah have mercy upon you!

A: If you buy a car or any other object, it is impermissible for to sell it until you receive its price in full and remove it from the seller's place to yours. This is because the Prophet (peace be upon him)

forbade selling items on the spot before taking them to their places. As for the fact that the buyer purchases the car from you when he is not in need of it but wants to sell it due to his financial need, this has nothing to do with you and there is nothing upon you provided you do not buy it from him. This transaction is called Tawarruq sale (selling by installments, then the purchaser sells the product to a third party for cash) and it is permissible according to the Jumhur (dominant majority of scholars).

Q: I bought a car nine months ago for 53,000 riyals on an installment plan of 1,073 riyals per month. However, I wanted to buy a better car from the same company that sold me the first one. The company's officials told me that they, in such a case, would rescind the first contract and take back the older car considering the nine installments I have so far paid as the car rent. As for the new car, a new contract will be signed and a fresh installment plan will begin. Is the permissibility of doing so subject to any doubt? May Allah reward you with the best for benefiting Muslims!

A: The case as mentioned in the question is an example of Iqalah, which means rescission of the contract voluntarily by the contracting parties, the seller taking back the car and the buyer taking back the price.

However, it is invalid to change the sale contract into a rental contract after paying a number of installments.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 81)

The correct procedure is to price the car and sell it either to the seller, who has already received a portion of its price, or anyone else and then buy the new car you like.

Riba and Exchange

The first question of Fatwa no. (20756)

Q 1: A man bought a car for 30,000 riyals and paid 25,000 up front leaving a balance of 5,000 riyals due after a month. He then sold the car for 35,000 on credit to be paid after one year. Unable to pay the deferred payment when due, i.e. after one month, he asked another man to pay the 5,000 riyals on his behalf in return for one-sixth of the profit gained by selling the car. Is it permissible to do so? Please, bear in mind that the latter expected a guaranteed profit and sold his share of the car without having bought it. What is the ruling on such a transaction?

A: The transaction as described in the question is a Riba (usury/interest)-bearing transaction and is thus unlawful. In fact, it is clear that the man who is to pay the deferred payment on your behalf expects to be repaid more than what he paid as he knows how much one-sixth of the profit equals. Moreover, your profitability in selling the car you bought on credit is valid. Nevertheless, it is impermissible to pay back the man who lent you 5,000 riyals a larger amount of money and it is also impermissible for the lender to accept this profit. Rather, he should refrain from earning money through a usurious transaction knowing that if he gives up something (unlawful) for the Sake of Allah, He will replace it with something (even) better.

Q: I submit to Your Eminence a request for a Fatwa on letters of credit as a standard banking practice. A letter of credit is a contract between a Saudi bank and a Saudi business (importer). The Saudi bank notifies a foreign bank that payment is available and they can ship the merchandise the Saudi business has ordered from a foreign business (exporter) with the full assurance of receiving payment. The Saudi bank, by doing so, approves a standard loan underwriting process with a deposit of 25%, 50% or 100% of the face value of the letter of credit, in return for receiving typically between 0.25% and 1% of the face value of the letter of credit plus fees such as mailing costs. Later on, the Saudi business is to repay on an agreed upon defined date as an interest-free loan. If the Saudi business defaults, the Saudi bank will have to pay to the foreign bank the due payment. Please, bear in mind that the letter of credit guarantees the rights of both parties (such as date of delivery and meeting qualifications... etc). Moreover, some foreign businesses (exporters) stipulate opening a letter of credit in their interest or that the full amount be remitted, which does not safeguard the rights of the Saudi business in case the full amount or part thereof is remitted to the exporter.

The question is: Is it permissible for me to open a letter of credit bearing in mind that I am to pay on the set date and thus do not incur any interest? Give me Fatwa, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: The letter of credit stands for loan underwriting. In fact, the basic ruling on loan underwriting is that it is permissible, unless accompanied by something unlawful according to Shari`ah (Islamic law). As a matter of fact, a letter of credit is usually accompanied by an infringement to Shari`ah, such as usurious transactions, receiving a commission in return for underwriting, implication of an invalid contract such as an insurance contract and selling something that is not owned and the like. Accordingly, it is impermissible to deal in transactions based on a letter of credit unless it entails no infringement of the Purified Shar` (Law).

Fatwa no. (21788)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed: The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the letter reached the Grand Mufty from His Eminence the General Director of Awareness and Guidance at the General Presidency of the Commission on the Promotion of Virtue and Prevention of Vice, that is assigned and transferred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, numbered

2997, dated 15/6/1421 A.H., asking His Eminence the following question:

You can find attached to this letter some enclosures for advertisement and propaganda concerning personal loans issued from some banks in The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Many Muslims are involved in such loans. Thus, I hope that you submit these enclosures to the Grand Mufty to know the legal ruling on such transactions, taking into consideration that many banks seek promptly to bring them before the people by distributing them in their sites at times and by correspondences at other times.

After the Committee examined the Fatwa request, it replied that taking out bank loans is prohibited, because it is Riba (usury/interest). If this is the case, then circulating and promoting them are also prohibited, as they help in sin and transgression. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. Verily, Allâh is Severe in punishment.\)

Q: We inform you that we deal with banks abroad using Riba (usury/interest) in their transactions. The method of transaction is that they pay interest to you after depositing a sum of money; and at the time of withdrawal, it deducts from 1% to 1.5% of the deposited sum. Is the amount deducted at the time of withdrawing the sum interest?

A: What is mentioned is prohibited Riba according to the Book (the Qur`an), the Sunnah (action following the example of the Prophet) and the Ijma` (consensus of scholars); either the bank or the owner of the account is the donor of the extra money. Thus, you should leave transactions that are executed in this usurious way.

Q: There are many investment funds in the local bank, saying that they apply the Islamic Shai`ah (Islamic law) throughout Murabahah trade (trade with an agreed profit margin), as they purchase and trade in non-prohibited commodities such as minerals, vegetable oils, and cars. Many companies and international foundations trading in non-prohibited commodities, as mentioned before, contribute to the capital of the fund.

What is the ruling on participating in these funds, taking into consideration that they take 10 % of the profits in return for their fees, even though they do not guarantee the profit?

A: Invest your money legally in methods other than banks, because the transactions of the banks are based on Riba (usury/interest). Thus, they are not truthful in saying that they invest their money legally, because what counts is what they do in most of their transactions. Thus, you should not trust them. Moreover, dealing with usurious banks implies encouraging and helping them to continue in their prohibited transactions. This is included in the prevention mentioned in what Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allāh. Verily, Allāh is Severe in punishment.\)

Fatwa no. 21194

Q: I hope you provide us with a Fatwa concerning the system called "Bentagono", and which is created by an Italian company. This system is spreading rapidly due to the easiness of the Internet and email. I hope you will inform us whether this system is Halal (lawful) or Haram (prohibited), as there are many people who earned thousands of dollars from it, and do not want to dispose of it or even know the legal opinion regarding it.

There is a simplified explanation of the "Bentagono System": There are certificates for some persons, each of which has 7 names for different persons from a country or various countries. They are arranged from the first to the seventh; the one who attains the seventh rank owns the certificate. The name and address of the person who attains the first name are mentioned. If a person - such as me- wants to participate, he should perform three steps as follows:

- 1- I should buy this certificate from anyone who attains, of course, the seventh rank in return for 40 USD.
- 2- I should transfer 40 USD as a bank transfer to the person, who attains the first rank in this certificate.
- 3- I should transfer 40 USD as a bank transfer to the Italian company, supervising this system along with a copy of the bank transfer to the person attaining the first rank in the certificate, as well as a copy of the certificate I bought from the company in Italy.

Thus, it means that I spent 120 USD. Upon completing the previous three steps, the company sends three new certificates, in which my name attains the seventh rank. Also, the one from whom I bought the certificate attains the sixth rank, while each of the other names moves to a higher rank. The person at the top earns the 40 USD I sent to him and comes out of this plan.

Then, I sell these three certificates to three persons in return for 40 USD for each one, i.e., I earn 120 USD, which I spent previously. Thus, I have not lost anything. Each one of these three persons does what I did. When each of them owns three certificates, my name attains the sixth rank in 9 certificates and the first in certificate no. 2187, after 6 levels or at least a great number of certificates are sold from one person to another. Thus, every person buys a certificate, in which my name attains the first rank, and sends 40 USD to my bank account or my mail address. Thus, my balance reaches 87.480 USD. You should note that the person should sell the certificates in a period that does not exceed 90 days, otherwise the company withdraws this certificate, and even gives a gift to the person who sells his certificates in less than 30 days to guarantee the continuity and marketing of this system. This means that regardless of the long period, the buyer will attain the first rank.

Attached are a copy of this certificate, the advertisement of the company in which it explains the Bentagono system and a copy of the certificate sent to an Egyptian friend of mine, who has attained the first rank as well as many others from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and other countries who sent him bank transfers. This system has spread all over the world and the balance of my friend has reached more than 30,000 USD, and he still receives bank transfers.

After this summarized explanation of the system, I hope that you will give us an official legal opinion concerning this system, as thousands of youth, who gained money from this system, are waiting for it. May Allah reward you with the best for us and Islam!

A: This transaction is Haram (prohibited), because it includes Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment) and Riba Al-Fadl (usury of excess, selling an item for another of the same type, on the spot, but in excess). Selling money for absent money while selling the mentioned certificates may be regarded as Riba Nasi`ah.

When the buyer pays money to gain more money, it can be regarded as Riba Fadl. Both kinds of Riba are prohibited in the Qur`an and Sunnah (acts, sayings and approvals of the Prophet). The Muslim should fear Allah (Exalted be He), and avoid malicious gains and prohibited transactions.

Fatwa no. 21214

Q: We have a fuel contract for the cars of one of the companies with which we have such agreements. The cars of this company come from Riyadh to Tabuk, passing by our station located in Ha'il. An amount of petrol usually remains in the container from which cars are fueled. The driver asks for payment of a sum of money in cash in return for the remaining amount in order to be able to get fuel from the city of Tayma' in addition to paying the road fees. Since the price of oil is 0.37 riyal per liter (r/l), is it permissible for us in this case to price the amount for which they want to compensate us at a less price than that of the contract; which is 0.37 r/l for instance 0.25 r/l in return for payment on credit. The contracting party and the drivers all agree on this.

They insist on this and do it in this way throughout the roads of the Kingdom (of Saudi Arabia) which they use in their journeys. For example:

- A tank truck is registered to have an amount of fuel as follows:

5000 liters of diesel, from which only 3000 liters have been taken according to the capacity of the vehicle's tank. Then the 3000×0.37 r/l will be counted according to the contract and the registered amount of 2000 liters in the tank remains.

The question is: Is it right and permissible to count the remaining amount of 2000 liters multiplied by the price of 0.25 r/l? For instance: $2000 \text{ liters} \times 0.25 \text{ riyals} = 500 \text{ riyals}$, to be given to the driver or the person in charge of the car in return for facilitating the task of the driver with regard to the remaining distance of the journey to Tabuk. Note that there is no other contractor of the remaining distance from Ha'il to Tabuk, and that the causes of the price difference from 0.37 to 0.25 r/l are attributed to the fact that we pay 0.25 r/l directly to the driver and that obtainment of money from the owner of these cars will be done on credit, including fees of postage, accountance and fines of delay stipulated in the rules applicable in the owner's company. We hope Your Eminence will reply.

A: It is not permissible to pay the driver or the contracting party 0.25 r/l on spot instead of the price agreed upon, which is 0.37 r/l on credit, because this combines Riba Al-Fadl (usury of excess, selling an item for another of the same type, on the spot, but in excess) and Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment).

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings of Allah be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

The first question of Fatwa no. 21264

Q 1: What is the Islamic legal opinion about non-Islamic commercial banks that give loans with interest, and also give interest on the funds deposited with them, noting that they have Fatwas issued by some scholars stating that there is no problem with this?

A 1: Interest imposed upon loans, whether by banks or any other associations is considered Riba (usury/interest) that is Haram (prohibited) by Ijma` (consensus of scholars). No Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) can be considered valid in this respect, because it is contradictory to evidence from the Qur'an, the Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet) and the Ijma`.

Fatwa no. (20292)

Q: I live off of my mother's pension which she receives from France

where my father used to work. We exchange the currency as follows: We commission a person who gives us the money in Algeria in Dinars and then goes to a bank in France where he gets francs and vice versa in France where he takes francs from the bank also as our agent and when he returns to Algeria, he gives us dinars. The exchange rate is one franc to fourteen Algerian dinars. I asked some brothers here who said that this is Riba Al-Nasi`ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment). Our house was built from this money and we spend from it on our food and drink and everything else. My tuition fees, books and clothes are likewise from it. I also used to give Sadaqah (voluntary charity) and observe voluntary Sawm (Fast), but when I learnt that this money is Riba, I stopped because Allah does not accept any act except that which is good. I have lost hope because whenever I think about this, I find that everything in my life is from a Haram (prohibited) source and think that how can Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) accept acts of worship from me when my food is Haram, my drink is Haram and my home is Haram. My enthusiasm for my studies has waned and I maintain that the certificate I will receive is from Haram sources. What am I to do?

A: If your agent gives you Algerian dinars before he travels to France by way of a loan and then after he takes your father's pension from the bank in French francs, and gives you the money according to the exchange rate of dinars and francs in Algeria and does not stipulate an increase in price, then there is no harm in this. This is because of the narration of Ibn 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him and his father, who said: O Messenger of Allah! I

sell for Dinars \(old Arab coin that equals 2.975 grams of gold\) but receive the price in Dirhams \(a dirham of silver equals 2.975 grams of silver\) and I sell for Dirhams but receive the price in Dinars. The Prophet \(peace be upon him\) said: There is no harm provided that when you take the price, it corresponds to the day's market price and there are no outstanding accounts between the both of you.\)

However, if this man gives you the Dinars before he travels by way of exchanging French currency which he will receive after he travels, this is impermissible because he will then be paid in the same sitting as the contract. What you have previously done with regards to contravening the Shari`ah (Islamic law), you are not blameworthy for it and it does not factor into the validity of your Prayers or any other act of worship due to the words of Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He): \(So whosoever receives an admonition from his Lord and stops eating Ribâ \(usury\) shall not be punished for the past; his case is for Allâh \(to judge\)\)

It is a duty upon a Muslim to offer Tawbah (repentance to Allah) to Allah for being negligent and to think well of Allah since sincere Tawbah is sufficient to wipe away the sins of those who sincerely direct their acts of worship to Allah alone.

Fatwa no. (20468)

Q: This incident occurred when I went to buy gold. When I sold used gold to a gold shop, its value was estimated. When I was buying gold I requested that the price of my used gold be deducted from the price of my purchase and that I pay the remaining sum. During my discourse, a fellow standing next to me told me this is Riba (usury) and that I should take the money from my sale and then give the price of my purchase by adding the difference. From this, I concluded that there is a form of Riba that I, as well as others, are not aware of. I hope that Your Eminence would clarify this matter since the only form of Riba known to many people is taking a loan and returning it with an increase in price (the value of the original loan + an additional sum).

A: You may sell the used gold which you want to exchange for new and receive its price on the spot and then make your purchase from the same store or another and pay the price on the spot such that you do not part while there are any outstanding accounts between the both of you.

The second question of Fatwa no. (20790)

Q2: Is it permissible to buy gold with money that is minted in all countries on installments like other items or is it necessary to pay on the spot without deferring payment? What is the evidence for this, whatever the ruling is? People buy their jewelry from shops on installments without there being an exchange of the purchased item for its price.

A2: It is impermissible to sell gold for money even though it is not of the same nature except if you pay on the spot. This is due to the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) on the things which include Riba (usury) where he said: \(If these classes differ, sell as you wish if payment is made hand to hand.\)

Savings Systems

Fatwa no. (21201)

Q: Our respected Shaykh! There is no doubt that Your Eminence is aware that some companies such as Sabek and Aramco in Saudi Arabia offer savings system which may be the same as or different from other companies in certain points. However, the Saudi Company for Iron and Steel where we work at the industrial city of Al-Jubayl, offer savings system for which the Permanent Committee for Research and Ifta' presided by His Eminence Shaykh `Abdul-`Aziz ibn `Abdullah ibn Baz, may Allah have mercy on him, issued a Fatwa maintaining its impermissibility. However, the company later issued a new savings system on 11/6/1420 A.H. Attached is a description of this system. This new system has left us, the employees, to wonder about its permissibility, the terms of which have been modified by the company. We request that you study it and issue a fatwa on it. May Allah reward you!

A: It is impermissible to participate in the above mentioned savings system because it includes unlawful Riba (usury) in the form of interest based loans as is evident from provision no. 6/b.

It is obligatory to refrain from this type of transaction and to obey Allah (Exalted be He) and His Messenger (peace be upon him).

Q: Post offices (in Arab countries) offer a saving system known as savings accounts and it is as follows: A person deposits a sum of money, whatever the amount, in postal savings and receives a quarterly interest for that amount. This interest is guaranteed at a fixed rate of 10 %, taking into account that the post office does not give out loans, whether interest-based or not.

A draw is held every three months and the winner receives 10,000 SR regardless of the amount deposited in one's account.

My question is: Is it permissible to open a postal savings account? And if I win the draw, is it permissible for me to take the prize?

A: It is impermissible to open a postal savings account as described in the question. This is because it is from among the the forms of Riba (usury) prohibited by the Quran, Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet) and the Ijma` (consensus of scholars). Any prizes based on these accounts or others are likewise prohibited because what is based on something prohibited is itself prohibited.

Q: I request the legal opinion of your Eminence (may Allah safeguard you) on the savings systems offered by the National Cooperative Insurance Company in Riyadh, so that you guide me and other Muslim youth. Attached are the complete details of this system. Please accept my sincere appreciation.

A: After the Committee for Inquiry and Fatwa examined this saving system, it maintained the impermissibility of depositing money in the mentioned manner because it involves Riba (usury) that is prohibited by both the Quran and Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet). This is due to the amount added to the original sum by the company, which is considered a usurious increase, according to what is stated in Article no. 10 of this savings system and in provision no. 7 of the executive regulations. Moreover, this system includes a Fasid (Corrupt) condition which is the company's guarantee of the principal capital of each member which they invested as stated in provision no. 5/9 of the executive regulations.

This is because the investor bears any losses in this Mudarabah (speculation)

Q: We live in Austria where the government allows us to borrow sums of money to assist start-up companies. We collect the money from a bank that charges us 1 % for postal, telephone, fax and other services. This sum which the bank charges us has nothing to do with the government loan. For instance, if we receive $ 1000 which we will pay back in the same amount in addition to 1 % for postal, fax and telephone services and so forth and which the bank will take in return for these services.

The question is: Is this additional amount which the bank will take considered Riba (usury)? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: This percentage which the bank will take is Riba because it is, in fact, a return of the original loan along with a known increase. This involves both Riba Al-Fadl (usury of excess, selling an item for another of the same type, on the spot, but in excess) and Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment), both of which are prohibited and thus you must avoid any transactions involving them.

The first question of Fatwa no. 20420

Q1: I am enlisted in the National Guards of the Armed Forces and I receive my salary via al-Rajhi Banking Corporation. Is it permissible for me to transfer my salary to one of the other banks which give interest-based loans. This is because I when I take a certain sum as a loan from one of these banks, 100, 000 SR for instance, the bank gives me this sum on condition that I transfer my salary to this bank and it then deducts a monthly sum from my salary until the loan is paid off. However, the total sum which I will return to the bank is not 100,000SR, but an interest is added to it, i.e. it becomes 110,000 SR.

Is this transaction permissible? Please give me a Fatwa, may Allah safeguard you and guide you to that which is good. As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: It is obvious that this transaction among the forms of Riba (usury) which are prohibited by the Quran, Sunnah (acts, sayings or approvals of the Prophet) and Ijma` (consensus of scholars) and therefore it is impermissible to deal in it. You must not get involved in any dealings involving Riba and you must also be cautious of what Allah has prohibited out of obedience to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him).

Q1: I entered into a partnership with another man to buy a taxi. After a year, I learned that it was impermissible for me to have entered into partnership with this man because he took out an interest-based loan from a bank to complete the price of the car. I wanted to withdraw from the partnership and we put the car up for sale. When a buyer came along and learned of this, he decreased its price by employing Najsh (an illegal transaction in which the buyer is ensnared by artificial outbidding of a fake buyer) to the extent that he greatly decreased its price which was 8,000 LE. Meanwhile, my partner asked for one or two months respite during which he can either sell the car without any losses or finds another partner.

My question is: Is my share in the profits which the car accrued during this period Halal (lawful) or Haram (prohibited)?

A: It is Halal because it is the profit accrued through your share in the car. But you must withdraw from this partnership which accrues Haram earnings.

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has examined the fatwa request submitted to His Eminence, the Grand Mufti by His Excellence Shaykh Salah ibn Muhammad Al-Budair, the judge in the Greater Shari'a Court of Dammam, no. 4705, dated 12/8/1419 A.H. Attached is the fatwa request that is submitted by some person and that is referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, no. 5186, dated 18/8/1419 A.H., which reads:

Allah (Exalted be He) stated: ﴿O you who believe! Be afraid of Allâh and give up what remains (due to you) from Ribâ (usury) (from now onward), if you are (really) believers.﴾ There is also a Hadith related by Muslim that reads: ﴿Avoid the Seven Destructive Sins.﴾ The Hadith mentions consuming Riba (usury) as one of these sins. There is also a Hadith related by Abu Dawud stating: ﴿Allah has cursed the consumer of Riba, its payer, one who records it, and the two witnesses to it.﴾ .

The question is: I am an official in the Department of Personnel Administration in a public sector. Salaries of employees in this sector are sent to a checking account in a national bank. We were given orders by higher authorities that if an employee in the administration applies to this bank for a personal loan, the Personnel Administration (responsible for paying out salaries) hands the beneficiary (the borrower) a letter signed by the Personnel manager addressed to the bank (lender) to the effect that the administration has no objection in this regard pursuant to the agreement held with the bank. Thus, the administration transfers the beneficiary's salary to the bank so as to deduct the loan installments during the period designated for repayment. It is no secret that all loans given by such banks are interest-bearing loans. We ask Allah the Most High, the Exalted to guard you and us against committing sins. Our question is: Are we as sinful as them for signing the letters? Is doing so considered of those who record Riba accursed in the Hadith quoted above? Please, be informed that I, as an official, advise everyone not to do so as it is prohibited, but it is all in vain. I hope that Your Eminence will answer my question.

Having examined the fatwa request, the Committee gave the answer that doing so is impermissible as it entails a usurious transaction and involve cooperation to indulgence in it. Undoubtedly, Allah has prohibited all types of Riba and seriously warned those who deal in it. Riba includes interest-bearing loans, whether borrowed from a bank or otherwise. Furthermore, the Prophet (peace be upon him) cursed the consumer of Riba, its payer, one who records it, and the two witnesses to it. In a broader sense, the Prophet (peace be upon him) cursed those who deal in Riba as well as those who serve as helping factors therein. Allah (Exalted be He) says:

(but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. Verily, Allâh is Severe in punishment.) Therefore, it is obligatory on all of you to beware of committing acts forbidden by Allah, advise each other (against it), and notify senior officials about those who do not accept the advice and who continue dealing in usurious transactions, so that they may be deterred.

Fatwa no. 20593

Q: I sold some merchandise to a merchant on 120-day credit plan in which the bank guarantees repayment on the date of maturity. Before the date of maturity, a debt I owed to others became payable and I did not have enough money to pay it off. I became so confused as my creditors urgently demanded their dues. Therefore, I asked the bank to pay me the debt of the abovementioned merchant it guaranteed in advance. However, the bank insisted on paying me on the date of maturity or that it deducts 2 % for each month it pays in advance.

I have no other way out. Is it permissible to arrange that the bank pays me provided that it deducts a certain percentage for each month in advance? Give us a Fatwa, may Allah reward you!

A: It is impermissible to do so as it entails an obvious Riba (usury). This is because the bank in this case will get back the entire amount it guaranteed from the person indebted to you, which is more than what it gives you. In fact, doing so involves both Riba Al-Fadl (usury of excess, selling an item for another of the same type, on the spot, but in excess) and Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment). Therefore, it is impermissible because Allah prohibited Riba and seriously threatened those who indulge in it of a grave punishment. Moreover, the Prophet (peace be upon him) cursed the acceptor of Riba, its payer, the one who records it and the two who witness it.

Q: What is the ruling on the following text of the contract:

"I confirm my indebtedness to the Saudi Credit and Saving Bank of the social loan valued I pledge to pay the sum in equal installments in the amount of as of, taking into consideration that I am committed to pay 10 KD as a penalty for late payment, in case I delay payment of one of the installments. I received a warning by a process server. Also, I am committed to pay 20 MD if the warning is repeated. Moreover, loan balance and penalties will be due if I delay payment of three successive monthly installments or breach the lending conditions according to the regulations of the bank."

The question is: What is the ruling on the mentioned contract? What is the ruling on the one who is involved in it before knowing the ruling, and how can he be discharged? May Allah safeguard you.

A: Stipulating the payment of an extra money to the loan is regarded as absolute Riba (usury), according to the Prophet (peace be upon him), who said: Every loan followed by profit is Riba. Scholars have unanimously agreed to this. If the debtor pays the amount late this does not mean he should pay extra money.

Q: Muhammad bought a car for 10,000 pounds. He paid 8000 pounds and promised to pay the remaining sum (2000 pounds) after thirty days. Then, he sold the car for a price higher than the purchase price on condition that the money will be delivered to him a year later. When the thirty days elapsed, he had no money to pay the two thousand pounds. Therefore, he asked Khalid to lend him two thousand pounds and promised to give him a share of the profit of the car which he sold.

Is that Islamically lawful or does it fall under the category of Riba (interest)?

A: The transaction referred to above is unlawful because it falls under the category of a loan which is conducive to profit, knowing that such is Riba. The person who will lend you this money will receive it along with an interest rate, which is Haram (prohibited).

Q: We work at the governmental institution of social solidarity. This institution grants financial loans to its employees provided that the loan is used in building a house or buying a piece of land to be used for establishing a building thereon. The institution grants huge loans for which it charges interest rates. It classifies this transaction as lawful Murabahah sale (sale with an agreed profit margin). I hope that Your Eminence will kindly clarify the Islamic ruling regarding these loans.

A: If the institution receives profits for the loans which it grants to its employees or others, these loans will be considered as prohibited. This is because any loan which is conducive to profit is considered Riba (usury), even though people may give it another name.

Q: People have become accustomed to buying things from banks on installment plans in return for an interest that is added to the original price. It is to be noted that the bank does not possess the purchased commodity, like a car or a building. The process takes place by the buyers asking the bank to buy commodities for them from their rightful owners. At that point, the bank pays the prices of the commodities in cash and delivers them to the buyers, who pay the price on an installment plan. A contract of sale is signed between the bank and the buyer. It is only after the buyers sign their acceptance to meet the required conditions that the bank delivers the commodities to them.

The question is: Is this type of sale lawful? As far as we know, it is unlawful for a person to sell something which they do not possess, which is not the case with the issue under discussion. The bank does not possess the car or the building; rather, it purchases them for the buyers upon their request to buy it. Those who deem such type of sale permissible argue that the purchases are not binding on the buyers in case they decline to conclude them. However, they are aware of the fact that the buyers really intend to buy them, otherwise they would not have bought them.

The second question is: The bank makes a provision that if the buyer declines to buy the commodity, they will be obligated to pay for the damage which the bank suffers as a result of his decline.

Is that provision permissible? The bank claims to have a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) supporting the lawfulness of similar transactions. Is that Fatwa considered valid or is it an act of fraud? This type of transaction falls under the category of exchanging cash for cash with an additional interest. The commodity, whether it is a car or a building, is used as a deceptive means to legitimize Riba (interest). May Allah reward you for issuing your Fatwa in this regard. Such transactions are spreading like wildfire.

A: The transaction mentioned above is unlawful because it falls under the category of taking loans on the condition of adding an interest to them upon repay. This form of transaction involves the element of deceit that leads to Riba, which has been declared prohibited by the Qur'an, the Sunnah (whatever reported from the Prophet) and Ijma` (consensus of scholars). Moreover, the bank sells the commodity before it comes into its possession, which is also prohibited. The Messenger (peace be upon him) said: (Do not sell what you do not possess) Accordingly, these transactions must not be relinquished in obedience to Allah (Exalted be He) and His Messenger (peace be upon him).

Fatwa no. 20838

Q: There is a bank that buys me everything I ask for, furniture, a plot of land, a car, etc., on the condition that I be an employee and that I transfer my salary to the bank for (5) five years as a guarantee for its money. For example, I go to the bank and say: 'I want to buy a car.' It says: 'Go to the company or car exhibition where the car you wish to buy is sold, and bring an official document stating the value of the car from the exhibition or the company.' When I do this, the bank gives me a check of the said value in the name of that company or exhibition, together with a paper with the statement: 'Give the car to the bearer of this check.'

If the price of the car, for example, is (100,000 Riyals) one hundred thousand Riyals, the bank adds 7 % per year for (5) five years in return for the sale being on credit. Accordingly, the value of the car as written in the official documents preserved by the bank becomes 135,000 (one hundred thirty five thousand) Riyals. Another example is, if I want to buy a plot of land, the bank requires me to bring a document from the real estate office indicating the value of the plot; then it pays me a check of the said sum plus 7 % interest for selling it to me on credit for five years. So, if the price of the land is one hundred thousand Riyals, I will owe the bank 135,000 (one hundred thirty five thousand) Riyals. Is this sale a type of Salam sale (sale with advance payment), as the bank guarantees its right in advance for five years, because I am an employee and it has taken documents and guarantees that my salary will be automatically transferred to it, so that it discounts the installment due to it from the salary and leaves the balance for me? Is this sale lawful from the viewpoint of the Shari`ah or not?

A: It is not lawful to carry out the dealing mentioned above, because it is - in fact - a loan with conditioned interest to be paid when paying off the loan. The scenario mentioned is no more than a trick. So, it is a usurious dealing that is prohibited according to Allah's Book, the Sunnah, and Ijma` (consensus of scholars). In addition, the bank thus sells the said car or plot of land before it possesses them, while Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: \(Do not sell what you do not possess.\) Accordingly, you have to give up this deal out of obedience to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him). [Allah says:] \(And whosoever fears Allâh and keeps his duty to Him, He will make a way for him to get out \(from every difficulty\).\) \(And He will provide him from \(sources\) he never could imagine.\) .

The first question of Fatwa no. 20872

Q 1: A man bought a car from another man as a cash sale, but the buyer did not have the value. Both the seller and buyer went to a company to pay the value fully on behalf of the buyer, and the latter will pay the same in installments to the company in addition to an increase. For instance, if the value of the car is (50,000), the company will pay it to the seller and register (70,000) to be paid by the buyer in installments. What is the legal ruling on this. May Allah reward you.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 117)

A: This transaction is not lawful, because it means that the company has lent the price at an interest to the buyer. This is outright Riba (usury) that is prohibited according to Allah's Book, the Sunnah, and Ijma' (consensus of scholars); it belongs to the type of Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment).

Q: The questioner has posed the following question: Answering your kind request according to your letter no. 779/2, dated 07/02/1419 A. H., I attach to this letter the memorandum of association and the articles of association of the company as you required, drawing your attention to articles no. 17 and 46, in addition to a photocopy of the relative article of the Saudi Companies Law.

Here, I would like to pose another question in addition to my previous question sent to you in letter no. (1206 Sheen, Qaf/ 98) on 09/01/1419 A. H., namely this company has correspondent usurious banks outside the Kingdom to facilitate the interests of the clients of the company when transferring money to their countries. The system followed by the other banks is that the correspondent bank pays the transfer value on behalf of the local bank, then it collects the same amount from the local bank, in addition to a usurious interest. As the company (posing this question) is earnestly interested in having its dealings be free of Riba (usury) and in avoiding payment of such interests, it deposits beforehand sums of money in the correspondent banks before transferring money to them. In this way we avoid paying the usurious interest to them; but in this case, they pay us a usurious interest [of the money deposited]. We put the interest aside and do not add them to the profits of the company, as we spend it in charity. The question here is: Is it permissible for the company to use such interests in paying the debts of insolvent persons who cannot repay the money due on them to the company as acquittance for them, if it is proven that they are really insolvent and the company is fully certain of their inability to repay? Is it also lawful to do the same with regard to the persons who died while owing money to the company and whose heirs cannot pay these debts, or who only left their heirs the houses they are dwelling in? Please give us a Fatwa on this question. May Allah reward you. May Allah prolong the life of Your Eminence, and bless it. For, He is the best to be supplicated.

A: It is not lawful to spend usurious interests in paying off the debts of insolvent persons or others, who are in debt to the company.

The first question of Fatwa no. 20628

Q1: A man got married and borrowed 40,000 Riyals from someone else on condition that he will pay 60,000 Riyals in installments, (2000 Riyals) per month, in return for it. Is this considered Riba (usury), noting that it is postponed and is to be paid in installments. When the installments he pays reach 40,000 Riyals, what should he do? Should he refuse to pay the interest? Or, should he pay something else against the balance? It is to be noted that there is a bond about this.

A: The example mentioned in the question is a form of Riba (usury), because it is an interest-based loan, which is outright Riba. Allah (Glorified be He) has forbidden Riba, and threatened the usurer with severe punishment. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) also cursed the consumer of Riba (i.e., the usurer), the person who borrows the loan on interest, those who witness usury, and the person writing down the bond of usury. So, the person who borrowed the loan mentioned in the question is required to pay off to the borrower the exact loan without any increase, so that he does not help the borrower to consume riba and consequently become his partner in such sin. He is also to advise the borrower to repent to Allah (Exalted be He) for consuming Riba, not to do this sinful act any more, and to accept his capital sum without interest. The borrower should also fear Allah, his Lord, and avoid committing what Allah (Exalted be He) and His Messenger (peace be upon him) have forbidden. Allah (Exalted be He) says: but if you repent, you shall have your capital sums. Deal not unjustly (by asking more than your capital sums), and you shall not be dealt with unjustly (by receiving less than your capital sums). (And if the debtor is in a hard time (has no money), then grant him time till it is easy for him to repay)

Q 1: Banks have investment funds, which are liable to either profit or loss. Besides, there are no specific or conditional rates of profit in them; neither from me (investor) nor from the bank. They are commercial funds in which I may gain profits and I may also lose. So, is it lawful for me to invest in them instead of letting the bank make use of them through our money deposited with it?

A: Invest your money lawfully in fields other than banks, because mostly banks do not avoid usurious dealings, nor do they tell the truth when they claim that their investments are lawful in the viewpoint of Shari`ah. The criterion to be considered here is the attitude they mostly adopt in their dealings. So, they are not to be trusted in this concern.

you will tell me the legal opinion concerning this matter, whether it is Halal (lawful) or Haram (prohibited)? May Allah safeguard you.

A: There is no objection concerning selling an animal in return for another animal whether on an equal or unequal basis and whether it is on the spot or delayed. This is on the condition that the number and description of the animals that will be delivered later be known, as well as the deadline for repay. This is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered `Abdullah ibn `Amr (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) to buy camels for the fighters (in the Cause of Allah) and to pay its price when the camels that were intended for Sadaqah (Zakah or obligatory charity) came. The third question of Fatwa no. 20940

Q 3: Is grain, such as wheat and barley, that is sold on credit for a period of a month regarded as Riba (usury)?

A: If wheat and barley are sold in return for an equivalent of their very genus, they should be equal in quantity, and the exchange should take place in the same session. If they are not sold in return for an equivalent of the same genus - as when wheat is sold in return for barley or corn -, inequality is permitted, and the exchange should take place in the same session. Fatwa no. 21273

Q: A person receives information from the company in which he or one of his relatives works - as a chairman, a member in the company board of directors, a general manager, a financial manager, a secretary or any other job, through which he has the right of access to internal information before it becomes available for the public. It is known that the salary of employees is limited, and that trade forms nine-tenths of people's sustenance. Moreover, any responsible employee in any company follows up the prices of its shares in the market and carries on trade to secure his children's future. Suppose that he knew a piece of information (before it was announced), such as the company profits in that year will be double the last year profits, or that the total losses will consume most of the capital, or that the company won a lawsuit in return for hundreds of millions (of course, the company net profit and the price of its shares in the market will increase). Then, he sold or bought shares, making use of this information, which he knew because of his position in the company or through a person who shares the benefit with him, or who is his relative or partner in trade. Is the profit in this case Halal (lawful) or Haram (prohibited)? If it is Haram, and the person is a professional in this type of work and has partners or cooperators, along with whom he has made a big fortune, what should he do with this money, even though he did not know that such practice is Haram? This is because some people regard it as permissible profit, on the grounds that it is in return for the effort of gaining the piece of information. However, others condemn it, regarding it as Talaqqi Al-Rukban sale (purchase by intermediary from a supplier before the latter reaches the market place at a far lower price, taking advantage of his ignorance of true prices; in this case, the price may will be less than that of the market). Thus, they regard it as Haram, and that one should get rid of all its profits. By the way, the laws in foreign countries consider these transactions as Batil (null and void) and a major crime, and the person who commits this crime is prosecuted in constitutional courts. Its penalty can extend to lifelong imprisonment, as it is a crime against the society as well as cheating and injustice that leads to the destruction of the markets and national economy. I want to know the ruling given in the honorable Shari`ah (Islamic law) on this issue. May Allah grant you success and safeguard you.

A: First: If the shares are fixed, and are intended to procure a yield, such as those of a factory that produces and sells its products - like the shares of cement, electricity, transportation or agricultural companies or other fixed (established) companies, in which the profit, not the capital, goes to the shareholder, there is no objection in selling and buying this kind of shares. As for unfixed shares such as those related to commercial speculation companies, the shareholder's capital and share of profit return to him if the company is dissolved. Sometimes, the capital or part of it may be lost, or it may return to the shareholder. Thus, such kind of shares should not be sold or bought because it is unknown selling that includes risk. Moreover, it includes the selling of a dirham in return for an absent (nonexistent) dirham. Thus, it is Riba Al-Nasi'ah (usury of delay, conditional excess for delay of payment), and it may become Riba Al-Fadl (usury of excess, selling an item for another of the same type, on the spot, but in excess), if the amount differs, and both kinds of Riba and selling of the unknown are Haram.

Second: If the company prevents its employees from buying some of its shares and seeing into its secrets, the employees should not breach its regulations. This is according to what the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿Muslims are bound by their conditions, except the one that makes the unlawful lawful or the lawful unlawful.﴾ This condition involves consideration of the company interest and warding off harm from it. Thus, it is a sound condition.

Third: The money you earned through this kind of transaction is Haram; and you should get rid of it by donating it to a public charitable project, or to the poor and needy, with the intention of getting rid of it; not the intention of Sadaqah (voluntary charity). This should be accompanied by repentance to Allah (Exalted be He) and the intention not to return to this kind of transactions again.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions.

A: There is no problem with buying or selling stocks as long as the companies that are dealt with do not use Riba (interest), and that they are ownership companies, such as architectural, agricultural or production companies. It is also permissible for the person who buys these stocks to sell them or deal in them without restrictions.

Salam sale

The second question of Fatwa no. 20582

Q 2: We make a contract with some companies and firms upon importing goods to them after a specified period; two months or more. These goods are accurately described and determined, but they are not under our ownership at the time the contract is concluded. After signing the contract, we import the goods from places where they are available. What is the ruling on the following cases:

- 1- If we do not get any money at the time of concluding the contract.
- 2- If we get part of the money, knowing that it is customary that the sum of money is not completely paid at the time the contract is concluded.
- 3- If we receive the entire sum while making the contract.

What is the ruling in these cases if the contract is concluded as `Aqd Istisna` (a contract to have something made or done)?

A: Selling goods that are predetermined by specified descriptions on credit is a type of Salam sale (sale with advance payment) which is Mashru` (Islamically permissible), on condition that the price is completely paid in the meeting during which the contract is concluded, because if the whole price is not paid, this will be a form of selling a debt for another, which is Haram (prohibited) by Ijma` (consensus of scholars).

Q: Someone borrowed a sum of 25,000 SR from me in return for buying me a specific car (a certain model and options) after one year. However, this person became bankrupt, and many years passed and he could not pay his debt because of his poverty, so his brothers repaid the money instead of him.

My question is: Is this considered Riba (usury), or does it contain any other doubtful matter? Is this deal permissible? Please support the answer with evidence. May Allah reward you.

A: There is no problem about getting your money back, and abdicating the Salam sale (sale with advance payment) of the car, that is, to exempt the borrower, or any person who repays the money instead of him, from buying the car, and there is no Riba involved in that.

Q: I have a question and I thankfully wish your eminence would provide me with an answer.

1- I want to represent a company by being its agent in the Kingdom and by presenting a sample of its products. If the customer wishes to buy any of the company's products, I will send it a message to get the price list and the time that the order will take to be delivered. I will take 30 % of the order value from the customer and the rest when the order is actually delivered. Is this a Shar`y (Islamically lawful) transaction?

2- Sometimes a government authority or a specific company submits a tender to secure some stationary or electric tools or any other needs. I present an offer with a price for such demands, knowing that I only possess some of them. I go to merchants to give me prices for such commodities because they are their importers and I add a slight percentage over the prices that I get. If they ask me to bring the commodities, I go and buy them from the market. Is that permissible in Shari`ah (Islamic law) or is it considered as selling what I do not possess? Please advise, may Allah reward you.

A: What you mentioned in both questions is considered a Salam sale (sale with advance payment). So, if the commodities are specified via description and its total value is handed over in the same session, and the date of its delivery is known, the contract will be valid. However, if part of the price, not the total price, is handed over in the same session of concluding the contract, then the contract will be invalid because it is selling a debt for a debt.

The loan

The second question of Fatwa no. 21236

Q 2: With regard to partnership in Islam, there is something called Mudarabah partnership (speculative partnership, giving an amount of money to trade with in return for a share in the profit). What is the difference between loan and Mudarabah?

A 2: The loan is to give someone money to use it and return it later.

As for Mudarabah, it is to give someone a certain amount of money to trade with it in return for part of the profit. So, the first (partner) offers money while the second offers labor.

Fatwa no. 20159

Q: All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed what His Eminence Grand Mufti received from the administrator of Scientific Institute in the governorate of Rijal Alma` and the Da`wah (calling to Islam) deputy there; Hussayn ibn Ibrahim ibn Muhammad Ya`qub, under number

(1/9) and date (2/1/1419 A.H.). Attached to it is a Fatwa request submitted by Ibrahim ibn Ahmad Tawil and referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, under number (392) and dated 10/1/1419 A.H. The Fatwa request reads:

I have seventy thousand Riyals, and I asked three sons that one of them take that sum of money to invest it in trade on condition that he would keep the capital (the seventy thousand Riyals) for me and return it whenever I ask for it. One of them, the oldest who was workless, agreed to that offer and his two brothers approved of and were pleased with it. My son actually took the money and invested it in trade and Allah provided him with good sustenance. Out of dutifulness, my son gives me some money at separate intervals until that sum has reached eleven thousand Riyals, which is part of his profit over eight years.

My question is: Is it permissible for me to take that sum of money (the eleven thousand Riyals), which is part of his profit, from my son in addition to the capital I have given him to invest and benefit from its profits? When I die, will the heirs be entitled to a share of the profits or to the capital only?

Reviewing the Fatwa request, the Committee replied that the opinion that seems correct is that this kind of transaction is called by Fuqaha' (Muslim jurists) as Mudarabah (giving an amount of money to trade with in return for a share in the profit). So, if the owner of the money tells another: Take this money and use it in trade and all its profit will be yours and the capital is mine, then this is a loan and the owner is not entitled to anything of its profit. Accordingly, all the profits that your son made are his and you are not entitled to anything more than your capital, whether you take it yourself or your heirs after your death. However, if your son gives you a share of the profits as a gift for you and not because he is benefitting from the money or because he delayed its payment, or if he gives you what he is used to give you before that loan, it is permissible for you to take it and nothing is wrong with that. Nonetheless, if you asked him to give you a share of the profits because he is benefitting from the money you gave him or because he has kept the capital with him for a long time, then this would be prohibited and it is impermissible for you to take it. For, in that case it would be considered as a loan that brought about benefit, which is clearly Riba (usury). There is nothing wrong if you give your son that money in the form of a Mudarabah transaction in such a way that he will be entitled to a specific share of the profit, like a quarter, a half, three quarters or the like, and the rest of the profit will be yours, as this is called the Mudarabah partnership.

Q: Many of those who seek to earn their living buy the yields of palm trees and bring them to the markets to sell them. They search for dates brokers to lend them the price or part of the price of such yields on condition that they would bring the broker the yields, which the latter would sell in an auction and get 10 % of its value as a brokerage. The brokers lend those persons money to guarantee that they would bring them the yields. In this case, this is considered a loan that brings about benefit, knowing that this percentage (the 10 %) is taken from all the peasants, whether they are major farm owners or small buyers of the yields.

A: This kind of transaction is impermissible because it includes a loan that brings about benefit, which is Riba (usury). Hence, it is obligatory for you to abandon such a transaction and to adhere only to what Allah has made permissible. May Allah grant us success! Is that money, which I took from her, considered a debt that I should pay back or a gift from her, or should I donate it?

Q: I have mobile phones and when someone wants to buy one of them, he asks me for the following:

1- A mobile phone.

2- A SIM card, knowing that it is issued in the requester's name and the seller manages the issuing of it in the buyer's name. The seller pays the phone's price (3500 Riyals) and gives with the SIM card the phone for a total of monthly installments estimated at (5000 to 5500 Riyals).

Please guide me to the right way, may Allah reward you, and if this implies anything wrong, then what shall I do concerning the previous dealings that I have concluded in this way?

A: The kind of transaction mentioned is impermissible because it includes a loan that brings about benefit, since you lend someone the SIM card fees to make him buy the mobile phone from you. And since every loan that brings about benefit is Riba (usury), you have to abandon this kind of dealing and repent sincerely to Allah and never do that again.

Fatwa no. 21006

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the question received by His Eminence Grand Mufti from the owner of King Saud Civil Schools for boys in Zhahran via the Da`wah and Guidance Center in Dammam, which is referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under the number (3066) and dated 4/6/1420 A.H. The questioner asks:

The schools were inaugurated eight years ago. Now, the secondary stage needs expansion, which will cost about one million Riyals. However, that sum is not available in cash. Those who will carry out the expansion, repairs and preparation are ready to do it on condition that the mentioned costs be paid in installments over five years.

However, the total that is going to be paid will be more than the mentioned sum.

Is that permissible? Please advise and may Allah protect and preserve you.

After examining the issue in question, the Committee replied that if the case is as mentioned, then the contract in question, which states that you should pay the construction costs that are delayed for a specific term along with an excess over the costs that would be paid in cash, is permissible because nothing in Shari`ah (Islamic law) prevents it. Nonetheless, if those people were lending you the mentioned sum of money and taking it back with excess, then this would be impermissible because it would be a loan that brought about benefit.

Q: I submitted a construction loan request to the Real Estate Fund in 1409 A.H. As there was a delay in the reply, I asked for the permission of the Real Estate Fund to start the construction of my private house on my own and they permitted me. I finished the construction, praise be to Allah. A year later, however, I received a reply to my previous loan request and they sent me a letter informing me that my loan request has been approved and asked me to go there to sign the contract and take the first payment. I informed them that I had already finished the construction and they replied that the system approves giving the loan even in that case.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 137)

My question is whether it is permissible for me to take that loan and repay it to the Fund to take advantage of the exemption (90 000 Riyals) that is granted to whoever repays the loan in one payment. I hope that your eminence would advise me regarding this issue, which occurs to some of those who submit similar requests to the Real Estate Fund.

A: If the case is as mentioned, there will be nothing wrong if you take the loan in question because it is your right according to the country system, even if you have finished the construction process especially that the bank is aware of that and permitted it.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

The first question of Fatwa no. 21502

Q 1: I am an old woman and there is a problem that concerns me a lot and I fear that I will die and be held guilty for it, which can be summed up as follows:

Years ago, I bought a piece of land at (59.000 Riyals). I took a loan from the Real Estate Fund and I built a house and an extension on the mentioned land, praise be to Allah.

I lived there with my three sons, `Ali, `Abdur-Rahman and Muhammad. `Abdur-Rahman and Muhammad paid some of the installments and then stopped. Sometime later, my middle son `Abdur-Rahman went to live in a house of his own, while I and Muhammad and `Ali, who does not work, remained in the house. My question is:

If my youngest son, Muhammad agreed to pay the due installments to the Real Estate Bank and wrote that down in the Bank and his brothers permitted this, does the house become his and am I then free from liability?

A: The debt of the bank will remain as your liability until you repay it and the fact that some of your children or others are ready to repay that loan does not free you from liability. Selling the house to your son, if the bank permitted that, giving it to him for a fair price representing the remaining amount is permissible. However, you will remain responsible for the debt until you repay it.

Q: I bought a piece of land eight years ago and I submitted a loan request on that land to the Real Estate Credit Bank. I then sold the land this year at a time when I was about to receive the loan. Is it permissible for me to give up the loan, as the system allows that and since the buyer offered to take (250.000 Riyals) of that loan and give me (50.000 Riyals) and he would repay the entire sum to the bank which is (300.000 Riyals) throughout the course of twenty-five years. The sum of money that I would get will be in return for giving up the loan and for the eight years I waited to get that loan, and not in return for the cash that the bank pays. If this is impermissible, then what is the Shar`y (Islamically lawful) form if I want to receive compensation for giving up the loan and for the eight years I have been waiting for it; knowing that if I submitted another loan request to the bank, I would have to wait the same period of time or even longer, whereas that person will wait only until that concession is approved?

A: It is impermissible for you to give up the loan that the Real Estate Fund granted you to someone else in return for a sum of money. However, without that return, it is permissible according to the rules of the Fund.

Mortgage

Fatwa no. 20456

Q: I have a company which sells electrical appliances on installments secured by mortgages about which Allah (may He be Exalted) states: ﴿And if you are on a journey and cannot find a scribe, then let there be a pledge taken \(mortgaging\)﴾ The customer comes in to buy electrical appliances from me at a certain price and I ask for a quantity of gold as a mortgage that is equal in value, or a bit less, to remain with me as a trust until they complete the installments according to the predefined period on which we agree. When the customer pays all the installments as agreed, I return their property in full as I took it; knowing that I weigh the gold and determine its type and value on the day the sale is concluded. Is what I do the Shar`y (Islamically lawful) manner of mortgaging? If I agree with the customer to sell the mortgaged item in case the due installments, or some of them, are not paid, am I entitled to sell it without their knowledge or must I inform them that if they do not pay, I will sell it? Please give us advice on that issue.

A: Your requesting the customer, who buys a commodity from you on installments, to mortgage with you in return for that debt gold or the like of the same value is permissible as is proven in the Qur'an, Sunnah (acts, statements or approvals of the Prophet) and the Ijma' (consensus of scholars). The principle of mortgaging is to document a certain debt with a specific item that can permissibly be sold to repay the debt in case it is difficult to retrieve the debt from the debtor. However, you must keep that mortgage because it is a trust with you, and if the mortgager does not repay the debt or sell the mortgaged item to repay the debt from its price, then the reference in selling it and taking back your right is the Islamic court.

Hajr (limiting legal competence)

Fatwa no. 20676

Q: I am the guardian of five of my brothers who are underage. Each of them has his portion of the heritage after the death of our father (may Allah be merciful to him). Their money is kept in the bank for a certain time; and I pay Zakah (obligatory charity) for it whenever a Hawl (one lunar year calculated from the time a property reaches a minimum amount upon which Zakah is due) passes. I do not make use of their money by investing it because of my lack of experience and acquaintance with trade. I do not risk it in a commercial project for fear that it may be lost. If I leave it as it is, it will be lost by Zakah as the years pass. Thus, I thought of adding it to my own money as a loan. That is what I did and I presented it in a separate account book, including the money of each of them. I informed my mother, my wife and my adult brothers of what I did. Then, I bought a house due to my need for it. I intended to guarantee and protect their money, In sha'a-Allah (If Allah wills) from either being involved in an investment project that may not succeed or being lost by Zakah as the years pass. When one of them became an adult and legally competent, I gave him his portion, taking into consideration that I am now an employee and I have a good salary (all praise is due to Allah). Also, I can - In sha'a-Allah - give anyone of them his money whenever he needs it.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 143)

The question: Is my action right, and should I pay Zakah for the money I borrowed from them? If there is Zakah, should I pay it from my own money or from theirs?

I hope you will give me your legal opinion. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: You should keep the money of the orphans till they become legally competent. Then, you should give it to them in person or through anyone you trust. If you increase it through legal methods for their sake, it will be better, as Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿And come not near to the orphan's property, except to improve it, until he \(or she\) attains the age of full strength﴾

You should pay Zakah for it every year because you are their guardian and deputy. It is Haram (prohibited) to borrow from it and add it to your money for your sake. At the same time, Zakah should be paid for their money. Thus, you should restore and maintain this money till they become legally competent.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions.

Q: A questioner asks that his father died leaving a wife, a father, a mother, four sons and three daughters, the eldest of whom is 17 years old. The judge assigned him as a guardian for the underage persons and a Wakil (legally accountable person who acts on behalf of another for a specific permissible matter) for the rest of the heirs. Till now he has not divided the inheritance. Moreover, he pays Zakah (obligatory charity) every year, and pays money as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) more than Zakah. Now, he has had a small Masjid (mosque) built and wants to pay half of its cost from the inheritance, while the reward of this Masjid is to be for the deceased. Moreover, he started to have a house built for the children of the deceased and the cost will be deducted from the inheritance. Are all these actions correct?

A: He should issue a document from the legal court to identify the heirs, then divide the inheritance according to this document. Moreover, he should give the adults and legally accountable people their portions, assign a guardian to keep the portion of the underage children and pay Zakah on their behalf every year.

He should not donate money or pay Sadaqah from their money, but he should protect it until they become legally accountable and give it to them. If the deceased had a will within the limit of a third of his money after paying off his debts, if any, the will should be executed according to the legal rules. If you want to pay Sadaqah for his sake, there is nothing wrong in this if you pay it from your own money.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 145)

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet, his family and Companions.

All praise is due to Allah, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed what was received by the Grant Mufty (Muslim scholar qualified to issue legal opinions) from the questioner: Muhammad Al-Mas Bashir Farhan, the supervisor of a branch of the Charity Association in Al-`Urayja, referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, no. 1055, dated 18 Safar, 1412 A.H. The questioner asks:

"I wish to inform you that Al-Birr Charitable Association in Riyadh has various activities: providing for orphans in different ways, one of which is that a subscriber pays a monthly amount and the orphan is taken care of by his mother. She is given this money: 200 riyals to spend on the orphan. Is this regarded as guardianship, and should we continue receiving and distributing it, taking into consideration that the orphans in this city live with their relatives: grandfather, uncle or the relatives of the husband or the wife? The one who cares for the orphan is given a monthly sum; is this regarded as guardianship for the sake of the charitable person that pays this money? Sometimes, the sum comes late, perhaps after months, and he takes the sum all at once. Is this regarded as guardianship? Should we continue this method of guardianship? What is your advice for us?

Appreciate your guidance, may Allah safeguard and guide you, bless your efforts and let you be beneficial to others."

After the Committee studied this Fatwa request, it answered as follows:

Regarding the ways and methods of providing for and spending money on an orphan and spending money, I hope Allah (Exalted be He) will reward those who contribute to this project. I advise you to fear Allah (Exalted be He), to be keen on giving Sadaqah (voluntary charity) to those who deserve it and to continue this good work.

May Allah grant you success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions.

Q: My 28-year old daughter has been ill since early age. She does not perform Salah (Prayer) in a correct manner yet sometimes fasts Ramadan. We saw many doctors in the Kingdom (of Saudi Arabia) and abroad, but no treatment has been found for her case of insufficient mental development. Sometimes, she helps her mother in preparing tea and cooking. Some people told me that it is not permissible to eat the food she cooks, because she does not offer Salah.

Q: Revered Shaykh, my father died in 1416 A.H. after being struck by a lightning. He left behind nine children; five males and four females, who are all full brothers and sisters and I am the eldest. Two females are married and the remaining seven are beneficiaries of my mother's social security insurance. I can procure a sum of money for them in addition to the aid they receive from charitable people during the month of Ramadan. We helped a brother of ours to get engaged to a girl that is a relative of ours as we wanted to help him get married so that he would not fall into sin, Allah forbid!

Your Eminence Shaykh, the question is: Is it permissible for us to finance his marriage from the social security funds given by charitable people, and the value of some sheep left by our father (may Allah be merciful to him)? Please, note that I will count the whole expenses spent on this marriage from the social insurance sum and count it as a debt which he will pay off after he gets a job. If your answer is no, what should we do, bearing in mind that the engagement has already been announced and we are waiting until the vacation after Hajj season to consummate the marriage? May Allah reward you with the best and make your work beneficial to people.

A: It is impermissible to take any amount of minors' money, whether owned through inheritance, charity or anything else, to finance any affair of any of them. Rather, it is obligatory to keep their money and even invest it to their advantage. Actually, their money should be used to provide for them according to what is customarily reasonable and then handed over to them when they reach maturity. Accordingly, you should finance your brother's marriage from his own share and from the charity donated specifically to him.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, you have reached the age of puberty by turning fifteen. Your ejaculation of Maniy is also a sign of reaching puberty. Reaching the age of puberty for males are marked by three features: ejaculation, the growth of the pubic hair, or reaching the age of fifteen. We advise you to marry, for the Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: «O young people! Whoever among you is able to marry, should marry, for marriage would help him lower his gaze and keep his virtuousness and whoever is not able to marry, is recommended to fast, for fasting would diminish his sexual power.» (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)

We also advise you to repent to Allah for having masturbated. Allah describes the Mu'mins (believers) stating: «And those who guard their chastity (i.e. private parts, from illegal sexual acts)» «Except from their wives or (the slaves) that their right hands possess, - for then, they are free from blame;» «But whoever seeks beyond that, then those are the transgressors;» Masturbation has many harmful effects as stated by specialists. May Allah set right your affairs, make things easy for you, and guide you.

Delegation

Fatwa no. 20706

Q: The Saudi Collection Company, licensed through the Ministry of Commerce, is an agency that specializes in collecting debts for others. Its business necessitates that it deal with banks in executing the issued rulings on the bank clients from the authorized institutions such as the Monetary Agency, Arab Bank, Commission of Commercial Paper, Statutory Committees in the Chambers of Commerce, the Ombudsman's office, and courts.

The Collection Company is delegated to execute and follow up the decisions taken by the aforementioned institutions, and to collect the debts payable by them, usually through peaceful means. We wish to seek the advice of Your Eminence about the permissibility of participating in such an activity - since it is considered to be a delivery system of the banks' rights under the control of the system, instructions, and Shar`y (Islamic legal) and legal texts - taking into consideration that the company carries out this service in return for defined fees payable according to the terms of the contract with each bank.

Sometimes, cases on which there have been no definite rulings controlling them are referred to us. We settle the dispute through peaceful means, or compromise by agreement on both sides.

We ask Your Eminence (may Allah safeguard you) for advice and direction in line with the principle of Sadd-ul-Dhara'i` (blocking the means leading to sins).

A: If the debts are the result of Mubah (permissible) transactions free from Islamically legal prohibitions, then there is no harm in collecting them and cooperating with creditors. But if they involve prohibited dealings, like Riba-based (usury) loans for instance, it is not permissible to deal with them, following the general meaning of what Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. Verily, Allâh is Severe in punishment.﴾

Fatwa no. 21300

Q: I own several car maintenance workshops and I also have a car spare parts shop. When a car comes to us for maintenance in any of our workshops, there are two possible methods of maintenance. Firstly, the client may stipulate that he will bring the spare parts himself from another location, in which case we only charge for the cost of labor. Secondly, the client may not stipulate this condition, which means that he delegates us to maintain his car, including providing the spare parts. We agree on the total cost of maintenance at the start, before the process of maintenance begins.

We usually provide the spare parts from our store, but in some cases we may not have the required part, in which case we look for it in the market and buy it - or a quantity of it - for our store. After that we add an acceptable profit percentage to cover the costs of our search - this includes a car and a driver - and the discount percentage that reputable wholesale spare parts buyers like us enjoy.

We give the client his spare parts bill with our profit percentage added. We also give him a bill for labor and a final comprehensive bill. Is there any sin on us in such a case? Take into consideration that we have placed a sign on all our workshops saying 'The workshop provides the needed spare parts from our stores. In the event that our stores don't have the needed parts in stock, we buy this part from another spare parts store or agent.'

A: If you provide the spare parts for your clients from your store, there will be no sin on you to sell them at the same price outside your store to those who have their cars maintained in your workshop. But if the spare parts are not available in your store and the client agrees that you can buy it from another place, this is also permissible, but you will work only as a commission agent in buying those spare parts. As such, you are not permitted to charge your client more than the original purchase price, because the agent must be trustworthy. However, if the buyer chooses to donate some money to you in return for your service, you are permitted to take it.

Fatwa no. 21043

My father (may Allah be merciful to him) died and left money and real estate. We are two brothers, two sisters (none of us is minor) and a mother. We sold the real estate after completing the legal procedures including the determination of heirs. All of us took our respective shares and we donated one third of the inheritance following the will of our father to build a Masjid (mosque). He also appointed me in his will to find a place for the Masjid under the power of attorney. I worked hard until I found the place and got the approval of the Religious Endowments Ministry and the municipality and started in building the Masjid, Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah). I will furnish it with carpets and air-conditioners with a total cost of 303, 285 riyals.

Your Eminence, I am diabetic suffering from hepatitis and arteriosclerosis. I also have a large family that consists of my wife and nine young children. I have enclosed a copy of the medical reports of my case. Is it legally permissible for me to take a sum of the money allotted for the matting, air-conditioning, and furnishing of the Masjid, taking into consideration that I have intended to give in Sadaqah (voluntary charity) in charitable ways on his behalf. Your Eminence Mufty (Muslim scholar qualified to issue legal opinions), may you kindly clarify this issue for me. May Allah safeguard you.

A: It is obligatory on you to spend the rest of the one third after completing the Masjid according to the terms of the will through paying Sadaqah to the poor and charitable projects.

You are not allowed to take any of this money because you are only an agent and agents are not allowed to take from the money trusted to them except after the permission of the authorizer.

The fourth question of Fatwa no. 20948

Q 4: After the death of my father, our relatives bought a car for me and my younger orphan brothers. I use the car for both my personal interest and the interest of my brothers. Is it permissible for me to use the car for my personal interest, taking into consideration that I cannot afford to buy a private car? How should the expenses of this car be distributed? Should I pay them from my personal money or should they be paid from the general account of the inheritors?

A: If the relatives who bought the car for you agree that you can use it for your private business, then there is no harm in doing that. But if they do not agree to you doing so, then you are not allowed to use it except for the interests of your brothers.

Partnership

Fatwa no. 20428

Q: One of the topics on which we still did not have a clear Islamic legal opinion is writing off debts owed to a company by others as a result of several transactions. For example:

- 1- Those who have fallen into bankruptcy.
- 2- Embezzlers who run away from the Kingdom before being exposed. The company only could demand its rights back through the international police or through filing law suits against them before the courts of their countries which is most often futile.
- 3- Those who die without leaving a sufficient bequest to pay the debts they owe to the company.
- 4- When the debt is too little and the charges of collecting it exceed the loan itself.

Banks go to great lengths in collecting debts from the debtors, in some cases it has become a custom to write off those bad debts.

Al Rajhi Banking and Investment Corporation is one of the joint-stock financial companies, which is headed by a board of directors appointed by the Ordinary General Assembly of Shareholders. It is not of the authority of that board to donate money from the company to others, even though this board is authorized to discharge the debtors who owe money to the company according to its constituent assembly.

It is very difficult for all of the shareholders to attend as the owners themselves change daily according to buying and selling other shares of the market in many operations. I wish for Your Eminence to clarify those issues for us? Is it permissible for the board of directors of this company to write off those bad debts?

A: Having examined the Fatwa request and perused the system of the company related to this department, the committee replied that it is not permissible for the board of directors to write off those bad debts of those mentioned cases. Rather, they have to exert more efforts to collect the whole legal rights of the company from the insolvent, the embezzlers and others. Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) says: ﴿Verily, Allâh commands that you should render back the trusts to those to whom they are due﴾ He (Glorified be He) says about the attributes of the Believers: ﴿Those who are faithfully true to their Amanât (all the duties which Allâh has ordained, honesty, moral responsibility and trusts) and to their covenants;﴾ He

(Glorified and Exalted be He) also says: ﴿O you who believe! Betray not Allâh and His Messenger, nor betray knowingly your Amânât (things entrusted to you, and all the duties which Allâh has ordained for you).) And: (So keep your duty to Allâh and fear Him as much as you can) The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: (The hand that takes is responsible for what it has taken until it returns it.)

Q: I am participating with other three partners in a farm. We agreed that I will pay the capital while they will manage it. I have already paid 200,000 riyals for this. We agreed that the profit and loss will be divided into four shares, with each of us having a one-quarter share. Is this contract valid and permissible? Kindly direct us, may Allah best reward you and grant you success.

A: This is known in Islam as a partnership in farming between you and them, with you paying the capital and them doing the work. The profit should be distributed between you and them, with each of you receiving your appointed share according to your agreement. If there is no profit, you will lose your capital while they will lose their efforts; they will not be required to compensate you for any loss.

Q: There is a company with many shareholders who hold equal shares of 1000 riyals. This company invests this capital and all shareholders agree (it is one of the terms of joining the board of shareholders) to distribute the profits at the end of every year in the following way:

- * They have to deduce the operating cost in addition to paying Zakah (obligatory charity).
- * They choose a number of shareholders by drawing lots and distribute the rest of the net profit equally in addition to their capital and break up from the company after that. This is repeated every year taking into consideration the increase and decrease of the chosen number depending on the achieved percentage of net profit every year.

Is there any contradiction between what I have just mentioned and the great teachings of our Islamic religion? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: The mentioned method is not right, because it favors some of the shareholders with profit and prevents some of them from taking this profit; though it is obligatory to distribute profits equally to everyone according to their respective share in the capital however little it may be.

Lease

Fatwa no. 17011

Q: I possess many buildings in different places that I rent as apartments for citizens and expatriates. I have noticed that some of those who have rented apartments from me installed satellite dishes at the top of the building. I wish for Your Eminence to clarify the issue for me and show me how to deal with such people from the Shar`y (Islamic legal) point of view in order to take the necessary procedures to discharge my responsibility. I also would like to know your Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) on some of those dwellers who live by the Masjid (mosque) and never pray in it. What should we do as owners toward those people? Should we go on in renting for them or should we force them to evacuate our apartments? Is it permissible for us to add to the terms of the lease contract that it is a must to perform congregational Salah (Prayer) in the Masjid and if they breached the contract they will be evacuated? Waiting your quick reply. May Allah safeguard you.

A: It is not permissible to let them install satellite dishes because their installment and use will ease the availability of prohibited watching. Also, it is not permissible for a Muslim to abandon congregational Salah. If some of those whom you have rented an apartment neglect congregational Salah, you have first to show your disapproval and to advise them. If they do not comply, you will have to inform the competent authority to put a stop to the problem. You have the right to stipulate at the time of contract signing that the tenants must not fail to attend congregational Salah nor to install a satellite dish. Whenever they breaches the terms of the contract, you will have the right to ask them to either evacuate the rented apartment or to remove the satellite dish and to keep steadfast in performing congregational Salah and Jumu`ah (Friday) Prayer in the Masjid. Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) says: [\(Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. The first question of Fatwa no. 18456

Q 1: I was working in a laboratory specialized in pork for six months. When the money I got from this job reached the Nisab (the minimum amount on which Zakah is due) and a Hawl (one lunar year calculated from the time a property reaches the minimum amount upon which Zakah is due) passed on it, I paid the due Zakah (obligatory charity). I worked in another laboratory and I mixed the lawful money I received from this job with that I earned from the other one. I now pay Zakah on the whole sum.

When I was working in the first laboratory, I was astray as I did not perform Salah (Prayer) or observe Sawm (Fast), then I repented to Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He).

What is the ruling on this mixed money? Should I pay Zakah on all of the money? I do not know the exact sum of money which I earned from the first job and this is why I pay Zakah on all of it. Is the following Hadith: Islam wipes out all that has gone before it \(previous misdeeds\), applicable to me? Please advise me, may Allah reward you.

A 1: To be on the safe side, you have to estimate the amount of money which you collected from the first job and pay it as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) to get rid of it. You have to repent to Allah (Glorified be He) as He accepts the repentance of anyone who performs Tawbah (repentance to Allah).

Q: I own a plot of land, which I had agreed to rent to a local bank that deals in Riba (usury/interest) for a long period to enable them to establish a branch in the area. However, after reading a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) issued by the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' that announces that it is not permissible to release this plot of land to banks dealing in Riba (Fatwa no 20507) dated 3/8/1419 A.H, I have decided not to release this land to the bank. Someone who has connections with this bank called me and offered to rent my land for himself for the same period the bank had requested. I knew that he wanted to rent my land on behalf of the bank to avoid involving me directly. Moreover, the same person offered to buy my land if I did not wish to rent it. I also understood that he wanted to buy the land to release or sell to the bank to establish a branch on it.

Is it permissible for me to sell or release this land to this person without any impediments, taking into consideration that I definitely know that he will either release or sell it to the bank to establish a branch on it?

I wish for Your Eminence to clarify for me what action is permissible in both cases, releasing or selling. May Allah grant you success.

A: It is not permissible to sell or release any property to someone who will use it to disobey Allah (Exalted be He), such as dealing in Riba, according to what Allah (Exalted be He) says: [﴿Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. Fatwa no. 21599

Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah) Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

(Part No. 11; Page No. 169)

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed what has been sent to His Eminence the Grand Mufty (Muslim scholar qualified to issue legal opinions) from the questioner, the chairman of the Charitable Society to Combat Smoking, and which was referred to the committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. (4051) and dated 11/7/1421 A.H. The text of the question is:

The Shar`y (Islamic legal) evidence prohibits smoking, and dealing in the business of smoking, because of its religious, health, economic, and social ramifications. Since dealing with tobacco takes different forms such as growing, manufacturing, transporting, importing, exporting, marketing, distributing, advertising (on satellite stations, newspapers, exported magazines, using clothes with logos of tobacco companies), some tobacco companies fund cultural and sports competitions and activities.

The Charitable Society to Combat Smoking in the Kingdom has made its own efforts to spread awareness among members of society about the harmful effects of smoking and to help smokers to quit. Many people who have benefited from the Society's activities ask about the Shar`y ruling on the money of those who deal in the abovementioned activities, particularly those people who do not smoke or trade in it, but only receive their salaries from activities related to the tobacco industry, especially advertising. We wish for Your Eminence to let us know the Shar`y ruling of the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' with regard to this, may Allah reward you with the best.

After close examination of the Fatwa request, the committee replied that it is not permissible to work for companies that manufacture, distribute, or advertise tobacco products. The salary that the employee gets in return for working for such companies is Haram (ill-gotten) money because it is considered to be helping in sin and transgression. Whoever works in such activities should repent to Allah and leave such business and ask Allah for Halal (lawfully-earned) money, ﴿And whosoever fears Allâh and keeps his duty to Him, He will make a way for him to get out \(from every difficulty\).﴾ ﴿And He will provide him from \(sources\) he never could imagine.﴾ May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Q: Commercial banks have become a keynote of the global economy as they spread in Muslim and non-Muslim countries.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 171)

Dealing with them has become common among people in different fields of life.

Commercial banks have been established in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia as in other countries. The Kingdom has issued a law for them called Banking Control Law and delegated the Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency to supervise and follow their activities. The most important of those activities are:

- 1- Receipt of cash as current or fixed deposits.
- 2- Opening of current accounts and letters of credit, the issuance of letters of guarantee, collecting the payment of checks, orders of payment, and any other valuable papers.
- 3- Deducing bonds and bills of exchange, and other commercial papers.
- 4- Foreign exchange.
- 5- Investment in projects and companies in the Kingdom (with about 20% of its capital).
- 6- Trading in the shares of those companies for the interest of the bank and the interest of others.

All the abovementioned activities fall under the umbrella of banking transactions, and some of them are suspected of dealing in Riba (usury), such as the fixed deposits and other direct cash investments.

Anyone who follows the budgets of banks working in the Kingdom will find that they involve great amounts of money taking different forms and forming a great part of the wealth of the Kingdom in both governmental and private sectors. Moreover, they have deep associations with the many classes of society, including individuals and different institutions. That is why the state - in keeping the riches of the Kingdom safe and developing its economy, which is the backbone of its financial strength and enables it to achieve an honorable way of life for its people - has tightened control on the activities of those banks and enacted systems, regulations, and criteria to achieve that purpose.

Among the control measures stipulated by the systems controlling companies and banks is requiring every bank to appoint two observers to their accounts section from the registered list of the Ministry of Commerce. The observers of accounts are required to submit an annual report of the budget and a profit and loss statement. This report should include the opinion of those two observers of accounts on how the budget represents the true financial position of the bank and how convinced they are by any illustrative data or information given to them by the bank director or by any other bank staff.

As one of the chartered accountants licensed by the Ministry of Commerce to conduct the audits, I have been working in this manner for more than twenty years, I have received invitations from several banks to conduct audits for them, but I have always apologized - out of piety - since those banks engage in activities suspected to involve Riba.

Many of our colleagues also do not carrying out audits for banks for this same reason.

Because of this, the task of auditing has to be exclusively carried out by only four accountancy firms, which consist of foreign companies working shoulder to shoulder with Saudi partners who are licensed to practice auditing. The negative impact of the presence of foreign companies in this field is obvious; it gives them a golden chance to know the financial and economic secrets of the Kingdom, because of the fact that banks are among the most important financial institutions that keep minute details on the economic position of countries. This is aside from the harmful impact of such practices that are known to every wary and sincere Muslim.

The task of comptrollers is to check the position of the banks and make sure that their financial activities have been carried out according to banks' internal regulations and the general systems that control their activities. The comptroller does not interfere in the decision-making process concerning the completion of any banking operations because his mission is only to make sure that all operations are carried out in accordance with the systems and regulations. This means that the position of the comptroller is different from the position of an ordinary employee who practices banking activities and contributes to the completion of banking operations according to the level of his job in the bank. Is practicing auditing in banks, in the light of what has just been mentioned,

among the prohibited practices according to our Shari`ah (Islamic law)? Is the comptroller included among those mentioned in the Hadith, which includes the following: \(Allah cursed the accepter of Riba, its payer, one who records it, and the two witnesses to it.\)

I wish for Your Eminence to issue a Fatwa in this regard, taking into consideration the needs of the Maslahah (public interest) and our Purified Shar` (Law).

May Allah guide us to the truth and safeguard us against falsehood; He is the All-Hearing, the All-Answering.

A: Reviewing and auditing Riba-based banks is not permissible, since it is considered to be helping others in their sins and transgression, while Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) says: \(Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allâh. Verily, Allâh is Severe in punishment.\) The wvastness of Munkar (that which is unacceptable or disapproved of by Islamic law and Muslims of sound intellect) does not mean that it has become permissible or even acceptable to find pretexts to make it available to or accessible by Muslims. It is obligatory to keep away from such practices and to offer continuous advice to the owners of Riba-based banks to quit fighting Allah and His Messenger, since Mubah (permissible) practices could suffice for them from Haram (ill-gotten money). Moreover, whoever abandons anything for the Sake of Allah, Allah will reward him with something better than it.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 175)

Q:1 I own an agency selling, buying, and releasing real estate. This agency has an independent legal personality. Some of the employees work for salaries while others work for a certain percentage of the income. The question now is that, I completely own those real estate and they are sold through the mediation of this independent office. Is there any impediment to make the buyer or tenant pay the commission of buying or leasing to this independent agency and then I take my percentage after that?

A: The fees of brokering are estimated according to 'Urf (custom) in defining its amount and who should pay it and to whom. If the two sides agree and consent of what is not the custom, there would be nothing wrong with that. But if they do not know the percentage or they do not agree on that percentage, it is not permissible. This is because the money of any Muslim is not permissible to be taken except with his consent and free will according to the abundant evidence in the Qur'an and Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet).

Q: The questioner would like Your Eminence to issue a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) clarifying to him whether his salary is Halal (lawfully-earned) money or Haram (ill-gotten) money. The questioner works in one of the ports of the Philippines and he is a Philippines employee. He says that he is in charge of collecting the fess of shipping in this port. These fees are on some prohibited goods such as wine, pork, and cigarettes. Is his salary taken from this job Halal or Haram?

He wishes for Your Eminence to clarify the issue for him since he is deeply worried about it.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, it is not permissible for the questioner to work in the mentioned port because in this way he helps in eating pork, drinking wine, and smoking. Fatwa no. 20656

Q: I went to one of the nearby groceries to buy milk for my children, the owner of the shop told me that they have a certain type of milk product which has cash prizes in the form of riyals. These prizes start from one riyal to five hundred riyals. I have bought four packages to earn more money. I found in two of the four packages one riyal in each, ten riyals in the third and five hundred riyals in the fourth. Is it permissible for me to take this money? If not, what should I do? If they are prohibited why do you not prohibit it so that people don't commit prohibited acts? Kindly clarify this issue for us, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: The principal ruling is that it is not permissible to put cash money or any other prizes inside food packages or any other goods, because this involves cheating people and attracting large numbers of clients and swerving people from buying other products which do not contain such prizes. Buying milk packages containing various amounts of money with the main aim of getting that money is not legally permissible. Also, it is a form of gambling which Allah prohibits because it involves fraudulence, uncertainty, and Riba (usury/interest), as the client hopes to restore some of what had been paid or even more than it. This is Riba in which it is prohibited to deal, because ignorance of equality (of goods) is like knowledge of inequality (of goods) and both are prohibited. So, it is not permissible for you to take the money you found inside the milk packages. You should better return it to the suppliers of this milk if it is easy for you to do so; otherwise, you could get rid of it through giving in charity to the poor and the needy.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Fatwa no. 21724

Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah) Alone and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. to proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed what has been sent to His Eminence the Grand Muftý (Muslim scholar qualified to issue legal opinions) from the questioner through the Center of Daw`ah and Guidance in Jeddah, and which was referred to the committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 5846 and dated 21/9/1421 A.H. The text of the question is:

Attached to the Fatwa request, you will find an advertisement for the Ramadan quiz competitions presented by Saudi television, channel one. It was sent by someone requesting the Fatwa of Your Eminence, since the contributors have to buy a calling card that is 15 riyals for adults and 10 riyals for children. The contestants call the program using the calling card and provide their names and phone numbers. The program presenter chooses one of the contestants randomly through the computer, phones him, and asks him about something shown in a short film. If the contestant gives the right answer, he wins the prize. It is not possible to participate in this competition or even call the program except by purchasing this calling card.

I wish for Your Eminence to clarify the issue for us.

After close examination of the Fatwa request, the committee replied that it is not permissible to hold such a competition as it involves gambling. The participants pay a certain sum of money to buy the calling card in the hope that they might win a larger sum of money, which is the essence of gambling prohibited by Allah according to the evident text of the Glorious Qur'an when He (Exalted be He) says: ﴿O you who believe! Intoxicants (all kinds of alcoholic drinks), and gambling, and Al-Ansâb, and Al-Azlâm (arrows for seeking luck or decision) are an abomination of Shaitan's (Satan) handiwork. So avoid (strictly all) that (abomination) in order that you may be successful.﴾

It involves Riba (usury/interest), since the participants pay this money to get more money than they paid for the calling card, which is made as a means for obtaining money through Riba.

Statement issued by the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' on the ruling on the competition prizes given by the Shop at Home program or any other kind of business competition

Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah) Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the Shop at Home program, which gives away prizes such as cars, computers, and mobile phones. The contestant buys withdrawn numbers from the program committee and gives them to the shop's clients free. The numbers are eligible to win valuable prizes from a pool of about 300 items including cars, phones, computers, and mobile phones, as advertised in the program brochures distributed. After studying this offer, the Committee concluded that this is a form of gambling, which is prohibited along with wine,

Al-Ansâb, and Al-Azlâm (arrows for seeking luck or decision) in what Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿O you who believe! Intoxicants (all kinds of alcoholic drinks), and gambling, and Al-Ansâb, and Al-Azlâm (arrows for seeking luck or decision) are an abomination of Shaitan's (Satan) handiwork. So avoid (strictly all) that (abomination) in order that you may be successful.﴾ (Shaitân (Satan) wants only to excite enmity and hatred between you with intoxicants (alcoholic drinks) and gambling, and hinder you from the remembrance of Allâh and from As-Salât (the prayer). So, will you not then abstain?)

Every contestant takes a risk by paying a certain sum of money while not knowing whether he will get something in return or not. This is the real nature of gambling. This practice also involves manipulating people's minds and cheating them. Some companies and foundations resort to these competitions to get great amounts of money without giving people anything in return, depending on false pretenses to lure the people. Any practice that involves gambling, fraudulence, eating people's money unjustly, or causing harm to other companies that do not apply the same practice is prohibited. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿O you who believe! Eat not up your property among yourselves unjustly except it be a trade amongst you, by mutual consent. And do not kill yourselves (nor kill one another). Surely, Allah is Most Merciful to you.﴾ (And whoever commits that through aggression and injustice, We shall cast him into the Fire, and that is easy for Allâh.)

Illustrated as thus, the Committee advises all Muslims to keep away from any practice against the guidance of Allah's Purified Manhanj (methodology), which He illustrates to His Servants in the abovementioned glorious Ayah. May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Statement issued by the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' on the ruling of the prizes won by competitions in games and the like

Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah) Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

A great number of questions are directed to the committee concerning the ruling of prizes won in competitions. The following question is one of them:

My question pertains to what I have seen in one of the recreation sites in Al-Thamamah. Some of the game venues - where the prices range from five to two hundred riyals - charge an admission fee of about ten riyals. In one of the games, the contestants throw the ball several times into a net. If the ball enters the net three times, they win two hundred riyals. If the ball enters two times, they win seventy riyals. If the ball does not enter the net or they were only able to hit it once, they will not receive anything. (This is a summary of what took place.)

As for the other types of games, they are:

- 1- Throwing a ball into specific holes on the wall.
- 2- Throwing a ball into a net on the wall.
- 3- Hitting a target by shooting a rifle.
- 4- Attempting to pass through a spring while holding a piece of iron without touching the spring.
- 5- Choosing the names of cities, actors, and footballers and trying to guess those names in closed boxes.
- 6- Throwing a small ball on a large box containing some numbers, with each number carrying the name of a certain prize.

We wish for Your Eminence to issue a Fatwa regarding this to clarify for people whether this practice is Halal (lawful) or Haram (prohibited).

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has replied that it is not permissible to take the prizes (whatever form they may take) won through those games and business and advertising competitions because they are a form of gambling, which Allah and His Messenger prohibited. Moreover, they are considered to eat people's money unjustly. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Wagers are allowed only in three (activities): shooting arrows, racing camels, or racing horses.) The Prophet allows wagers in these three activities only because they are means of Jihad (striving in the Cause of Allah). The mention of those three activities excludes any other forms of competitions. The principal ruling concerning people's money is that it is prohibited to eat it unjustly. His Eminence `Abdul-`Aziz ibn `Abdullah ibn Baz (may Allah be merciful to him) wrote an essay in this regard on 15/7/1402 A.H., in which he states that it has been noticed that some foundations and malls advertise in newspapers and other media about giving prizes to whoever buys their products. This entices people to buy their products or to buy unnecessary goods just to get these prizes. Since this is a form of gambling, which is legally prohibited and which leads to eating people's money unjustly, and involves a hard sell to promote the sales of certain products and decrease the sales of similar products by competitors who do not adopt the same gambling practices, I would like to draw the readers' attention to the fact that these practices, and the prizes won through them, are prohibited because they are a form of gambling, which is prohibited in Shari`ah (Islamic law).

A Fatwa was issued from the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' no. (18172) dated 15/10/1416 A.H., prohibiting the competitions that some newspapers hold as means of advertising their products in order to increase their sales. There is also another Fatwa no. (20656) dated 6/11/1419 A.H., which prohibits the prizes that companies put inside packaged food and other goods in order to entice clients to buy their products and divert them from buying the products of other companies that do not adopt the same practices. The Fatwa stresses the fact that these practices are not permissible in Shari`ah and they are a form of gambling, which Allah prohibited as it involves fraudulence and ignorance. A decree was issued by the Council of Senior Scholars no. (162) dated to 26/2/1410 A.H., concerning the ruling on the competitions that some companies hold and advertise in mass-media to obtain large amounts of money without giving anything in return, and which depend on deceiving common people with vain hopes and dealing with them fraudulently. The council found that this is a form of eating the people's money unjustly, because everyone who participates pays a certain sum of money without knowing whether or not they will get something in return, which is a form of gambling and prohibited in Shari`ah.

All Muslims who pay a small amount of money in the hopes that they may get more than what they paid, and those who resort to these prohibited tricks to promote the sales of their products, and newspapers and other media who participate, should repent to Allah and keep steadfast to the permissible means of earning money and seeking for Rizq (sustenance).

May Allah grant us all success in knowing what is right and applying it in our actions. He is All-Hearing, All-Answering! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad.

Fatwa no. 19416

Alhamdu lillah (All praise is due to Allah) Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed what has been sent to the His Eminence the Grand Mufty (Muslim scholar qualified to issue legal opinions) from the questioner, the chairman of the Annual Charity Running Race, `Abdul `Aziz ibn `Aly Al-Turky, and which was referred to the committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under number (269) and dated 14/1/1418 A.H. The questioner says:

For two years, we held an annual charity running race in the Eastern region, which aimed to achieve the following:

- 1- To train the members of our society to perform athletic activities that strengthen their bodies.
- 2- To spread the spirit of cooperation among members of our society in charitable projects through activities involving participation, love, and helping others.

- 3- To implant the principles of public service in the minds of our students and train them for charitable activities for the good of our religion and country.
- 4- To collect donations and contributions from ticket sales and race advertisements and to distribute the collected sums among charitable societies in the region numbering about forty-eight, including the Association for Teaching People How to Memorize the Glorious Qur'an, the Orphanage, the Social Education Center, and the Association for the Care and Rehabilitation of the Disabled.

The Organizing Committee of the Annual Charity Race adopted the following means to achieve those aims:

- 1- Selling the subscription forms for 100 riyals through which the contestant was given the equipment needed for the Race, along with a medal. Every subscriber was free to participate either by running or by donating the value of his subscription form to the charities.
- 2- Some students distributed the subscription forms for those who wanted to participate in the Running Race or who wanted to donate at times other than those of prayer, school, and study.
- 3- Companies, institutions, and individuals were encouraged to participate by donating prizes for the winners and participants.

- 4- The Running Race was divided into two stages: the first stage is five kilometers and the second is ten kilometers. Both stages of the Race took place at the same time.

5- Awards were given to the first three place-getters according to their age. These awards were cups, medals, and different amounts of money in cash.

6- The remaining money was distributed by drawing lots among the attending participants who bought the subscription form, whether they participated in the Running Race or donated its value.

Your Eminence: These were the aims and ends of the Race. We only held this Race with a charitable aim to help others and with the pure intention of keeping it away clear from impediments. As such, we wish for your Eminence to clarify for us what is lawful and what is unlawful in our case to enable us to proceed in a manner that is better for our society and citizens aided by the success of Allah. Take into consideration that this charitable activity (the Annual Charity Running Race) is a purely voluntary activity for the organizing committee, the students, and all other contributors. It does not have any business orientation at all. Allah knows best.

After examining the Fatwa request, the committee concluded that the Race in the form outlined in the question is not permissible according to what the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿Wagers are allowed only in three \(activities\): shooting arrows, racing camels, or racing horses.﴾ What is meant by wagers is the compensation, the shooting arrows, and racing camels and horses.

Q1: I hope Your Eminence can clarify the following issue for me. It was announced that there will be a competition for the Glorious Qur'an during Ramadan, all over the Arab Republic of Egypt All praise to Allah alone, I won the competition and the prize attached to the letter I sent you. I have not yet accepted the money, as I want to make sure that there is no Riba (usury/interest) in this prize, even though I need some books such as Al-Mughni and Al-Insaf and Fatwas of Shaykh Al-Islam (Ibn Taymiyyah). I have studied some books in Hanbaly Fiqh (Islamic jurisprudence) such as Al-Umdah and Al-Sharh Al-Mumti` `Ala Zad Al-Mustaqni`, by Shaykh Muhammad Al-Salih Al-`Uthaymin, but I stopped because the Shaykh himself stopped at volume eight and has not yet issued volume nine. My husband is an employee whose salary does leave any room for buying even a cassette tape, not to mention one of those precious books. I wish for Your Eminence to clarify this issue for me.

A: If this competition was held only to answer cultural questions without having to pay any money to subscribe, then receiving any prize for that is permissible. However, if you had to pay money to subscribe before or after the competition, this is considered a form of prohibited gambling, and it is not permissible for you to take the prize.

Fatwa no. 21070

Q: I intend, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills), to launch a private magazine specializing in horsemanship in which I plan to profit through advertising and the gradual increase of sales and distribution. This could be achieved through holding a weekly competition with every issue, and the expanded distribution of the magazine will justify the price of advertising.

The nature of this competition can be explained as follows:

- The competition is managed through a special phone number where the participants' answers are mechanically answered.

- A special phone number is enclosed with each issue through which the participants can participate only once.
- The magazine explains the names, types, and classifications of the participating horses and the race rounds and conditions.
- Each participant selects three horses in order of preference to win the competition race. If any horse withdraws, the next one fills the gap. Usually the selections depend on the history of the participating horses, taking into account the number of competitions in which a horse has won, its performance in the last competition, its health conditions, and training activity.
- During the phone call, the participant registers his participation number, then he selects from the participating horses according to the information given.
- The participant will, In sha'a-Allah, complete his registration in only a few seconds.
- The winning participants are drawn electronically after feeding in the results of the competition.
- There will be ten valuable prizes awarded each week.

May Allah grant us success. We wish Your Eminence to clarify for us whether this competition is legally permissible or not. Moreover, I seek your advice since I wish to strictly follow what Allah likes and what pleases Him.

A: The mentioned competition is a form of prohibited gambling, Allah (Exalted be He) says:

﴿O you who believe! Intoxicants (all kinds of alcoholic drinks), and gambling, and Al-Ansâb, and Al-Azlâm (arrows for seeking luck or decision) are an abomination of Shaitan's (Satan) handiwork. So avoid (strictly all) that (abomination) in order that you may be successful.﴾ Thus, this competition is one form of devouring people's money unjustly. You have to keep away from such competitions. Whoever gives up anything for the Sake of Allah, Allah will compensate him with something better than it. He (Exalted be He) says:

﴿And whosoever fears Allāh and keeps his duty to Him, He will make a way for him to get out (from every difficulty).﴾ ﴿And He will provide him from (sources) he never could imagine.﴾

Q: We wish for Your Eminence to answer the following questions, may Allah reward you with the best. Dar Al-Ifa (House of Fatwa) in the Philippines, headed by Shaykh Mukhtar `Abid,

(Part No. 11; Page No. 195)

Deputy of the Ministry of Islamic Affairs in Saudi Arabia, organizes an annual competition for reciting the Glorious Qur'an on several levels (levels that are held for every municipality, every governorate, and every province) where several contestants are invited from both men and women. The referees are always men. The audience listens attentively to the recitations of both men and women. The question is: What is the ruling on such competitions? We wish for Your Eminence to answer this question in detail, giving evidence from the Glorious Qur'an and Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet) because Shyakh Mukhtar `Abid said that this competition is permissible for both men and women in the pretext that it encourages Muslims to study the Qur'an, whether reciting or memorizing.

I wish for Your Eminence to send one copy of your answer to the second address of the mentioned Mufty of Philippines. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: Holding competitions for helping people to memorize the Glorious Qur'an is a good work since it encourages people to study the Qur'an and memorize it, but women should be separated from men and should also be heard by women who best memorize the Qur'an to block means of temptation.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Fatwa no. 21563

All praise is due to Allah Alone and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed what was sent to His Eminence the Grand Mufty from the questioner, Prince Sultan ibn Faysal ibn Muhammad ibn `Abdul-`Aziz Al Saud, which was referred to the committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. (2983) and dated 15/5/1421 A.H. The text of the question is:

As Your Eminence knows that that our country is a joint place for those countries of Al-Sham (The Levant) and the Gulf States, the neighboring states have business transactions with the countries of Al-Sham and such is the case with Al-Sham which also needs some goods or services from those countries. The passage of land of The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has become a meeting point for the goods coming from Lebanon, Turkey, Syria, Jordan, Egypt, and other countries to the Gulf States and vice versa. This leads to the admission and passage of large numbers of lorries and trucks from those countries which results in a lot of road accidents, some of them leads to injuries, deaths and casualties in possessions and souls of the citizens both Saudis and others.

In light of what has just been mentioned, the state, may Allah maintain its prestige, detains the passing driver sending him to the penitentiary and takes upon itself to pay all his financial and in kind responsibilities till the issuance of a Shar`y (Islamically legal) sentence and its execution. As for Diyah (blood money), the Saudi charitable committees pay it in most cases because of the incapability of the passing driver to pay such large amounts of blood money. He may have a lengthy stay in penitentiary which forces him to quit his business as a breadwinner for his family back in his country which leads to great harm both for Saudis and or others.

We have a great desire for development and modernization so long as it coincides with our tolerant Shari`ah (Islamic law) since we would like to take the permission of our mindful state to apply the system of Islamic cooperative insurance to those who pass by in The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia which is similar to what is taking place in the neighboring countries. The following are some benefits of such a procedure:

- 1- We will totally comply with the conditions of Fatwa of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 51 which includes the permissibility of Cooperative Insurance .
- 2- The driver will also make use of this procedure at the time of having an accident, Allah forbid, as it will allow him to pay for his financial responsibilities and enable him to return home and keep his family together.

3- Financial saving of the state budget as a result of the needed charges for the comprehensive care of the prisoner.

4- The stability of the social and psychological status of the admissions and the passing of citizens coming from neighboring countries to our countries as they will feel safe in themselves and their rights.

5- Maintaining the rights of the citizens and expatriates and the availability of obtaining these rights as soon as possible especially when we take into consideration that in some cases there are wives and orphans who only have one breadwinner whose imprisonment will affect them negatively.

So, we hope that Your Eminence will kindly clarify this issue for us. May Allah grant you success!

After examining the Fatwa request, the Committee replied that a Farwa was issued from the Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' no. (55) prohibiting Commercial Insurance in all forms because of its harmful effects and great risks including using up people's money unjustly; its practices are legally prohibited and forbidden. A decree has also been issued by the Council of Senior Scholars no. 51 announcing that cooperative insurance is permissible but it should consist of the endowments of good donors and it should be meant for the help of the needy and the devastated without any profits for the participants even their capital, profits, or any return on investment since the participants intended Thawab (reward from Allah) (Glorified and Exalted be He) through helping the needy and not any worldly gain. This is included in what Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwâ \(virtue, righteousness and piety\); but do not help one another in sin and transgression.﴾ and what the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ﴿Allah will aid a servant of His so long as the servant aids his brother﴾ What has been mentioned in the question is considered as one form of prohibited commercial insurance, so it is not permissible to be ratified or applied.

Q. I am working in a certain company which makes contracts with some hospitals to supply medical insurance for the staff of this company since it pays one millions riyals, for example, to the hospital annually. Those hospitals have to treat the patients of the company staff for certain diseases and injuries according to what has been agreed upon in the terms of the contract. Is it permissible for us as employees to be treated in such hospitals according to the terms of this contract or is it a form of gambling?

A. The commercial insurance - which includes the Health insurance- is Muharram (prohibited) in all its forms as it involves using people's money unjustly. It also implies fraudulence, ignorance and gambling. Hence, it is obligatory upon every Muslim not to take part in such systems or even to use them if he is Riyadh Reconstruction Company will pay a certain amount of money per person regardless of the increase or decrease of the medical services against the paid sum during the year. A. The health insurance mentioned in your Fatwa request is one form of commercial insurance which is legally prohibited since it involves fraudulence, gambling and using people's money unjustly.

The Council of Senior Scholars issues a decree prohibiting commercial insurance. So it is neither permissible for Riyadh Reconstruction Company to conclude this contract, nor is it permissible for its employees to make use of or subscribe to it.

Ill-gotten Money

(What takes the ruling of usurpation)

Fatwa no. 15719

Q: About fifteen years ago I was in the house of one of our neighbors who was on his death bed. They took him to the hospital. I found his wife sitting with another woman, and I joined both of them. The other woman said to his wife: "Take some of his personal money." The wife replied: "Are you going to tell tales about me?" We replied that we will not do that. Moreover, we did not know what to do. The wife went to the safe and took an amount of money and Allah Alone knows how much was it, and she alone knows how much it was. After the death of the husband and the distribution of the inheritance, the stolen amount of money was not noticed. We did not tell anybody about it till now. Today I remembered this situation, so I went to the wife and advised her to pay this amount back or even to tell the inheritors about what had happened, but she told me that she can not do that, and I am sure that she will not be able to do it in the future. It must be taking into account that the other woman, who was sitting with the wife at the time, took some of it, may be the whole of it. I heard and saw it all but I did not know then what was the right action to take. The inheritors are the mentioned wife and her son and a daughter from a deceased wife. What is the ruling on this case and what should I do? What should the wife do and What should the other woman do? What should all of us do now? May Allah benefit us and you! May Allah reward you with the best!

A. The wife who usurped this money has to offer Tawbah (repentance to Allah) (Exalted be He) and pay it back to the inheritors of her husband especially to her step-daughter. The woman who insinuated to her has to pay back what she took, and she, along with anybody who knew and did not disapprove the guilty action, has to repent to Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He).

The second question of Fatwa no. 18490

Q 2: Is illicit money subject to Zakah (obligatory charity)? What is the ruling on giving in charity and financing marriage from illicit money?

A 2: If a Muslim earns illicit money while knowing it is ill-gotten at the time he acquires it, he has to repent to Allah and get rid of such wealth by donating it to a public enterprise other than building a Masjid (mosque) or give it to the poor and the needy. In brief, it is by no means permissible to keep such money while knowing that it is ill-gotten. If the money is acquired by robbery, plunder or theft, it should be given back to its rightful owners or their inheritors through whatever means if they are known; otherwise, if they are unknown, it should be given in charity on their behalf.

The third question of Fatwa no. 19611

Q 3: A person died, leaving three female heirs and a three-year boy. His inheritance included a pick-up truck, which was with one of his cousins, being the husband of one of the inheriting daughters of the deceased. Allah (Exalted be He) willed that I needed the above-mentioned pick-up truck. I asked the mentioned person to lend it to me for ten days to use it in transporting students and some objects. After the ten days, I returned it to him as intact as I had taken it. However, I deeply regretted this act, because the pick-up truck is not owned by this person, but is owned by the heirs, including a girl and a boy, who have no one to sustain them except benevolent people. Then, I decided to calculate the daily rent of the truck for ten days based on the rates of the car rent offices. However, I was puzzled about the following:

to whom should I give this rent: the girl, the boy, all of the heirs, or pay it as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) for the deceased, or the owner of the truck, taking into consideration that they all can afford their living, except the boy, the girl and their mother? I hope you will advise me.

A 3: You should pay the rent of the truck for the ten days and give the money to all the heirs, unless the legally accountable persons among them generously grant you their portion of the rent. The portion of the underage persons should be given to their Wakil (legal accountable person who acts on behalf of another for specific permissible matters).

Q 1: A woman says that she used to take some of the camel wool, according to the order of her mother-in-law. These camels were in the possession of the brothers of her mother-in-law. Some people said at that time that if the camels drank from the water they had, their wool, hair and milk became Halal (permissible). Did I make a mistake, respected Shaykh, in taking some of the wool?

A 1: If the owners of the camels permitted this woman to take some of the wool, and they knew and said nothing, there would be nothing wrong in taking the wool to use it. But, she is not permitted to take this wool without knowledge or agreement of the owners of the camels. She should try to get their permission for what was previously done and not to do this again unless they agree. If the camels drank the water of people who did not possess them, this did not permit them to use their milk, wool, hair and and so on, without the permission and approval of their owners.

Fatwa no. 20631

Q: I had a sum of money with a foreign company operative in Saudi Arabia. It is 4,500 riyals in return for the work I did for this company. I came to them several times to get it, but they could not pay, but they refused claiming that the engineer who received the project left the company to another. Thus, I should ask him for this sum. Finally, I went to the company's manager who told me that I should claim a sum of 20,000 riyals and submit the necessary documents for this claim. He also told me that I might give him some of the money or I take it, as this company is unfair. He explained the matter on the documents, and I received a sum of 20,000 riyals.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 208)

The question is: Is it Halal (lawful) to take the extra sum? If it is not, is it permissible to donate it to charitable project or pay it as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) for the needy? I hope you will give us your legal opinion. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: This is not permissible, because it includes lies and deception to take money in an illegal way. The questioner should ask the company for the sum he deserves. Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿O you who believe! Eat not up your property among yourselves unjustly﴾ You must give back the extra money to the company.

Fatwa no. 20777

Long time ago while I was in the prime of life, I was so inadvertent, ignorant and poor that I would steal livestock. Having repented and willing to discharge my responsibility regarding what I have stolen, I ask the following questions:

1- I stole an amount of cardamom estimating 120 riyals forty years ago and want to pay back its value. Should I estimate it according to its today's value or according to the value for which I sold it at that time?

2- I stole some goats that produced offspring while in my possession. Should I give back the original number of goats or give back the offspring in addition to the rightful owners?

3- If there were partners with me, should I give back my share only, or what should I do?

May Allah safeguard you!

A: You should pay the value of cardamom for which you sold it at the time you stole it to its rightful owner if alive or to the heirs if he is dead. If this is not possible, you should give it in charity on behalf of the owner. However, you should give the value to the owner whenever you reach him or his heirs later, in which a case the reward of charity will be yours In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). As for the goats you stole, you should give it back along with their offspring to the rightful owner if alive or to the heirs if he is dead. However, if there are no heirs or you cannot reach them, you should give the estimated total value of the goats and their offspring in charity on behalf of the owner. Anyway, you should give the goats and their offspring or their value to the owner whenever you reach him or his heirs later, in which a case the reward of charity will be yours In sha'a-Allah. If you have partners in stealing, you should free yourself from accountability through giving back your share of the stolen property to the rightful owner or give it in charity on behalf of the owner in case you could not reach the owner or the heirs as stated earlier. Moreover, you have to sincerely repent and be determined not to do this evil act again. Furthermore, you should advise your stealing partners to free themselves from accountability and warn them against Allah's Punishment. They should be advised that taking over people's properties is an act of injustice that is unforgivable unless properties are returned to the rightful owners or otherwise they forgive or waive their rights.

Q 2: I took some of my grandmother's money before she died with the intention of repaying it. However, my grandmother (may Allah be merciful to her) died before I could repay the money, bearing in mind that I am suffering from financial difficulties. What is the ruling in this case?

A: You must tell the legal heirs of your grandmother about it, because the money you took now belongs to the estate of your deceased grandmother (may Allah be merciful to her). If they - being the rightful owners of the money - overlook their right to it, it will be yours; otherwise, you will have to repay it to them.

A 2: If the reality is as you mentioned, landlords who have shareholders should not retain any piece of land to deceive them in order not to give them all their rights. This is regarded as procrastination in giving rights, which is injustice. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(Procrastination \(delay\) in paying debts by a wealthy man is injustice.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the question received by His Eminence the Grand Mufty from His Eminence the Director of Da`wah and Guidance Center in Dammam, no. 22/1/1295, dated 25 Sha`ban, 1421 A.H., including a Fatwa request sent by His Excellency the Commander of the Military Police in the Eastern Province Border Guard, and referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, no. 5458, dated 1 Ramadan, 1421 A.H. He asked His Excellency the following question:

"We would like to notify Your Eminence that we had a department called Financial Claims, which was newly structured in 1417 A.H. Before that year, we had a sum of 9,705 riyals left. This sum was collected from some individuals for the interest of other citizens. We attempted many times to know who the citizens were, for whom this sum was collected or the individuals paying this sum, but we could not identify any of them.

Thus, we hope you will inform us whether we can spend this sum in building and repairing the Masjids (mosques) in the Border Guard. May Allah safeguard and protect you."

Upon considering the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that the one who collected the sum should exert all possible efforts to know the identify of the payers and payees, and this includes publicizing this matter. If they failed to identify them after exerting effort, they should pay the sum as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) intending the owners of this money to reap the reward, or they can use it in a charitable project.

Q: I graduated from one of the institutes in Riyadh and by Allah's Help I obtained a university degree. After graduation, I joined the armed forces as an officer in 1402 AH. It is well known that a university graduate receives 50,000 riyals, if he has not worked in a governmental institution. However, I worked for five years as a teacher with the certificate I obtained from the institute. Then, Allah guided me to the right path and I began thinking about this 50,000 riyals day and night, wondering if it was Halal (lawfully-earned money) or Haram (unlawful). I tried to return the money to the proper authorities, but this would result in a military trial and an in-depth inquiry, because I am an officer. I hope you will direct me regarding what to do with this money. Should I send it to the Mujahids (those fighting in the Cause of Allah) in Palestine, Afghanistan, or to any Muslim country where it may be needed? Answer us, may Allah grant you success.

A: If the reality is as mentioned, you should pay this money in charity to the poor.

Sometimes I receive amounts of money assigned to certain activities, such as the arts, sports and other activities, but I take a lot to myself and spend little of it (on the purposes assigned by the donors). I do not know exactly the amount I have taken; and now I repented. How can I discharge myself from this catastrophe?

May Allah bless Your Eminence Shaykh, grant you long life in obeying Him, and make your last deeds the best. My peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and Companions.

A 3: Try hard to count the sums you took, and bring them back to the treasury of the school. If you fail to do this, you should pay them as Sadaqah (voluntary charity) to the poor with the intention of paying it on behalf of its donors. Moreover, you should repent to Allah (Exalted be He). Q: My father worked in France for four or five years, then he returned to Morocco. They used to send to him his pension years later. After his death, the pension was transferred to my mother, who asked all of my brothers to sign a document related to the pension. When I refused, she became extremely angry with me. I regarded every cent over the sum deducted from my father's salary in return for his work as Haram (unlawful). However, I signed the document to satisfy her after all of my brothers signed it to enable my mother to receive the pension via a bank.

Did I commit a mistake by signing this document? Is the pension, especially the sum that exceeds the deduction taken on my father's salary during his work, Haram?

A: If your father deserves this sum in return for his lawful work, all of you shall inherit it after his death, as it is the right of you all. But, if it is in return for unlawful work, it is Haram to him and to you, and you should not take it.

Q: I am the legal Wakil (legally accountable person who acts on behalf of another for a specific permissible matter) for my brother who has gone abroad to complete his master's degree. He gave me a sum of money to distribute it among the poor. Then, one year after traveling, my brother authorized me to pay Zakah (obligatory charity) of his money which is a trust on me. The same occurred the following year until the total amount of money became about 5,000 riyals. Praise be to Allah, in Ramadan of this year 1400 A.H. my financial condition improved and I gave out this money. I hope you will give me Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) to clarify whether or not I must atone for this delay in order to please Allah. I am waiting for your reply. May Allah reward you in the best.

A: You committed a grave error by delaying the distribution of the money, which you were entrusted to deliver all this time. However, you have given it to its beneficiaries. Q: One of my relatives killed one of his relatives in Jordan and received a sentence of 6 years, according to the Jordanian law, in Amman. Then, a general amnesty was passed on all prisoners but my relative was committed to 20,000 riyals as Diah (blood money) according to a tribal conciliation in Jordan. However, he and his brothers owned nothing and all their relatives in this country deserted them. I was working at that time in the Saudi Arabian army in Turayf and they begged me to support them. So, I requested a leave and headed to Jordan. The Armed Forces commander in Jordan issued circulars to the Saudi forces so I collected the money and paid it. I exerted great effort to do. But I was in need of money at this time, so I kept 3,500 riyals from the collected money for myself.

I gave this money as a dowry for a bride in addition to some money I had. Now, my previously imprisoned relative lives in Al-Qurayyat. He is corporal sergeant, married and has children and a house. What can I do with this money to stop the pricking of the conscience and clear away my past misdeeds? Note that the money was a donation from numerous soldiers; some of them donated around 10 riyals, more or less and I do not know them? Please, give me Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar), may Allah reward you with the best! Should I pay this money back to that man, because it was collected for him or give it in charity on behalf of those who donated it? May Allah prolong your life!

A: If the case is as you mentioned, you have to spend this money in a similar purpose like that for which the money was collected, i.e. someone unable to pay blood money. Otherwise, you should give it in charity. We hope Allah will reward you well for helping your Muslim brother and forgive your delay of this money.

Someone found the lost money, but he did not know who it belonged to. He was overtaken by desire for money and spent it because he does not know its rightful owner. What should he do after two years have passed since that? Please give us your reply. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: The person who found the money must return it to its rightful owner if he is still alive. However, if the rightful owner is dead, he must give it to his heirs. If he fails to give it to its rightful owner or his heirs, he may give it in charity to the poor while intending to dedicate the reward to the rightful owner and making Tawbah (repentance to Allah) of that sin.

Q 1: My grandfather was entrusted with some sheep, which my young father pastured. As far as I know, my father had not yet reached maturity at the time. One day, my father carelessly slaughtered one of the sheep and did not eat or do anything with it. He did so negligently and told his father that it died. Then, they informed the owner of the flock that it died and he admitted that.

They did not tell him the truth and both of them are now dead. What should I do? If they are committed to doing something, how should it be repaid especially as I do not know the owner of the sheep? Answer us, may Allah reward you with the best!

A 1: If you do not know the owner of the sheep, you should pay its price in charity on his behalf. The money is taken from your father's estate or from your money and you will be rewarded, in sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

Fatwa no. 20704

Q: My brother works at a school whose principal appears to be a righteous person, even though no one can verify this but Allah (Exalted be He). However, he is accustomed to doing a strange thing which he does not want to abandon: when one of the school teachers wants to marry the principal orders the salary official to cut off a certain sum of money from the teachers' salaries whether they like it or not on the pretext of giving financial assistance to the would-be husband. He tells the teachers that he does not force anyone to pay and that everyone may decline to do so. However, many teachers cannot object out of shyness and for fear of being accused of stinginess. Even though the teachers now receive their salaries at the bank, the situation remains the same, albeit in a different way. A list, including teachers' names and the sum due to be paid, is given to the teachers. Once the paper is given to a teacher, their shyness prevents them from objecting. As the teacher knows that the paper will ultimately fall into the hands of the would-be husband, their shyness motivate them to pay. Moreover, in case of refusal, the teacher is asked why. At that point, they are told that the money will be paid on their behalf on the assurance that they will pay it back at a later time. Thus, shyness motivates them to pay. Many teachers told their colleagues that it was shyness that motivated them to pay and that they did not offer the money willingly. Strangely enough, like I said before, the principal, despite being righteous, is committed to doing this as assistance is needed and the amount paid is too little. It seems that he is influenced by what is known as social status. This custom is widespread among many school principals. He also thinks that by doing so, he is inviting people to do a good deed.

He claims that he cannot give up this practice.

I hope Your Eminence will tell us whether or not this practice is permissible. If not, please give him a word of advice so that he may give up this practice which may render him sinful in the sight of Allah (Exalted be He) and which makes him an object of mockery among the teachers. We also hope that you will tell us whether the teachers should continue to pay the money unwillingly or if they should inform the principal that they are not satisfied with what he does.

A: One of the fundamental principles of Islam is that it is not lawful for the Muslim to take the property of his fellow Muslim unless they give the money willingly. This has been indicated in many textual proofs. Accordingly, it is unlawful for this principal to cut off an amount of money from the teachers' salaries to help their colleagues unless they willingly agree to do so.

Q: A questioner asks about the agreement of Al Yahmad tribe to establish a fund according to a foundational memorandum, which includes five items with numerous clauses.

A: After considering the attached agreement, it is clear that it includes financial obligations that must be fulfilled by members of the tribal kinship. Any member of the tribe, does not participate in the agreement, is considered as separated from the kinship and should undertake the consequences. Hence, it is not permissible to agree on these conditions or to bind people by them, because these obligations have not been obligated by Allah or His Messenger. Also, it may break the ties of kinship and cause hatred and disagreement, a result that completely contradicts the purposes of the purified Shari`ah, such as friendliness, love and cooperation between relatives.

Fatwa no. 21477

Q: We have a special fund for the benefit of its subscribers, but it involves complicated conditions. Such conditions are as follows: The subscriber has to pay one thousand and two hundred Riyals by the end of each year, at a rate of one hundred Riyals per month. Should there be any delay in payment, the subscriber will have to pay a hundred Riyals as a penalty in addition to the delayed sum for six months. (If a subscriber declines to pay) they will be considered to have withdrawn from the fund. Also, they will not be entitled to any sum of money, and their balance in the fund will be confiscated

in the interest of the other members of the fund. Should they desire to reactivate their membership, they will have to pay the delayed sum in double, together with any discrepancies that might have taken place during their withdrawal period or when stopping the payment. It is to be noted that some subscribers have sufficient incomes, while some others receive small salaries not exceeding one thousand and five hundred Riyals [per month], and some others are unemployed. This makes the latter delay payment and consequently, which results in their being considered to have withdrawn, with their balances being confiscated for the benefit of other fund members.

Provide us with a fatwa in this concern, may Allah reward you, noting that I have sought to come to an understanding with the secretary of the fund but to no effect. The responsible people insist on carrying out the penalty clause. I hope that you issue an official fatwa on this penalty clause and the confiscation of the subscriber's rights in this fund. May Allah safeguard you.

A: Reviewing the referred to agreement, it is found that it contains financial penalties double that which the subscriber pays in the first place or deprives them of their dues in the fund, etc. Such penalties are unlawful, because they are against the consent of the subscribers and because it causes hatred and quarrels among the subscribers as is noted. So, such an agreement must be given up.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family and his Companions!

Fatwa no. 21678

Q: A treasurer at a State-owned institution was robbed. The stolen objects were public money in addition to a sum of money pertaining to a colleague who deposited it with that treasurer. However, the workers of the institution collected money for the treasurer equal to what was stolen from him.

1- Is it permissible for him to take the donations to settle that money?

2- Is it permissible for the one who deposited the money to take his money from these donations?

A: There is nothing wrong with collecting money from benevolent people equal to what was stolen. It is permissible for the person who deposited the money to take his money back from that money.

Luqatah

The first question of Fatwa no. 14218

Q 1: Nearly four years ago I found about four hundred Riyals in a wallet. Before I spent the money, I kept looking for the owner of the wallet, but I could not find him. So, I spent the money. What should I do to expiate for that sin? Thank you.

A: Anyone who finds Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) must advertise it in public places for one whole year, especially in the area where he found it. He should acquaint himself with the features that distinguish it from all similar objects. If the rightful owner is not found, he may give it in charity to the poor while intending to credit the reward to its rightful owner.

The first question of Fatwa no. 14266

Q 1: Around the year 1380 AH, I was walking with my friend in one of the streets of Riyadh when we came across a wallet which contained three hundred Riyals and four pounds. We divided the money between us: one hundred and fifty Riyals plus two pounds each. At that time, one pound equaled around forty Riyals. My question is: What should I do with that money so that I can clear myself of any sin? It is to be noted that I did not advertise this money publicly at that time. Please advise me! May Allah reward you with the best!

A: You are duty bound to give an equal amount of money to the Fugara' (poor) in charity while having the intention to credit the reward to the rightful owner. You must also turn to Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) in repentance. You should have advertised the lost money for one whole year publicly.

Q: I found a brass statue of a bird standing over a cross in the street. There is an antiques company, which sends its worker to collect all the ancient monuments left behind by the British and the Germans in World War I. Some friends told me that selling this bird-like statue is not permissible, because it reaches the Christians, who worship the cross under the bird. I was not convinced, because my friends did not give me evidence from the Qur'an or the Sunnah (whatever reported from the Prophet). I sold this antique for an amount of dirhams. Am I sinful for doing that? Answer me, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: It is not permissible to pick up a Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) unless one will announce it for a year in hope of finding its owner. If one does not find the owner, it is allowable to take it. But the case here is different, because the object found is a bird made of brass which is dishonored property. You should have destroyed it and it is unallowable to sell it, because it is an embodied the image of a living animal. Thus, you are required to get rid of this money and give it to the poor.

The first question of Fatwa no. 16482

Q: Someone found five hundred Riyals in a street where there were no passers-by. He kept the money in the hope that its owner might show up and ask about it, which did not happen. He has had the money in his possession for one and a half months now. What should he do with it? Is he free to spend it or to spend one half and give the other half in charity to the poor and the needy, or should he deliver it to Bayt-ul-Mal (Muslim treasury)? What is the ruling on the person who finds a sum of money in Makkah Al-Mukarramah, Al-Ta'if, or Jeddah?

A: One may pick up the money which he finds in the street. He must acquaint himself with its distinguishing features and make a public announcement for one year that he has found money. He may advertise it in the newspaper. He must deliver it to anyone who identifies its distinguishing features. This is based on the Hadith in which the Prophet (peace be upon him) replied to a question about someone who finds Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else). He (peace be upon him) said: \(Take note of its container and its tying material then make a public announcement about it for one year and if its owner comes, give it to him; otherwise use it as you like.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)

If the owner comes during the year of announcement, the finder must give it to him after asking him to identify its distinguishing features. However, the profit of the Luqatah may not be delivered to its rightful owner. It should be kept in the possession of the finder because it was made while in his possession.

The finder may make a one-year advertisement of the Luqatah by making a public announcement twice or thrice a month. This is not the case for a Luqatah which is found in Makkah: the finder has no right to use it freely. Only someone who constantly makes a public announcement for it may keep it in his possession. This is based on the Hadith in which the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: \(...and picking up its fallen things is illegal except by him who makes a public announcement about it.\)

Q 2: If someone finds a small amount of money, not gold or silver, should they wait for one year and search for its owner or spend it because it is little?

If the money found is of a considerable amount in the eyes of common people, it is obligatory on the one who finds it to announce its distinctive features in public places for one year. The person who found it should choose a suitable time for announcing it two or three times per month. If a year elapses and nobody comes to take the money, it is permissible for the finder to take it, unless it was picked up from Al-Haram in Makkah (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah). This is because the Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) of Al-Haram in Makkah must not be possessed by announcement, according to the statement of the Prophet (peace be upon him) regarding Al-Haram: \(Its found object is not allowable to be picked up except for someone who will announce it and if its owner comes,

it should be given to him.﴾ If the amount of money is inconsiderable in the eyes of common people, it may be taken when found and it is not obligatory to announce it.

Moreover, the owner of the wallet lives in a remote area.

What should I do? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: You must return the aforesaid wallet to its rightful owner unless he gives you permission to use it freely. If you feel shy to give it to him personally, you may send it by any means possible without their knowing who the finder was.

The eighth question of Fatwa no. 14893

Q 8: I found a sum of money somewhere and asked people there about it but it was not theirs. Is it permissible to use this money?

A 8: It is required of you to announce it in places where people usually gather and where you may find its owner for one year. If nobody comes, you should write the description of this money and the type of case in which the money was found, if it was inside a case, and then you can spend this money. If its owner comes, even after a long time, and gives its description, you should pay it to him. You may pay this money in charity and if its owner comes, you should inform him of that. If he is not satisfied, you should give him the money and the charity is counted for you. However, if the money is little, it is not obligatory to announce it. In addition, if you picked it up from Al-Haram in Makkah (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) it must be paid to the authority concerned.

The ring is still with us until now. Please, illustrate for me if I can sell it and give its price in charity or what should I do? I hope you will give me the appropriate advice.

A 1: If the reality is as you mentioned that your mother announced for five years about the ring in places where women always gather while its owner did not show up, it is permissible for you to use it. If its owner comes and identifies it one day, even after years, they should be given it or its price. However, it is better for you to give it or its price in charity on behalf of its owner.

Lost sheep

Q: I am a shepherd and I often find many lost sheep. Three years ago, I came across a young goat, which delivered a goat and the goat gave birth to two young goats and a he-goat. I sold the male goat and the young goat was eaten by a wolf. I announced it but nobody claimed it. In addition, I found a he-goat four months ago and no one asked about it. I slaughtered and ate it. Moreover, I found another goat one year ago, which gave birth to a young goat and no one asked about it until now. Please, advise us.

A: First, we advice you not to take lost sheep unless you announce it for one year. You should do that yourself or get someone to do so on your behalf in places where it is hopeful to find its owner. You should choose the times when the owner of the lost sheep is expected to be present and do that once or twice a month until a year elapses.

Second, if someone comes during the year and mentions the features of the lost sheep, give it and its descendants to him.

Third, if a full year elapses and nobody comes claiming the ownership of the sheep,

it and its descendants are yours.

Fourth, you have taken some sheep and bred them without performing the above-mentioned procedures, so you are required to evaluate them and give their value in charity on behalf of their owner. If the owner comes after that, you should let him choose either to approve of the charity and its reward will be given to him or to take the value of his sheep and you will receive the reward of the charity.

Once, they found a place in the desert where water was available, an old woman came asking about a lost sheep and its ram. This was at the beginning of the day and after five hours, the sheep and the young ram came. We searched for the woman but we did not find her. We did not know her name or place and we would not remain in that place. We left it after one and a half days. I should mention that we did not possess sheep, only camels. Therefore, my father, may Allah have mercy upon him, sent it to the market and sold it for fear of

The goat delivered three young goats and the woman sold the mother goat. What is the ruling on the price of this goat and what should she do with the three young goats? Now six years have passed, what is the ruling on my case? What should I do with the dirhams I collected? May Allah reward you with the best.

A: This is unrightfully forbidden seizure of money. You are sinful for that and you have to do the following:

- 1- Repentance to Almighty Allah for what you committed.
- 2- Returning this ram to its owner or his heirs if you know them to free yourself of it. If the ram is dead, you have to return its value.

I asked the neighboring owners of sheep and in the market but nobody claimed that they lost a goat of that description. As I purchase fodder and barley for my sheep, the goat has become fat and given birth to a young goat.

Dear respected shaykh, is it allowable for me to dispose of this goat - that is, to sell it for instance? Am I the owner of its young sheep? If it is allowable to sell it and who deserves its price? If I want to possess it, which is my desire, should I bring someone to assess its price? Should its young ram be evaluated with it? Should I assess it in its previous or current status? As a long period has elapsed and you did not announce the sheep, it is obligatory on you to give its price and the price of its offspring in charity on behalf of its owner. Luqatah in Al-Haram

Q: I found a watch valued at 35 riyals in Mina during the days of Hajj. I did not know that the Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) in Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) is not permissible to take except for someone who will publicize it. Then, I found out the ruling when I returned home. What is the ruling in this case?

A: It is impermissible to take the Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) in Al-Haram except for somebody who will advertise it by calling for it until he finds its owner and gives it to him. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, regarding Makkah: «And picking up its Luqatah is impermissible except for someone who will make a public announcement about it.» Thus, it was impermissible for you to take the watch you found in Mina and keep silent about it. You should repent to Allah for that and send the watch to the president of the High Court in Makkah informing him of the truth. You should give him a copy of this Fatwa to take the necessary action regarding it, in accordance with the instructions of the court with regard to objects found in Al-Haram.

Q: My father accompanied my grandfather, may Allah have mercy upon him, to perform Hajj in Makkah Al-Mukarramah. My father dwelt in a tent with some of his friends. Once, he went out to bring water he found a lady's handbag. He took it and entered the tent. He found in it 500 Saudi riyals, some documents and the passport of an Egyptian lady. He decided to give the bag to the neighboring Egyptian tent, but some bad friends recommended him to take the money and he did. Then, before returning to Yemen, he put the handbag in a bus of Egyptian pilgrims. This happened 20 years ago. Now my father wants to return this money but he does not know the address of the woman and he decided to give this money to a mosque to supply it with water. However, 100 Saudi riyals now equal 4200 Yemeni riyals, should my father, who is wealthy now, give this money in charity estimating its value at the time when he took it? At the time, 100 Saudi riyals equaled 130 Yemeni riyals. In addition, where should he spend that charity? Answer us, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: Your father was mistaken by taking the handbag and what was in it, because a Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) in Al-Haram is not to be picked up except by someone who will make a public announcement of it. However, a long time has gone by and it is hopeless to find the owner of the money, so it is obligatory on your father to give the money in charity to the poor of Al-Haram on behalf of its owner and to repent to Allah for that.

The sixth question of Fatwa no. 18252

Q 6: A few years ago, I found, in the yard of Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah), 1000 riyals. I searched for the owner but nobody answered. I decided to give it in charity on behalf of its owner. After I performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` (circumambulation of the Ka`bah on leaving Makkah) and left Al-Haram I purchased some fruits from Makkah, using half of this money. On the way back, I distributed the fruits among the travelers with me. Is my Hajj incomplete? I heard that a pilgrim who has performed Tawaf-ul-Wada` is not allowed to buy anything from or spend the night in Makkah.

A 6: The Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) found in Al-Haram must be announced until it reaches its owner and it is not to be owned by announcement. If someone did not make a public announcement of a Luqatah, they must give it to the authorities in charge of Al-Haram lost objects. You made a mistake by taking this money. You should return it to the authority in charge of Al-Haram lost objects and to repent to Allah Almighty for that.

a collection of golden ornaments. He sold them and made use of their price because he was ignorant of the ruling of Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) in Makkah. Now he knows the ruling and he is regretful and wants to repent to Allah and acquit himself of what happened. How should he do that, taking into consideration that this happened several years ago? May Allah benefit Islam and Muslims with you! Amen.

A: This man made a mistake, because the Luqatah in Al-Haram (all areas within the Sacred Sanctuary of Makkah) is not allowed to be picked up except by someone who will make a public announcement of it. However, he did that ignorantly, so it is obligatory on him to give its value in charity to the needy people in Al-Haram on behalf of their owner and to repent to Almighty Allah for that.

Q 2: Someone asks: After finishing their Hajj, some pilgrims leave some of their belongings in Mina, such as thermoses, portable gas stoves. What is the ruling on taking them as their owners left them and went away? Do these objects take the ruling of Luqatah (a lost item found by someone else) in Al-Haram (the Sacred Mosque in Makkah) or are they different? In addition, what about the shoes left in Al-Haram? Is it allowable to take some of them instead of the shoes that one has lost?

A 2: It is permissible to take instruments, utensils and clothes if their owners left them willingly. Yet, if their owners forgot them or will return to collect them, it is not allowable to take any of them and the authority in charge of lost objects in Hajj should be reported.

The second question of Fatwa no. 20807

Q 2: Because of the large number of sellers and buyers, some customers forget books which they bring to sell. As we did not agree with them on a price or they bring them for us to check them (the books) but time passes, days, months and sometimes they never return: What do we do with these books? Should we sell them or not? What if we do not know their owners, or do not see them again while we do not know their names or addresses? What should we do with these books among which some are valuable and others are not? Other customers may forget some riyals and hallalahs, so what should we do with them as we find them inside the books after purchasing them from customers? What is the ruling on this money? Is it ours or should we give it in charity?

A 2: If some customers forget something with you and a long time passes without knowing their address and they do not return, you should give it in charity on behalf of their owners. By doing so, you will be discharged from obligation In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills).

Foundling

Q: A woman took home a female infant child from one of the hospitals in the Kingdom (of Saudi Arabia) to bring up as her child. She raised the child and whenever someone asked about her she would say that she is her daughter. The young girl herself considered the woman her mother, the woman's husband as her father and her children as her brothers and sisters, etc. What is your opinion regarding this? Does she have the right to inherit? Is it permissible for the children of this woman to marry this girl? Appreciate your guidance, may Allah guide you.

A: Adopting and bringing up foundlings upon good manners and Islamic etiquettes is a noble act. It is hoped that one who does so will be greatly rewarded, but such a child shall not be regarded as a daughter or a son and does not inherit from those who bring them up. It is permissible for the son of the person who raises a female foundling to marry her through the courts if there has been no legal breastfeeding from her or anything else that prevents marriage.

All praise is due to Allah Alone. May peace and blessings be upon the last Prophet.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has reviewed the letter sent to the Grand Mufty from the judge of Harub Court no. 683, dated 22/11/1411 A.H., which was referred to the Committee by the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 4948, dated 28/11/1411 A.H. His Eminence, the judge, asked the following question:

A woman submitted a request to conclude a marriage contract with her fiancé. We concluded the marriage contract for her under our guardianship in document no. 81, dated 11/10/1410 A.H, because she was an illegitimate child. A document to this effect was issued, no. 81, dated 11/10/1410 A.H. to Sabiya' Personal Status Administration, asking to include the woman on his identification card as her husband. We completed the procedures for him and he enclosed along with the papers a letter from the chairman of Social Affairs in the Southern Province, no. 290, dated 29/2/1411 A.H., reading: "In the case of, this woman can she be given the name (...) in order to add her name to the husband's ID card." Finally, all the documents were submitted to us, no. 13466, dated 9/11/1411 A.H.; in addition to the letter which including the request of Sabiya' Personal Status Administration to change the name of the woman so that her name becomes

(...). We hope you will explain whether it is permissible to change her name according to the document of the Personal Status Administration from (...) to (...). Please, give us Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) on this matter. May Allah reward you with the best and guide your footsteps.

After examining the Fatwa request, the Committee replies that if the reality is as mentioned, it is not necessary to change the content of the ID card as long as it attributes this woman to her mother.

Q: Many misguided Muslim youth who work in France have illegal relationships with women and make sexual intercourse with them outside the bond of marriage. Some have children and after that they return to Allah in repentance. What is the ruling on a Muslim who has five children from a woman with a legal marriage contract? Are they attributed to him as being their father? I should mention that the children are his, but not through marriage. The woman considers him her husband as their man-made law allows such prohibited relations as long as the woman consents.

A: The children who descended from him before the marriage contract are not attributed to him but to their mother. It was authentically reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: \(The child is for the \(owner of the\) bed and for the fornicator

Q: I was sent by a governmental institution to study abroad after receiving my secondary certificate. I followed in the footsteps of Satan and became acquainted with a young girl. We were together a number of times, then I finally abandoned all of this. Four months later, I heard that she was pregnant and she claimed that I was the father of this child. (After she gave birth) I noticed that the child resembled me and everyone who saw him maintained the same. I have no doubt about the child being mine. This has disturbed me greatly and represents a bad past for me. Now, I want to marry but whenever I remember this girl and the child I become extremely sad, because of the bad reputation of this girl who is the mother of my child. I cannot bring this young woman here and marry her, because it is not permitted here to marry foreign girls, in addition to other reasons. Should I forget about her and the child and marry another woman or bring them here? Appreciate your guidance, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: First, you must repent to Allah for this immoral act and increase your good deeds so that Allah may replace your sins with good deeds.

Second, the child who this young woman gave birth to is not attributed to you but to her. You are not responsible for his provision. However, there is nothing wrong in doing good to him as a righteous deed.

Q: I am a 24-year old man studying in America. Two years ago, I met an American girl and after few days I had sexual intercourse with her. Our relationship continued for a while and she became pregnant. I did not care and we continued our relationship until she delivered a female baby. Now, the child is a year and half old and lives with her mother. Dear respected Shaykh, I do not know what to do in this case, and I do not know the ruling of Islam on it. Should I marry this girl? Is the child attributed to me or to her mother? Should I leave her, return to Saudi Arabia, repent to Almighty Allah and forget everything?

Dear Shaykh, please answer me as soon as possible. I should mention that I will do whatever you say, but I am totally concerned with the child's future. I am very confused and fear doing something which I will regret the rest of my life. Please, give me a clear answer. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: First, you have to turn to Allah in repentance for the crime of Zina (sexual intercourse outside marriage) which you committed, increase your good deeds and acts of obedience and avoid sins and bad company.

Second, the child, which came from Zina, should not be attributed to you but to her mother.

The fifth question of Fatwa no. 16843

Q 5: A man works in France and has a daughter which is not an upright Muslim. She left the house of her father and complained to the French authorities. He went to court and she remained in their custody for months and finally he received her, praise be to Allah. He returned her to their home country and left her at his brother's who would provide for her. A few months later, she left her uncle and the whole country. Then, she returned bearing an illegitimate male child. Her uncle and all her relatives refused to receive her, and her father told her that if she wanted to remain under his guardianship, he would send her money to be with her uncle but he would not accept the child. However, she refused to forsake her child while her father rejects her baby. What is your answer? Is the father wrong? What is the way out?

A 5: The aforementioned people should protect their daughter and command her to repent to Allah for what she committed. They should hasten to marry her to a righteous man who will take care of her. As for the child, she will be her son and they should be keen to bring him up correctly, and Allah forgives those who repent to him.

Q: One of my relatives found a baby, whose age at that time was just a few hours old. She informed me about this; and she is poor, trying to earn her living by hard work. Thus, I decided secretly to do the following: I talked to my wife in this respect and agreed to bring up and adopt the baby, seeking the satisfaction of Allah. Allah (Exalted be He) will provide us with the means of subsistence for bringing up this baby, who is not to blame for this horrible crime. I feared that the baby may become ill-bred and fall into the trap of sin and perversity. Allah (Exalted be He) knows best that I had a good intention; and did not know at that time from the Qur'an about adoption except the Ayah (Qur'anic verse), in which Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) speaks about His honorable Messenger (peace be upon him): ﴿Muhammad (ﷺ) is not the father of any of your men, but he is the Messenger of Allāh and the last (end) of the Prophets.﴾

(Part No. 11; Page No. 257)

As far as I knew at the time, this Ayah is only related to the Prophet (peace be upon him). I registered my name as the father of the baby lest the baby should be looked at in a disgraceful way. I did not register either in the police reports or in any other documents that this baby is my adopted son. After nine years, Satan started to insinuate my wife that this boy is actually my son from another wife. Row triggered between us, and she claimed that she wanted to know the permissibility of having this boy among us, and the legal opinion regarding this matter. It is worth mentioning that she breast-fed him three months after weaning her son. However, the baby was not able to suck at her breast, and she dropped milk into his mouth more than once. Now, after nine years and the problem has become severe, I could not prove that this baby is my adopted son, because he is registered in the official documents as my son. I hope you will reveal to me and to my wife whether what we did is Haram (unlawful), for which we will be accounted, even though I did not know and had a good intention seeking only Allah's Consent. I hope you will tell me what to do and the child is now nine years old, and all of the people and his brothers know that he is my son. Please inform us by an official letter so I can live peacefully with my wife. May Allah benefit you.

A: Bringing up the foundling and being benevolent toward him is a good deed for which you will be rewarded. However, adoption is neither valid nor permissible; and the child is regarded as Ajnaby (a man other than a spouse and unmarriageable relatives), and your wife should be veiled in front of him. However, if your wife breast-fed him five times in the first two years of his age, he becomes your son through breastfeeding ties. You should refer to the legal court to finish the related matters. And Allah knows best.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family

Fatwa no. 16980

Q: I adopted an illegitimate child from the hospital and ignorantly registered his name along with my children on my ID card. I named him `Abdul-Rahman and my wife suckled him. Later, I learned that what I did was contrary to Allah's Shari`ah and the Sunnah of our Prophet (peace be upon him). Please, clarify for me the status of this son. What should I do in order to correct right what I have done? I should mention that I do not want to renounce him, because I consider him one of my children and he is now 16 years old.

A: The aforementioned child is your son through breastfeeding ties if your wife breast-fed him, during the first two years, five times or more. However, it is not permissible to register him along with your children as being your son. It is obligatory on you to go to the authority concerned and have his name removed from your ID card and have an ID card issued for him. This may include `Abd such as `Abdullah, `Abdul-Rahman or the like.

Fatwa no. 17910

Q: About 20 years ago, my sister married a man and I was young at that time. She immediately became pregnant, but only Allah knows if the child was from her husband or someone else. Consequently, the husband disowned the child and they were referred to the courts where they were given a legal ruling. There were witnesses and Li'an (allegation of adultery against a wife, accompanied by mutual invoking of Allah's Curse/Wrath if lying) and the matter was finally resolved.

The point is that my father adopted the child and attributed him to his name. Hence, the child became my brother and an uncle of the children of his mother who are actually his brothers and sisters. My father did so with good intentions so that the child would not be taken to a foster care home. He thought that doing so would provide care for an orphaned child. However, the child grew up and is now a young man. My father registered him along with the family and an ID card was issued for him in my father's name. A lot of people do not know that he is not my father's son, and it is known that Islam prohibits giving an orphan one's name.

I hope you will explain the proper and legal way to correct the status of the family and safeguard it against mixture of lineages. I told my children that the young man is not related to them, but they find this odd, because he has the same name of our father. I am confused, as my father is still alive and I fear that if we pass away while these young children do not know the truth about him and his offspring as their Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) while in fact they have no relation to him. Appreciate your guidance, may Allah reward you with the best.

A: The child in question should be attributed to his mother and your father is regarded as his maternal grandfather. It is not permissible for your father to adopt the child due to the bad consequences. You are considered his maternal uncle, but your children are regarded Ajanib (men other than spouses and unmarriageable relatives) to him. Regarding the formal procedures, you should ask the authorities concerned to correct the situation.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Fatwa no. 21145

All praise is due to Allah Alone. May peace and blessings upon the Prophet.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read the letter sent to the Grand Mufty from the designate undersecretary of the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs no. 8351, dated 16/3/1420 A.H. The letter was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 2444, dated 25/4/1420 A.H. and His Eminence asked the following question: "You know that the ministry is concerned with providing institutional and social care services for people with special needs, who descend from anonymous fathers or through adultery. They should be given suitable and common names known in our community as their legal right.

There was a previous Fatwa by

the former Mufty, may Allah have mercy upon him, which stated that the second and the third names must begin with `Abd, which was observed in this regard. The actual application of this Fatwa for many years has put us into the difficulty of the resemblance of names. Some people thought they were relatives. We are trying to avoid this, but we face another difficulty which is the use of names that begin with `Abd but are not common in Saudi society, thus leading some of those who had these names to complain. They maintained that their names indicate their real social status in schools, hospitals, summer centers, etc.

The aim of the Fatwa, as the former Mufty put it, was meant to console those facing these conditions. Moreover, names which do not begin with `Abd and Al are consistent with the reason for the Fatwa - that is, the names must not be related to anyone and, at the same time, avoid the difficulty which innocent children experience apart from their social status. It goes without saying that making them happy and alleviating their difficulty is obligatory on us. It is known that whatever is required for fulfilling an obligation is obligatory in itself. Thus, you may view nothing wrong with canceling the stipulation of choosing names beginning with `Abd, because of the aforementioned reasons and allowing the use of a quadruple names that are common in Saudi society.

In addition, we want to know if it is permissible to include this category in the directions of the Crown Prince in his order no. M/385/7, dated 21/9/1418 A.H., which includes his confirmation on registering the names with Ibn or Al to the names in all kinds of correspondence and in schools. Excluding them from this may expose their social status in the society.

Finally, we want to know the Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) on the permissibility of changing the names of two children who were cared for by a surrogate family and were breast-fed by the same woman so that they became brothers through breastfeeding ties. The nursing mother asks that their second, third and fourth names be identical in order to further console them and alleviate their suffering.

We would like to inform you that there was a meeting with the late Shaykh `Abdul-`Aziz ibn `Abdullah ibn Baz shortly before his death in which Dr. Salih Al-Waniyan, a professor at the Islamic University of Imam Muhammad Ibn Sa`ud in Al-Qasim, asked him about the bad results of limiting names to that beginning with `Abd, as mentioned in His Eminence's Fatwa. After some discussion, he answered that this Fatwa could be changed if it would be sent back for review. We prepared the letter but

Allah destined (his death) before it was handed to His Excellency, may Allah have mercy upon him. May Allah help you spread knowledge by which He elevates your status."

After studying your Fatwa request, the Committee states the following:

- 1- Among the ways of benevolence in the Islamic Shari`ah is to provide for illegitimate children whose lineage is unknown. It is commendable to be good to them, safeguard them, bring them up in an Islamic manner and teach them the obligations and etiquettes of our faith. This carries great reward for those who care for orphans. The Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: \("I and the one who looks after the orphan are in Paradise like this." And he \(peace be upon him\) pointed with his index and middle fingers, then separated them.\) (Related by Ahmad, 335-6; Al-Bukhari, 178-6 and 76-7 from a Hadith narrated by Sahl Ibn Sa`d (may Allah be pleased with him); Ahmad, 375-2; and Muslim, 2287-4 no. 2983 from a Hadith narrated by Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him). (The Hadith is agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim)
- 2- Among the legal rights of a child of unknown parentage, such as an illegitimate child, is to give it a good name, but the name must be Islamic and does not contradict the rulings of the Shari`ah regarding naming a child.
- 3- It is permissible to give him a father's name, such as `Abdullah and similar names that begin with `Abd or other names such as Hasan, Khalid, etc.,

names which do not disagree with the rulings of the purified Shari`ah.

- 4- It is not permissible to attribute an illegitimate child to a family or a tribe as this is lying, deception and obscurity as well as the result of confusing lineages. Also, it is not permissible to attribute the child to another illegitimate person. It is reported on the authority of Abu Dhar (may Allah be pleased with him) that he heard Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) saying: \(Any man who knowingly attributes himself to someone other than his father is guilty of Kufr \(disbelief\).\) (Related by Muslim) Al-Bukhari added in his narration: \(Anyone who claims to belong to some folk to whom he does not belong, let him take his place in Hellfire.\)
- 5- It is not permissible to adopt a child with unknown lineage, such as an illegitimate child because of Allah's statement: \(nor has He made your adopted sons your real sons.\) and: \(Call them \(adopted sons\) by \(the names of\) their fathers: that is more just with Allâh. But if you know not their father's \(names, call them\) your brothers in faith and Mawâlikum \(your freed slaves\).\) Therefore, it is not permissible to attribute an illegitimate child, male or female, to his caregiver because it is prohibited and a major sin. Some people register those children on their ID cards and family cards, but this is blatant forgery and transgressing the limits of Allah. In addition, this includes lying to those in charge in the government, which is unacceptable. It should be mentioned that this registration establishes neither lineage nor inheritance from the one to whom the child is attributed. Whoever has done so should hasten to repent to Allah and set things right.

6- There is nothing wrong in issuing ID cards for orphans and providing them with triple names and fathers' names with the term "Ibn" [son (of)] being in-between to correlate between their names and nicknames. This may also include attributing their names to the place where they were found, because this is a great consolation to them.

7- If a person raises more than one illegitimate child, it is not permissible to make the names of their fathers and grandfathers identical, because this involves deceptive brotherhood in lineage, dishonesty and other bad results in lineage and inheritance, thus resulting in great harm.

8- It is obligatory on a caregiver to inform the child of unknown lineage after reaching the legal age. The child is to be told that his provider is Ajnaby (a man other than a spouse and unmarriageable relatives) and is like other people with regard to gazing (to marriageable women), Khulwah (being alone with a member of the opposite sex), wearing the veil for women and similar rulings.

9- If the child was breast-fed (by the wife of the caregiver) he will be Mahram (spouse or unmarriageable relative) to the woman who suckled him as well as her daughters, sisters and others who are prohibited by lineage.

10- It is not permissible for a caregiver of a child of unknown parentage to conceal the child's true status; rather it is obligatory to inform him and to alleviate his distress by telling him that this is common and that it has no effect on his faith if he correctly adheres to path of Almighty Allah.

Q: My daughter earns less than her sisters, and her husband is also poor. His salary does not exceed 2,000 riyals, while the husbands of her sisters are well-off. Her husband has an old car that does not adequately serve them. I want to buy a car for my daughter and her husband, because they owe a long-term debt on the home they built, in addition to their children and the orphans of his deceased brother. While the financial conditions of her sisters are better than hers, does this disagree with the Hadith of Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him): \(Be afraid of Allah, and be just to your children.\) or not?

A: If the reality is as you mentioned, there is nothing wrong in purchasing a car for your daughter's husband or helping him to buy it. As for your daughter, you should not favor her with something over her sisters, because her sustenance is incumbent on her husband.

Fatwa no. 21560

Q: A man with three sons built a house but only two of the three contributed to it, while one who had some health and financial troubles could not. Later, his condition improved and he built a special house for himself. After some time, the man wanted to give the building to his sons, how should it be divided among them?

A: If the contributions of the two sons were a kind of donation to their father, then the house is owned by the father and it is impermissible for him to single out some of his children by giving it to them. The Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: «Fear Allah, and be just to your children.»

If their contributions were not donations but a share in the building, it is permissible for the father to give them from the building what equals their contribution, even if he does not give anything to other children, because this is their right and share in the building. As for what exceeds that, the father should give it to all his children.

The second and third questions of Fatwa no. 21502

Q 2: Is it permissible for me to pay the costs of repairing a house after agreeing with the youngest son that he would pay off the bank and own the house? Do I have to give his brothers the same amount that I give him for the cost of repairs?

A 2: If you cover the cost of overhauling the house, which he agreed to pay, there is nothing wrong in this.

Q 3: What do I do with the price of the two pieces of land on which a house and an annex are built? Their value is 59,000 riyals. Is it permissible for me to relinquish them to him? Do they belong to the inheritors after my death and must he give back the land to them? Should he give it to me right now? If I, his brothers and sisters cede the land to him, am I discharged of the responsibility? What should I do?

A 3: It is impermissible for you to cede the aforementioned land or any part of your money to one of your sons to the exclusion of the others, as this is injustice and is forbidden by Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him). However, if his brothers, who are legally accountable, relinquish it, there is nothing wrong in giving it to him.

The second question of Fatwa no. 21671

Q 2: I want to give my sons and wife part of my property, how should I distribute it among my male sons and two daughters? The males are 24 and 8 years old and the females are 3 and 8 years old, plus my wife. The property includes a basin, the first floor consists of four flats and the second floor consists of three flats.

A 2: If you give all your children, a male takes twice as the female, there is nothing wrong in this. The Prophet (peace be upon him) stated: \(Fear Allah, and be just to your children.\)

The first and third questions of Fatwa no. 21251

Q 1: About 20 years ago, I bought a piece of land in Makkah Al-Mukarramah for 20,000 riyals from my money but I registered it in my wife's name as a gift for passing 20 years of our marriage. At that time, I had 5 daughters and a son in addition to my mother who was still alive. Sixteen years ago, I expressed a wish to marry another woman. What mattered is that my current wife had borne my bad conditions patiently when I was poor and of limited income which I would spend on my mother and orphan brothers and my family. I gave her one million riyals and registered her as a partner in a company I established with somebody on the condition that she agrees to my marriage to another woman. However, she rejected the idea of the second marriage and said that all the treasures of this world would not make her relinquish even the trimmings of my nail and if I married another woman, she would leave the house. I had at that time the same number of daughters, my son and my mother and I found great opposition from my daughters so I abandoned the idea of marriage but I kept the money in the company registered in her name. Then, three years later and all of sudden, my son died and after sometime my mother also passed away, may Allah have mercy on her. I had three full brothers and a half brother. Am I sinful in what I gave to my wife?

A 1: Whatever you gave to your wife, whether it is money or anything else during your life, is permissible and becomes a possession of your wife.

Q 4: When Al Rajhy Bank was established, I bought a number of shares in my name and my wife and daughters. After privatization, I registered all the shares in my name. Yet, because my wife contributed to part of the value of these shares, I transferred all the shares to her name. What is the ruling on that?

A 4: If the transfer of shares took place with the approval of those who have rights and they relinquished their rights, there is nothing wrong in this.

Fatwa no. 21059

Q: Some interest-based banks give calendars, pens, medals and other gifts to people and government agencies at the beginning of each Hijri (lunar) year and the occasions of these banks. In addition, the bank employees give these things to the bank clients and their friends. My question: Is it permissible to take these calendars and gifts whether from the bank or its employees? Appreciate your answer, may Allah preserve you. As-salamu `alaykum warahmatullah wabarakatuh (May Allah's Peace, Mercy, and Blessings be upon you!)

A: The gifts given by banks to their clients and depositors must not be accepted, because they are involved in interest-based investments. As for the gifts distributed by the bank to other than its clients, here is an attached Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) in this regard - no.16184, which states the following:

His Highness, Ambassador of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia in United States, invited private sector institutions to take part in financing scholarships for Saudi students, who are studying at their own expense. The institutions, which presented scholarships, included interest-based banks. Is it permissible for students to accept scholarships from these banks?

A: The money presented from usurer, whether a bank or anyone else known as a usurious source, is impermissible to take or use. This is considered consumption of Riba (usury/interest), which is forbidden in the Qur'an and Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet). Almighty Allah says: «O you who believe! Consume not Riba \(usury\)» Allah has cursed those who consume Riba, those who pay it, the two witnesses and the one who records it. If one does not know that the source of money is Riba, because its donor deals in both Riba and lawful transactions, the basic ruling is permissibility.

Will

The second question of Fatwa no. 21600

Q 2: It is said that if a person dies without leaving a will, they do not speak to the dead. Is this correct?

A 2: This is an invalid, baseless belief. A will of some money to be distributed in charitable ways after the death of someone, is Mustahab (desirable) and they will be rewarded by Allah (Exalted be He). It is Mustahab not Wajib (obligatory), i.e. doing it is rewardable but neglecting it is not punishable.

Q: I want to bequeath a fifth of my property to my young grandchildren whose father passed away and they are young. I hope you will give me Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) on this matter.

A: It is permissible for you to bequeath to your grandchildren, whose father died, a third or less of your property, because they are not your inheritors. Thus, there is no prohibition on this.

Q 2: If a deceased person bequeaths that a third of their property be given for charitable deeds, is it permissible for the supervisor or the administrator of the will to take from this third in return for his services? Is it permissible for the administrator to add this third to his money if he is in need, or must he execute the will according to what is stated in it? Is this third considered as Waqf (endowment)? Appreciate your Fatwa, may Allah reward you with the best.

A 2: If someone dedicates a third of their money and specifies the ways in which it is to be spent and assigns someone to execute the will, it is obligatory on the executor to carry out the will according to what the testator states of legal ways. If the testator assigns part of the third (of the property) as fees for the administrator, this part becomes a right for him. If the deceased does not allot an amount but there is a customary fee that is customary taken by the executor, it is permissible to take it. If there are no customary procedures providing for this, the executor shall consult a legal official to define his fee.

Q 3: I give a charity on behalf of my father in accordance with his will. Is it regarded as Sadaqah Jariyah (ongoing charity)? I should mention that he would do it on the fifteenth night of Sha`ban, because he did not know that it is Bid`ah (innovation in religion). However, I changed it and would do it once in Ramadan and again on the `Eid-ul-Adha (the Festival of the Sacrifice, on 10th of Dhul-Hijjah)? Is it regarded as Sadaqah Jariyah for him? What is the best charity on behalf of the deceased? Is it permissible to initiate a new charity on behalf of him and he takes its reward as Sadaqah Jariyah? Appreciate your answer, may Allah reward you with the best.

A 3: What your father bequeathed is considered charity. You did well in changing its time from the Mid-Sha`ban night and you are rewarded for that. Whatever you give in charity on behalf of your father, he takes its reward.

Fatwa no. 18578

All praise is due to Allah Alone. May peace and blessings be upon on the last Prophet.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read what was sent to the Grand Mufty from the Assistant Chief of Al-Qasim Courts no. 2/1457, dated 4/8/1416 A.H., which was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 3876, dated 8/8/1416 A.H. The questioner asked:

I would like to inform you that Salih ibn Hamad ibn `Abdul-Muhsin Al-Tuwaijry presented a request to me to establish a mosque and a dwelling for the Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) and the Mu'adhin (caller to Prayer) in Buraydah from the funds assigned for the will of his father. Find attached a copy of the will. His father mentioned in his will: "I bequeath a third of my property for the establishment of one or more Masjids (mosques), etc..." However, this raises a problem whether it is permissible to build dwellings for the Imam and the Mu'adhin, which was not mentioned in the will, yet it has become necessary. Must we be limited by the will? I should mention that the location of the mosque is suitable and in need for a mosque, and the land designated for the mosque is sufficient for the mosque and the dwellings of the Imam and the Mu'adhin. Moreover, the owner of the land stipulated that in order to build a mosque, it must include two houses for the Imam and the Mu'adhin.

I hope you will read this and inform us, may Allah safeguard and care for you.

After studying the Fatwa request, the Committee answers that there is no objection on building dwellings for the Imam and the Mu'adhin from the will of the man who bequeathed funds to build a mosque or a number of mosques from a third of his property. This is because the residence of the Imam and the Imam is among the necessary facilities of the Masjid.

The third question of Fatwa no. 20920

Q 3: My aunt raised her nephew until he was grown and helped him to marry. She has also helped her daughters get married. She is a widow and has three daughters, all of them are married. However, some misunderstanding took place between her and her nephew so that she drove him out of her house. My aunt is now 57 years old and has a good house, while her nephew has only one room and his mother is deceased. He has half brothers, but he does not live with them, although he visits them from time to time. What is your advice to her? Should she bequeath this house to him or not? I should mention that if she does not do so, he will have to leave the room, in which he lives, for her inheritors? Appreciate your guidance.

A 3: This woman may make a will to allocate part of her house for him, if she likes, on condition that her will does not exceed a third of her property.

A: Your prescribed share of inheritance is a fourth of what he left and the rest of his estate belongs to his `Asabat (agnate heirs). If he has no relatives, the matter shall be referred to the Shari`ah court. However, you are allowed to bequeath a third or less of your property.

Q: A man passed away after he made a will to use a third of what he left in offering Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) on his and his parents behalf. However, some money remains from the third after offering the Ud-hiyah and his son asks whether he should offer another Ud-hiyah or distribute the rest among inheritors?

A: If the reality is as you mentioned with regard to the remaining part of the third of his father's will, then the ruling is as follows. If the son is the administrator of his father's will and there is no legal determination regarding what may be left after offering the Ud-hiyah, such as giving the rest to certain institutions or persons, then the remainder of the third should be spent in charitable ways, such as participating in building mosques and furnishing them or paying the remaining money in charity to the needy. If he has some poor relatives who are in need of charity, they are more deserving to take from the rest of the third.

Waqf

Fatwa no. 21268

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has read what was sent to the Grand Mufty from His Excellence, Judge of the High Court in Makkah, Shaykh Ahmad ibn Hamad Al-Mazru', no. 9/83/3/3545, dated 11/9/1420 A.H., which was referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars no. 4934, dated 16/10/1420 A.H. His Eminence asks the following question:

We would like to show Your Eminence the following question: A woman presented a request to the court to register her dedication of a building to Waqf (endowment), the legal ways of using this Waqf and its executor. These things were legally registered according to a document registered under no. 9/8/115, dated 23/5/1414 A.H. Then, she made a motion through her attorney registered under no. 9/225, dated 7/9/1420 A.H. to change the legal ways of using her Waqf different from what was stated in the first document. She wants to devote her Waqf to an organization for teaching the Glorious Qur'an in Makkah al-Mukarramah ...etc. Is it allowable to accept her request regardless of what was mentioned?

We hope you will read this and give us Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) regarding this issue. Enclosed are copies of the documents. May Allah help you and guide your footsteps.

After studying the Fatwa request, the Committee maintains that the Waqf should be kept to the first specified ways of using it. It is not permissible to change it to other ways, because it is an effective Waqf, which has been executed and has become out of the Waqf donor's possession. Its benefits are restricted to what it has been specified for in accordance with the document. Thus, it is not permissible to do anything else with it.

Q 1: I see some books in bookshops where some phrases like "endowment for the sake of Allah", "given as a gift and not to be sold", "distributed by a charitable organization", "distributed by a governmental organization", "personal gift from ... to ...", "gifted by a governmental organization" and "distributed by a governmental administration" are written. Is it permissible to purchase these books from their owners like other books that do not have these phrases without informing him of that? Or should I inform him of these phrases; and if he gives me the choice, will I take it for personal use to read it; or should I give it to those in need of it? Please, answer in detail.

A 1: If there is any phrase on the book indicating that it is Waqf (endowment), such as "endowment for the sake of Allah", "given as a gift and not for sale sold", and "distributed by a charitable organization" it is not allowable to sell or purchase it. If the book has a phrase indicating that it is a gift or that it is distributed free of charge, it is not Waqf and there is nothing wrong in selling and purchasing it.

Q: My father bought a piece of land beside the mosque of our neighborhood and gave it to the Ministry of Endowments and Islamic Affairs as a Waqf (endowment) to build a dwelling for the Imam (the one who leads congregational Prayer) of the mosque on it. My father, may Allah preserve him, asked the ministry to build a two-floor villa and the Ministry agreed and completed a big part of the house. However, a Muslim brother donated a sum of 50,000 riyals to complete the building, on the condition that there should be Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) by a Shaykh whether his deed is Sadaqah Jariyah (ongoing charity) or not?

Appreciate your answer, may Allah reward you with the best. Note that we are in need for this money to complete the house.

A: Whatever this man contributes to completing the Waqf of a dwelling for the Imam of the mosque is considered Sadaqah Jariyah. He takes a reward equal to what he contributes, In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) because the dwelling of the Imam and the Mu'adhin belongs to the mosque and among its most important facilities. Moreover, everyone who participates in building this house will take reward for what they do, In sha'a-Allah.

Please take into consideration that my father used to pay Sadaqah (voluntary charity) for her every year. What is the ruling on this?

A 4: You should identify the exact number of goats and take out the goats that were under the care of your father. You should increase the quantity of goats to pay Sadaqah for your grandmother if she mentioned this in her will. If not, you should do this according to what your father used to do.

All praise is due to Allah, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets, to proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed what was received by the Grand Mufty from the questioner, the Chairman of the Charitable Society in Darin, and referred to the Committee from Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, no. 5743, dated 22/11/1420 A.H. The questioner asked the following:

We hope you will give us Fatwa (legal opinion issued by qualified Muslim scholar) concerning the establishment of stores on the edge of the major cemetery in Darin from the southern and western sides. The cemetery is surrounded by main commercial streets. Thus, we are thinking of exploiting these two parts to use their income for the repair and maintenance of the Masjid (mosque) and cemetery in Darin only, taking into consideration that there are no graves under these parts according to the attached copy of the report, which was signed by the elderly men of the town. When the cemetery was fenced by the municipality, a wide piece of land separated the fence from the graves. This is the required place. Moreover, the cemetery is large enough, and exploiting these location will not affect its space. May Allah reward you with the best, and make you beneficial to Islam and the Muslims.

After the Committee studied the Fatwa request, it answered that it is not permissible to deduct any piece of land from the cemetery either for the mentioned purpose or for any other one, and whether or not it includes graves.

Inheritance

Fatwa no. 15366

Q: My father passed away, leaving my siblings and I a plot of land which we sold five years ago. However, my siblings have not received their share of the inheritance up to this day, since we are in need of this sum because we were in the process of building our house. All of my siblings agreed to defer dividing the estate until we have enough money to give them their share. At the time of my father's death five years ago, the share of each of my siblings was an amount of 1000 LE.

My question is: Is it permissible to give my siblings only 1000 LE? Please take into account that five years ago, this sum would have bought five carats of land, but today this is not possible as this same sum would only buy a refrigerator. Should I make it up to them and give my siblings the difference for the past years? Will I be doing them injustice if I give them the original sum of 1000 LE only? Please tell me what to do, may Allah reward you with the best!

A: You must give them their share in your father's estate in cash regardless of the difference in price.

Q: My father passed away and left a sum of money equal to 50 000 Saudi riyals, a house put up as collateral for the Real Estate Development Fund and the value of which is 250 000 SR. The financial obligation due on the house is 150.000 SR. The heirs agreed to give the money my father left to a Masjid (mosque) as a Sadaqah Jariyah (ongoing charity). As for the house, we all agreed that one of us should pay the money due on it to the bank after which he will be entitled to the house and the rest of the heirs will waive their right to it in exchange for him paying off our father's debt. Please take into account that there are no minors among the heirs.

My question is: Is this permissible? Does this absolve my father of his debt? Will the debt be transferred to the person who undertook it upon himself to pay it off? If the person who will pay the debt is not currently in possession of this sum, is it permissible for him to pay the financial obligation upon the house, which is 150.000 SR in installments seeing as he intends to absolve our father of this debt? And will our father not be absolved of the debt until the whole sum is paid off or is it transferred to the heir who must pay it off according to the agreement between him and the rest of the heirs? Do the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) apply to this situation, when a dead person was brought before him and he asked: "Is he indebted?" Whereupon one of the Sahabah (Companions of the Prophet) took it upon himself to pay off the debt and the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: "His soul will remain suspended until the debt is paid off." Does this apply to my father's debt?

A: First: If all the heirs, among whom there are no minors, waive their right to the house for their brother in return for him settling their father's debt, there is no harm in this because this is their right.

Second: If your brother takes it upon himself to pay off the debt, he can choose to either pay it in installments according to the system implemented by the Real Estate Bank or choose to pay it off at once.

Third: If a person undertakes the responsibility to pay off the debt of a deceased person, then the deceased person is absolved of the debt and it is waived from upon him, but he is not totally absolved until it has been paid in full to the bank. There is no harm in deferring payment by paying it in installments this will not harm your father In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills) because he has a right to deferment and because the debt involves a collateral.

Fatwa no. 20734

Q: A Christian man announced that he embraced Islam in order to marry an illiterate Moroccan woman who does not observe Prayers and knows nothing about her religion. This man used to traffic drugs and although his wife knew of his activities, she did not repudiate it because she did not know what is Halal (lawful) and what is not. After a few years of their marriage, she started to observe Prayers and learn matters of her religion after which she started to object to his activities. And when the Mosque of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, located at Jabal Tariq [Gibraltar], was inaugurated and the Da`wah (calling to Islam) spread and some Muslims who were immoral returned to the teachings of their religion, her husband started to frequent the mosque and pray and became a good Muslim. His wife became a righteous person, wearing the full religious attire of the prescribed Islamic Hijab (veil) and observing the teachings of her religion as much as possible. A year after this man started to pray sincerely, he passed away and left his wife a huge estate which includes several properties, huge sums of money and various business projects. He has only one daughter from this woman and his father is a Christian. His wife wishes to know the legal ruling on her husband's estate. She is now the owner of all of his estate and knows its source. We appreciate your quick reply, telling us what she is to do.

A: If the reality is as you mentioned that before his death, the husband became a better Muslim and observed his Prayers and desisted from trafficking drugs, then the matter is as follows: Islam abolishes all that preceded it and it is lawful for this woman and her daughter to take the estate of the deceased if he does not have a Muslim heir. If he does have an heir, he gets what remains after the wife receives her prescribed share of inheritance which is one eighth of the estate and the daughter receives her prescribed share which is one half, both of which amount to three out of eight equal shares. In the absence of an heir as mentioned above, the wife receives one eighth, which is one share out of eight equal shares and the rest belongs to the daughter as an prescribed share. May Allah forgive us all!

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Fatwa no. 21601

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the request received by His Eminence the Grand Mufty from an inquirer who works as a clerk at the Ministry of Justice at Al-Mujardah Province, Shaykh Shibily ibn Jabir `Asiry. The request was sent to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars in letter no. 4188, dated 13/7/1421 A.H. The text of the question reads as follows:

We present to Your Eminence the inquiry sent by citizen ... in which he mentions that his son passed away as a result of a vehicle accident, leaving behind his parents and pregnant wife. He was indebted with approximately 60. 000 Saudi riyals. The inquirer requests a Fatwa as follows:

1- Is it possible to settle the debt of the deceased from the Diyah (blood money) while the wife is pregnant?

The rest of the heirs are poor and cannot pay off this debt, therefore we hope that Your Eminence could give us a Fatwa on this matter. May Allah safeguard and protect you, Amen!

After examining the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that if the matter is as mentioned in the question then it is necessary to pay off the debt on behalf of the deceased from his estate or from the Diyya. Next, his will, if any, is to be executed and what remains afterwards is to be divided among the heirs through the Shar`y (Islamic legal) court.

Fatwa no. 21620

Q: I am the legal attorney for my siblings and grandmother, may Allah have mercy upon him. Praise be to Allah, I divided up my father's estate according to the division laid down by the Shari`ah (Islamic law). We receive an annual income of 27.600 Saudi riyals at the beginning of Sha`ban of every year. I sought the advice of someone for a Fatwa about the distribution of this annual income among my grandmother and siblings and he told me that it is to be divided equally among them. His Fatwa, may Allah guide him, was wrong and on Thursday 25/4/1421 A.H., when I was listening to a religious program that was hosting some Shaykhs,

the Shaykh was asked the same question and he replied that the division should be as follows: The male receives the equal share of two females. I had divided this sum equally among all of them for the past three years, namely in 1418 A.H., 1419 A.H., and 1420 A.H. Now, I am confused and hope that you could tell me how I should divide this sum and what to do about what I had previously divided among them. Please guide me and clarify this issue.

A: If the apartment building is Waqf (endowment), then the rent is to go to the beneficiaries stipulated by the person who made the endowment and in conformity with the Shari`ah. If the property was privately owned by the deceased, then the proceeds are to be divided according to the prescribed shares of each heir. You must rectify the past division and take the extra sums from those whom you have given more than their share and give them to those whom you have given less than their share unless they waive their right. In future, you must implement the accurate division of the proceeds, whether they are from an endowment or from inheritance.

Q: We are five full siblings, two males and three females. We inherited from our maternal uncle who does not have any `Asabat (agnate heirs) .

(Part No. 11; Page No. 295)

My question is: With respect to this inheritance, is the share of a female one half of that of a male; or is it less than one half; or do they receive nothing at all?

A: If Dhu Al-Arham (heirs connected through the female blood relatives) inherit, males and females receive an equal share due to their being uterine relatives; they are tantamount to uterine siblings. Allah (Exalted be He) says in this respect: But if more than two, they share in a third. The fact that they all share in the inheritance necessitates that they all receive an equal share.

Q: Our father, may Allah have mercy on him, passed away two months ago and left us an estate consisting of 31.000 Saudi riyals and around 80 sheep. He was indebted to the Real Estate Bank with 240.000 SR. We have twenty outstanding loan installments and until this day, the Bank did not ask for them. My father left behind a wife, eleven minor children and eight adults, males and females. We contacted the Real Estate Fund which requested that we pay five installments which are the equivalent of 48, 000 SR and requested that the rest of the installments be paid at another time. I, in my capacity as a beneficiary and as being the eldest of my siblings and their agent, signed a declaration of obligation to pay the installments in their due time. After paying off 48.000 SR and signing the declaration of obligation, does this absolve my father of the debt which will become a financial obligation that I have to pay? Please take into account that the house my father left is uninhabited and we do not benefit from it. Kindly accept your deep thanks!

A: If the matter is as mentioned in the question, and you took it upon yourself to pay off your father's debt on behalf of your siblings, you will be rewarded for this In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). However, your father is not absolved of the financial obligation upon him except after the debt is paid off. We ask Allah to help you!

Q: My father, may Allah have mercy on him, passed away while he was indebted to the Agricultural Bank, with his farm as collateral. By virtue of the contract between my father and the bank and during my father's lifetime, one of his brothers asked that he obtains for him a certificate from the bank allowing him to put wheat in the silos in exchange for paying off one year of the installments and during which he will benefit financially from storing the wheat.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 297)

Our Eminent Shaykh: Does my father's debt suspend his actions? Please take into account that we do not wish for our uncle to pay any of the installments whether or not he benefited from the loan, but wish to contact those in charge of the matter to waive this debt.

The question is: Does the debt owed to the Agricultural Bank suspend one's actions or not since the farm is collateral?

A: The debt is still due upon your father and it will remain hanging until it is paid off on his behalf. This is due to the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: “The soul of a \(dead\) believer remains suspended by his debt, until it is repaid on his behalf.” This ruling stands except if the bank waives your father's debt. Therefore, you must start paying off the debt to the bank from your father's estate to absolve him from the debt.

Q: My sister, may Allah have mercy on her, passed away in a vehicle accident while she was accompanying her husband who was driving the crashed car; she was four months pregnant, and Allah knows best. She left behind three minor children and her parents are still alive. Please take into account that our father is senile and suffers from amnesia. Therefore, is it permissible for him to waive his right of the Diyah (blood money)? Does her husband, who was responsible for the car overturning, inherit?

May Allah grant you success!

A: If the matter is indeed as mentioned in the question, that the husband of the deceased is responsible for the accident since he was driving the car, then he does not inherit anything from his late wife. This is due to the words of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: “The killer is entitled to nothing from \(his victim’s\) inheritance.” This is only if he is responsible for the accident. As for the father of the deceased who is senile, it is impermissible for anyone to waive his right in the inheritance and it is not right for him to do so either.

Fatwa no. 21055

Q: My elder brother passed away about eleven years ago. I washed his body and swore before witnesses to pay off anything he might owe anyone. After observing the Prayer upon him [namely the Janazah (Funeral) Prayer], I likewise made the same declaration before witnesses and again when I buried him. After the condolences ceremony, I found many people coming up to me requesting that I pay off my brother's debts. I calculated all the debts and paid them off within a period of approximately fifteen days. The sum was more than I could have imagined and some benevolent people assisted me, praise be to Allah. Afterwards, I found out that he was further indebted with a sum of 126.000 to the Agricultural Bank. I requested that the bank defer payment for eight years or more, but to no avail. The loan was against the farm and well. His children grew up and obtained jobs. The eldest who got married, is in the police force of `Asir and the second is a nurse in the Armed Forces Hospital. I asked them to pay the bank, fearing for their father but they did not agree even though I asked the eldest in the presence of one of his kin and told him that the financial obligations upon me are his father's. For this reason, I ask Allah and then you for a Fatwa on what is the consequence of this with regards to the deceased. Is it possible to transfer the debt from the deceased to one of the heirs? Is there anything upon me with regards to the mentioned debt? May Allah reward you with the best!

A: The debt is upon the estate of the deceased. It must be paid off before dividing up the inheritance as it is still owed by the deceased. You must go to the Shar`y (Islamic legal) court to pay off this debt from the estate and take it from the heirs for this cause.

May Allah grant us success! May Peace and Blessings be upon our Prophet, his family and Companions!

The third question of Fatwa no. 21251

Q 3: I have spent nearly half a million on preparing for my three daughters' marriages. This covered the jewelry, bridal dresses, home furniture and hotel bookings. I have two other daughters who are not yet married and for each of whom I have bequeathed an amount of 100,000 Riyals. They will take it if I die before they marry. I consider this amount as a debt that I owe them. As for the daughters who married during my lifetime whom I covered all of their marriage expenses, they have no right to any share of the amount. Kindly take into consideration that I informed the other three daughters of what I did and none of them objected. What is the ruling on this?

A: The financial amount you bequeathed for your daughters who did not get married during your lifetime which is aimed to equal foot them with their sisters should not come into effect unless all the inheritors approve of it after your death. If they do so, it will be the right of the two daughters. Otherwise, it is a part of the estate that should be divided among all the inheritors.

Q2: A family consists of a father, a mother, brothers and sisters; the father and the brothers earn their living by trade. Most of the household income is earned by the brothers; shall the sister inherit from the money of her father only or also from that of her brothers? Please take into consideration that the money is shared and there is no private property for each of them. Please guide us. May Allah benefit you!

A2: A woman inherits from the money of her relative after his death; whether he is her father, brother, son or so on, according to what Allah (Exalted be He) assigned to her. Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(There is a share for men and a share for women from what is left by parents and those nearest related, whether the property be small or large - a legal share.\) This occurs even if she does not earn her living. Preventing a woman from inheriting is an aspect of Jahiliyyah (pre-Islamic time of ignorance), which is abolished by Islam.

Q: I own a small flat where my wife, my two daughters and I live. I wrote my wife's name in the contract of ownership, so it is owned by me and her in equal shares, though of course I received no money from her, contrary to what I mentioned in the contract. My main reason for doing this is to keep my wife and daughters safe in the event of my death, as this flat is their only security, bearing in mind that I have no pension and I own nothing else.

My question is:

- 1- Will this flat be considered inheritance in the event of my death, bearing in mind that I have a mother, brothers, and an unmarried sister? What is the destiny of my wife and daughters?
- 2- Will the heirs be entitled to the half of the flat which is in my name, bearing in mind that the flat cannot actually be divided?
- 3- Is it legally obligatory to sell the furniture and domestic appliances so that my heirs can receive their share of the inheritance, bearing in mind that I bought all these things with my money?
- 4- If I keep a sum of money in my flat for expenses and emergencies about which no one knows except my wife, are my heirs entitled to a share of this money or can my wife keep it for herself?

Please take into consideration that I do not have a pension or any other source of income that can support my family, and my wife does not work.

5- Assuming Your Eminence replies in the affirmative to my first question, is it permissible for me to ask my heirs to voluntarily sign a contract assigning their shares in the flat - either in return for money or not - to my wife and daughters, as this flat is the only shelter for my family?

May Allah reward you with the best!

A: Everything a person leaves after death, whether it is money, real estate, etc., is considered inheritance and should be divided among their legal heirs in accordance with the rulings of the Book of Allah. The inheritance is to be divided after paying off any debts of the deceased, and after executing the will of the deceased if one has been left. The Muslim should think well of Allah (Glorified be He), put their trust in Him, and adopt the legal means to support themselves and their families. Nevertheless, a person does not know who will actually benefit them in this worldly life and the Hereafter. In the Ayah (Qur'anic verse) about inheritance, Allah (Exalted be He) says: \(You know not which of them, whether your parents or your children, are nearest to you in benefit\)

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: I inform you that my father died, leaving an inheritance valued at 29533 Riyals. However, he is indebted to the Real Estate Development Bank for a sum mounted 128,000 Riyals. Should I divide the mentioned sum to the heirs or pay the debt to the Real Estate Development Fund? Please take into consideration that the house for which the loan is taken is not presently inhabited by anyone and it is not rented, but we stay in it when we go to this area. I ask Allah, and hope that you will give us your legal opinion concerning the present sum and what we should do with the house?

A: You should pay the debts of the deceased, then carry out his will within the limits of the third of the inheritance or less. The rest of the sum, after paying the debt and carrying out the will, should be divided among the heirs, then carry out his will within the limit of the third of the inheritance or less. The rest of the sum after paying the debt and carrying out the will should be divided among the heirs who are mentioned in the document, as Allah (Exalted be He) states: \(after payment of legacies he \(or she\) may have bequeathed or debts\). The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) ordered to pay the debt before carrying out the will.

Q: We are full siblings except one of us, who is a paternal half-brother. He is single and his mother is the divorcee of our father. She also has children from another man. Our father died leaving a herd of camels and our paternal half-brother died before receiving his share of the inheritance. Are his mother and his maternal siblings entitled to his share of the inheritance? Also, are we entitled to inherit his share from his mother? Please advise us, may Allah safeguard you!

A: Your father's estate is distributed according to the limitation of succession document. After identifying your paternal half-brother's share of the inheritance, it is added to any other money or property he left, which is then distributed among his heirs: his mother and paternal and maternal siblings mentioned in the attached limitation of succession document. His mother is entitled to receive one-sixth and his maternal siblings are entitled to receive one-third distributed equally amongst them. However, his paternal siblings are entitled to receive the remaining by agnation, in which the share of a male is twice that of a female. His paternal siblings are not entitled to inherit from his mother because he died before his mother and so she inherited from him, and he did not.

All praise be to Allah Alone, peace and blessings be upon the last of the Prophets. To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' has examined the letter submitted to his Eminence, the General Mufti, by the Respected Judge of the court of Al-Bark under no. 71 dated 11/1/1420 A.H. referred to the Committee by the General Secretariat of the Council of Senior Scholars under no. 464 dated 18/1/1420 A.H. The letter was attached to a Fatwa (legal opinion issued by a qualified Muslim scholar) request submitted by the citizen C.C.H that reads as follows:

N.M.A died and left a wife, daughter, and son of his brother (agnate relative). The deceased left an estate from which he bequeathed to his daughter 20,000 Riyals without explaining why he made this will. The remaining money would be distributed among the heirs. I wish you could elaborate on this issue: Should this will be executed or not? The deceased left 40,000 Saudi Riyals from which he bequeathed 20,000 Saudi Riyals to his married daughter and the remaining estate is to be distributed among all the heirs; the daughter, the wife, and the son of his brother. He did not explain in the will why he bequeathed this sum to his daughter, or whether this is for a service his daughter offered him or only out of sympathy.

(Part No. 11; Page No. 307)

Having examined the Fatwa request, the Committee answered that if the reality is as you mentioned and it was not proved that the father bequeathed this sum to repay a debt that he borrowed from his daughter, the will will be invalid. This is supported by the Hadith related by the Five Compilers of Hadith (Imams Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhy, Al-Nasa'y and Ibn Majah) except Al-Nasa'y on the authority of Abu Umamah (may Allah be pleased with him) that he said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) saying: \(Allah has appointed for everyone who has a right what is due to them, and no bequest will be made to an heir.\) Al-Tirmidhy ranked this Hadith as Hasan Sahih (a Hadith that stands at a higher level than a mere Hasan Hadith, but at a bit lower level than Sahih). Thereupon, all the estate the deceased left is a right entitled to be divided among the heirs; one-eighth (5000 Saudi Riyals) for the wife, one-half (20000 Saudi Riyals) for the daughter, and the remaining is to be given to the son of the brother by agnation (15000 Saudi Riyals). However, there is no impediment if the mature heirs permit executing this will.

May Allah grant us success! May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions!

Q: My father-in-law was married to another woman for a short time before his marriage to my mother-in-law. His first wife died due to an illness, leaving an estate which he inherited and disposed of.

A year before his death, he promised to perform Hajj on her behalf but unfortunately he died before he could do so. We would like to submit our question to your Eminence bearing in mind that she died without children and he has only female children (from my mother-in-law). His family asks: What is the ruling on not executing his promise? Should they perform Hajj on her behalf? Is it sinful not to perform Hajj on her behalf? We hope to receive a reply. May Allah reward you with the best.

A: From the estate which the woman left, repaying any debts she has takes priority, and her legal will should be executed if she bequeathed. The remaining estate should be distributed among the her heirs, including the husband. Thereupon, what the husband took above as his share from his wife should be repaid to her heirs.

Fatwa no. 20945

All praise be to Allah Alone, and peace and blessings be upon the Last of the Prophets.
To proceed:

The Permanent Committee for Scholarly Research and Ifta' reviewed the question received by his Eminence the Grand Muftý from His Excellency the Prime Minister, being attached by the Fatwa request submitted by (...) from India, and referred to the Committee from the Secretariat General of the Council of Senior Scholars, numbered 2606 and dated 6/5/1420 A.H. The questioner asked the following question:

We live in India, and the Muslims here have their system of inheritance, which is said to be Islamic in nature. The system entails that when a person dies and his father is still alive, the children of the deceased do not inherit any of the property of their grandfather. As a result, the children are deprived from the property of their grandfather. The uncles divide among themselves the inheritance of their father without having mercy on the children of their deceased brother. Thus, the orphans become poor, begging and living in misery and destitution without shelter. Undoubtedly, you know the plots hatched by the enemies of Islam against Muslims. Moreover, no one can get an ID card from the government of India unless he or his father has actual property or land registered in the government records. Because of the mentioned system of inheritance, the orphans lose their right to the land of their grandfather, rendering them poor without land or real property. Consequently, they lose their rights to citizenship and are placed in a political dilemma. I believe that Islam came to help human beings, saving them from humiliation in this world and the Hereafter. Also, it signifies peace and success in this life and the Hereafter. I do not think that there is an Islamic inheritance system that stands against the interest of the Muslim orphans. I think that there is a group that has interest in distorting this system, as was the case during the reign of

(Part No. 11; Page No. 310)

Emperor Akbar of India.

I hope that Your Eminency will grant me a legal opinion on this issue from the Department of Fatwas, hoping that the Muslim orphans may be relieved of their economic and political crises, and be a means of making them live in peace.

After the Committee considered the Fatwa request, it answered that the children of a son are not entitled to inheritance if the uncles of their parents or their father are alive, because they are disinherited due to their existence. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: «Give the Fara'id \(the shares of the inheritance that are prescribed in the Qur'an\) to those who are entitled to receive it. Then whatever remains, should be given to the closest male relative of the deceased.» The direct uncles are more entitled to inheritance than the children of the son because they are the sons of the deceased.

Q: I would like to inform Your Eminence that our paternal uncle died in 1417 A. H.

His lawful inheritance was to pass only to us, the sons of his paternal half-brother, i.e., `Aly and Muhammad, to the exclusion of our sisters. A legal document outlining this was issued under no. (9/3/98) on 04.05.1419 A.H. But our sisters continue to insist that they are also entitled to inherit from our uncle.

Desiring to mend the fence between us and our sisters, we would like Your Eminence (may Allah safeguard you) to clarify for them the truth about this case of inheritance. May Allah make you successful in conciliating between family members and reuniting them according to the true Shari`ah (Islamic law). May Allah safeguard you.

A.: After scrutinizing the relative legal document of inheritance for determining the heirs of the deceased (`. M. S. `.), it is determined that his legacy is to be distributed only between the two sons of his brother (H. M. S. `.). The property inherited from the deceased is agnatically confined to them; the legacy is to be distributed equally between both of them. Their sisters are not entitled to any share in the inheritance, because they are of Dhu Al-Arham (heirs connected through the female blood relatives).

Q: A few weeks ago, my grandfather, the father of my father died. We are the children of his son, who died eight years ago. We are five boys and four girls, and he had only one daughter, the sister of my father, who also has children. Moreover, he has half brothers and half sisters from his father. They all have children and each one of them lives in a separate house. We have a half brother from a second divorced wife. As for the properties of our grandfather, he left only: First, a house, where we and his grandsons live with our mother; and the installments of its establishment belonging to the Land Bank are not paid; Second, 140 sheep out of 575 sheep that were sold a few weeks before his death.

A: After the death of your grandfather, the sheep and money he left are inherited by the mentioned persons, being limited to his daughter and his grandchildren (the children of his son). This division takes place after paying his debts and executing his legal will. His daughter shall take half of the inheritance, and the rest will be assigned to his grandchildren, taking into consideration that the male takes double the portion of the female. The sheep should be sold and their price should be added to the present money. Then, the total sum should be divided among the mentioned heirs.

The woman

The third question of Fatwa no. 14768

Q 3: There is a front-open Jilbab (loose outer garment) with buttons called cap in Saudi Arabia. Is it Haram (prohibited) for women to wear it? Also, how about wearing the Saudi front-open `Aba`ah (loose outer garment)? A sister told me that it is Hararm to wear a front-open `Aba`ah with buttons.

Is this true?

A: A woman should cover up in the presence of Ajanib (men other than a spouse and unmarriageable relatives). The woman's garment should screen all parts of her body. It should be loose and not narrow to avoid depicting the shape of her body, and it should be thick and not transparent to avoid seeing her body.

There is nothing wrong with wearing a front-open `Aba`ah or Jilbab with buttons as long as her garment is identical to what we have described.

Q: A girl starting wearing the prescribed Islamic Hijab (veil) when she was in her second year of secondary school after knowing that it is Wajib (obligatory). However, under the pressure of the school management and her family she took it off. Then, she put it on once again in the second year of university and she, again, was met with the objection of the family and others due to wearing it. She asks: Should she respond to their demands and remove the Muslim woman's prescribed Islamic Hijab or go on wearing it despite the pressure she faces?

A: Hijab is an obligation according to the Shari`ah (Islamic law). A Muslim woman should not expose her body and ornaments including the face and hands in the presence of any Ajnaby (a man other than a spouse and an unmarriageable relative). Thereupon, when you wear the Hijab, you follow a prescribed obligation and so it is not permissible for a Muslim who believes in Allah and the Last Day to object to your wearing it. You should be patient anticipating Allah's Reward and try to convince anyone who objects to you of this obligation and supporting your argument with evidence and leniency. May Allah grant you success and guide you to good and righteous deeds!

A: It is not permissible for a woman to display her jewels in the presence of Ajanib (men other than a spouse and unmarriageable relatives), because they are ornaments and Allah (Glorified be He) says: \(and not to reveal their adornment except to their husbands\)

A: Hijab is an obligation, the husband should command his wife to wear it, and if he does not, he will be sinful. However, if he commands her and she refuses, she will be sinful but none of them is considered a kafir (disbeliever).

Q 1: What is the description of the prescribed Islamic Hijab (veil)? Is Niqab (face veil) the Hijab or do both differ in terms of ruling and appearance? Is Khimar (veil covering to the waist), which a woman wears uncovering her face and hands, the prescribed Islamic Hijab?

A: A woman should appropriately cover her face in the presence of non-Mahrams (not a spouse or an unmarriageable relative). Also, she should cover up with clothes that are loose and not tight, charming or eye-catching. This is the prescribed Islamic Hijab, which Allah commands in the Ever-Glorious Qur'an, and on the tongue of His Messenger (peace be upon him). Niqab is the prescribed Islamic Hijab for a woman who is not in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) which displays only her eyes, based on the Hadith reported on the authority of Ibn `Umar which was authentically reported in the Sahih [Authentic Hadith Book] of Al-Bukhari, (may Allah be merciful to him).

Q 1: What is the difference in the legal ruling on a woman covering her face when she is in Ihram (ritual state for Hajj or `Umrah) and when she is not?

A: A woman should cover her face in the presence of non-Mahram persons (not a spouse or an unmarriageable relative), whether she is in Ihram or not. But in the state of Ihram, she is not required to cover her face with a veil or a knitted cloth specified for covering the face; rather, she may conceal it with something else.

Q 1: I live with my family, which consists of my father, mother, two older sisters, and one younger brother. My oldest brother also lives with us; he is married and has one son. We [and his small family] usually eat together. Is this lawful? What is the legal ruling on this?

A: It is not lawful for women to mix with men other than their Mahrams (spouses or unmarriageable relatives) and eat with them from the same dishes, because this may cause temptation between them and consequently lead to sinning. So women are required to be screened from non-Mahram men [in situations like this], eating alone or with other women. Allah (Glorified be He) says: ﴿And tell the believing women to lower their gaze \(from looking at forbidden things\), and protect their private parts \(from illegal sexual acts\)﴾ He (Exalted be He) also says:

﴿And when you ask \(his wives\) for anything you want, ask them from behind a screen: that is purer for your hearts and for their hearts.﴾ Besides, the Prophet (peace and blessings be upon him) ordered that during congregational Salah (Prayer) the rows of women be behind those of men to avoid temptation. This is to be followed, with all the more reason, in cases other than Salah.

Q 2: Here in Sudan, it is circulated that the Sudanese attire for women, which is composed of a dress and cloak, is the prescribed Islamic Hijab (veil); is this correct? What are the conditions of Islamic attire?

A2: It is not sufficient for women to wear a dress and a cloak; they should also cover their faces in the presence of non-Mahram men (spouse or unmarried relative). Allah (Exalted be He) says: ﴿O Prophet! Tell your wives and your daughters and the women of the believers to draw their cloaks (veils) all over their bodies (i.e. screen themselves completely except the eyes or one eye to see the way).﴾ And: ﴿and to draw their veils all over Juyûbihinna (i.e. their bodies, faces, necks and bosoms)﴾ Khimar (veil covering to the waist) is a cover for the head that Allah (Glorified be He) ordered women to draw over their chest, and this necessitates covering the face. It is reported by `Aishah that when the women were Muhrims (pilgrims in the ritual state for Hajj and `Umrah) in the company of the Prophet (peace be upon him), they were to draw their Khimar over their faces when men passed by them. It is also obligatory that the dress be loose and long, covering the women's bodies

My question is: I know her good manners and I want to guide her to some of the teachings of the Prophet (peace be upon him). However, the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited Khulwah. Allah (Glorified and Exalted be He) commands us to lower our gaze when looking at the Ajnabiyyah (a woman other than a spouse and unmarriageable relatives). What is the solution then? Kindly, bear in mind that I do not have women-related books to provide her with so that she can learn from them.

A: As you said, Khulwah or gazing at an Ajnabiyyah is Haram (prohibited). Yet, if you want to advise her, you can talk to her while she covers up and without Khulwah. You can also present to her a useful book or a tape that handles women-related religious rulings, or send her written pieces of advice. The third question of Fatwa no. 17880

Q 3: According to the Hanbaly scholars, a woman who does not wear Hijab (veil) is a Kafir (disbeliever). It is not permissible to supplicate to Allah for her if she dies regardless of her Salah (Prayer). They hold that there is one shape of Hijab and any woman who does not abide by it does not wear the prescribed Islamic Hijab.

However, the Maliky scholars hold another view and consider her a Muslim on whom the Janazah (Funeral) Prayer and Du`a' (supplication) are offered.

A: Hijab is an obligation, which means that a woman should cover up in the presence of non-Mahram people (not a spouse or an unmarriageable relative). Any woman who does not wear it is sinful and should be forced to wear it. However, if she does not wear it, she will not fall into Kufr (disbelief), neither according to the Hanabaly scholars nor other scholars because not wearing the Hijab is a sin less than Kufr and does not bring the person out of the fold of Islam.

Q: A man married a woman and had three daughters with her. Then he got married to another woman while he was still married to the first woman, so he was married to both women at the same time. The first wife subsequently gave birth to one more daughter and four sons; and the second wife gave birth to two sons and one daughter. The man then divorced the second wife, who married another man with whom she had one son and one daughter. What is the relationship between the children from her second husband and the children from her ex-husband and his first wife, both those whom the first wife gave birth to before her husband married the second wife and after he married her?

Please note that the last daughter of the first wife was breastfed by the second wife along with that daughter's paternal half-brother for a long period.

Some patients regard it as menstruation and abstain from Salah, what should they do?

A 1: The menopausal woman, reaching the age of fifty, does not consider any blood discharge as menstruation, for which she abstains from Salah and Sawm. However, she should regard it as bleeding or impure blood, especially when the reason for the discharge is the mentioned drug.

Zhihar

The third question of Fatwa no. 21776

Q 3: A person used to say: "I swear that I will commit an unlawful action", what is the ruling on this, taking into consideration that he says it with a good intention, as he does not mean this regarding his wife becoming unlawful to him? Is this considered as swearing needlessly?

A: If this person intends by "I swear that I will commit an unlawful action" his wife, this is considered as Zhihar (a man likening his wife to an unmarriageable relative). Thus, he is obliged to perform the Kaffarah (expiation) for Zhihar, which is freeing a slave. If he can not do this, he should fast for two subsequent months before having a conjugal relationship with his wife. If he can not do this, he should feed sixty Miskins (needy), assigning to each of them half a Sa` (1 Sa1= 3 kg) of food that equals one kilo and a half.

If he did not mean his wife, he is obliged to perform the Kaffarah for an oath. In this case he chooses between freeing a Mu'min (believer), feeding or clothing ten Miskins. If he could not find any, he should fast for three days.

If he used to say it with no intention, he is not obliged to do anything because it is idle talk.

By Allah's Bounty, my son is about to graduate from high school but I have been unable to fulfill my vow.

What should I do? Please advise me.

A: The vow you have taken is lawful. You either have to fulfill it or break it. However, if you break it, you have to offer Kaffarah (expiation) for breaking an oath, which comprises feeding or clothing ten needy persons, or freeing a slave. Al-Kitab Al-Jami`

Q 3: Trimming the beard prevailed among the Multazims (practicing Muslims) youth, as you see them trimming the ends from time to time. Perhaps they belong to religious parties, thus they become an example for the common people to follow. They may rely on weak narrations or some sayings attributed to Ibn `Umar, as well as growing the beard until it reaches the length of the fist.

A: The Sahih (authentic) Hadiths of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) indicate the necessity of letting the beard grow as it is, in addition to prohibiting cutting, shortening or trimming it. In this regard, Al-Bukhari and Muslim related in their "Sahih (Authentic Hadith Book)" about Ibn `Umar (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) is reported to have said: \(Trim closely the moustache, and let the beard grow to be contradictory to the unbelievers.\) It is mentioned in another narration by Al-Bukhari: \(Trim closely the moustache, and let the beard grow to be contradictory to the unbelievers.\) Muslim related in his "Sahih" from Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him), that the Messenger of Allah is reported to have said: \(Trim closely the moustache, and grow beard, and thus act against the fire-worshippers.\) There are other authentic Hadiths in this respect, but the mentioned ones are enough In sha'a-Allah (if Allah wills). The great scholar Abu Muhammad ibn Hazm is reported to have said: "The scholars agreed that trimming closely the moustache and growing the beard are Fard (obligatory, based on a definitive text)".

Moreover, the previous Hadiths indicate that it is obligatory to let the beard grow and it is unlawful to cut, shorten or trim it, as the principle in commands is the obligation and the principle in the prohibition is declaring something unlawful. It is not permissible to turn it away from its principle and form except by a valid evidence and proof that can be relied on. There is no evidence or proof against this command. Thus, every Muslim should obey the command and follow the pattern of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) because he had a thick beard, as it was authentically reported about him. It was not reported about any of his Sahabah (Companions of the Prophet), who are the best of all people, that he used to trim his beard except what is reported by `Abdullah ibn `Umar. He related that the Messenger of Allah trimmed the part of his beard that exceeds his fist at the time of Hajj. We can not rely on this act with the verification of the authentic Hadiths. `Abdullah ibn `Umar (may Allah be pleased with him and his father) related that the Prophet (peace be upon him) is reported to have said: \(Trim closely the moustache, and let the beard grow to be contradictory to the unbelievers.\) (Agreed upon by Al-Bukhari and Muslim). The principle of the evidence is the narration of the relater not his acts and Ijtihad (juristic efforts to infer expert legal rulings). The scholars said that the authentic narration of the Sahabah and their successors about the Prophet (peace be upon him) is the supporting evidence, and it is more reliable than the relater's opinion if his opinion contradicts the Sunnah (whatever is reported from the Prophet). In this case, we rely on his narration of the Sunnah not of his act upon the Sunnah.

As for the narration of Al-Tirmidhy that Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) "used to trim the length and width of his beard", it is not only a weak Isnad (chain of narrators) of Hadith, but it is also Batil (false) and rejected. This is not authentically known about the Prophet (peace be upon him). As this Hadith is related by `Umar ibn Harun Al-Balkhy, who is Matruk (a narrator whose Hadith transmission was discarded due to unreliability) and accused of lying, this Hadith cannot be taken as evidence. Thus, the acts of these youth should not be followed. However, they and all of the Muslims should obey the commands of the Prophet (peace be upon him), avoid disobeying him, or imitating the enemies of Allah and His Messenger and avoid imitating women. A human being should be a good pattern in his sayings and actions. It is necessary to advise those who breach the commands of Allah and His Messenger, urging them to obey Allah and His Messenger and to avoid their prohibitions.

Fatwa no. 15400

Q: On our visit to Uganda, we noticed that some Christians bring their children to embrace Islam in an orphanage for newly converted Muslims. When the parents were asked why they themselves do not embrace Islam, their answer was that they fear being circumcised. What is the opinion of Your Eminence concerning this?

A: It is not necessary to demand that they be circumcised, if they fear that, for this is Sunnah (action following the teachings of the Prophet) and not an obligatory action, according to the majority of scholars. Those who maintain that circumcision is obligatory restrict it to situations where there are no fears for the circumcised person's safety.

If this fear of circumcision prevents those Christians from embracing Islam, they should not be asked to do it at the time of embracing Islam. When Islam becomes firm in their hearts, this matter can be reconsidered.

Fatwa no. 16007

Q: What is the scholarly opinion regarding what is called "the exemption stratagem"? To explain, it is a widespread custom in our country that when a man dies and after the Janazah (funeral) Prayer is offered for him, people sit round in a circle and put dirhams in a Mus-haf (copy of the Qur'an). They then say the following, "This dead man was enjoined to do his duties to Allah, including the obligatory acts of worship, vows, and Kaffarahs (expiations). In truth, he fulfilled some of these duties and failed to fulfill others. Being dead, he is incapable of fulfilling these duties." After that, one of them receives the Mus-haf containing the dirhams and then presents it to another, who in turn presents it to another and so on. By doing so, they think that dirhams are doubled. They then divide the dirhams amongst the people. Please explain this issue for us substantiated by evidence from Shari`ah (Islamic law) telling us whether the best generations (earlier Muslim generations) are authentically reported to have done so.

A: The stratagem thus worked out in an attempt to exempt a dead person from his duties to Allah, including Salah (Prayer), vows, Kaffarahs, and the like in the manner described in the question is Bid`ah (innovation in religion) and has no basis in the Shari`ah. In this regard, the Prophet (peace be upon him) is authentically reported to have said: \(Anyone who introduces anything into this matter of ours \(Islam\) that is not part of it will have it rejected.\) In another narration, \(Anyone who does an action which is not in accordance with this matter of ours \(Islam\) will have it rejected.\)

It is basic ruling in Shari`ah that a Muslim should do no acts of worship but those enacted by Allah in the Qur'an or through the Sunnah (acts, sayings, or approvals of the Prophet). In fact, acts of worship are Tawqifiy (bound by a religious text and not amenable to personal opinion) matters. However, the Islamically acceptable way to expiate sins is by sincerely repenting to Allah, giving to charity, asking Allah for forgiveness, doing many permissible acts of worship, giving back usurped rights to their owners, or asking for their forgiveness if possible, and so on. The following are things that are permissible to be done on behalf of a dead person: giving to charity, asking Allah to forgive them, supplicating to Allah for them, and making up for their duties to Allah they failed to fulfill. Examples of such duties are Zakah (obligatory charity), Kaffarahs, Sawm (Fast) of Ramadan if they delayed making up for it unexcused, Hajj in case they neglected to perform it although having the capacity to do so, and so on. The same also applies to paying people's dues such as debts, trusts, etc.

Q: Some tribes circumcise their boys twice during their lifetime: the first on the seventh day after childbirth, according to the Sunnah (action following the teachings of the Prophet) and the second when they reach ten years of age, which is when Salah (Prayer) becomes obligatory on them. For the second circumcision, the parents hold a banquet to celebrate the occasion and invite people who give some money to the circumcised child or his father. If a person is not circumcised for the second time, this brings him dishonor and he is not to be accepted if he proposes to a girl. What is the ruling of the Shari`ah (Islamic law) in this regard?

A: The prescribed circumcision is performed by cutting the foreskin of the penis on or after the seventh day after childbirth.

As for the second circumcision in question, it is additional to the prescribed action and is baseless in the Shari`ah, and so is thus Haram (prohibited). Similarly, it is not permissible to hold and receive money in such banquets, for this is considered to be obtaining people's money improperly.

On burying him, some attendants advised me not to bury him before circumcising him, and I did so. Your Eminence Shaykh, what is the ruling on what I did? What should I do now? Guide me, may Allah guide you.

A: If a miscarried baby is delivered dead even after life had been breathed into it, it should not be circumcised. Rather, it should just be given a name, washed, buried, and the Janazah (funeral) Prayer should be offered for it. Accordingly, your having circumcised your miscarried baby was not the right behavior. However, you have to do nothing but ask Allah for forgiveness and be more cautions in the future regarding religion-related matters that you might not do such a thing before asking people of knowledge.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and Companions.

Fatwa no. 20106

Q: I am a Bedouin and I lived in the desert for about thirty years. At that time, Allah bestowed upon me a boy who died one year after his birth. I did not have him circumcised and after his death I feared that I would be considered sinful if I buried him uncircumcised, so I circumcised him myself. I would like Your Eminence to tell me whether what I did was right or wrong. Would I have been sinful if I had buried him uncircumcised?

A: A person who dies before being circumcised is not to be circumcised, according to the more correct of the two scholarly opinions, and this is the opinion maintained by the Jumah (dominant majority of scholars). In his Al-Majmu', Al-Nawawy said: "According to the correct opinion, he (the deceased) should absolutely not be circumcised, because it (foreskin of penis) is a part that was not cut. Similarly, the ruling applies to the hand that should be cut on account of theft or Qisas (just retaliation); the scholars unanimously agree that if the person whose hand is to be cut dies before the Had (ordained punishment for violating Allah's Law) of theft is executed, the hand should not be cut. On the contrary, the hair and nails of the living person are cut for adornment and so should those of the deceased be. As for circumcision, it is carried out on account of an obligation that is waived by death. And Allah knows best."

Accordingly, your circumcision of your son after his death was not ideal; nevertheless, there is nothing wrong with this and there is no sin on you for doing it, because you are excused due to your ignorance of the ruling in this regard.

May Allah grant us success. May peace and blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad, his family, and his Companions.
